This simple home receipt is far and away better than any or all the patent or secret medicines, for it reduces the fat safely and harmlessly. The ingredients are in fact beneficial to the system, having both tonic and purifying qualities, and so help rather than distress the stomach The remedy does not cause wrinkles, for it reduces one gradually and naturally, preserving a good outline, and best of all, needs neither physical exercise to help it do the work, nor does it require any change in diet—one can get results and still take things easy—eating meanwhile just what, when and how he or she pleases. Be sure and get the Marmola in a sealed package, so that you get Marmola and not a substitute.

News and Notes

BASEBALL.

Previous to the meeting of the National League at the Hotel Breslin, New York, the National Commission held a meeting. Several matters were attended to and some claims decided. President Ban Johnson, of the American League, called the meeting to order.

The first of these was the case of Pitcher Ferguson, of the Boston National League Club. The Doves' twirler had a contract with the club which stipulated that if he won half the games he pitched last season he was to receive a bonus of $500. In all, during the term of his season's contract, he pitched fourteen games and won seven. He claimed the $500, but the club contended that as several of his victories were in exhibition games he was not entitled to the bonus. The commission thought otherwise and sustained the player and directed that the Boston management pay him the stipulated $500.

More important as setting a precedent was the case of Pitcher Maddox, of the Pittsburg club. He contracted to play with Pittsburg for the season ending October 15, but during the season he was sold to the Kansas City club of the American association. The Kansas City club's season closed October 1 and Maddox demanded that Pittsburg pay him for the fifteen days his original contract with that club still had to run. The disputed claim went to the National Commission, which sustained Maddox's position and ordered Pittsburg to pay him for the fifteen days, or up to the time specified in the original contract, establishing the principle that no matter what disposition is made of a player, the maker of the original contract is responsible to him for the full term for which it contracted for his services.

The matter of Pitcher Camnitz, who claimed a bonus of $1,200 from Pittsburg on what he said was a contract he was to receive that amount if he did not touch liquor during the season, was laid over until the February meeting so that Camnitz can appear personally.

There has been some worry as to who will be the manager of the St. Louis Browns next season.

Willie Keeler is said to be the favorite for the position. When Owner Hedges arrives in New York he and Keeler will begin negotiations, and when the confab is over, don't be a bit surprised to hear that the popular ex-player of the Yankees is to be the manager.

Keeler was among those present at the big baseball gathering, and when asked as to whether he was going to be the next leader of the Browns, he refused to discuss the subject until he saw Owner Hedges.

Rumors say that Keeler can have the job if he wants it. Keeler said yesterday that he will take the job, so it looks as if he will get it. As matters now stand, Keeler is waiting to see the owner of the Browns before he will have anything more to say on the subject.

MOTHER.

In all the world—go where you will—
You'll never find another
Who'll cling to you through good or ill,
And love you like a—mother.

In all the world—wher'er you roam—
With sister, wife or brother,
You'll never know so sweet a home
As that one made by—mother.

In all the world—tho' wealth commands
For you the work of others—
You'll never find a pair of hands
To toil for you like—mother's.

In all the world—tho' friends sincere,
Are more to you than brothers,
You never for a moment hear
A voice as kind as—mother's.

In all the world—altho you break
The tender hearts of others,
There is no other heart can ache
For you so much as—mother's.

In all the world—tho you create
A pleasure for another,
You can give to none a joy so great
As you can give to—mother.

In all the world—where you in bliss
May soon forget another,
There is no one whom you will miss
When she is gone, like—mother.

DR. HENRY VAN DYKE HAS QUIT PRINCETON

Prof. Henry Van Dyke, '73, has resigned from the Murray Professorship in English Literature at Princeton University. His resignation will be acted upon at the next meeting of the University Trustees.

Dr. Van Dyke refused last night to give any reason for his resignation. Upon hearing of his act the senior and junior classes held a meeting in Dickinson Hall yesterday afternoon and decided to send the presidents of both classes to see Dr. Van Dyke and request him to reconsider. Joseph N. Ewing, president of the juniors, will see Dr. Van Dyke this afternoon, and A. L. Monrie, president of the senior class, will also call on him.

The students are hopeful that notwithstanding his resignation, Dr. Van Dyke will be chosen president of the university.

What Dr. Van Dyke's chances are for the place cannot be surmised. The trustees meet in regular session on January 12 and the committee on a president will be asked to report. The committee is composed of John L. Cadwalader, the Rev. Dr. Melancthon W. Jacobs, M. Tayor Pyne, Cyrus H. McCormick, the Rev. Dr. John Dixon, Henry W. Greene and Cleveland H. Dodge. The committee will not hasten in making a selection, but at the same time, it has not been idle in going over names.

Dr. Van Dyke was a candidate for the place at the time that Dr. Wilson was elected. He has differed with Dr. Wilson on questions of academic policy. He refuses to announce his plans at present.

INDICTMENTS POSSIBLE; RESULT OF SCHOOL PROBE

The Senate school investigating committee invaded Somerset county late yesterday afternoon. In the inquiry into the rural districts the committee discovered transactions on the part of certain men in authority which it is expected will lead to several indictments.

Former Prosecutor Freger testified at Somerville before the committee that he had made an investigation of the financial affairs of the school board of Warren township and found that the business of the board was loosely conducted, and that John D. Bornman, the custodian of the school funds, had received $3,200 from the State school fund, and other sources, of which he had no record. The witnesses testified that Bornman kept no books of accounts of his receipts and disbursements, although he handled thousands of dollars each year. His only records was his check books, and in some instances the stubs in these had not been filled out.

The custodian had done business with eight or nine banks and borrowed money without the authority of the board, or, at least so far as the minutes of that body showed. The witness stated that he had sent for Bornman to bring his vouchers and accounts, but that he had been a long while in coming, and that he finally appeared with incomplete records and had promised to bring others later, but had failed to do so.

Mr. Treger said he had finally obtained a report of the moneys received by Bornman for school purposes from the State records and from the banks in which Bornman had deposited the school funds.

COMMENTS ON MERGER

Newark News Says Action Without Referendum Would be a Mistake.

HISTORY OF THE MOVEMENT.

"Political Result of Change Would Be Doubtful." Says New Jersey's Leading Newspaper.

Comments on the consolidation and annexation agitation here are being made by many of the State's newspapers. The Newark Evening News had this to say on the subject in its issue yesterday afternoon:

"Plainfield and North Plainfield form one municipality in everything except name and government. The line dividing the two places is an imaginary one drawn by statutory law. Economical and good government seem to insist that the communities be legally consolidated, but there are several obstacles in the road. The first is that Plainfield is in Union county and North Plainfield is in Somerset. The claim is made that complications enough to offset the benefits would follow unless the county lines were changed so as to bring the proposed city all within the boundaries of one county. Then a change in the county lines has been objected to in the past on the ground that such a change would upset the balance of power politically in the two counties, for both Plainfield and North Plainfield are normally heavily Republican. If North Plainfield should be taken out of Somerset, that county it has been said, would be safely Democratic, while Union would be assured to the Republicans. Another objection to the change is to be found in the fact that the agitation for the municipal merger was begun years ago by discredited politicians for selfish purposes. These politicians deceived the people, with the result that they were retired to private life and have been kept there since. There is a change now in the situation, however. Neither Plainfield nor North Plainfield is reliably Republican, judging from the recent election returns. In fact, the political result of such a change would be doubtful. Under these circumstances, perhaps, a Republican Senate and a Democratic Assembly could be induced to pass the necessary measures for the consolidation of the two places and for the changing of the county line. There is a demand that such measures be passed without referendums so that the laws would be effective whether the people of the Plainfields wanted them or not. Such a move would be a mistake and would be resented. The forcing of consolidation by the Legislature would be a direct attack on the principle of home rule. This attack would not be warranted even by the advantages that would result from the two places being joined. The people of the Plainfields are entitled to the kind of government they want, and they shouldn't be deprived of it by vote of the Legislature. If the Legislature is willing to have county lines changed this winter in the case of the Plainfields, then perhaps the lawmakers might be equally willing to take some action to allow the West Hudson towns to come into Essex and join theor fortunes with Newark."

HERE AND THERE.

The following is credited to Ernest D. Easton, executive secretary of the Newark Anti-Tuberculosis Association, in relating incidents about the Red Cross seals. It deals with a little boy who had read the sign on the Red Cross booth at the postoffice, and goes like this:

"Mamma, what's a seal?"

"A seal is a little animal that lives in the ocean. We use its fur for coats and wraps," was the enlightening answer of the parent.

Johnnie puckered his brow for some minutes, and again asked, "Mamma, will seals stop plagues?" referring to some of the Biblical narratives he had heard told in Sunday school.

"Stop plagues? Why, child, what are you talking about?" cried the mother, in amazement.

"Why, here it says 'Red Cross Seals Stop White Plague,'" he triumphantly replied, pointing to the sign over the booth.

Mrs. Alfred L. Schomp, of Westervelt avenue, who recently underwent an operation at the hospital, has about recovered and will return home in a few days.

RESOLUTIONS OF CONDOLENCE.

Whereas, It hath pleased our Supreme Grand Master, omniscient omnipotent and all-merciful, to remove from the scene of his mortal labors, our Past Worshipful Master, Craig Adams Marsh; and

Whereas, albeit we are unable to fathom the depths of His providence, we yet believe that He who watcheth tenderly over us doeth all things well, and therefore bow in humble submission to His Divine Will; now therefore, by us,

The Worshipful Master, Wardens and Brethren of Anchor Lodge, No. 149, Free and Accepted Masons, of the Grand Jurisdiction of New Jersey; be it

Resolved, That in the passing of our Past Worshipful Brother Marsh, we, who were bound to him by ties which only death may sever, do feel ourselves sore stricken. And be it further

Resolved, That in his taking away, not only hath Anchor Lodge lost one whose brilliant life work crowned her with rich honor, but in like measure have the City of Plainfield and the State of New Jersey been bereft of a citizen whose attainments, many and varied, made him eminent and pre-eminent among his fellows. And be it further

Resolved, That in recording this sense of our own loss we would not be unmindful of the gracious woman who shared with him his joys and sorrows; who sits with head bowed with grief and alone, and in sore need of comfort. And we would petition our Supreme Grand Master, that of His Infinite Grace, he grant unto her in large measure the peace which passeth understanding. And be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread in full upon the minutes of this lodge; that they be published in each of the daily newspapers of the City of Plainfield; and further, that a copy thereof be forwarded to the wife of our departed Brother, in token of our sincere and heartfelt sympathy.

Select Any One of These Machines for Christmas Gift Giving

And Be Sure You Have a Prize

The most industrious homekeepers like to do much of the home sewing; especially do they take keen delight in making the children's dresses—and to these loved and loving women a dependable sewing machine is a wonderful aid, speeding the work and saving a great amount of the most laborious part of the work involved in dressmaking or other sewing. Of course, this fact is patent to all.

The question of the appropriateness of the gift is just as apparent to all thrifty folks.

The big question to be decided is: "What machine will best serve the purpose?"

We present four for selection: Rotary $30; Eldredge $25; Vindex B $19.50; American $15.

Each of these sewing machines we believe to be best in its class—machines that come from factories whose product has long been recognized by the trade as superior machines, built by skilled machinists whose lives for the most part have been spent in the construction of the finer grade, intricate mechanism.

We've sold so many hundreds of these machines and they have given such universal satisfaction that we have a well-grounded confidence in them and do not hesitate to commend them to the gift giver who must be sure of the machine he buys for Christmas.

Suit your pocketbook, but be assured that, whichever of these machines you buy of us, joy will be the portion of the woman who receives it.

MAILED LETTERS.

Owned by the Sender and May Be Reclaimed by Him Until Delivered to the Addressee.

Many persons are under the impression that a letter once mailed is no longer the property of the sender, but belongs to the person to whom it is addressed. This is an error. Under the postal regulations of the United States and the rulings of the highest courts in the land, a letter does not belong to the addressee until it is delivered to him.

The writer has a right to reclaim and regain possession of it provided he can prove to the satisfaction of the postmaster at the office from which it was sent that he was the writer of it.

Even after the letter has arrived at the office which is its destination and before it has been delivered to the addressee it may be recalled by the writer by telegraph through the mailing office.

The regulations of the postoffice department require, of course, that utmost care shall be taken by the postmaster at the office of mailing to ascertain that the person who desires to withdraw the letter is really the one who is entitled to do so, and the postmaster is responsible for his error if he delivers the letter to an impostor or to an unauthorized person.

The vital principle in our political system lies at the bottom of this matter. In this country the state is the servant or agent of the citizen, not his master. It remains merely his agent throughout the transmission of a letter. The state may prescribe regulations under which its servants may carry a message for the citizen, but it cannot shirk its responsibility to him. —Washington Star.

TUNING A PIANO.

A Professional's Experience With Irritable Von Bulow.

"Piano tuners are for the most part graduated from piano factories," says one of them. "While the piano tuner is required to know every part in the makeup of a piano, he is not necessarily a piano repairer. Nor can the average piano maker or repairer tune a piano. There are hundreds of expert makers and repairers of pianos who wouldn't be able to tell one tune from another.

"The piano tuner is born, not made. His acute sense of the vibrations of sound is given to him at his birth, and the man who hasn't got this sense can't become a piano tuner.

"Quite a number of years ago, when Hans von Bulow was in America, I tuned the piano upon which he played. He wouldn't allow the instrument to be tuned in the wareroom, one of his whims being that even a short removal of a piano knocks it all out of tune—something in that theory at that. So I tuned it upon the platform upon which he was to perform. He stood over me all the time, letting out agonized whoops and German cuss words until I couldn't help but laugh in his face.

"Finally, when I had the piano almost tuned, he gave a few more shrieks and, grabbing the wrench, began doing the job all over again. I let him go ahead, and inside of three minutes he had the piano so hopelessly out of tune that it took me three hours to get it into shape again. Herr von Bulow had to pay double for this little exhibition of temper."—Spokane Sportsman Review.

How Dickens Learned to Write.

When asked by one of those wiseacres who are convinced that in order to write good English a man must be taught to write bad Latin where his son was educated, Mr. John Dickens replied with considerable aplomb that his son—er—well, his son—er—might be almost said, in a sense, to have educated himself. The street, the warehouse, Mr. Creakle, an attorney's office, the reporters' gallery and postchaise—such was the education that equipped a young man of twenty-four to preside at the banquet of literature at an unprecedented age, to make the best speeches in London, to go into the best society, to set the table in a roar, to lead every company in which he mixed, to travel, acquire French and Italian with ease and write the most animated letters known to the modern world.—London Times.

Crusty Old Gentleman.

"Some people are so queer," said the young mother, with a pout. "Now, I think there is nothing that should be more appreciated than a generous child."

"What are you referring to, my dear?" asked her neighbor.

"Why, the baby. I had him in the car yesterday, and right in front sat a crusty old gentleman with side whiskers. Four times the baby offered him a stick of candy, and each time he only frowned. When the soft candy got stuck in his side whiskers he became very fiery and told the conductor. Wasn't he rude?"—New York Times.

Why He Was Popular.

"How do you know your husband is not a good poker player?"

"Because," answered young Mrs. Torkins, "no good poker player could be so popular as he is with other poker players."—Washington Star.

Either Would Do.

The Dear Girl—He had the impudence to ask me for a kiss! Her Dear Friend—The idea! What cheek! The Dear Girl (blushing)—He wasn't particular which.—Judge.

NEW TRIMMINGS.

Gold gauze lace, leather and satin are being worked up into attractive forms for garments and hats.

Butterflies of white kid are made over wire and are placed at the side of a large hat.

Grapes of gold tissue, very much different from the huge jet or glass ones of a few seasons ago, are really artistic when combined with metallic laces and many-colored laces.

Colored kid is now exploited in leaf form. The foliage of leaves and buds is particularly becoming on velvet hats in the soft neutral shades so much in vogue.

Silk and satin flowers, each petal edged with beads, are used on the crown and under the brim of an evening hat.

Fur plays a large role in trimming little turbans and large shapes. A little knot, a cabochon, an edge of fur on the brim and a band around the crown are some of the expressions of the milliner's art.

TO THE "GOOD FELLOWS" OF PLAINFIELD

TO THE GOOD FELLOWS OF PLAINFIELD:

Just about this time last year I told you my story. You listened to it—you did more—you followed its spirit out in a bang-up style. I'm not claiming any credit for my story; I'm claiming credit for knowing that there are many Good Fellows in this fine old town of ours—royal chaps who don't do much preaching but when it comes to doing a good turn, well, they're there with the goods. This is no sermon that I'm handing you, it's a heart-to-heart talk with men with red blood in their veins, and here it is off last year's reel:

Last Christmas and New Year's eve you and I went out for a good time and spent from $10 to $200. Last Christmas morning hundreds of children awoke to an empty stocking—the bitter pain of disappointment that Santa Claus had forgotten them. Perhaps it wasn't our fault. We had provided for our own; we had also reflected in a passing way on those less fortunate than our own, but they seemed far off and we didn't know where to find them. Perhaps in the hundred and one things we had to do some of us didn't think of that heart sorrow of the child over the empty stocking.

Now, old man, here's a chance. I have tried for the last five years and ask you to consider it. Just send your name and address to The Daily Press—address Santa Claus—state about how many children you are willing to protect against grief over that empty stocking, inclose a two-cent stamp and you will be furnished with the names, addresses, sex, and age of that many children. It is then up to you, you do the rest. Select your won present, spend 50 cents or $50, and send or take your gifts to those children on Christmas eve. You pay not a cent more than you want to pay—every cent goes just where you want it to go. You gain neither notoriety nor advertising; you deal with no organization; no record will be kept; your letter will be returned to you with its answer. The whole plan is just as anonymous as old Santa Claus himself.

This is not a newspaper scheme. The Daily Press was asked to aid in reaching the good fellow by publishing this suggestion and to receive your communication in order that you may be assured of good faith and to preserve the anonymous character of this work. The identity of the writer of this appeal will not be disclosed. He assumes the responsibility of finding the children and sending you their names and guarantees that whatever you bestow will be deserved.

Neither you nor I get anything out of this, except the feeling that you have saved some child from sorrow on Christmas morning. If that is not enough for you then you have wasted time in reading this—it is not intended for you, but for the good fellows of Plainfield.

Perhaps a twenty-five cent doll or a ten cent tin toy wouldn't mean much to the children you know, but to the child who would find them in the otherwise empty stocking they mean much—the difference between utter disappointment and the joy that Santa Claus did not forget them. Here is where you and I get in. The charitable organizations attend to the bread and meat; the clothes; the necessaries; you and the rest of the good fellows furnish the toys, the nuts, the candies; the child's real Christmas.

GOOD FELLOW.

The Daily Press, one year ago, investigated the "good fellow" who wrote the above, looked him in the eye and put its O. K. on the plan. The cold blooded, blase representative who saw him wrote: "He made me feel, personally, that it would be really worth while in satisfaction to carry a little happiness to some children who otherwise wouldn't get any on Christmas eve." "Good Fellow" is not a professional philanthropist, he takes a drink, and even goes out at night with the boys for a mild good time—but he has taken care of from fifteen to twenty children a year in Plainfield. He said that a year ago last Christmas day he wished he had curtailed his holiday joy-making with the good fellows even more than he did, so that he might have had more money to gladden childish hearts.

The Worthy Grand Master of the lodge of Good Fellows has laid his plans for securing names through the Charity Organization Society.

This is how you can join the lodge of Good Fellows. Write a letter to "Santa Claus," care of The Daily Press, something like this:

I live at No.———— Street. I will be Santa Claus to 6 children.
John Jones.

The letter will go to Santa Claus. He will indorse on your letter the names and addresses of six children. That letter will be remailed to you. Then you get busy. That's all. Come on in, good fellows.

Dominie's Horse Ran Away.

Mrs. Claudius J. Finger, wife of the pastor of the Blawenberg Reformed church, near Somerville, narrowly escaped injuries from a runaway Wednesday afternoon. She had been out calling and was just about to get into her carriage, when the horse became frightened and dashed down the street. The dominie came in for his share of the shock when, looking out of his study window, he saw his horse coming up the driveway drawing behind it a demolished carriage. At once he thought his wife had been thrown out and injured, but soon learned that such was not the case.

Hard Cider Proved Fatal.

One man is dead and another is dangerously ill from the effects, it is believed, of drinking hard cider from a copper vessel at Summit, Wednesday afternoon. Both men were taken ill Wednesday night and removed to Overlook Hospital, both vomiting blood. Umbreto Demicrosi is the dead man and Barbate Schoachelli is expected to die. They went into the home of a junk dealer on Mountain avenue, Summit, where they are said to have drunk the cider.

Counsel For Mrs. Martin.

Judge Ten Eyck, at Newark, Wednesday, appointed Frank H. Sommer as counsel to defend Mrs. Caroline B. Martin when she is placed on trial with her sister, Mrs. Snead, on an indictment charging the women with the murder of Ocey W. M. Snead, who was found dead in a bathtub at East Orange. The inquiry into Mrs. Martin's mental condition resulted in a decision by Judge Ten Eyck that the woman was sane from the legal point of view and could therefore be brought to trial.

HE READ HIS MAN.

Abraham Lincoln's Sharp Rebuke to a Visitor Who Would Not Meet His Gaze.

As I came up to the railing in front of the president he was reading a paper that had just been presented to him by a man who sat in the chair opposite him and who seemed by his restlessness and unsteady eyes to be of a nervous disposition or under great excitement.

Mr. Lincoln, still holding the paper up and without movement of any kind, paused and, raising his eyes, looked for a long time at this man's face and seemed to be looking down into his very soul. Then, resuming his reading for a few moments, he again paused and cast the same piercing look upon his visitor.

Suddenly, without warning, he dropped the paper, and, stretching out his long arm, he pointed his finger directly in the face of his vis-a-vis and said, "What's the matter with you?"

The man stammered and finally replied, "Nothing."

"Yes, there is," said Lincoln. "You can't look me in the face! You have not looked me in the face since you sat there! Even now you are looking out that window and cannot look me in the eye!"

Then, flinging the paper in the man's lap, he cried: "Take it back! There is something wrong about this! I will have nothing to do with it!" And the discomfited individual retired.—T. B. Bancroft in McClure's Magazine.

ORIENTAL PARAGONS.

Japan's Four and Twenty Models of Filial Piety.

Filial piety, as is well known, is the special virtue of China and Japan. From it springs loyalty to the emperor, who is regarded as "the father and mother of his people." There are no greater favorites with the Japanese than the "four and twenty paragons of filial piety," whose acts of virtue are the subjects of Chinese legend.

One of the paragons had a cruel stepmother, who was very fond of fish. Never repining at her cruel treatment of him, he lay down on the frozen surface of a lake. The warmth of his body melted a hole in the ice, at which two carp came up to breathe. These he caught and took home to his stepmother.

Another paragon, who was of the female sex, clung to the jaws of a tiger that was about to devour her father until the latter escaped.

The drollest of all these stories is that of Rorashi. This paragon, though seventy years old, used to dress in baby's clothes and crawl about on the floor, his object being to delude his parents, who were really over ninety years of age, into the idea that they could not be so very old, after all, as they had such an exceedingly infantile son.—Sunday Magazine.

Caught Them All Around.

A Moslem ruler spoke to his people one Friday from the pulpit in the market place.

"People, what shall I preach to you about today?" "We do not know," they replied. "Well, if you don't know I shall not tell you." And down he came from the pulpit. There was no sermon that Sabbath.

The next week the old inquiry was made, and the people rejoined, "We know." When the royal preacher said "If you know you do not need me to tell you." And again an abrupt close to the services.

The third week the people were more wary and replied, "Some of us know and some do not know." And now they expected to trap the men, but he was wiser than they thought. "Let those who know tell those who do not know," came his utterance, and the people were trapped instead.—Boston Post.

A Rat's Tail.

A rat's tail is a wonderful thing. The great naturalist Cuvier says that there are more muscles in this curious appendage than are to be found in that part of the human anatomy which is most admired for its ingenious structure—namely, the hand. To the rat, in fact, its tail serves as a sort of hand, by means of which the animal is enabled to crawl along narrow ledges or other difficult passages, using it to balance with or to gain a hold. It is prehensile, like the tails of some monkeys. By means of it the little beast can jump up heights otherwise inaccessible, employing it as a projectile spring.

Hurt Worse Than the Razor.

The Barber—You've got a nasty, deep lot of crow's feet, sir, and them lines runnin' down from the corners of the mouth is somethin' fierce. A massage— The Patient (fiercely)—You've got a hump like a camel and a chest like a doughnut, and I don't believe, with legs like those, you could stop an elephant up an alley, let alone a pig. But, hang it, man, do you want to be reminded of it every time you get a shave?—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Evils of Tobacco.

An illustration of the evils resulting from the use of tobacco is found in the life of a Georgia man of eighty-two years who has chewed since he was eleven and is now the father of twenty-five children. Cut out tobacco, young man.—Clio (Ala.) Free Press.

Willing to Try It.

"A fool and his money are soon parted," quoted the pessimist.

"Yes," rejoined the optimist, "but it's worth while being a fool to have the money to part with."—Chicago News.

Family Prescience.

A DIPLOMATIC COUP.

"Edgar," said the Hon. Gladys Hillhouse, "why don't you go into diplomacy?"

"Because, being a younger son, no money is to be spent on me. I'd need both that and influence to get into diplomacy. No; my father is determined that I shall go to America and earn a living as best I can. Why won't you go with me?"

"Silly boy! You will find all you can do there to support yourself without being burdened by me. Besides, father would not consent. No; you must go into diplomacy."

"It seems to me that your proposition is as silly as mine."

"Not at all. Your father certainly has influence sufficient to get you an assistant secretaryship or something like that."

"At £300 a year. What would that be to us?"

"You might rise to a better position."

"When you and I are past middle age. Thank you, I don't propose to wait for dead men's shoes."

But the girl carried her point, and Edgar Manross secured a clerkship in the foreign office at a salary of £250 a year. Being young and attractive besides the son of a baronet, he was pushed, but not in the way he wished to be pushed. He was forced to do social work. If a courtesy was to be shown any person for any purpose, Edgar Manross was deputed to do it. Now it was to drive some Turkish pasha in Rotten row, now to show a foreign messenger through Westminster abbey or the British museum. Tiring of this, he went to his chief and asked for a trial at some real diplomatic work. He was laughed at.

Going to the Hon. Gladys, he poured out his woes to her in a disconsolate fashion. There is a faculty possessed by women—at least some women—that is pleasing if not valuable. When the bottom drops out they can say hopefully: "Never mind. It will all come out right in the end." So said Gladys, and Edgar went away thinking what a lovely little fool she was.

At his rooms he found an order to attend a dinner, representing the foreign office. It was not an important function or he would not have been sent. He went and found an assemblage consisting of members of parliament, secretaries of legation and junior government officials. When the speaking came on Edgar retired to a cushioned window seat behind a pair of heavy curtains and went to sleep. As the evening wore on the assembly was thinned by the departure of the more sober persons, leaving only a few noisy ones. About 1 o'clock Edgar woke up. Some one sitting near was talking. Edgar knew by the voice and the language spoken that he was a member of the French embassy.

"He asks £4,000,000."

"Why doesn't your government pay it at once?"

"It has offered £3,500,000, but will raise the price rather than let the shares go to any other power."

"I should think so. To control the only outlet by sea between Europe and Asia is worth many times the amount."

Soon after the speaker went away. Edgar Manross sat up and did a prodigious lot of thinking. It did not take him long to deduce from the dialogue he had heard that a sale of property very important to England was about to occur. Keeping between the curtains till he saw his exit would not be noticed, then passing through the few groups of remaining guests and waiters, the latter clearing away the remains of the feast, he went out and called a cab.

"To Lord D.'s," he said to the cabby.

When he drove up to Lord D.'s there was not a light to be seen. Nevertheless he rang and finally pounded before the door was opened. Then he told the flunky who opened it that he must see the prime minister at once. He was refused till he said he had important diplomatic information for his lordship. Lord D. came down in dressing gown and slippers.

"I have important information for your lordship," said Edgar. "I am a clerk in the foreign office or I would stipulate a price for it. As it is, I only ask that I be given promotion."

Lord D. yawned and directed him to proceed.

"The deuce you say!" exclaimed the minister, starting up.

"He is offered £3,500,000 by France. He is standing out for £4,000,000."

The minister stood with mouth and eyes wide open while Edgar told how he had secured the information. Then presently he said:

"Have you a cab at the door?"

"Yes."

"Hold it while I get on some clothes."

In ten minutes the two were whirling to the residence of Baron Rothschild, whom they routed out, and before he was permitted to retire again he was pledged to furnish the money to buy the khedive's shares. When the morning train left for Dover Edgar Manross was on it on his way to Egypt, a special envoy authorized to pay £4,000,000 for the property, or as much more as would secure it.

A few days later it was known that England owned the narrow strip of land that comprised the khedive's claim and serious complications had been avoided that must have occurred had it been transferred to France.

Edgar Manross was given £100,000 for his information and was appointed secretary of legation at Washington. He is now ambassador to a prominent European court. Moreover, he is the husband of the Hon. Gladys Hillhouse.

LABRADOR MOSQUITOES.

Terrible Pests to Travelers and Natives in the Northland Can Live in the Coldest Weather.

No account of travel in Labrador can be complete without some mention of the terrible pest of mosquitoes. These were always present in immense swarms from the beginning of our trip to the end, and sometimes they made life almost unbearable.

Nothing could be heard but their buzzing. Whenever we attempted to eat they were down our throats and in our eyes and faces, and in spite of our head nets and fly dope we were always badly bitten. The natives seemed to mind them almost as much as we did, their remedy being rancid seal oil. I am satisfied that were one so unfortunate as to be caught out at night without protection he would be either crazy or dead by morning.

Our tents were provided with a fine mesh bobbinet inner tent, but some would always find their way inside or come up from the ground. At times our light so attracted them we went outside to see if it were not raining, for the constant tapping of the mosquitoes against the canvas sounded so exactly like rain that it was impossible to tell the difference.

On many nights I had to give up the observation of stars for latitude and longitude because a candle could not be kept lit long enough to adjust the artificial horizon. We unfortunately had no chimney, and the mosquitoes swarmed so thickly that without this protection the flame was quickly smothered. There were but few nights cool enough to afford us any relief. We found that it required a temperature within a few degrees of actual freezing to subdue them.—Forest and Stream.

STARCHED CLOTHES.

The Fashion Was Started In England by Queen Elizabeth.

The practice of starching linen is at least 400 years old. It is said to have originated under Queen Elizabeth. Its inventor was a Dutchwoman, the wife of a Mr. Guilheem, who was driver at the royal court. Mrs. Guilheem understood so well how to improve a small deficiency in the bust of her royal mistress by means of stiffened collars, frills and laces that Elizabeth overwhelmed her with favors and privileges and finally elevated her to the rank of chief inspectress of the court linen.

The fashion introduced by the queen was of course soon followed by all the women of rank. The fad for this new "art" finally degenerated into a veritable mania for starching, ironing, plaiting, etc. Later special "professors" of the art of starching established themselves in London, among whom a Flemish woman of the name of Dinghen van der Plasse seems to have occupied the highest rank. Those privileged to be initiated by her in the art had to pay no less than £5 for a lesson.

Later they began to add blue color to the starch. Queen Elizabeth, who was very anxious about her questionable beauty, found that the addition of blue gave a green hue to her complexion. She therefore prohibited her subjects wearing any other than pure white starched linen, claiming that blue washed linen was injurious to health. But fashion proved superior even to "good Queen Bess." They continued merrily to use blue starch, though one woman after the other had to go to prison for transgressing the "blue law."—Boston Post.

Fraternity Pins.

Fraternity pins are seldom lost, and when they do disappear they often turn up again, sometimes years afterward, in the most out of the way places. As they always bear the owner's name and chapter engraved on the back it is not a difficult matter to return them. One "old grad" who lost his pin shortly after he left college and bought another now has two, the original emblem having been returned in a singular manner. A "brother" had observed the familiar token reposing upon the bandanna of an old colored mammy in a little town in Virginia. Upon questioning her he learned that she had come by it "taking in washing." After much persuasion she was prevailed upon to surrender the trophy.—New York Post.

Easily Satisfied.

A countryman who was "doing London" went to a concert hall and inquired the prices of seats.

"Front seats, 2 shillings; back, 1 shilling; programs, a penny," said the attendant.

"Oh, well, then," the visitor remarked blandly, "I'll take a program seat!"

What He Meant.

"It's fortunate that Professor Lungley has a cold tonight."

"What do you mean? If it hadn't been for the cold the professor would have sung."

"Yes."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Badly Named.

There is a man in a midland town whose name is Burst. It is a misfortune that would not have attracted much attention if he had not called his two children Annie May and Ernest Will.—London Scraps.

Good Luck.

Mr. Buggins—A black cat came to our back fence last night. Mrs. Buggins—Did it bring you good luck? Mr. Buggins—That's what it did. I hit it the first time I fired.—Philadelphia Record.

Colors seen by candlelight will not look the same by day.—Mrs. Browning.

This Boiler is a Coal Saver

Why? Because it is a BOYNTON and has the BOYNTON square fire pot, which increases fire surface about 25% over other boilers of like diameter.

The BOYNTON "square pot" is the greatest improvement yet devised in heating systems. It is square at the corners, hence clears free of cinders and ash each time the grate is turned. That means a live fire, always, and plenty of draft. See your dealer about the Tragic Climax of a Bicycle Race in Australia In Which Two Deadly Enemies Led.

One of the most singular events in the annals of athletics occurred a few years ago at Sydney, Australia. The occasion was a great electric light bicycle race, and the attendance was not less than 10,000 people. There were fifty entries, two of whom, James Somerville and Percy Cliff, were not only professional rivals, but deadly enemies. Both were considered expert riders.

From the start of the race Somerville led, with Cliff a close second. Somerville kept the lead throughout and came into the last lap with Cliff only a few feet behind him. When about twenty-five yards from the finish Somerville put on a terrific burst of speed and drew away from his rival. Suddenly at this point his grip on the handle bar relaxed, and he fell forward. The machine, however, under the tremendous impulse it had received, raced ahead like an arrow, the rider hanging limply over the handle bar.

Four yards from the tape the machine slowed down a little. At this point the front wheel of Cliff's machine struck the hind wheel of Somerville's, sending both wheel and rider across the tape. Somerville won the race, but he was dead several seconds before he crossed the tape.—Chicago Record-Herald.

ANCIENT DOCTORS.

Some of the Things They Knew Twelve Hundred Years Ago.

The Russian Academy of Medicine after examining a Tibetan "Handbook of Medicine," first published 1,200 years ago, acknowledges that it contains many truths discovered or rediscovered by modern physicians. Here are some extracts from the ancient volume:

"Number of bones in the human body, 360; number of nerves, 99; number of pores, 11,000,000.

"The heart is the king of the organs and the staff of life. The lungs embrace it as a mother does her child. Sicknesses are due to man's malice, ignorance and inability to curb the passions; for these things interfere with the proper nourishment of the human organs. All unkind thoughts react upon the heart and liver."

The methods for ascertaining the state of a person's health were very similar to those methods employed today—looking at the tongue, feeling the pulse, etc. Vegetable medicines are advocated; also baths, compresses, massage, bloodletting, etc. Fines were imposed upon physicians who did not keep their instruments clean.

A Fearless Prince.

Victor Emmanuel when prince royal held the rank of colonel in a regiment of artillery, and Humbert I. was on the throne. A new explosive had been invented, and the young prince was invited to be present at some experiments that were to be made with it. At the first shot the cannon being used burst with terrific force, scattering pieces of metal in every direction, but luckily not seriously injuring any one. Nevertheless the natural impulse to fly from danger seized officers and experts alike, and off they rushed with more unanimity than dignity. Only Victor Emmanuel remained at his post. He watched them for a moment and then, in a quiet tone of kingly tenor, called them back.

"No use running now," he said, with a ghost of a smile playing about his lips. "All danger is over."

Pet Names.

Every one likes to see husband and wife on affectionate terms, but Snaggsby, the toyshop keeper, rather overdid the thing. Little Johnny Biggs had sixpence, and he had bought a toy, but little Johnny's fancy is wayward, and he discovered that a clockwork railway engine was poor fun compared with a horse and cart, after all. Therefore he went to change the railway engine. "You say you bought this here yesterday?" said Snaggsby dubiously. "Who served you?" "The—goosey gander, sir!" said Johnny, pointing to Mrs. S. And when Snaggsby remembered that he had so addressed his wife in the presence of the boy on the day previous he flushed a pretty pink and changed the toy.—London Sphere.

The Sight of the Pigeon.

A friend of mine ridicules the idea that in the carrier pigeon it can be sight which guides it on its homeward trail. But my friend should really study the mechanism of the eye of the bird before he skepticizes. I am sure that from heights at which it is itself invisible the falcon can note its prey, and its eye is simply a self adjusting telescope. The careful dissection of the eye of the bird of prey is an absolute revelation as to creative ingenuity.—Dr. Dabbs in Fry's London Magazine.

Dean Swift's Retort.

A young advocate said to Dean Swift, "Supposing, doctor, that the parsons and the devil should litigate a cause, which party would you think would gain it?" "The devil, no doubt," was the dean's reply, "as he would have all the lawyers on his side."

The Aristocrats.

"Are there degrees of rank in the servants' hall?"

"To be sure. Maids who have charge of dogs won't associate with maids who look after children."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Honesty is the best policy, although it may have the deferred dividend clause attachment.—Judge.

Tousled, but Happy.

Hunting the hare with beagles is a particularly attractive sport for women. The outskirts of the London suburbs ring with the shouts of women beaglers on Saturdays. It is a curious sight to see fifty or a hundred women rushing pellmell behind the beagles after a hare. Round and round they go, tousled, bedraggled and faces all aglow. No wonder their complexions are the envy of the world. The sight of an Englishwoman chasing a hare on foot through bramble and thicket, over hedges and stiles, helter skelter over everything, would make a German hausfrau sit down in the middle of the road with her hands folded helplessly in front of her.—Town and Country.

The "Professor at the Dime Museum."

"Behold," he cries, thumping mightily with his cane—"behold, ladies and gentlemen, the lovely Cherrie Burnham, the fair, the beautiful! Marvelous! Marvelous! Stand up, Cherrie! There" (thump, thump); "look at her! A mighty girl, fat, magnificent. Five chins! Cheeks like the sun kissed melon! Arms like vats of luscious Falernian wine! Watch her, now! Watch her! No wonder you're proud, Cherrie! Few women of modern times have equaled you. Six hundred and ten pounds! Twice the weight of Queen Victoria, three times the weight of Boadicea" (thump, thump), "four times the weight of Delilah!"—R. L. Hartt in Atlantic.

Two Lies In a Life?

Bluntschli (dubiously)—There's reason in everything. You said you'd told only two lies in your whole life. Dear young lady, isn't that rather a short allowance? I'm quite a straightforward man myself, but it wouldn't last me a whole morning.

Raina (staring haughtily at him)—Do you know, sir, that you are insulting me?

Bluntschli—I can't help it. When you get into that noble attitude and speak in that thrilling voice I admire you, but I find it impossible to believe a single word you say.

Raina (superbly)—Captain Bluntschli!

Bluntschli (unmoved)—Yes?

Raina (coming a little toward him, as if she could not believe her senses)—Do you mean what you said just now? Do you know what you said just now?

Bluntschli—I do.

Raina (gasping)—I! I! (She points to herself incredulously, meaning, "I, Raina Petkoff, tell lies!") He meets her gaze unflinchingly. She suddenly sits down beside him and adds, with a complete change of manner from the heroic to the familiar, "How did you find me out?"—G. B. Shaw's "Arms and the Man."

THATCHER'S FREE CHICKEN

Minstrel Saved Darkey From Jail by Taking Stolen Pullet.

BLACK FACE COMEDY CHARMS.

Vulgar Frills Spoil the Business—Public Must Have Clean, Classy Shows— A Story.

George Thatcher, formely of this city, who is appearing this afternoon and evening at Proctor's theatre on West Front street, in speaking of old times this morning fell into a reminiscent mood and harked back to the days when with Primrose and West he was at the head of one of the greatest organizations of minstrelsy ever put on the stage. "Talking about your productions of the present day," he said, "why are they not more generally patronized? The answer is too easy. Just give the people a high class minstrel show and they will come out just as they did for my old firm and for Christie's. Black face comedy still has its charms.

"For my part I believe the introduction of vulgarity into many of the shows which patterned their productions after the legitimate quality organizations spoiled the business. You cannot ask any public to attend and expect them to lend an air of respectability to a vulgar exhibition. Of course there are exceptions to the rule. But take it from me a high class public wants a high class show and those managers who are developing along that line are the ones who will win out.

"I remember one time while showing at Memphis, well, yes, it is a few years ago, that the three of us, that's myself, Primrose and West, had just finished a three days' engagement in the old Torrey theatre and had gone to the station to take train for Milton when an old darkey approached and, doffing his cap asked: 'Is you Mister Thatcher?' Being answered in the affirmative he continued: 'Ef you all had ever stole dat chicken what you just done tole about in de show house would de jedge hev 'lef' you all go free?' 'Sure,' I answered, they never put a white man in jail for stealing a chicken. 'Dat's so, dat's so. I clean forgot maself. Take dis yere one, den, and w'en dey fin' it on you Ah will 'scape.' The old fellow then took from under a ragged coat as fine a pullet as ever you put your eyes on and skipped down the stairs as though the old nick was after him.

"Did I what? Sure I took the chicken to Milton and had it cooked next day."

Mr. Thatcher told a dozen stories of his experiences on the road to an eager company of listeners, but stopped abruptly when he looked at his watch and found it was time to get on the job at Proctor's.

CLANSMEN TO ORGANIZE AT COWARD'S HALL TONIGHT.

Scotchmen and their descendants are invited to be present at a meeting to be held in Coward's Hall, 109 Park avenue, tonight at 7:45 o'clock for the purpose of organizing a Scottish Clan in this city. Sons of Scotchmen are eligible to membership and it is urged that all who want to join the order be on hand this evening as the organization will be completed and officers elected.

The order is a benevolent one and has paid out over $2,000,000 in its thirty-two years of existence. Charter rates will be in vogue tonight until the close of the open meeting.

Each is James Harvey.

Because their names are alike there is no reason why one James Harvey should be charged with the offense of another James Harvey. the James mentioned in yesterday's issue as being implicated in the theft of a watch is not the same one who violated his parole. The latter was seen this morning by assistant probation officer Hamilton and after a talk with the young man decided to give him a chance to make good. Harvey claimed that he had only failed to report because he had been out of work and unable to pay the fine imposed by Judge Atwater at Elizabeth several months ago.

WEST END DEMOCRATS ENDORSE DR. WILSON

James E. Martine received another endorsement of his candidacy for United States Senator last night, at the hands of the West End Democratic Club and the club did not delay in letting James Smith, Jr., the Newark candidate know of the action Mr. Smith will have ere this received form the secretary of the club, a request that he name the organizations outside of Essex County who have endorsed his candidacy. This action was taken by the club because they believed that outside of Essex and Hudson, Mr. Smith has very few sympathizers.

Another feature of the meeting of this club last night was the resolution of approval introduced by a member praising the attitude assumed by Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson toward the primary election question. A copy of the resolution was forwarded to Dr. Wilson today. Letters were sent to all the assemblymen and State senators invoking their aid by their votes and influence for James E. Martine.

Arrangements are now being made for a minstrel show and ball which will be held some time in January or February next. The committee appointed to arrange for this affair were: Eugene Caffrey, Harry Goeller and George Moore. Seven new members were added to the club roll.

READY FOR XMAS RUSH AT THE LOCAL POST OFFICE

Although the Christmas rush is on at many of the larger postoffices throughout the country, it has not yet begun at the local office. Postmaster E. H. Bird said today that he did not look for the "real rush" until next week because so many people wait until the last minute before sending their presents away.

The office force has been kept unusually busy sending off the foreign mail, which started earlier than usual, and the incoming foreign mail is now beginning to arrive in large quantities. Out of the 4,500 sacks of mail which arrived in New York yesterday morning on the Mauretania, which made a record trip, there was a considerable portion addressed to people in Plainfield and vicinity.

Postmaster Bird in anticipation of a big rush arranged to put on two extra clerks on Monday, and if necessary a third man will be engaged. The regular force of carriers will not receive any extra help until probably two or three days before Christmas. As usual, they expect to clean up all holiday mail on Christmas day or the Monday following. Every effort will be made to handle the incoming and outgoing mail as expeditiously as possible. It is the general opinion of the postoffice officials that all records will be broken this year in the volume and value of holiday presents sent by mail, notwithstanding the doleful theory of many merchants that the high cost of living has reduced the public generally to the purchase of necessities only.

Postmaster Bird suggestes to patrons of the office that in sending packages away that the sender place their name and address either on the outside or inside of the package. This will greatly facilitate the employes of the office in their work, for in case of an error it will be easy to find the sender. Last year the local office experienced considerable trouble because of the failure of people to do this and mail was sent to the Dead Letter office at Washington, unclaimed.

Patrons are also reminded again that picture postal cards bearing tinsel or other decorations should be enclosed in an envelope and that a stamp be affixed on the outside. Otherwise it will not go through the postoffice.

Funeral of James M. Smith.

The funeral service of James M. Smith, who died on Tuseday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Theodore L. Craig in Montclair, was held at the undertaking parlors of A. M. Runyon & Son, on Park avenue, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, of which Mr. Smith was a member, officiated. Many friends of Mr. Smith attended the service. The burial was in the family plot in Evergreen cemetery on Plainfield avenue.

MILNE AGAIN PRESIDENT

North Plainfield Improvement Association Re-elects Him as its Head.

DISCUSSES WATER QUESTION.

Judge Issac P. Runyon Speaks in Favor of a Municipal Plant—Committee Appointed to Arrange Social Affair.

Alexander Milne, who has been president of the North Plainfield Improvement Association since its inception, was again elected to the office at the December meeting in the borough Council chambers, last night. The members were unanimous in the belief that the good work he has accomplished should be repeated during the coming year. The other officers were also reelected as follows:

Vice-president Meredith Dryden; secretary, B. J. Phelps; treasurer, Nelson A. Miller.

The subject of municipal ownership of water supply was taken up and the matter was discussed at some length. In view of the importance of the question under present conditions the following committee was appointed to confer with the city commission now investigating the question: L. B. Woolston, Edmund Rushmore, D. J. Carney, E. T. Wilson and Charles P. Sebring.

Following the appointment Judge Isaac P. Runyon took the floor and spoke in favor of municipal ownership of water. He stated that both Madison and Hackettstown own their respective plants and derive a profit from them. He raised the question that if these places could operate municipal plants successfully there is no apparent reason why North Plainfield could not do likewise. The judge's opinion was voiced by several other members.

The subject of holding and entertainment or social affair of some sort was broached and the matter was placed in the hands of a committee composed of David J. Carney, Meredith Dryden and B. J. Phelps. They will decide the nature of the affair and fix the date and all other arrangements.

P. B. Paroubek and John J. Bowers were elected to membership The remainder of the session was devoted to a general discussion of municipal subjects

President Milne has a number of matters to bring before the association at future meetings and hopes to secure some prominent speakers to appear at each one. The attendance last night was quite large.

Burglar's Loot Store.

Elizabeth, Dec. 17,—Burglars forced an entrance into the store of Aaron M. Cohen, at 106 Broad street, and succeeded in getting away with more than $300 worth of loot. An effoct was made to break into the store of I. R. Squiers & Co., at 108 Broad street, directly adjourning the Cohen place, but it was unsuccessful. The burglary is one of the boldest to take place in this city, as the street is one ofthe best guarded in the city. The robberies were reported to the police yesterday.

Death of Frank Bergen's Nephew.

Haviland Butler, of Elizabeth, a nephew of Frank Bergen, died yesterday at All Souls' Hospital Morristown, following an operation for appendicitis with which he was stricken a week ago. He was a student at a private school in Morristown and was an exceptionally bright boy. Since the death of his mother, who was a sister of Mr. Bergen, the latter cared for the young man. He was fourteen years of age.

Braider, organist and choirmaster. Miss DeCant and Mr. Titsworth will do the solo work.

Passenger on the Mauretania.

Mrs. Emma Meesler-Kirch, of this city, who has been in London, Eng., for several months, was among the passengers who arrived in New York at 4:30 o'clock yesterday morning on the record-breaking trip of the Mauretania. "Peace and Arbitration."

Tomorrow will be observed by the W. C. T. U. the world over as one of the "Red Letter Days," and the subject of the meeting at the rooms of the local union will be "Peace and Arbitration." Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson will lead the meeting.

DUTCH ARMS ENTERTAINED

Trinity Reformed Church Men Enjoyed Seminary Students' Program.

PROVIDED BY A QUARTET.

Some Changes in Constitution Made at Business Session, at Which F. H. Cutter Presided.

The forty or more members and friends of the Dutch Arms, men's association, of Trinity Reformed church, who braved the cold last night to go to the church, were well repaid by the exceptionally fine entertainment provided by the quartet from the New Brunswick Theological Seminary. The program furnished by the four young men was well received and the quartet was obliged to respond to numerous encores.

The quartet was composed of James T. Veneklasen, first tenor; Marcus C. T. Andreae, second tenor; John H. Warshuis, first bass; James Dykema, second bass, with Rudolph Steir, as the accompanist. Mr. Warshuis gave several recitations, sang songs and gave a clever exhibition of ventriloquism. There were also solos by Mr. Vaneklasen and Mr. Dykema, while Mr. Steir delighted the audience with several piano selections.

Notable among the selections by the quartet were "The Old Oaken Bucket," and "The City Choir," which were acted out in an amusing way, provoking hearty applause. The young men possess exceptionally good voices and they were generous in responding to encores.

A business session was held early in the evening, President F. S. Cutter being in the chair. During the business session a number of changes were made in the constitution, as proposed at a recent meeting. It was decided to allow the dues to remain as they have been in the past. Following the entertainment by the quartet a committee from the Dutch Arms served refreshments and there was a social time enjoyed by the men.

HORSES MAKE RECORD TRIP TO NORRISTOWN

When Stonewall Jackson got ready for shipment seventeen horses and two mules which were destined to Norristown, Pa., Thursday, he did not think it would be necessary for the intervention of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in order to get the animals started. But so it turned out.

Mrs. Stephen G. VanHoesen, special agent for the society, happened to discover a car loaded with horses and mules standing on a siding near the Netherwood station and as usual her curiosity was excited. Getting close up to the car she found the animals enumerated above shivering with the cold and almost unprotected against the wintry blasts which swept through the yards. Communicating at once with the freight house employees she was unable to get any satisfactory information as to when the animals were to be moved.

President W. G. Besler was appealed to and in a surprisingly short time the horses were on their way to Norristown. R. A. Walker, to whom the horses and mules were consigned, later informed Mrs. Van Hoesen that the carload of animals had made record time in their trip from this city. All of which no doubt may be placed to the credit of Mrs. Van Hoesen and President Besler.

The horses had stood in the car from 5 o'clock until 8:30 when discovered by the special agent and the car was one of the slatted variety which affords very slight protection in winter. It is Mrs. Van Hoesen's intention to ty to secure suitable cars for the shipment of animals from this city and to that end she has written to the Inter-State Commerce Commission at Washington specifying the reason why the Central Railroad should provide cars of similar construction as those in use by the Pennsylvania lines.

Gave a "Poverty Party."

A "Poverty Party" was given Thursday evening by Miss Bonwell, of Madison avenue, to twenty-four of her friends. Games were enjoyed after which there was a program of music and refreshments were served. The honors were awarded to Miss Tier, Mrs. McVoy, Mrs. Trembath, Miss Kollar, Mr. Fogarty, Mr. Trembath and Mrs. Frazee.

SHE USED ROLLING PIN

Mrs. Diani Landed it on Her Landlord's Head and She is Landed in Court.

SCHUBERT SCALP WAS CUT.

Tenant's Friends Had Consumed Whiskey and the Party Was in "Trim" for a Fight When Landlord Appeared.

It took several stitches to sew up the scalp wound given to Peter Schubert, of 830 George street, by Mrs. Annie Diani, of the same address, last night. The woman's weapon was the traditional rolling pin and the cause was a pane of glass missing in the apartments occupied by Mrs. Diani and her husband. Incidentally it may be mentioned that a bottle of whiskey had something to do with the shindy in which the rolling pin was used. The parties to the assault were remanded this morning by Judge Runyon for their appearance on Monday morning at 9 o'clock

According to the police the fracas started over a dispute as to who should replace a pane of glass in a window of the Daini home which in some manner unknown to the owner, Schubert, had been broken. The whiskey made its appearance felt during the slaughter of a calf at a later hour last night. The Italians of the neighborhood had been feasting their eyes on the growing calf and when it was noised around that the animal was about to be butchered, several of those who wanted a slice or a chunk of the flesh gathered to witness the killing. It was cold last night, so cold in fact that nothing but copious drafts from the whiskey bottle could keep the blood of the spectators on the move.

Perhaps the sight of blood from the calf or again perhaps some other evil influence prompted Mrs. Diani to mention the broken window, but what ever it was it took but a few seconds to raise a dispute whose consequences were inimical to Schubert's safety. Mrs. Diani admitted that it was she and not her husband who whacked Mr. Schubert over the head with the rolling pin, but her husband gallantly tried to take the blame himself. Anyway, Walter Lebano, one of the spectators ran into police headquarters shortly after 1 o'clock this morning saying that a policeman and doctor were needed at the George street address. Patrolman Meyers, Messler and O'Gorman were sent with the wagon to the scene and finding Schubert wounded took him over to the City Physician Lufburrow's office whence he was removed by the doctor's orders to Muhlenberg Hospital after the wounded head was dressed.

CEDARCROFT SKATING CLUB ENJOY A SKATE AND SUPPER.

The Cedarcroft Skating Club had a moonlight skating party, last evening, followed by an informal supper in the tea room. There were about thirty persons on the ice and the skating was ideal. The tennis court, which has been enlarged, was flooded at the beginning of the cold weather last week and has been kept in perfect condition ever since. The club is composed of the guests of Cedarcroft and their friends in the neighborhood. The first meeting was held December 8, when officers were elected and rules were adopted.

The exceptionally cold weather during December has made it possible to have skating earlier than was expected and the skaters have taken full advantage of the excellent ice.

Funeral of J. Y. Mowrey.

The funeral of John Y. Mowrey was held yesterday afternoon at the residence of his son, William G. Mowrey, on Jefferson avenue, the borough. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, officiated. The burial was made in the family plot at Bound Brook. Members of the Carpenters' Union, with which Mr. Mowrey was identified, attended the service, and these members of the union were bearers: D. J. Mills, Samuel Coddington, L. C. Sheppard and J. S. Lunger.

FIRE CHIEF'S CAUTION TO XMAS DECORATORS

Fire Chief T. O. Doane has issued his annual edict against the use of inflamable materials in Christmas decorations and draws the attention of the public to the fact that a little care properly exercised may be the means of preventing fire and consequent loss of life and property.

Chief Doane urges that if electric illuminations are to be used on Christmas trees that they should be installed by an expert and that they should not be covered with any inflamable materials. The danger of a dried spruce tree is emphasized and particular attention to the danger of using candles on them. "Candles should not be used," says the chief, "they are apt to give forth the spark which it needs to start a fire on the tree."

Pails of water should be placed conveniently near for use in event of an accidental blaze. Cotton should never under any circumstance be used on a tree. If you must have something to represent snow use mineral wood. Never place ropes of ground pine over the gas jets. Do not let the greens rest on or touch an electric light bulb and be sure to keep all decorations clear of heating pipes. Children's clothing may be made fire proof by dipping them in alum water or using alum in the starch in which they are laundered.

The chief believes that observation of these few precautions will contribute to the general cheer of the season as well as prevent after regrets.

GOOD FELLOWS RECRUIT TO MAKE TOTS HAPPY

In the batch of mail received this morning for the Good Fellow movement was a leter containing this expression:

"All warm hearted people ought to be plad to see the poor litle children made happy on Christmas day. Kindly send me the names of thirteen youngsters that I can help make happy for by doing so I can better enjoy my own Christmas."

Another writes that she can take care of twelve little folks of ten years old or younger.

Some of the charter members of the Plainfield Order of Good Fellows, who did splendid work last Christmas, have not responded to the call as yet. There is lots of time, however, for names of worthy little tots, whose Christmas can be made happy by Good Fellows, will be furnished next week.

MEN DISCUSS MISSION

Four Parishes Represented at Banquet of Episcopal Church Laymen.

PLAN FOR ORGANIZATION.

Permanent Committee Named—Addresses by John W. Wood, Wm. F. Cochran and Others—G. M. Holstein Toastmaster.

Considerable disappointment was manifested last night at the men's meeting in the parish house of Grace Episcopal church, when it was announced that Right Rev. L. L. Kinsolving, D. D., Bishop of Brazil, would not be present to address the men of the four parishes gathered to dine and discuss missions along the line of the Laymen's Missionary Movement. Bishop Kinsolving was detained at Providence, R. I., where he had gone to attend the memorial services of Bishop McVicker. However, John W. Wood, corresponding secretary of the Board of Missions, and William F. Cochran, of Baltimore members of the laymen's movement, gave interesting addresses upon the subject of missions with special reference to the foreign field and the result was the formation of a permanent committee to work in accordance with the plans of the laymen's movement which involves the systematic giving of money for the work among the unconverted of the world.

The meeting for discussion was preceded by a dinner served by Henry Johnson, steward of the Park Club. Sixty eight men were present and were heartily welcomed by the chairman of the meeting, George M. Holstein who acted as toastmaster. Besides the laymen the rectors of the 4 churches in this city were on hand to lend their influence to the movement among the Episcopal men of the churches. Rev. E. Vicar Stevenson and Rev. George A. Warner sat at the speakers' table while Rev. Cortlandt H. Mallery and Rev. Elory G. Bowers were among the diners at other tables.

None of the men present excepting those connected with arranging the meeting were previously aware of the object of it, but when it was revealed they joined heartily in the sentiments expressed by the speakers.

Mr. Holstein in introducing Mr. Cochran said that it was the fighting spirit that usually brought men together in bonds of affection and it was upon this same spirit of co-operation an offspring of the fighting spirit that all great movements of the world are accomplished. The purpose of the laymen's movements he said, is the uplift and development of the human race and the prospects of ultimate success should make every man an optimist.

The fact that success attends the work of the movement is found in the awakening of the popular conscience and the making of the world a better place to live in. The organized missions under the auspices of the laymen's alliance has two purposes—first, to hear the reports of men from the fighting line and, second, to determine whether the fight is for us to take a hand in.

Mr. Cochran told of his personal experiences from the beginning of his entry into the work a year ago, relating interesting data in connection with the work here at home He declared that the Christian who lacks the missionary spirit is a Christian in name only. He quoted the Scriptures to prove that it was every Christian's duty to become in some way, either with money or work, a missionary. He declared that the testimony of W. P. Ellis, a Philadelphia newspaper man, was the most eloquent proof of the success of the work. Mr. Ellis had at his own expense visited foreign countries, investigating the work among the unconverted and was convinced that God's work was being handled with scrupulous fidelity and was bringing splendid results.

"Mr. Ellis's statement went far to correct the wrong impression that foreign converts are not premanent Christians," declared the speaker. "They are not only permanent Christians, but they develope into the most ardent workers. I do not believe, though, that the Church is going to be able to cope with the problems of the world unless she follows all the commands of God. We must get rid of the spirit of apathy that prevails and go forward with vigor and get in the front—on the firing line. In the last analysis it will be proved that the conception of the true Christian who faced the matter squarely has had God's spirit with him and has accomplished what he could to make the world better and that he has fulfilled his stewardship."

Mr. Wood said that those who had previously heard him speak in the church had never had a chance to get back at him, but that he would

DENTISTS FAIL TO LIVE UP TO LAWS.

Trenton, Dec. 17.—In its annual report to Governor Fort, the State Board of Registration and Examination in Dentistry declares that by diligent work on the part of the board and the law officers of the various counties, the number of illegal practitioners has been materially reduced during the last year.

It is stated that many dentists of this class cease to practise upon notification that unless they cease prosecution will follow. The reason assigned for this action is that most of those who practise improperly under the laws of this state fear to jeopardize their careers in other places by conviction in New Jersey.

The report says that despite a stringent law providing for the annual registration of dentists and a penalty of $10 fine if they fail to comply with the law in this particular, there are many who neglect to file registration cards. The board says it has made every effort in its power to secure an accurate registration, but results have not been entirely satisfactory. Now, as a remedy the board proposes to see to it that the law is rigidly enforced.

Commenting on this situation the report says: "It is difficult to determine if the licentiates are negligent or whether they do not receive the registration blanks sent to them. That they do not receive them is improbable, for if they did not they would be returned to the office of the secretary."

During the year the board received $2,710.59 and expended $2,658.76, leaving a balance in bank of $51.83. Of the receipts, $832.26 represents money on hand at the close of the last fiscal year. The amount received from applications during the year was $1,750, and for interest, $4.39.

BIG BUNCH OF BOUNCING BABIES BOUND WEST.

A carload of babies passed through Chicago Thursday. They were from a foundling home in New York city and are billed to Houston and San Antonio, Tex., where each will be adopted by a Southern family.

There were fifty-two babies in the car and not one was over three years old.

Their foster parents will meet the babies at Houston and San Antonio. An agent of the New York Foundling Hospital, an institution conducted by the Order of Sisters of Charity of New York city, has traversed the district, finding homes for these youngsters. Men and women who agree to adopt the babies each have received a card calling for one baby. These read: "This entitles you to Marguerite, or Henry, or Thomas," as the case may be.

Six nurses in charge of Sister Rachel, are looking after the party on its long trip.

"This institution makes a practice of sending about three carloads of babies West each year," said R. J. Carmichael, district passenger agent of the Illinois Central Railroad, who has charge of the party.

LEWIS TO ATTEND INAUGURAL BALL.

Trenton, Dec. 17.—General Wilbur S. Sadler announced yesterday that the Signal Corps of Jersey City will in all likelihood be selected to act as a personal escort of Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson at the inaugural ball to be held in the Second Regiment Armory Trenton, on January 17.

The general also said that Vivian M. Lewis, whom Mr. Wilson defeated for Governor, will attend the ball with about fifty friends, and the party will travel in a special car.

General Sadler is in communication with the officials of the Pennsylvania and Philadelphia and Reading railroads, with a view of getting special rates. The function promises to be the most brilliant ever held in Trenton, and every part of the State will be largely represented. The arrangements committee will be announced next Monday. It will consist of one Democrat and one Republican from every county outside of Mercer, which will have a larger representation.

FLOODS SWEEP OVER ENGLAND.

It is thirty years since England has known such floods as are now devastating immense stretches of the country. The deluge of rain practically has been incessant since the first of December, only two days out of the sixteen being without rain. Large areas of territory are so inundated that five-barred gates are covered with water, which in some parts of the country is twelve feet deep.

In many villages houses have been flooded and the residents are living in the upper stories of their dwellings.

The outlook in the Thames Valley is grave. The river has risen ten inches in the Henley district within the last thirty-six hours and flooded enormous areas. Many residents have been irretrievably ruined.

ELKS IN MINSTREL.

Will Donate Proceeds to Newark Fire Sufferers.

Jersey City, Dec. 17.—The Elks' minstrel show, which proved such a success at Elks' Hall, the evenings of December 7 and 8, is to be repeated in the Majestic Theatre, Sunday night. The proceeds will go to swell the fund for the benefit of the Newark fire sufferers. All the original cast will appear. The playlet and both parts were written, the scenery painted and the lighting effects produced by Elks.

David Sheehan will be interlocutor in the first part, an old-time minstrel show. The second part is a sketch entitled "Way Down South," and part third, another sketch entitled "Hotel Lafafalaza or Hello Bill, Where Do ou Live?"

Dr. Cook on Way Home.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the Brooklyn traveler, has sent word to his friends in New York that he will reappear next week following his self-imposed exile of one year. Dr. Cook will arrive from Europe probably next Wednesday. The doctor has confessed that he did not know whether he reached the North Pole or not, and in today's issue of Hampton's Magazine he tells of the mental and physical stress he labored under on his journey northward.

TO PUSH $500,000 SCHOOL.

Paterson Board will Complete New Building Itself.

Paterson, Dec. 17.—The Board of Education tonight decided to complete the half-million-dollar High School itself and to have the building ready for occupancy by next May. Te contractor failed, and for several weeks operations have been at a standstill. No change in the subcontractors will be made.

Forty-four men employed on the building have sent to the School Board claims for $900 in wages due them. The board will ask the creditors that it be permitted to pay these men.

A special meeting, at which definite plans for continuing the work will be made, will be held next Wednesday.

Building Slow; Factories Busy.

The cold weather has stopped considerable of the building operations going on in Westfield. This has thrown many mechanics out of work and sends them to look for employment in the factories. Most of them are being taken by the factories at Garwood, which are operating on full time, something unusual at this season.

PREACHER COURTS DEATH; BLIND AND IN WANT

Trenton, Dec. 17.—Governor Fort has not received the letter which it was represented, had been sent to him by Rev. Thomas McKinsey, a blind preacher of Battle Creek, Mich., who is reported to have set forth in the message a desire to be legally electrocuted.

According to the Battle Creek dispatch Mr. McKinsey is hopelessly blind and lies in danger of losing his voice. He has been singing in the streets and selling small articles, but the public refuses to buy, and, he says, society demands his death.

Not believing in self-destruction, and holding an almshouse worse than death, it is asserted that he has sent this letter not only to Governor Fort, of New Jersey, but to the Chief Executives of New York, Ohio and West Virginia.

"I have been blind from birth. I am hopelessly blind. I am not and seemingly cannot be profitably employed, therefore I cannot consistently have a home and a wife. If I live I must live in the poorhouse among lunatics idiots, broken down drunkards and vagabonds, where all I can do is to eat unpalatable food and wear coarse clothe, where there will be an end to aspiration and where I will be murdered slowly. Surely, under such circumstances, it is the duty of the State to take my life in the most painless way possible, and I am willing and anxious that it should do so.

"I have the misfortune to live in a State which will not even put its criminals to death, therefore I write to ask that I may be electrocuted in a State chair in New York, Ohio, New Jersey or West Virginia.

"I frankly admit that I do not want to leave this life. I do not believe in self-destruction. If I did I would kill myself. But as long as society has said that I shall starve to death, that I shall go without the necessities of life, I only ask that my death be made a painless one. I hope the Governor of some State where they practice electrocution will permit my life to be taken in that painless way."

N Y AMUSEMENTS.

George Jarno, the composer of "The Girl and the Kaiser," in which Miss Lulu Glaser is seen at the Herald Square Theatre under the management of the Messrs. Shubert, has entered into a contract by cable with the Messrs. Shubert by the terms of which they acquire an option on the American rights of all of his new compositions for the next five years. "The Girl and the Kaiser," which attained enormous European success under the title of "Die Forster Christ'l," is the first work by Jarno ever to be presented in this country by an English speaking company, and should, therefore, be of special interest to students of music. Another operetta by Jarno is now being presented in German at the Irving Place Theatre. It will be recalled that Miss Glaser's last New York engagement was in "Mlle. Mischief," which scored a notable success and served to introduce the music of O. M. Ziehrer, another noted European composer, to American audiences.

TWO MORE SOLDIERS DIE AT KEARNY INSTITUTION.

An inmate of the Soldiers' Home Kearny, thirty-two years, Hugh Brady, died there at 10:45 o'clock Thursday night. He was eighty-three years old and was admitted to the institution from Jersey City. He served throughout the Civil War as a private in Company C, Third New Jersey Cavalry.

The records at the home showed that he was a good soldier. He was popular with the veterans. Brady leaves a daughter, Miss Mary Brady, of 147 Montgomery street, Jersey City. Funeral services will take place today. Interment will be in Arlington Cemetery.

John C. Kline who entered the home from Glen Gardner five years ago, died yesterday morning of senility. He was seventy-one years old and had served in Company A, Thirty-first New Jersey Volunteer Infantry. Two daughters survive, one of whom is Mrs. E. T. Hutchinson, of 102 Second street, South Orange.

IDENTIFIES JEWELRY.

Police Know Owners of Property on Wandless' Pal.

Passaic, Dec. 17.—Three hundred dollars' worth of the jewelry and furs which were found upon Thomas Wandless, alias James Hanley, and Miss Jean Mitchell, who were arrested by the local police December 8, after Hanley had been shot while entering T. P. Talpey's home in Pennington avenue, were identified yesterday by Police Inspector George H. Monahan and Mrs. Byron A. Pennington, of Providence, and James E. Cuff, chief of police of Cranston, R. I., a suburb of Providence.

The articles included a leather handbag, a mink muff, a pair of gold cuff buttons, taken from the Pennington home on November 23, a gold bracelet with three amathysts, a woman's gold watch, a woman's gold necklace fifty inches long a lion-head stickpin set with a diamond, a gold breastpin with pearls and two gold rings set with garnets.

Wandless' condition remains unchanged to day It is now thought that he will recover. Grave fears were entertained for his recovery yesterday, but it is said his condition is not as serious as had been believed.

The ditch is being dug in a thickly populated section. The explosion was heard for blocks around and in the immediate vicinity, houses were shaken to their foundations and windows were broken.

TO THE "GOOD FELLOWS" OF PLAINFIELD

TO THE GOOD FELLOWS OF PLAINFIELD:

Just about this time last year I told you my story. You listened to it—you did more—you followed its spirit out in a bang-up style. I'm not claiming any credit for my story; I'm claiming credit for knowing that there are many Good Fellows in this fine old town of ours—royal chaps who don't do much preaching but when it comes to doing a good turn, well, they're there with the goods. This is no sermon that I'm handing you, it's a heart-to-heart talk with men with red blood in their veins, and here it is off last year's reel:

Last Christmas and New Year's eve you and I went out for a good time and spent from $10 to $200. Last Christmas morning hundreds of children awoke to an empty stocking—the bitter pain of disappointment that Santa Claus had forgotten them. Perhaps it wasn't our fault. We had provided for our own; we had also reflected in a passing way on those less fortunate than our own, but they seemed far off and we didn't know where to find them. Perhaps in the hundred and one things we had to do some of us didn't think of that heart sorrow of the child over the empty stocking.

Now, old man, here's a chance. I have tried for the last five years and ask you to consider it. Just send your name and address to The Daily Press—address Santa Claus—state about how many children you are willing to protect against grief over that empty stocking, inclose a two-cent stamp and you will be furnished with the names, addresses, sex, and age of that many children. It is then up to you, you do the rest. Select your won present, spend 50 cents or $50, and send or take your gifts to those children on Christmas eve. You pay not a cent more than you want to pay—every cent goes just where you want it to go. You gain neither notoriety nor advertising; you deal with no organization; no record will be kept; your letter will be returned to you with its answer. The whole plan is just as anonymous as old Santa Claus himself.

This is not a newspaper scheme. The Daily Press was asked to aid in reaching the good fellow by publishing this suggestion and to receive your communication in order that you may be assured of good faith and to preserve the anonymous character of this work. The identity of the writer of this appeal will not be disclosed. He assumes the responsibility of finding the children and sending you their names and guarantees that whatever you bestow will be deserved.

Neither you nor I get anything out of this, except the feeling that you have saved some child from sorrow on Christmas morning. If that is not enough for you then you have wasted time in reading this—it is not intended for you, but for the good fellows of Plainfield.

Perhaps a twenty-five cent doll or a ten cent tin toy wouldn't mean much to the children you know, but to the child who would find them in the otherwise empty stocking they mean much—the difference between utter disappointment and the joy that Santa Claus did not forget them. Here is where you and I get in. The charitable organizations attend to the bread and meat; the clothes; the necessaries; you and the rest of the good fellows furnish the toys, the nuts, the candies; the child's real Christmas.

GOOD FELLOW.

The Daily Press, one year ago, investigated the "good fellow" who wrote the above, looked him in the eye and put its O. K. on the plan. The cold blooded, blase representative who saw him wrote: "He made me feel, personally, that it would be really worth while in satisfaction to carry a little happiness to some children who otherwise wouldn't get any on Christmas eve." "Good Fellow" is not a professional philanthropist, he takes a drink, and even goes out at night with the boys for a mild good time—but he has taken care of from fifteen to twenty children a year in Plainfield. He said that a year ago last Christmas day he wished he had curtailed his holiday joy-making with the good fellows even more than he did, so that he might have had more money to gladden childish hearts.

The Worthy Grand Master of the lodge of Good Fellows has laid his plans for securing names through the Charity Organization Society.

This is how you can join the lodge of Good Fellows. Write a letter to "Santa Claus," care of The Daily Press, something like this:

I live at No.———— Street. I will be Santa Claus to 6 children.

John Jones.

The letter will go to Santa Claus. He will indorse on your letter the names and addresses of six children. That letter will be remailed to you. Then you get busy. That's all. Come on in, good fellows.

THE DAILY PRESS.

Plainfield, N. J., December 17, 1910.

THE FORUM.

Editor The Daily Press:

In a newspaper, not yours, there was an article entitled "School Probers Visit Borough," a reading of which disclosed an attempt to show that I have made charges against Mr. Kreb's administration and that upon examination Mr. Krebs has been fully exonerated.

The testimony taken has not been made public only the conclusion of some one interested.

The article further states that I went to Somerville where the investigation was being held and left the room before the committee had reached a point where the matter of my charges could be taken up.

The charges were "simply" a complaint against the condition that has heretofore been made public.

There is an element of truth in the statement that I left the room, but how I came to be at Somerville and what happened is truly amusing to some who know, but I could not appreciate the joke. I had been advised by Senator Frelinghuysen and Mr. Murray, the atorney, that the commission would be held at Somerville at 2:30. No notice was ever given to me that any meeting was to be held at North Plainfield, so I went to Somerville from Elizabeth, where I had a matter to close with the Fidelity Trust Co. in the morning.

I sat in the room at Somerville about three-quarters of an hour when Mr. Murray, the attorney, quietly informed me that Mr. Krebs had been examined in North Plainfield although note that Mr. Krebs was there at Somerville. I simply came away as the proceedings were all over as far as I was concerned.

Now why is it that no report of the testimony appears in the local newspapers? That the reporters were not invited is in my opinion the answer.

I was at Somerville, where I was told the examination would take place.

The chairman of the probe board and the attorney, Mr. Murray, and one other member have promised to notify me of a meeting in the future, where there will be no mistake. I did not ask for this courtesy.

I fully realize when any one tries to bring about any needed reform that he must expect the powers that be to place him in a false position every time the opportunity is afforded; but being in the right this condition will be changed. I have positive assurance of it now, but the credit will not be given to those who brought it about. It will undoubtedly be out of goodness of heart and for the best interests of the borough or county that it will take place.

Time will not permit me to go further with this article, but a full, complete and accurate statement concerning same will soon be made and we will let the public be the jury.

give everybody the opportunity to ask whatever question he desired on the subject at the conclusion of his speech. He apologized for the absence of Bishop Kinsolving, saying that he was in the main responsible for the absence of his protege.

Mr. Wood said in part: "There are two things connected with missionary work which should be encouraged—that which is good and that which is good for something. If the proper spirit were to obtain the Episcopal church would lead in the giving for missions. As it stands at present our Presbyterian bretheren lead us by a safe margin, but we hope we will soon lead our friends.

"It has been said that the uprising of the laymen has only been that they may turn around and sit down again. But this is not so. Many are not going to get back to the old rut. They are putting their shoulders to the missionary wheel with even more vigor than they showed when they started with the result that the movement instead of retrograding is ever pushing upward to a higher goal. Former Secretary of the Treasury Shaw has said that aptitude and industry spell success. We have the aptitude and it is therefore time for us to get busy and by our industry bring success along the line of preiodical giving for the missionary work.

"The Cincinnati convention proved that the laymen's movement was one in the right direction because it endorsed the movement and immediately following this came the endorsement of the House of Bishops. That does not make it look as though the matter were a dead issue."

Several instances with figures of the work from the field were given by the speaker all of which tended to awaken the interest of his hearers. He spoke of China, Japan and Korea as fields where immense strides had been successfully taken and declared that spasmodic giving for missions was unjust to the Church as well as to the fellows who had the spasm.

George S. Clay, Howard Fleming, J. A. Lane and F. W. Iredell approved of the work in short speeches. Rev. C. H. Mallery declared that it was not a favor that Christians were to confer upon non-Christians, but a manifest duty, as Christianity was the rightful inheritance of every man, woman and child in the world.

Upon a motion of Mr. Iredell, the following permanent committee for missionary work among the men of the four Episcopal churches was appointed: George W. Holstein, chairman, E. F. Feickert, F. W. Iredell, Dr. E. S. Krans, Homer Smith, J. A. Lane, S. D. Lounsbury, John J. Jewet and N. P. Rogers. This committee arranged the dinner of last evening.

Close inspection of a sugar basket causes surprise and wonder. "How beautifully and perfectly made," one exclaims. "Did Mr. Demolli make that?" "Yes," comes the reply, "and Mr. Demolli gives to every detail of his catering, confectinery and baking, the same scrupulous care and affect for a finished product as is seen in these sugar forms and designs. The merchants of Plainfield should exert every influence toward securing a trolley between here and Plainfield. A mile and a half of track extended either from the Arlington avenue line at the High School, or from the golf links and Park avenue, would be all that would be required to reach the village. THE BIB EFFECT.

Is One of the Winter Season's Charming Innovations.

Is Seen to Great Advantage In Evening Gowns, Both Plain and Elaborate, and Is Sufficient as Its Only Ornamentation.

Nothing in this season's styles is prettier than the bodice characterized by the bib effect, the fabric drawn up from the girdle and stitched into a draped or embroidered corsage.

It may be the entire ornament of a gown, the dainty little white satin evening frock, for example, with its tunic and bib of coral velvet. The upper part of the bodice is of all over embroidery with inserts of another pattern, and the stitched bib is caught by a velvet plastron.

Simplicity again is the keynote of the white louisine gown, with a lace yoke over silk and plaited chiffon drapery on the bodice. The bib is pointed with a broad hem, and four deep tucks at the bottom take the place of a girdle.

Rather higher than usual is the bib effect in a yellow silk crape, with handsome Chinese embroidery and two black velvet plastrons with gold net centers. The bodice should be shirred to the circular bib and gathered into the girdle.

A sort of double bib effect is given in a black chiffon gown over satin. The bodice is of all over embroidery veiled by a single instead of a double width of the chiffon. The doubled chiffon is stitched over the embroidery in cuirass style almost to the gold embroidery under the chemisette, and a little farther down the bodice there is another curve of this gold thread embroidery, matching that on the tunic edge.

The bib effect in simpler gowns for afternoon instead of evening wear may be given in the light blue self figured crepe de chine. Here there is a deep yoke of lace trimmed net, partly veiled by gathered chiffon, which ends in a line of cording. From this is extended the bib, also gathered and stitched into the folded tunic with the shirred and corded plastron.

In our illustration, to instance the possible elaboration of the bib, there is the stunning evening gown of gold lace over satin, where the bib is of the heavily edged lace, brought up to the tulle fold at the top of the bodice and fastened, as is the triple tunic, with a huge black silk button. This, indeed, is the apotheosis of the bib effect.

But, simple or elaborate, it is pretty and makes a charming trimming for the gown of soft material.

Mary Dean

Some New Color Effects.

Among the smartest of the new color effects that will be worn indoors this winter are smoke gray over apricot, yellow, rose, coral and orange linings of a high sheen satin.

Gray and yellow and gray and orange are in particular favor.

A house frock of this type was of dull gray chiffon made over burnt orange satin, the corsage and edge of the draperies outlined in bands of dull silver trimming combined with occasional dots of orange embroidery silk outlined in silver thread.

Where one has a plain gray voile or net frock that has seen its best days it can be made very up to date as a house gown by putting it over a yellow or coral lining.

Collodion for painting upon painful eruptions may be had at any drug store, and the flexible form should be preferred.

Gout may arise from many causes. The use of improper, highly flavored and rich foods or the scanty fare of poverty has much to do with bringing on the complaint. A simple but varied diet is the best.

AN UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIAL.

The lady with the glinty eyes and the pink elbows bounced into the grocer's shop and accosted the proprietor. "Morning," she said, affably. "I'd like another dozen o' them eggs you sent me yesterday."

"Certainly," smiled the shopkeeper. "Are you making puddings again?"

"No, thank you," sniffed the lady. "I want those eggs for somethin' more profitable this time. They're goin' to get me let off this quarter's rent."

"Indeed! Are you going to offer your landlord some appetizing pancakes?"

"Not exactly," said the customer. "You see, it's this way. He's comin' round this morning for the money, so if I crack them eggs and hide 'em in our back yard it's ten to one he'll cry quits about the rent, thinkin' it's the drains."

Then the shopkeeper's professional smile quickly faded.

No, Thank You!

"A short distance ahead," said the guide, "there is a narrow place in the tunnel which we call the 'Fat Man's Misery.'"

"If I go through it," asked the portly gentleman, "do I get any rebate on the expense of this exploration?"

"No, sir."

"Then you go ahead with the rest of the party. I'll just stay here till you come back."

Rural Opposition.

"I see that some Texas congressman has just interduced a bill to hev th' mails carried by airships."

"He's a dum fool, by jimminy. I wunt stand for it. Ef Hank Wintergreen thinks we're goin' to fly our mail boxes on kite-tails so'se he c'n c'lect th' letters as he scoots along in his rural d'livery airyplane, he's all-fired mistaken, by heck!"

Just So.

"There had been a family row.

"Well," remarked the alleged head of the house, "a man learns a few things when he gets married. Yes, sir, a man lives and learns."

"That may be," retorted the feminine half of the sketch, "but the school of experience doesn't bar coeds."

INCORPORATING A MARRIAGE MONOPOLY.

Jim—I see that a New Jersey man has married over a dozen women in that state.

Jack—Well, New Jersey is the state where nearly all the trusts and monopolies are chartered, isn't it?

The Poor Poet.

A living, simply writing rhyme,
Somehow he couldn't make it;
Although he thought his stuff sublime,
No editor would take it.

Slighted Opportunity.

"So you think music is a waste of time?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Wallop. "I understand some of these professional pianists practise five hours a day. Think what golf players they might have become in that time."

Self-Sacrifice.

"I thought I told you to stop smoking," said the doctor, severely.

"I tried to," replied the patient, "but I haven't the heart to disappoint the members of my family who look to me for prize coupons and baseball pictures.

FARM AND BEE

WINTERING BEES.

Sufficient and Careful Preparations Should Be Made For Their Weathering Severe Cold.

More than half of the winter and early spring losses of colonies are traceable to the bees not being properly prepared for their long winter's sleep.

November is the month when the average beekeeper begins to bestir himself in the matter, and the earlier things are attended to the better. The tendency is more and more in favor of outdoor wintering, as bees so wintered are not so prone to dysentery or spring dwindling.

If the colony is strong in bees and stores and properly packed there is slight danger of excessive winter losses. Often in spite of all we can do an occasional colony will perish, but natural swarming the following season will in a large measure make up for the loss.

A few years ago one of the most extensive beekeepers in New York state lost many of his strongest colonies, and he could not understand it. Inquiry revealed the fact that the fall flow was very light, due to the dry weather, and the bees accordingly had reared little or no late brood, so the colony had gone into winter quarters with practically nothing but old bees, and they naturally died of old age.

The bees that live through the winter and constitute the colony in the spring are generally bees that have been hatched after Aug. 1, and a little stimulative feeding from Aug. 1 to Sept. 1 will insure the presence of bees of just the right age for wintering. Where there is a steady flow during August and September stimulative feeding is not necessary.

Unite all weak colonies early and thus be sure of wintering one strong one rather than losing two weak ones.

For outdoor wintering see that every hive has a honey board or a piece of canvas over the frames of the brood body that reaches clear out to its edges.

Over this place an empty section or extracting super and fill it full of planer shavings or hay chaff. Then tie about a dozen thicknesses of newspapers around all sides of the hive and super and tack around this a piece of heavy waterproof paper.

Do not allow the paper to close the entrance to the hive. Over all slip a shallow telescope cap of wood, easily made, and covered with waterproof paper. Contract the entrance of the hive with a piece of lath or shingle.

Bees to be wintered in cellars or special repositories should be carried in about the 25th of the month or when a cold spell comes on after three or four mild days, during which the bees have had a cleansing flight. These hives should be placed in a dark cellar and have the entrances to the hives fully open with lids on and the temperature of the cellar kept between 45 and 65 degrees.

RACK FOR SEED CORN.

Few Kernels Spoil When Using Such Device, Which Can Be Made Rat Proof.

The rack shown here has proved to be of great value to those employing it for the storage of seed corn.

In dimensions it is as follows: It is twelve feet long, six feet high and two feet wide. The uprights are of 2 by 3 inch stuff and side pieces 2 by 1 inch. The shelves are eight inches apart. Over each shelf is stretched two foot wire poultry fencing of two inch mesh. The ears are laid on these shelves in such a way that no two ears touch each other. In this way only a few kernels of each ear rest upon the wires, and the air can circulate freely through the whole rack.

Storage Rack For Seed Corn.

These racks may be readily converted into mouse and rat proof closets by covering them on sides, ends, top and bottom with wire screening. If this is done the screening on one side should be put on in the form of hinged doors.

Danger of Fighters In Flock.

Don't tolerate a fighting cock among your flock. If your flocks are inclined to fight all the time let one of them out while the other is penned. Sometimes filing the beak and spurs will take the fighting instinct out of both for a time.

Fighting is bad not only for the cocks, but also for the excitement it creates among the hens. Do not tolerate it for a day. Many a valuable cock has been mangled and ruined for a season in this manner.

Beekeeping Is Cheap.

Farmers cannot hire cheaper laborers than bees. They will work for nothing and board themselves, and the farmer can take the product of their labor and then keep them contented by skillful management.

The Harvest Moon

A Novelization of the Drama of AUGUSTUS THOMAS

By GEORGE HENRY PAYNE

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY AUGUSTUS THOMAS

This is a realistic story of the great, romantic, throbbing world of the modern stage. Revealing the good as well as some of the evil of stage life, it also deals authoritatively with dramatic technique in an interesting way. Through all the story runs the engrossing narrative of the talented young playwright, Willard Holcomb, and of the beautiful young home girl, Dora Fullerton, who went out alone into the world to endeavor to win fame and fortune on the stage. The recital of her experiences, of her struggles and of her awakening forms one of the really brilliant novels of the times.

CHAPTER I.

THE Cannon Ball, as it was called, picked up its principal passengers at Southampton every Monday morning in time to get them into New York for their more or less important business, and it was because of the character of its freight that somebody once said that it was the most representative train in America.

It was a sunburned, vigorous, athletic looking aggregation of humanity that filled this train—tall, vigorous women who looked as if they never doubted, perfectly sure of themselves and their possessions, from a dog and an automobile or two to a lover or perhaps a husband; women who knew and yet were perfectly calm in all their knowledge; women who lived much in the open air, a rapidly increasing habit that might argue that we are at the atavistic stage when we are returning to the joyous life and courage of our paleolithic ancestors, who lived as they breathed, with wild, rampant unrestraint—peace be to Friedrich Nietzsche!

The train pulled out of Southampton at 7:10, and among its precious freight, even at this early hour, all eager eyed, all clear eyed and ready for the day's fight, were a young man and woman who found their seats with little difficulty and immediately started an earnest conversation.

"I tell you, Dora, you are wrong," said the young man. He was hardly over thirty and a trifle too stout for his age. Every lineament in his face showed his sincerity and displayed his good breeding, and it was clearly evident that he was endeavoring to conceal something—his love.

"Graham"—the girl spoke in a lower voice than her companion, her knowledge of effect being greater—"Graham, it is quite possible that you are speaking the truth, but there are things I cannot tell." She hesitated. "I am going to do this thing that you dislike so much and even I fear. I am going to do it no matter what the outcome is."

The young man sat back in his seat. His face reddened. "You are going to do it no matter what the outcome is?" His masculine sense led him to lay the unnecessary emphasis on the last phrase.

"Yes," the girl said slowly.

It was a blow to the young man. His fastidious though not ostentatious dress, the care with which he gesticulated, his deferential attitude toward this representative of the sex, helped to show why such a final statement from a woman was a shock.

He looked into the face of the girl as she sat beside him and was frankly amazed. She was a thin, slight creature, a splendid representative of a most intelligent refinement, a woman of superior education and environment, the daughter of Professor Fullerton of the greatest university in America—his own—a woman whose beauty could only be appreciated by those who knew how much culture and intellect make for beauty. And yet she sat beside him so calmly, saying that she would go through what to his mind was a degrading experiment no matter what the outcome might be.

And that outcome?

He had led a fairly decent life. It had had its valleys, its dales, but had never struck the lowest depths, though he knew something of the underworld, as every young man of his position in New York city did. He even knew one or two chorus girls, and this experience had led him to have no respect for theatricals. And now here was the woman whom he loved, the woman to whom he was engaged, the woman of his own class, as he considered it, who said frankly that she was going on the stage and that she would win success no matter what the outcome might be. Even his limited world knowledge told him that the last place to seek success with such unbridled spirit was the theater.

"But, Dora," when the young man had finally recovered himself, "if you were going with a big company or under a big management I could understand it. You are the daughter of Professor Fullerton of Harvard, you are a woman of education and refinement, and here you are going out with"—he hesitated—"a fly by night proposition that may last only a couple of weeks. I would not object so much if you would try some amateur theatricals first and see if you have the talent you think you have. You are going out in the theater dead cold; you are going to play a series of one night stands, the troupe is a cheap one, and the whole atmosphere is wrong."

"Graham"—the girl spoke slowly, having evidently cultivated the habit of thinking before she spoke—"this is not only my opportunity, but it is my escape. If I had not been driven into this I might have gone on as you suggest, under more pleasant auspices, but—I want those one night stands, I want the inconspicuous company, I want"—here her voice broke—"I want the low association."

"Dora!"

"Oh, Graham, I don't mean what you are thinking. I don't mean what Aunt Cornelia is continually saying, that I have low instincts, but I want to know the people of the stage—it's humanity. What right have I to use my father's name to bolster myself up, to get a position in New York, go on as a maid, saying 'The carriage waits' and have my pictures printed in the papers and get attention more than is given to the woman of ability simply because I am the daughter of Professor Fullerton? You abhor yellow journalism and yet you encourage it. I got my position as Miss Fullerton without influence and that—to me—is the only way to start. If I fail I fail; if I succeed I succeed. If I have any of the ability I think I have, if I have anything except the disreputable instincts Aunt Cornelia thinks I have inherited, the credit for my success will be mine, and, Graham, dear, sooner or later, before Aunt Cornelia has killed me absolutely, I am going to do something in this world that will be absolutely mine."

Now and then somebody passed the earnest couple, but they were too wrought up with their own problem to pay much attention to casual acquaintances. As they neared Long Island City the young man made his final plea.

"Dora," he said, and there was a little break in his voice, "I don't want you to do this thing, but if you must, why not let us get married first and let me go with you?"

The girl shook her head sadly. "I am sorry, Graham, but I am afraid that, too, is over. I suppose"—and a humorous twinkle came back in her eyes—"marriage with you would even make Aunt Cornelia feel that there was some possible hope for me. But I am not going to marry yet. I don't feel that I should. I am going to work out this idea. If it fails, why, I suppose I will come back, eat humble pie and accept the husband who will be picked for me."

"You know you picked me yourself," said the young man, just a trifle angrily.

"We are both very young yet," she said. By this time the exodus from the train to the ferry kept them busy with the exchange of salutation and conversation that marked the Monday morning entrance into New York.

"Then it is quite true you are going on the stage, Miss Fullerton?" asked one of Graham's friends who joined them.

"Quite true. You will come and see me, won't you?"

"I will buy a row," cried the young man, "and we will have supper afterward."

"Will we?" asked Miss Fullerton. "And that is the way, is it, that the gilded butterflies in New York invite the ladies of the stage to supper?"

The young man looked blank.

"In other words," continued Miss Fullerton, feeling sure that she would drive home her point, "the invitation becomes a command, with due condescension."

They were climbing into a taxicab at the Thirty-fourth street side of the ferry when Graham made his final plea.

"Doesn't that show you, Dora, how impossible the whole thing is? Jackson's a nice fellow. He never would have thought of asking you to go to supper with him in that way if it were not for the fact that you are going on the stage. The moment you do it you lose everything—your friends."

"You don't lose any friends," responded Dora, "that you would not be much better off without, and you don't lose your self respect in any honest work."

It was the same argument all the way up to the theater at Forty-fourth street—the more or less piteous plea for another appointment to talk the matter over, while she kept steadfastly to her resolution not to let his obstinacy wear her down.

There was a little flutter of the heart as she stepped to the stage door, for she was entering into a new world—a wonder world.

Graham still tagged along up to the very steps. As she held out her hand to say goodby to him a man who was about to enter the theater bowed to him and said, "Mr. Graham, I believe." Graham looked at him, a little puzzled.

"Holcomb is my name," said the young man in a very pleasant voice and with an enunciation that carried weight in itself; "we've met at the Players club."

"Oh, yes," said Graham, "I remember very well. You are a friend of Jim Hale. Are you playing with this company?"

"We begin rehearsals today," said Holcomb.

"Well, that's luck, by gad!" said Graham. "Miss Fullerton, may I introduce Mr. Holcomb?" A few other deft, clever phrases, for young Winthrop was not without mentality, and he asked Holcomb to give Dora the benefit of his knowledge and experience.

"I have not had much experience," said Mr. Holcomb, "as I have only been on the stage two years. Whatever I have had, however, shall be most decidedly at her service, and I will begin now. We have three minutes to get on the stage and be ready for the 10 o'clock call, and it will be a call in a double sense if we are late, believe me. I will see you again," he said and bowed to Graham. They disappeared into the dark alley of the theater, and the disconsolate young lover, beating vigorously with his cane at the stoop railings and ash cans along the street, with hat pulled down over his eyes, walked straight to the nearest cafe.

Graham Winthrop and Willard Holcomb were young men of characters that widely diverged. Winthrop's family, long of great wealth, guaranteed him a position in the social world which was unquestionably secure and impressive to those numerous ambitious personages who aim and yearn to achieve an entry into fashion's exclusive world. But Holcomb, whose gentlemanly qualities were no less developed than those of Winthrop, was dependent on his own resources and capabilities for his rise or fall. His progenitors had left him a good name; that was all. His fate was in his own hands. His ambitious nature, long denied the opportunities it craved because of his moderate circumstances, financially speaking, would not permit him to rest passively and watch events occur. Society, in the sense of fashionable preference, meant little to him, except as a phase of life affording a subject for study and for analysis. Its evanescent diversions, so cherished by Graham Winthrop, required what seemed to Holcomb profligate waste of time and energy. He had work to do. It was a man's work in a world of men, and Willard Holcomb thrilled with the desire to show his worth as a man in the affairs of men.

But he must have his opportunity to make his start. Probably he would earn or win this opportunity himself. Perhaps chance would work in his favor. The most important affairs of life are frequently decided by the mysterious evolutions of what men call chance. All this was within the philosophy of Willard Holcomb, and yet he did not imagine, of course, that his momentary and entirely unexpected meeting with Graham Winthrop and Dora Fullerton was to leave an imprint on his life and career that not even death could erase.

CHAPTER II.

IT had been in a way a fascinating two weeks, with now and then periods of despondency, the result of the voltaic shocks that were administered to Dora's sensitiveness. She had known when she undertook the task that there would be things disagreeable in it and had simply made up her mind that, no matter what occurred, she would go through it bravely and have at least to her credit the fact of concluding one experience without wavering.

The first two or three days nothing at all had occurred at rehearsals that in any way disturbed her equanimity. In fact, it was all interesting, exciting and, as far as she could observe, as refined as anything in her own exclusive life. Just the same as other men and women they came, they attended to business, they went, seemingly they met only on the stage, they were deferential toward one another and always extremely polite. They were particularly polite toward her.

It was during the fourth day's rehearsal that she received her first shock. The beetle browed manager of the troupe, who had been rehearsing them with great suavity up to that time, came in a half hour late this particular morning and slapped his hands vigorously. Standing just a trifle unsteadily, with a cigar in his mouth, instead of the ordinary salutation, "Good morning, ladies and gentlemen," he bellowed from his coign of vantage in the orchestra, "Come on, kids; let's get to this thing."

"He's soused," remarked one of the actors to her in a confidential way as he passed to take his position up stage. It was the first time that anybody had spoken thus to her. With that one "break" on the part of the manager the attitude of the whole company changed. The remaining rehearsals had other jarring notes in them—profanity now and then—and as they got further into the play she began to hear some of the gossip, and following gossip there was the inevitable scandal. It was this last that made her fear most that she might not be able to go through it, but just as her fear was beginning to take possession of her Mr. Holcomb, who had maintained during the entire period of rehearsals an attitude of respect and reserve, came to her rescue.

It was as they came out one warm August afternoon, both worn out by the exertion and the heat, that instead of parting at the corner of Sixth avenue, as they usually did, he suggested that they have something cooling to drink. She assented readily, and they went into a neighboring drug store.

"You are going through this splendidly," he said to her when they were seated.

"I am?" she faltered.

"Splendidly," he said. "At first I did not think you would be able to stand it, especially when old Bleiman came in intoxicated. I want you to know that I shall be very glad to be of any assistance to you that I can, and while, for your sake, it will not be too public—that assistance—it will always be ready."

"Not too public?" said Dora, turning a trifle red.

Holcomb looked a little embarrassed himself.

"I have been on the stage only two years," he said, "and I have learned one thing—that, while there is really no genuine cynicism there, there is just a trifling ever present suspicion. It has its own laws. It has its own conventions. They are different laws and different conventions from those which rule the rest of the world—the human world, I might call it. You remember yesterday when Ludlow volunteered to carry your grip?"

THE BEETLE BROWED MANAGER OF THE TROUPE.

"Yes," said Dora in amazement.

"You refused," said Holcomb. "Did you know, or was that just good luck?"

"I don't like him," replied Dora, "and I did not wish to be obligated to him or be obliged to put up with his company, even with the advantage of being relieved of the grip."

"Then you do not know the rule?" said Holcomb. "The rule is this—it is as those of the Medes and the Persians—the moment that an actor is seen carrying the grip of a feminine member of the same company it is assumed"—

"I don't think," said Dora, a little stiffly, "we need talk about it any more. I understand you."

But Holcomb's straightforward, manly attitude toward her, his occasionally brutal frankness when he suggested something to her which she knew was for her own good, made her look more and more toward him for invisible support.

They opened in a small town in New York state not far from Albany, and, though every other member of the company was downcast at the end of the performance, a new world had been opened up for Dora. The more experienced and the knowing ones in the company knew that they had what they described most peculiarly as a "flivver." They were able to look across the footlights and see in the crowded house the paucity of "live ones," as they denominated those who had paid for their admission to the theater, and they were able to distinguish between the noise and applause of the usher and the half hearted handclap of the theater goer, whose judgment was decidedly biased by the fact that it had cost him $1.50 to be where he was.

Dora was very much surprised and gratified at one discovery. She had expected little from the men and had anticipated the worst from the women. Barring Ludlow's objectionableness and Holcomb, who held an uneasy and unsettled place in her estimation, the men made little impression on her. But the women did. There were four of them besides herself in the company, and the serious, businesslike way in which they went at their work enthralled her. As they traveled along it was impossible to ignore the fact that one of them had a multicolored and almost multitudinous past, but she, on the other hand, was the most dignified of the whole troupe and even the most reserved.

In the second act of the play a dance hall was depicted, and here it was necessary for a thin, attenuated and also pretty woman of about thirty to appear as a gay coquette. Dora was not on the stage during this act, and for that she was extremely grateful. Her curiosity was excited from the very beginning as to the caliber of the woman who would play this part. The woman was without coarseness, and in addition she "did" a very good dance, which made her an additional and high priced member of the company.

RACING MECHANIC MUST HAVE NERVE.

When an Accident Occurs He Generally Gets the Worst of It.

The essential nature of the work performed by the mechanics of the various racing cars was remarkably emphasized during the grand prize meeting at Savannah. Several cars failed to finish and one was ruled off the course because of inefficient work of the mechanics. Those drivers who succeeded invariably insisted on sharing the credit with the men who rode with them.

A mechanic in a road race is a busy man, even though his name appears more often in the list of casualties than in headlines announcing the prize winners. His first duty is to keep a sharp lookout in the rear, warning his driver regarding the approach of faster cars. He is also supposed to keep track of the condition of three of the tires. He watches the lubrication system and regulates the flow of oil through the pump which he operates. He keeps track of the speedometer and renders a report whenever needed on the speed attained on various portions of the course. In addition, he hangs to the car—in itself a feat which would require the entire attention of a novice. In an accident, the driver has always a flash of warning. The mechanic usually has none, and for this reason is almost always the worst hurt of the two when something goes to smash.

Once in a while one of them decides that the clip is a bit too fast. An instance occurred at Savannah on the occasion of the E-M-F "30" car's final practice spin. Francis Lundgreen, of Atlanta, who has always ridden with Witt, descended after a lap at faster than a mile a minute clip, including the three slowdown turns, and offered a candid resignation.

"Frank," said he to Witt, "you're a nice fellow and a good driver. I'd as soon go over the bank with you as anybody I know. Your car is a bird; I don't blame you for thinking a lot of her. But, Frank, I don't want to ride with you in that race. You're going too fast. Down Ferguson avenue just now your speedometer for six miles stuck right between 80 and 82. You took all those S turns back there at 65 or faster. When you passed that 40-horsepower car back there I sprained my wrist hanging on. I'm through."

It is a cardinal principle of all racing never to urge a man who is reluctant to compete, and Francis' resignation was duly accepted. So, in the Tiedeman Trophy event, in which the E-M-F "30" led all its American rivals home at a speed of 55.28 for the 190.3 miles, a substitute rode in Francis' place, while Francis cheered valiantly from the E-M-F pit and stood ready with a gasoline can, which was never needed.

SIMPLE RIGHTEOUSNESS

Urged Against Brazen Effrontery in Politics and Civic Life.

BY REV. DR. C. E. HERRING.

Organized Goodness Needed to Cope With Evil—Men's League Suggested For Fight Against Saloon.

"A Man's Religion and a Man's Job," was the subject of a discourse by Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring at the First Presbyterian church, yesterday morning, in which the divine took occasion to praise Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson for the stand he took regarding the direct primary law in support of his stand for the candidate who was the choice of the Democratic party for United State Senator. He declared that "it would be an ignoble breach of trust not to carry out the principles" as enunciated prior to election.

Dr Herring also spoke plainly on the subject of intemperance, adding that the city needs the "weeding out of a few resorts which make Front street on Saturday night a disagreeable and disorderly place." In part Dr. Herring spoke as follows:

"Man wherever we find him in the world is naturally religious. He worships something. He believes in God or gods or spirits of some kind upon whom he is dependent. God has given us a revelation in the Bible that we may have the proper direction given to the natural instinct. The Bible centres our thought in Jesus Christ. Nineteen hundred years ago He taught the great lessons of life and there has come into the world no other teacher who has given us better teaching. Lord Lister, the greatest surgeon and bacteriologist of modern times, has said of Jesus Christ, "I have no hesitation in saying that, in my opinion, there is no antagonism between the religion of Jesus Christ and any fact scientifically established." but more than that which He has laid down. God has spoken in His Son and revealed to men the kind of lives they should lead and He holds them accountable. A man's religion does not consist in holding an annual meeting and listening to a sermon on immortality but in measuring ourselves according to the great standard which God has given to us in His Son, and in being exactly obedient to Him. A man may bestow charity at Christmas time which does not count in God's books if the motive has not been right, and God judges that. A man needs the religion of Christ that will touch him in every part of his life.

"That is the kind of a man that will give help to the community in which he lives, for in his life men will see his perfect sincerity and honesty. A man's job consists in helping his fellows live the right life. You cannot help your fellows to live the right life, if you don't live it yourself.

"I wish we might have in our city a "Men's League" composed of this type of men, whose aim would be not only to save men from sinful association but to strike at the conditinos that make them bad. I think that organized badness has so much power because goodness has not organized itself. It has frequently been said "if China awakes then look out." It might be said "If goodness would awake and organize as badness is awake and organized then organized badness would have to look out." Then why don't goodness awake. We are to be congratulated in having a man like Dr. Wilson as our Governor-elect. We admire the sturdy stand he is making for simple righteousness, against the brazen effrontery of men who are defying the popular will. It it a fight for principles against dollars. It is a fight of the special interests against the common good. It is a stand for the truth against perfidy. Just think of it. The platform on which Dr. Wilson was elected had in it "the principle of direct primaries in senatorial nominations" and the public voted for it. It is an ignoble breach of trust not to carry it out. How can we be expected to believe the promises of men who violate so openly the principles of the platform they promised to carry out. We may differ on the currency and on the tariff but we cannot on questions of common honesty.

"We need a Men's League to cleanse our city from its drunkenness whose purpose should be not only to serve the drunkards but the destruction of that which makes them drunk. We need the weeding out of a few of our resorts which make Front street on Saturday night a disagreeable and disorderly place.

"This is the age when we hear of the work of Laymen. My hope is that we may have in our city an organized body of men who will have a passionate enthusiasm for civic righteousness and who will be continuously loyal to their supreme commander, the Lord Jesus Christ.

MISS BLANCHE SMALLEY BRIDE OF PHILLIP SWARTZMAN

Miss Blanche Smalley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hoppock, of Prospect avenue, Scotch Plains, and Phillip Scwartzman, of Westfield, were married Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, by Rev. George Greenwood, of the Methodist church, Westfield.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white net over silk, the bridesmaid was Miss Mamie Swartzman, of Westfield, a sister of the grom. She was gowned in white silk. Two little nieces of the bride, Dorothy and Blanche Smalley, were flower girls. The best man was Walter D. Smalley, of Scotch Plains, a brother of the bride.

After congratulations were offered a supper was served and the couple departed on a wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside in the Hollingsworth cottage on Valley road, Scotch Plains. The couple received many handsome gifts. Guests were present from Plainfield, New York, Westfield, Garwood and Scotch Plains.

JONAS LIE'S WORK WINS FAVORABLE COMMENT

Jonas Lie is now occupying his new studio at 60 South Washington Square, New York city. For the benefit of those interested and those who did not get the opportunity to see his paintings while they were on exhibition at the Madison Galleries, the studio will be open every Friday and Saturday. Mr. Lie's exhibition was a great success; the entire New York press speaking in the most laudable and enthusiastic way about his work, stirring the New York art world to an unusual degree.

Mr. Lie's painting, "Fishermen and Sunrise," now on exhibition at the Corcoran Gallery at Washington, has been especially selected for the 108th annual exhibition at Philadelphia. Mr. Lie will not hold an exhibition in Plainfield, as usual, and therefore invited his friends to his New York studio to see his work.

SCOTSMEN ORGANIZE MACKENZIE CLAN

Clan MacKenzie, order of Scottish clans, was organized with about forty members on Saturday night and bids fair to be one of the strongest orders in the city. The other officers elected Saturday night were: Past chief, William Shides; tanist, John M. Donaldson; recording secretary, William Spalding; financial secretary, Donald McPherson; treasurer, John Calder; chaplain, William Doig; senior henchman, Andrew Roxbury; junior henchman, Robert J. Among those present were Royal Deputy John Pentland, of Newark, and Past Royal Deputy William Boyd, of this city. On next Saturday evening the new officers will institute the clan and delegates from all over this State and New York will be in attendance. The meeting ended Saturday night by all hands joining in "Auld Lang Syne."

HAPPY FRANK BURNELL

Nine-Year-Old Colored Boy Didn't Mind Being Kidnapped.

SANG FOR HIS BREAKFAST.

Brought From Newark Against His Will Finds Quarters In a Cell —Mother Takes Him Home.

Little Frank Burnell, a nine-year-old colored boy who gave his address as 95 Sheffield street, Newark, woke up in police headquarters this morning and wondered where he was. The last thing he remembered last night was being brought in before Captain Frederickson and put to bed.

This morning Master Frank amused the police court attendants with the story of how he got to Plainfield and incidentally performed several stunts with his nimble feet. Frank said that just after leaving church last night on Broad street, Newark, he was asked by a white man to take a little ride. As the car was going in the direction of his home he accepted the invitation and boarded the trolley at the corner of Market and Broad streets.

When he got to where he thought he ought to get off the man held him down in the seat and kept him quiet until the car had reached the outskirts of Newark and then informed the youngster that he was going to take him to Plainfield. Frank fell sleep and the fellow got off, leaving him alone. Later another man under the influence of liquor interested himself in the boy and cared for him until he arrived in this city. The conductor then called Patrolman Birmingham, who took Frank to headquarters for the night. Meanwhile Captain Frederickson notified the Newark police.

When Mayor Fisk saw the lad this morning he became interested in the boy and asked him to dance and sing. This Master Burnell very cleverly did much to the amusement of everybody. A few coins found their way into his rather ragged pockets and he sang an encore. Just as the little performance was finishing Detective Sergeant John Flynn entered, accompanied by an old colored man. Master Burnell promptly walked up to the new-comer and greeted him with "How 'do, old sport, shake." The old negro failed to recognize the boy and it was found out later he had never seen the lad before.

Frank is small for his age, but is bright and said he felt bad about losing one day at school, where, he declares, that he ought to be right on his job "learning." He will be taken home this afternoon by his mother.

PLAINFIELD TRUST CO.'S HANDSOME CALENDAR OUT.

The handsome 1911 art calendar which The Plainfield Trust Company has had prepared for its customers is ready for distribution and will be given to any depositor who will call at the bank for it.

The calendar is a reproduction of the painting, "Looking for the Will" by W. Verplank Birney, who has been called "the painter of congenial friendship and good cheer," and this picture is said to be his best work. It represents a scene in the library of an English gentleman of the leisure class in the last century after the death of the Squire of the estate who—so far as is known—has died intestate. While successor to the land is settled by entail, the disposition of the rest of the property, in the absence of the will, is disturbing the minds of the executor and he and the solicitor are making a search among the books and papers of the deceased for the missing document. The story is an old one, but it points a moral that will never grow old—that "an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure."

Rev. Dr. Johnson at Trinity.

Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, of New Brunswick, occupied the pulpit both morning and evening at Trinity Reformed church, yesterday, preaching strong sermons to large congregations. He was warmly greeted by many friends who recall his excellent service as supply for the church, prior to the calling of Rev. John Y. Broek, the present pastor. In the morning, Dr. Johnson took for his topic, "The Christian Outside," 1st Timothy, 1-5, and the theme of his evening discourse was "Burden Bearing," a subject which the clergyman handled with ability and to the edification of his congregation.

EXPLOSION KILLS 19 AND INJURES SCORES

Houses for Half Mile Around Damaged When Big Power House is Blown up in New York.

Nineteen persons were killed and 200 injured shortly before 9 o'clock this morning by an explosion in the new power house of the New York Central Railroad Company at Fiftieth street and Lexington avenue. Buildings within a radius of half-mile of the power station were badly damaged. Of the injured, while a large majority of them have slight hurts, many are expected to die.

The cause of the explosion is not known. It is said to have been the ignitition of a lot of acetlyne which was stored in the station, the bursting of the battery of boilers which supplied the steam for generating electricity for the railroad, and to the setting off by accident of a charge of dynamite.

The police explanation of the accident leans to the acetylene theory and the railroad officials assert that dynamite could not have caused the wreck.

The accident happened at one of the busiest hours of the day, just when the streets near the station were filled with persons going to business. Suddenly there came an awful roar. Bits of the power station flew through the air. Trolley cars were overturned and people bowled over like straws.

Windows in all the buildings within a radius of a half-mile were broken and there was almost a panic among people in the vicinity. Four alarms of fire were given, and ambulances were summoned from many hospitals. The injured were rushed to the hospitals for treatment and the work of clearing away the debris and searching for the injured and dead bodies was begun at once. An investigation will be started at once.

RUSH OF TAXPAYERS TO AVOID LEGAL PENALTY.

The time limit for the payment of taxes in the borough previous to the ten per cent. addition, expires tomorrow night and as a result a rush has been on for several days. The money has been pouring in on Collector Brown and he has taken in altogether about $50,000 of the $90,000 needed for municipal expenses. Over $6,000 was paid in today from 9 o'clock until noon.

In order to accommodate the late comers, Mr. Brown will keep the office open tonight and tomorrow night until 9 o'clock. Beginning Wednesday morning the interest will be added to all bills. The rush of the past few days has been capably handled by the collector and his assistant, Borough Clerk Fred A. Martin.

Davis; trustees, Charles A. Flynn, Dennis O'Keefe and John Lamaire. The camp will hold a banquet on January 12.

Firemen Removed Ice Danger.

A leak in the leader pipe on the brick building at Manning avenue and Somerset street caused a great mass of ice to form all along the side this morning. It became so dangerous that the fire department was appealed to as a means of getting it down. The men responded by raising ladders and chopping the mass away. While at work in this way, a huge block fell from above and struck Fireman William Hogan in the face, inflicting a sever gash.

P. S. R. CHRISTMAS GIFT

MEANS EXPENSE OF $125,000.

3,500 Motormen and Conductors Share In Nine Per Cent. Raise In Effect On New Year's Day.

An increase in wages for the motormen and conductors in the employ of Public Service Railway will go into effect January 1. With most of the men it will mean a raise of about nine per cent. and it is estimated that it will cost the company close to $125,000 per year in the shape of higher payrolls.

There are about 3,500 motormen and conductors in the employ of the company and the new scale of wages will go into effect on all the divisions, including the Bergen division, which until recently was the New Jersey and Hudson River Railway and Ferry Company property. Not only are the present employes to be benefitted but the rate of pay for newcomers will also be placed on a higer level.

At present the wage scale of the company for platform men is 21 cents per hour for first year men; 22 cents for second year men; 23 cents for third to tenth year, and 24 cents for those who have been in the company's employ more than ten years. Under the new schedule first year men will receive 22 cents an hour; second year men 23 cents; third to tenth year men 24 cents and those who have served ten or more years 24½ cents. While this increases the rate paid for the first three mentioned classes one cent an hour a very large percentage of the men are in the present first and second year classes so that these men will profit by the raise in wages and change in classification at the same time giving them an increase of two cents an hour over their present wages. For instance the man who began work as a first year man in 1910 at 21 cents an hour becomes a second year man in 1911 and will be paid 23 cents an hour. The second year man of 1910 will be the third year man of 1911 and his pay will be 24 cents instead of 22 cents an hour.

Notices of the increases will be posted in the car barns under orders of General Manager Danforth and Superintendent of Transportation Bolen and the reminder will come as a sort of Christmas gift from the company. The order to raise the pay of the men is part of the action taken by the company a year ago when an increase in wages was put into effect with the promise that a further increase would be made January 1, 1911, with a still further

In addition to raising the scale of wages the Public Service Railway put into effect a minimum weekly wage of $10.50 so that the men on the extra list would get something for their time if compelled to wait around the car barns. Naturally efforts are made to keep the men employed as nearly full time as possible but during the past eleven months the minimum wage rate cost the company something like $500 for waiting time.

NEARLY SEVERS TONGUE IN COASTING ACCIDENT.

Nearly severing a portion of his tongue by biting through it in a coasting accident Saturday morning, the five-year-old son of George L. Listman, physical director at the Montclair Y. M. C. A., is under medical treatment. The boy was injured by falling from a sled while coasting with his sister on a hill near his home at 68 North Willow street, Montclair.

Examination showed a wound midway in the tongue nearly an inch long. It is thought, however, that the injury will not prove serious. In their play the children had fastened a box on the sled, on which they sat. The fastenings of this had come loose, causing the accident.

Mr. Listman was former physical director of the local Y. M. C. A.

"IT'S A GREAT IDEA" WRITES ONE RECRUIT

If there is anyone having doubts as to whether there are Good Fellows in Plainfield, he or she should look over the mail received this morning addressed to "Santa Claus" and received at this office. It would do one's heart good just to read the fine letters of encouragement and material help. The plan is working bully. What, you don't know what the plan is—you haven't read about it? If you have rich red blood in your veins and are every inch a man or woman, peruse the letter "To the Good Fellows of Plainfield," published today on page three. If you are not "One of God's Nobleman," don't waste your time.

Here's a sample of the letters received today:

If you have not enlisted in the Army of Good Fellows, do so today—your own Christmas will be the happier for doing so.

WHIRLED AROUND SHAFT AT POTTER PRESS WORKS

Angelo Scozzi, an oiler in the employ of the Potter Printing Press Works, nearly lost his life this morning while oiling the shafting in the shop. His clothing caught in a pulley and in an instant he was being whirled around the wheel at a fearful rate.

As soon as possible the machinery was stopped and Scozzi dropped to the floor unconscious. A hurry call brought the patrol wagon with Patrolmen Vanderweg and O'Gorman to the factory and Scozzi was removed to the office of Dr. P. B. Cregar, where temporary aid was given. Dr. Cregar ordered the injured man's removal to the hospital, where a further examination was made. It is believed that Scozzi is injured internally. He was badly lacerated and the clothing was almost completely stripped from the body.

ARE TO DISCUSS SENATORSHIP.

Gathering of Supporters of James E. Martine May Result In a Vigorous Campaign Throughout the State.

Brodhead, of this city, is in conference with Governor-elect Wilson and others at Trenton this afternoon, the subjectof their discussion being the United States Senatorial contest. Before leaving for the State capitol, Mr. Brodhead declared that he could but repeat what he had said when the news came to him that he had been elected from Calvin E. Brodhead.

Union county. This was that he considered that Mr. Martine was the rightful and logical candidate of the Democratic party, whose duty it would be to fulfill its campaign pledges. The party primaries, he added, decided who the candiate would be and as Mr. Martine won at the primaries it was the duty of the Democrats in the Legislature to send him to the United States Senate.

Among the others at the conference are State Senator Osborne, of Essex county, and Assemblyman Joseph Tumulty, of Hudson county. It will be decided this afternoon what plan of campaign will be waged to impress the legislators with their duty in this fight. It is believed that the Governor-elect will tell those at the conference that he will stump the State in the interests of James E. Martine and it will be decided where and when he will sepak.

One mass meeting is already being arranged to be held in Jersey City next week. Early next month a similar popular meeting will be held in this city.

A Great Jewelry Store
With Gigantic Stocks for Christmas

It is something to be able to invite you to choose your jewelry and silver gifts from the largest collection in the State. We're proud of our leadership. But that would count for little if, with this invitation to the gift-seeker, we could not give absolute assurance that our jewelry and silverware were of a high standard of quality and measured up in every particular with the best jewelry stores, except that we sell at lower prices.

Our jewelry comes from the identical sources of supply patronized by specialty jewelry stores. Our experience in selection is just as thorough as that of any other jeweler in town. This is as much a specialty jewelry store as any, for our jewelry man thinks jewelry, dreams jewelry, lives jewelry every day of his life—a specialist in every sense of the word, backed with almost unlimited capital and credit, so that he can go into the market and secure every advantage that any other jeweler is given and some advantages that do not come to the smaller dealers.

We only ask that you come in and see the beautiful things we have gathered for you. We only seek an opportunity to reveal this beauty to you and to quote you prices that you may make comparison with what you are shown in specialty jewelry stores.

An Introduction Sale of Solid Gold and Diamond Jewelry

To prove to those still steeped in prejudice against the department store, and to introduce our jewelry store to those unacquainted with its splendid stocks, especially to those who have only recently made Newark their abiding place, we are going to make a remarkable

TO THE "GOOD FELLOWS" OF PLAINFIELD

TO THE GOOD FELLOWS OF PLAINFIELD:

Just about this time last year I told you my story. You listened to it—you did more—you followed its spirit out in a bang-up style. I'm not claiming any credit for my story; I'm claiming credit for knowing that there are many Good Fellows in this fine old town of ours—royal chaps who don't do much preaching but when it comes to doing a good turn, well, they're there with the goods. This is no sermon that I'm handing you, it's a heart-to-heart talk with men with red blood in their veins, and here it is off last year's reel:

Last Christmas and New Year's eve you and I went out for a good time and spent from $10 to $200. Last Christmas morning hundreds of children awoke to an empty stocking—the bitter pain of disappointment that Santa Claus had forgotten them. Perhaps it wasn't our fault. We had provided for our own; we had also reflected in a passing way on those less fortunate than our own, but they seemed far off and we didn't know where to find them. Perhaps in the hundred and one things we had to do some of us didn't think of that heart sorrow of the child over the empty stocking.

Now, old man, here's a chance. I have tried for the last five years and ask you to consider it. Just send your name and address to The Daily Press—address Santa Claus—state about how many children you are willing to protect against grief over that empty stocking, inclose a two-cent stamp and you will be furnished with the names, addresses, sex, and age of that many children. It is then up to you, you do the rest. Select your won present, spend 50 cents or $50, and send or take your gifts to those children on Christmas eve. You pay not a cent more than you want to pay—every cent goes just where you want it to go. You gain neither notoriety nor advertising; you deal with no organization; no record will be kept; your letter will be returned to you with its answer. The whole plan is just as anonymous as old Santa Claus himself.

This is not a newspaper scheme. The Daily Press was asked to aid in reaching the good fellow by publishing this suggestion and to receive your communication in order that you may be assured of good faith and to preserve the anonymous character of this work. The identity of the writer of this appeal will not be disclosed. He assumes the responsibility of finding the children and sending you their names and guarantees that whatever you bestow will be deserved.

Neither you nor I get anything out of this, except the feeling that you have saved some child from sorrow on Christmas morning. If that is not enough for you then you have wasted time in reading this—it is not intended for you, but for the good fellows of Plainfield.

Perhaps a twenty-five cent doll or a ten cent tin toy wouldn't mean much to the children you know, but to the child who would find them in the otherwise empty stocking they mean much—the difference between utter disappointment and the joy that Santa Claus did not forget them. Here is where you and I get in. The charitable organizations attend to the bread and meat; the clothes; the necessaries; you and the rest of the good fellows furnish the toys, the nuts, the candies; the child's real Christmas.

GOOD FELLOW.

The Daily Press, one year ago, investigated the "good fellow" who wrote the above, looked him in the eye and put its O. K. on the plan. The cold blooded, blase representative who saw him wrote: "He made me feel, personally, that it would be really worth while in satisfaction to carry a little happiness to some children who otherwise wouldn't get any on Christmas eve." "Good Fellow" is not a professional philanthropist, he takes a drink, and even goes out at night with the boys for a mild good time—but he has taken care of from fifteen to twenty children a year in Plainfield. He said that a year ago last Christmas day he wished he had curtailed his holiday joy-making with the good fellows even more than he did, so that he might have had more money to gladden childish hearts.

The Worthy Grand Master of the lodge of Good Fellows has laid his plans for securing names through the Charity Organization Society.

This is how you can join the lodge of Good Fellows. Write a letter to "Santa Claus," care of The Daily Press, something like this:

I live at No.———— Street. I will be Santa Claus to 6 children.

John Jones.

The letter will go to Santa Claus. He will indorse on your letter the names and addresses of six children. That letter will be remailed to you. Then you get busy. That's all. Come on in, good fellows.

SITUATION UNCHANGED BY THE SMITH LETTER

Politicians in all parts of New Jersey and of both parties freely discussed the announcement of the Senatorial candidacy of James Smith, Jr., of Newark, Friday, but the eleven Essex County Assemblymen-elect to whom Mr. Smith sent his letter assenting to their invitation to him to become a public avowed candidate for the United States Senate maintained silence. There was nothing to indicate a break anywhere in their ranks toward the camp of ths Governor-elect, despite rumors that a break might come in some quarters of the Essex delegation at any time.

From Princeton came the information that Dr. Wilson was not ready to take any further steps in the controversy. There was no intimation of what course he will pursue, though it was pointed out that he has allowed to go without contradiction the statement that he will tour the State and speak for upholding the direct primary vote of last September, which made the party candidate, James E. Martine, of Plainfield.

It is believed that the announcement by Mr. Smith marks the beginning of a battle to the finish for party supremacy between Mr. Smith and Dr. Wilson, and that the latter will appeal directly to the people to enforce his stand. He will be without an organization in the sense that an organization is regarded by politicians.

With the Smith forces holding Essex County in control, there is great interest in the Hudson County situation, which means the control of thirteen votes in the joint session of the Legislature. Senator Osborne, of Essex and Senator Gebhardt, of Hunterdon, are pledged Wilson followers. Senator Silzer, of Middlesex, has said that he was for the primary result and is "not given to making political somersaults."

In Gloucester County, according to an announcement made yesterday, the Smith forces have lost an Assembly vote. The situation in other parts of the State is not clear, but with the coming of a Democratic conference early next week in Trenton there is said to be a certainty of a distinct alignment of the forces.

James E. Martine, the primary choice of the New Jersey Democrats for the United States Senator, says that Mr. Smith's letter is a mere incident of the contest and that he does not consider that it will make any impression on the members of the next legislature or on the people generally.

"I have not one word to say against Mr. Smith. The newspapers and the people are attending to that. Mr. Smith never was, is not now, nor ever can be a candidate legitimately. He lost his chance when he neglected or feared to go before the people in the primary campaign."

PLAYGROUND SUPERVISOR TELLS OF RESULTS HERE

"Organized Play as a Factor in Child Development" is the title of an article in School Progress for November, written by Miss Harriet E. Moe, one of the supervisors of the playgrounds at the local schools. Quoting Froebel, Miss Moe says that "motor" education was not neglected for the "mental" nor vice versa. He believed that each function had to be educated if the child is to be fully developed physically and mentally, and agrees with him.

Miss Moe declares that the playground is the best place to teach the child how to play. It is the place where the play instinct can be called in to do its proper work—in the motor, moral and ethical training of the child. Such being the advantages gained by educative play every city should have playgrounds.

"During the past summer," continues Miss Moe, "the Queen City of New Jersey, Plainfield, joined the ranks by opening two playgrounds under the supervision of a playground commission whose efforts were not fruitless. Splendid results having been achieved during the ten weeks of their use. Mothers were immensely pleased with the new idea and a regular program was followed daily.

Miss Moe declares that the improvement in personal cleanliness was one of the most remarkable results of the work and the general conditions of the children at the end of the season proved the value of the playgrounds, not alone to the children but to the mothers whose burdens were lifted in just such measure as their children were provided with non-mischief making occupations after school hours.

AS TO CONFIDENCE.

At the conclusion of his report on the water supply question, Mr. Fuertes, the expert, wisely observes: "It is, after all, a matter of confidence." That is, can the city safely rely on the water company for adequate supply of pure and wholesome water for a long term of years as securely as it might rely on a municipal plant? If the company should become unable or unwilling to fulfill the most carefuly drawn contract,a lawsuit,it must be admitted, would not provide an adequate remedy. Controversey and litigation cannot make a substitute for one of the prime necessities of life Therefore, in considering the question of renewing the contract with the water company we must ascertain whether confidence can be reposed in the company. And in reaching a conclusion on that question we must judge the future by the past. Before doing so, however, it should be said that the matter of supplying Plainfield with water cannot be decided on "general principles."

The situation we have to deal with here is peculiar, and we have no example to guide us On general principles a city like Plainfield should own works to supply its inhabitants with water. Such a plant, under ordinary conditions, is not difficult to operate. Few employes are required, and if rightly managed such a plant would be self-supporting. Experience, however, is quite apt to differ with plausible theories.

The desirable and obtainable supply here has been appropriated for the last twenty years by a corporation that has been furnishing it not only to Plainfield but to seven or eight other growing communities. The fact that water for all the towns is drawn from wells here naturally causes a general demand that we should be served first and to the full limit of our requirements. Whether that argument is sound as a matter of law, there is a great difference of opinion, and we are not prepared to discuss it.

As to what confidence may be reposed in the company we can only judge the future by the past. So far as supply is concerned there has been little trouble. At the time of the Letcher fire, the claim was made by the firemen that the hydrants were frozen when water was sorely needed. But the only substantial controversy between the city and company occurred last summer. At that time, the company served notice on the municipality that it was unable to comply with the contract requirement as to pressure owing to the copious use of water for irrigating purposes, not alone in Plainfield but in nearby towns. As the pressure for fire purposes was far from what it should have been, the city co-operated with the company in requiring the discontinuance of lawn sprinklers and hose. This resulted in the restoration of the hydrant pressure. It was alleged by the company at that time that water was being used at the rate of something like 170 gallons per capita every day and this was because of the excessive heat and drought. That is about twice the ordinary consumption.

To be perfectly fair, it should be said that in the contract with patrons there is a clause authorizing the company to restrict the use of water in case of necessity and as a matter of fact the company did refund a proportionate part of the rate paid for use of sprinklers and hose. It should also be added that several months before this happened the company began an extensive enlargement of its pumping station to provide for just such occurrences. But after all is said that can be said, it is still true that for some days the company could not and did not maintain the pressure required by the contract. The incident showed that the company did not consider itself bound to give the people of Plainfield any preference over other towns in the distribution of water in time of scarcity. What has occurred in the past may, and is likely to occur in the future.

Other cities and towns have suffered more severely than Plainfield during the prolonged drought that has prevailed in this part of the country for more than three years, and which still continues. The trouble has not been confined to towns in which private corporations supply water—it has been quite general. A private corporation serving the public may be and generally is too economical to operate its plant generously for its patrons, or to provide sufficiently for the future. Similar works carried on by the public authorities may be, and in many cases are, operated extravagantly to make business or places for those who like to live on the public, and there is a constant temptation to extend such works beyond the range of paying business. This is sometimes done to discharge political debts, or because it is difficult for some officials to say "No," when in the interest of the public it should be said emphatically. As we all know, there is a disposition among the common run of municipal officeholders to get something from the public treasury for the benefit of some of their constituents or "friends," rather than to do something for the general welfare.

But to get away from generalities, if it is true, as the expert says, that the water company cannot be expelled from Plainfield, and that is a matter for the courts to decide, would not a municipal plant drawing water from the same source as the company hasten the time when the supply beneath Plainfield would be exhausted and force the city and the company to seek other sources of supply.

THERE'S A REASON.

James Smith, Jr., appears to be in sore straits to bolster up his "claims" to the United States Senatorship. In his morning newspaper, the Newark editor makes a big spread on the Camden Courier's adverse comment on Martine. This latter paper by the way is supposed to be controlled by one "Davy" Baird, whose fame we all know. First page, top of column position is given to a bitter attack made by Joe Cannon on Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson for the latter's stand on the matter. If "Uncle Joe" and "Davy" Baird want "Jim" Smith at Washington, "there's a reason." And again we remark, you "cannot fool all the people all the time," Mr. Smith, even if you did during the Wilson campaign.

WAS PRAYING ON TRACK AS TRAIN CAME ALONG.

As the 5 o'clock train of the Morristown and Erie Railroad was approaching Morristown Friday night the engineer saw a man in a kneeling position on the track. He blew the whistle, but the man didn't move, so the train was brought to a stop. The conductor alighted, grabbed the fellow by the shoulder and started to pull him off the track.

"Leave me alone," said the stranger.

"You're in the way of the train," replied the conductor.

"The Lord has appointed this place for me to pray and I am doing so here."

"The train will run you down."

"Which think you the strongest, the Lord or the train?" retorted the man, and then the conductor told him he thought the train was in this particular case.

The conductor said Friday night that he thought the man was an old resident of Hanover by the name of John Pruden. This is the third or fourth time, according to the conductor, that he has been found in this position on the track.

HOW BRITAIN DOES IT.

There is a lad in Boston, the son of a well known writer of history, who has evidently profited by such observations as he may have overheard his father utter touching certain phases oof British empire-building. At any rate the boy showed a shrewd notion of the opinion not infrequently expressed in regard to the righteousness of "British occupation." It was he who handed in the following essay on the making of a British colony:

"Africa is a British colony. I will tel you how England does it. First she gets a missionary; when the missionary has found a specially beautiful and fertile tract of country he gets all his people 'round him and says: Let us pray, and when al the eyes are shut up goes the British flag."—Harper's Magazine.

Woman's Love of Dress.

The real defense for women in their growing love for dress seems to us to be this, that dress is a recreation, one of thos natural recreations which grow out of necessity and out of everlasting emotions. It is nothing against a recreation that the frivolous rich suffer from overindulgence in it, or the frivolous poor from that craving for it which has iats roots in privation. The love of dress among women—especially, we think, in its modern manifestations, which emphasizes variety—makes, we believe, for social balance.—London Spectator.

HOW ORDER IS KEPT IN THE COUNTY JAIL

In the Union county jail, as in other penal institutions throughout the world, order is kept in cell corridors by the aid of prison trusties. While Warden Dodd and his assistants are always on the watch for any outbreak or disorder among the inmates they depend on men in the cell room acting in the capacity of trusties to keep order. The local county jail is probably one of the best managed in the State and has never been the scene of any serious outbreak among the prisoners. In fact the men who have served there declare that while the discipline of the warden is excellent and rigid, yet life at the jail is not hard.

The warden has very little difficulty in handling even the worst of his prisoners. He was heard to remark one day recently that he simply tells a prisoner who seems to be inclined to be unruly that the rules of the institution are there and will have to be obeyed.

Most of the prisoners at the jail and in other jails of the State know that good behavior on their part makes life in the institution easier for them. There is a fear among prisoners of each other. One man is always afraid that the other is a "squeeler," and for this reason few secrets are imparted in the institution for punishment.

In the Union county jail the prisoners do all of the work in the cells, such as cleaning, washing and sweeping. Each prisoner who behaves himself is allowed one day each week on the floor. Other days, except at meal hours, when all the prisoners are allowed in the corridors, they are locked in their cells. This means that every day there are several prisoners on the "floor" of the jail. It has always been customary in the institution for the warden to pick one man, usually one who has been in the institution a long while, as "foreman" of the floor or "trusty." This man is supposed to keep order among the men on the floor and to direct them in the work to be done.

Occasionally there will be a little altercation between two men on the floor. This is at once communicated to the warden and his assistant, and the participants are punished, the usual punishment being confinement in a cell on bread and water. Occasions of this kind are very infrequent.

Persons who have visited the Union county jail, and there have been quite a few, claim that the institution is one of the best managed in the State. Sheriff Kirkland, who is the head of the institution, and Warden Charles Dodd and Mrs. Dodd, the matron, are complimented by almost every Grand Jury on the appearance of the jail.

NO FIRE ESCAPES ON BURNED HOTEL

Valentine Bertholdy, 58 years old, who broke his spine Saturday when he leaped from the third floor of the Hungaria Hotel, 424-426 Court street, Elizabeth, to escape from a fire which totally destroyed the building, died yesterday in the Alexian Hospital, Elizabeth. He was unmarried and had no relatives in this country. The body has been removed to the city morgue.

Bertholdy's death was caused indirectly because there was not a fire escape on the building. Although the structure is one of the largest hotels in the downtown section, Joseph Pankuch, the owner, said it was not necessary to have escapes on the building and added that no inspectors had ever investigated the hotel or advised him to provide them.

Bertholdy's room was on the third floor. Because he was slightly deaf he did not hear the outcries which accompanied the discovery of the blaze, and failed to emerge from his room until the hall and stairs were enveloped in flames. He ran to a window, but there were no ladders available because Truck No. 2, the only piece of apparatus of its kind downtown, was working at another fire.

Heedless of the firemen's shouts he jumped, before reaching the ground he struck his back on a large sign which hung from the cafe, two stories below.

The fire commissioners had nothing to say on the matter, but they are all of the opinion that an investigation will be made.

The hotel burned quickly. Had it not been for the prompt work of the firemen and police, it is probable that many more victims would have been added to the list. Eleven of the thirteen rooms on the third floor were occupied.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The teachers and pupils of school No. 1 are arranging to hold Christmas exercises in the assembly room of the building Friday afternoon. A pleasing program is being arranged and all are looking forward to a happy time.

The funeral will be held in St. Bridget's church, Jersey City, tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery here on the arrival of the 12:03 train.

Two Still Alarms.

A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters at 11 o'clock this morning for a supposed blaze in the basement of A. M. Griffen's store on East Front street. No. 2 hose wagon was sent out and it was found that smoke was coming out of the front cellar way from a bon fire in the back of the building. The department answered a still alarm at 8:30 yesterday morning for a chimney fire at 523 South Second street.

JERSEYMEN LOSE JOBS AT CLOSE OF CONGRESS

Talk of an extra session of Congress at Washington, D. C., immediately after the close of the present session, the last session of the Sixty-first Congress, is not to the liking of many employes at the Capitol who, with the change in the control of the affairs of the House of Representatives, will find it expedient to look for new positions, for it is expected that every Republican holding a place will be notified that his services are no longer required, once the Democrats assume charge of the affairs. There will be a number of employes who hold their residence in New Jersey who will be among those superseded by Democrats.

For fifteen years the position of chief clerk of the House of Representatives has been held by William J. Browning, of Camden. In that time the work has nearly trebled, and yet Mr. Browning has discharged his duties with marked fidelity and efficiency. So numerous are the details incident to the position that it will be difficult for a new man to take hold and fill the position at all satisfactorily for a time, because of a lack of knowledge of what the requirements of the place are. It has not been definitely settled yet that Mr. Browning will have to go. It is possible he may be retained for a time, provided he is willing to stay, to keep the work from becoming chaotic.

Joseph M. Thompson, of New Egypt, chief telegrapher of the House, will probably be asked to continue in the Sixty-second Congress, because of his efficiency and uniform courtesy in the position. It is probable, however, that he will find it necessary to take the second position as assistant, as the position as chief will go to the man who is filling the minority place.

Frank Barto, of Camden, formerly secretary of Representative Loudenslager, will continue as one of the official stenographers to committees, because these places are held on merit rather than because of political preferment.

Captain M. E. Matlack, of Mt. Holly, a well-known attorney, the present printing clerk of the House of Representatives, will find a Democrat ready to step into his place in the next Congress. In like manner John W. Bostwick, Jr., of Rahway, clerk of the Committee on Judiciary, will step down with Representative Parker. John G. Shreve, clerk of the Committee on Labor, will return to Atlantic City, where for some years he has been a newspaper publisher.

MRS. STEPHEN MURPHY SUCCUMBS TO ILLNESS.

Mrs. Mary Murphy, wife of Stephen Murphy, died yesterday at her home on Prescott place. She had been ill a week. Mrs. Murphy was the daughter of James Muldowney, of West Third street, and beside four children leaves three sisters and four brothers. They are Mrs. Thomas Eganey, Mrs. Charles Paglinscu and Miss B. Muldowney; Thomas, Donald and Cormack Muldowney, of this city, and James Muldowney, of Wilmington, Del.

A beggar stopped at the home of Dr. Edward Ackerman, 242 Grove street, Jersey City, Friday, and asked for something to eat, saying he was cold and starving. A maid handed him a bowl of clam chowder with a silver spoon in it. After warming up he decamped with the spoon.

In Jersey City Friday two diamond robberies were reported to the police. Mrs. Farnung, of 119 Mercer street, says that some time within a week a diamond ring and diamond bracelet valued at $985 were taken from a bureau in her sleeping room. THE HARVEST MOON

Copyright, 1909, by Augustus Thomas

As they traveled from town to town during the first few days Dora watched the women's behavior on the trains. The various members of the company broke up into groups during these first few days, some reading magazines, some novels, one—the heavy old man—reading a volume of poetry, while the others played "penny ante," a mild form of gambling, solitaire and even checkers.

The woman who played the coquette and the dancer spent her time sewing or knitting and always alongside of the feminine members of the company, usually the lady with the multitudinous and multicolored past.

It was when they were leaving Syracuse one morning that Dora got her first insight into the business attitude that these women took toward their profession. She was sitting in front of the manager of the company. There were no parlor cars on the train, and they were all in what was flamboyantly advertised as an "especially engaged coach." She would have preferred not to overhear the conversation, but afterward she gloried in it.

The dancer, Miss Weston, came up to the manager and began:

"Can I talk business with you for a moment?"

"Sure," he replied, with the cigar still in his mouth and his hat at the proper managerial angle. "Sit down."

"That dance of mine is not 'getting over,'" she began earnestly.

"Oh, quit worrying! Wait until we strike a real town and you'll see that it will be all right. Don't, for heaven's sake, start changes on me now!"

"But I know," persisted Miss Weston—"I know that in white my figure looks awfully large. Now, in black or in red I look a great deal thinner, and it is more becoming to me."

"You are just nervous," said the manager.

"But my figure is not nervous," answered Miss Weston laughingly. "I'm serious, Mr. Bleiman. I want to make a hit in this thing, and I know from my experience in vaudeville and in musical shows that I don't do my best and don't look my best in white. Now, if you won't pay for a black dress I will pay for it myself."

The conversation continued, and Miss Weston devolved into a discussion in which her figure was intimately conversed about. She speculated as to whether white stockings caused her limbs to appear disproportionately large. She insisted that she be given either red or black stockings.

The talk of the manager and the player went on for a few moments along this line and was settled without any satisfaction to the dancer, but with a vague promise that before they got into Chicago or New York the matter would be taken up.

The thing that hung over Dora's mind was: Here was a woman who didn't hesitate to discuss what she had been accustomed to regard as an interdicted subject; here was a woman who discussed the proportions of her calves without any immodesty and without fear with even this coarse man, for whose opinion she had not only the greatest respect, but financial fear. And even he, with all his consummate and accumulated brutality, answered in a most matter of fact and absolutely impartial manner.

It gave her a thrill that here at least was unqualified honesty.

Dora, having a feminine mind, was missing the great danger of all this—because it seemed to her beyond doubt that in this very frankness, in this very attitude of being businesslike about things that are not ordinarily the subjects of conventional conversation, lay entire safety for a person of education and of sound instincts. But possibly her puritanical Aunt Cornelia would not have agreed with her concerning the matter.

At any rate, the broad vista of life as it is in a many sided, complex world was beginning to unfold before Dora, and little could she foretell as to what the future held in store for her.

CHAPTER III.

BEFORE ocean steamships had become dominated purely by the idea of wealth there was no more delightful, easy going vessel for the person with Gallic taste than old La Champagne. Today it is an antiquated hulk, plying somewhere between Havre and South American ports, carrying only those passengers that the American with his superb snobbishness would describe as "second class."

There really was at one time a first, second and third class traffic, but the American, with the absurd indifference as to how he spends his money and as to where he belongs, has made everything, in his estimation, first class by buying unnecessary things and demanding unbecoming comforts.

It was almost the last voyage of La Champagne. The night before the ship arrived Captain Didot had asked all the passengers to do him the honor to dine with him, an invitation that meant a great deal more on board this old French ship than the captain's dinner means on the average ocean liner. There were souvenirs, there was champagne, there was a little bit of Gallic gayety, and there was delightful Gallic informality. There were no loud toasts and no long speeches, nor did any one pull the lion's tail or wave the stars and stripes.

Graham Winthrop had been over in Paris for a month. He cursed his luck that he had been obliged to take this slow going vessel instead of one of the faster steamers, as his natural American appetite and income suggested. The first few days had been days of intolerable boredom. There was hardly a soul on board the ship who amounted to anything, as far as he was able to find out, but himself. There were silk merchants from Lyons, a French consul or two, a couple of American travelers from the middle west and a lot of other people that "one doesn't see at one's club."

His fair knowledge of French and his proclivity for bridge led him to spend most of his evenings in the smoking room with three Frenchmen who admired his bridge and cursed his French intermittently. The attitude that two of the card players took toward the third, M. Vavin, impressed him little until one day, walking on deck, he did a memorable thing in his athletic life—a two mile turn with the same M. Vavin.

"You have written plays," he suggested in the course of the brisk walk.

M. Vavin smiled and said, "I should rather say, monsieur, that I have tried to write plays."

"And yet Alexandre says you are one of the greatest dramatists in France."

Vavin laughed pleasantly and raised his hand deprecatingly. "I have done my best in recent years to write plays for France that would do France good. That is not always the right attitude of the dramatist, for sometimes the dramatist is justified in doing the thing that he thinks will help his country, even though it does not help his country, even though it does not help his art, monsieur."

"We have never had any of your plays in America," said Winthrop. For him the deeper and subtler side of Vavin's answer had no meaning.

USEFUL HINTS.

Mahogany or any other colored wood may be darkened by polishing with cold drawn linseed oil.

To quickly cloud the windows in bathrooms, etc., apply with a brush a solution of epsom salts mixed in vinegar. This gives a capital frosted appearance, and becomes permanent if white varnished over.

When two glass tumblers or dishes stick together so that there is danger of breaking int getting them apart, put cold water in the inner one and hold the otuer one in warm water, and they will separate at once.

Milk will clean piano keys satisfactorily. It will take out ink spots of long standing. Used in starch it will give a satisfactory gloss. It will remove discolorations from gilt mirror and picture frames. Used with bluing for lace curtains it will make them look like new.

A L'EMPIRE.

The revival of the Empire modes seems likely to be more accurate, at least for evening wear, than any recent adaptations have been, says our Paris correspondent. I have seen one or two perfect productions of First Empire prints recently.

At one dance there was a girl in a high-wasted lemon-colored silk gown, her dark hair piled on her head, with a plain Empire band of gold about it, no ornaments and an inch-wide strip of pale gray velvet ribbon high round her neck. This very unusual finish was to the highest degree artistic, and the success of the get-up was heightened by the fact that the lady was one of the very few who can "trip."

Heroines do it always, unless they are over five-foot-six, but in real life it is seldom that one sees this pretty girl unexaggerated and natural.

Fixing the Age of Fish.

The age of a fish can be determined with accuracy by inspection of the otoliths or bony concretions which are found in the auditory apparatus. These otoliths increase in size during the entire life of the fish, each year adding two layers, a light-colored layer fromed in summer and a dark layer formed in autumn and winter. The alternative layers are sharply contrasted and very distinct, so that there is no difficulty in counting them. The number of pairs of layers is equal to the number of years the fish has lived. By this method Wallace has made an interesting study of the distribution of fishes of the plaice species over various sea bottoms, according to age. In this way the rapidity of growth of fishes and the effect of fisheries on the population of the sea can be determined.—Scientific American.

HUNT CHASE FOLLOWED BY PRESENTATION OF CUP

The weekly chase of the Watchung Hunt Club, Saturday, proved to be one of the best of the mid-winter season. The going and the fencing was fine and the hounds were unusually fast, leading the riders a merry run a distance of about twelve miles over the snow-clad fields and hills. The members met at the clubhouse and the hounds were thrown in on the Holly farm. From that point the chase led across the Netherwood hills to Dog Corners, then back of Westfield, through Fanwood and back to Netherwood. There was not a mishap to mar the run and all the riders kept well together.

Those who rode were Rufus C. Finch, M. F. H., on All Alone; J. J. O'Donohue on Manifesto; Hart S. Farlee on Carlist; Charles F. Wildey, Jr., on Silver Wwist; Col. C. E. S. Bellows on McGregor and Huntsman Henry Watkins on Telephone.

After the run the members returned to the clubhouse, where Col. Bellows, on behalf of fifteen members, presented to Rufus C. Finch, M. F. H., a handsome silver loving cup in appreciation of the good runs during the present season. The presentation was a great surprise to Mr. Finch. He thanked the donors heartily for the beautiful gifts. These names appeared on the note accompanying the gift as donors: Harry A. Bourne, Hart S. Farlee, Paul Harrison, J. J. O'Donohue, Fred G. Alpers, W. H. Wildey, C. F. Wildey, Jr., George Rose, Paul Dietrich, Brown Rolston, Miss Mabel B. Hooley, Col. C. E. S. Bellows, W. S. Brown, Ruppert Anderson and Schuyler Casey.

SWEDISH CONGREGATION AT A IN UNION SERVICE

A large congregation attended the union services of the Swedish Congregational church and Rev. Charles L. Goodrich's congregation, last evening. The new pastor of the Swedish church, Rev. Gotfried Sjobloom, was present with his members, but did not address the gathering.

Rev. Mr. Goodrich gave an informal talk on the subject of the Pilgrim Evangelical church, the topic being most appropriate this week being the anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims in this country. He congratulaed the members on their success in paying off the mortgage on their little church.

The Swedish congregation was accompanied by their string band and choir who rendered several hymns in both languages. The membership of the Swedish Congregational church has been growing steadily and has become a great factor in the social endeavors among the Swedes in this city. With them is found all that the new comer to the country needs—a church home, people of refinement of their own race and language, and inducements to lead a Christian life and learn the language of their adopted country.

Mr. Goodrich's address embraced the meaning of both the names in the title of the Swedish church. After telling the congregation how much is mean by the word Pilgrim, what it commemorates and how many churches all over the land use it he explained in simple but effective language the true meaning of Evangelical—the coming of the evangel, bringing peace and good will on earth in the birth of Christ. The singing of the Swedish choir was exceptionally good. They played their own music on stringed instruments.

The monthly missionary prayer meeting will be held at Warren chapel, Wednesday night, a week earlier than usual, and William D. Murray will be in charge.

REV. DR. HENRY VAN DYKE LEAVES BRICK CHURCH

The Rev. Dr. Henry van Dyke told his congregation yesterday morning in the Brick Presbyterian church in New York that under no circumstances will he consider a call to the pastorate of that church and that next Sunday will be his last one as minister in charge. He told the congregation that he had preached the year and did out of pure love for the work and the Brick church. He did it without pay, but has managed to do much for other churches with the money sent in to him.

Many regrets were heard after the declaration of Dr. van Dyke but the announcement of his retirement did not come as much of a surprise to the congregation. His resignation from the Princeton chair had nothing to do with his action in resigning the pastorate of the Brick church, according to one of the members.

For fourteen years the Rev. Dr. van Dyke was pastor of the Brick church. He resigned and was succeeded by the Rev. Dr. Maltbie D. Babcock, who died suddenly while abroad. Dr. van Dyke returned and served until the Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, formerly of this city, was chosen. After six years Dr. Richards died suddenly twelve months ago, and for the third time Dr. van Dyke came to the church, this time as temporary supply.

The Holy Cross choir boys' basketball team defeated the North Plainfield Juniors in a fast game on the courts at the parish house Saturday morning. The final score was 10 to 5. This was the third and deciding game in the series and gives the choir boys the championship. For the choir boys, Shelton threw two goals and Woolston two, while Chandler threw one. Moore and Dawe threw one goal each for their team and Becker scored a goal from foul. As the choir boys have won six and lost four games they will have their new uniforms for Christmas. The lineup follows:

Both games were exciting and cleanly played. Manley and Ricketts starred for P. H. S. and the Misses Durar, Stewart and Douglas did fine work for the girls' team.

CLUBS SUPPORT WILSON

Plainfield Democrats Approve His Position and Arrange for Demonstration.

At the regular meeting of the Plainfield Democratic Club last night it was decided to hold a mass meeting on Friday, December 30, the object of which is to endorse James E. Martine for the United States senatorship. It was also resolved that president Ellis be enpowered to communicate with the chairman of the Federation of Democratic Clubs with a view to have similar action taken by the clubs throughout the State.

The committee on resolutions of which Calvin E. Broadhead is chairman drew up the following resolution, a copy of which will be mailed to Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson and to the members of the legislature.

"Be it resolved that the Plainfield Democratic club indorses the action taken by Governor-elect Wilson in reference to the election of United States senator. And that it is the sense of this meeting that we suggest to the other Democratic clubs throughout the State that vigorous and prompt action be taken by them to uphold the governor-elect and aid in the carrying out of the will of the people as indicated by the Primary vote for Mr. Martine.

"To this end we recommend the calling of mass meetings throughout the State through the instrumentality of the Federation of Democratic clubs and at these various meetings one or more delegates be chosen with the purpose of going before the legislature as soon as it can be conveniently arranged after they convene. That these delegates shall demand a hearing on this question and urge the election of Mr. Martine by every honorable means at their command.

"And be it further resolved that it it the opinion of this club that the failure to elect Mr. Martine would be a specific violation of party pledges and party policy and result in lasting injury to the cause of Democracy, not only in this State but throughout the nation."

The December meeting of the Improvement Society of North Plainfield township was a decidedly interesting event as the members of the society went on record as approving the attitude assumed by Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson in the matter of primary elections and also declared itself in favor of abolishing the county boards for the equalization of taxes as being an unnecessary expense and that they have outlived their usefulness.

Resolutions were drawn up covering thesee points and copies were forwarded to Governor-elect Wilson, Senator Frelinghuysen and Assemblyman-elect Le Mont. The summary of the proceedings which were debated regardless of party lines, follows:

First: That the Improvement Society of North Plainfield township notes with satisfaction the stand taken by Governor-elect Wilson demanding that the Legislature conscientiously recognize the moral obligation imposed upon it by the recent primary vote for U. S. Senator.

Second: That the association, as representative of the citizenship of the township, declares its adherence, irrespective of party affiliations, to the principle of designating the U. S. Senators of the State of New Jersey by a primary vote of the people. That the association membership will resist by every means in its power any attempt to nullify this right of the people obtained after so long a struggle with so-called "bossism" and "the special interests."

Third: That the association maintains that, regardless of party affiliation, any aspirant to public office who does not wish or dare to present himself before this popular primary vote, is the very man who is not wanted by the people for such office.

Fourth: That the association membership expects its legislative representatives of Somerset county to cast their respective votes for U. S. Senator in favor of the successful candidate of their particular party at the recent primaries, and thus demonstrate their adherence to the principle involved.

At this meeting it was resolved that the Governor-elect and the legislative representatives of Somerset county, be requested to use their best endeavors to have abolished the county boards for the equalization of taxes. That these boards have outlived their usefulness, and that the work of equalization of taxes can be better performed by the former Commissioners of Appeal, together with the presentation as part of the annual report of the local government, of the tax duplicate. That the latter should be made mandatory upon the local government, so that tax payers may julge for themselves the corrections of valuations and thus bring about real equalizations.

COLUMBUS CLUB HAS ITS FORMAL OPENING

The new home of the Columbus Club, on West Front street, was formally opened last night. The house committee had full charge and exercised every privilege to make the initial affair a pleasant criterion of what is to follow. The attendance numbered about 150.

Andrew E. Kenney, chairman of the house committee, had supervision during the vening, and made an address at the outset, during which he took occasion to congratulate the building committee on the success of its plans. Other remarks were made by Arthur A. Cannon, H. P. Greenwood, Francis J. Blatz and M. D. O'Keefe. All took the opportunity to speak in the highest terms of the work of Theodore J. Shirley, who arranged and had charge of the color schemes in decorating and selecting the furnishings. The striking harmony and general restful tone of all the rooms are the outcome of his ideas. Mr. Shirley responded in a fitting manner. During the evening selections were given on the player-piano by an expert and in conclusion a turkey supper was served under the direction of John J. Kenney and Thomas Carty. It proved to be the piece de resistance in the general entertainment.

The opening was conducted by the house committee composed of A. E. Kenney, chairman; C. L. Kling, C. W. Fogarty, Clinton A. Shannon, Thomas F. Carty, Jr., David B. Doyle and Francis J. Blatz.

REV. FRED B. NEWMAN GETS DISMISSAL LETTER

Rev. Fred B. Newman, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Newman, of this city, who recently resigned the pastorate of the East Trenton church, of Trenton, was granted a letter of dismissal to the Presbytery of Lackawanna, at a special meeting of the Presbytery of New Brunswick, yesterday, as he desires to accept a call to the Presbyterian church at Tunkhannock, Pa.

James Wilkie, one of the commissioners present at the meeting, spoke feelingly of the work of Mr. Newman. The congregation, he said, had voted to unite with their pastor in making his request before Presbytery. After hearing the parties in the case, the Presbytery granted the request, to take effect December 25. Several pastors at the session bore tribute regarding Mr. Newman and his work.

DAIRS AGAIN FAILS TO PUT IN AN APPEARANCE.

Tony Dairs, the Watchung man accused of resisting arrest at the hands of Constable Clement and Game Warden Beetham again failed to appear before Justice Snape in the borough when the case was called for trial yesterday afternoon. As a result, the matter was adjourned indefinately and a bench warrant was issued for his arrest. Davis' son and wife, who are co-defendants in the complaint were in court but protested that they did not know where he had gone to.

The belief exists that Davis has become frightened and left the county. He was put under a $100 bond furnished by a Bound Brook Italian and unless the defendant is soon produced, this will be forfeited.

FOR A PUMPING STATION

Lowest Bid for Construction Was $3,745. and the Land Cost $1,400.

Bids for the installation of a sewerage pumping station on the land at Sherman and Monroe avenues, recently purchased by the city, were received at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night. Estimates for the work were submitted prior to the death of Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh and the one of the Blaisdell Machinery Company, of New York, was rejected owing to an alleged irregularity. The company afterwards made a strong protest, and Mr. Marsh advised the rejection of all offers and a readvertisement for bids, owing to the fact that the Blaisdell company was the lowest bidder and the State law is strict in the awarding of contracts under those conditions.

Three bids were received last night the Blaisdell Machinery Company again being the lowest, its figures being $3,745. Blackall, Baldwin & Co., of New York, was second. its bid being $3,980, while Merritt & Co., of Camden, was next, its figures being $4,224. These bids are for one station, and if it is decided to build two it is understood that the price will be same for a second station. The bids were all referred to the sewer committee.

Mr. Mygatt, reporting for the finance committee, introduced resolutions passing upon the deal for the land at Sherman and Monroe avenues for the pumping station. This tract was owned by E. S. Eliott and was purchased by the city for $1,400. The necessary official action was taken authorizing the city treasurer to borrow money for the purpose and closing the transaction.

A resolution offered by Mr. Mygatt and adopted, authorized the borrowing of $2,600 on account of sewer extension work. This is in addition to the $1,400 borrowed for the purchase of the land at Sherman and Monroe avenues.

SENATORIAL CONFERENCE

Wilson, Sullivan, Osborne, Tumulty, Broadhead and Others Hold Pow-wow.

Governor-elect Wilson, Judge Sullivan, of the Court of Errors and Appeals, Senator Osborne, of Essex, Assemblyman Tumulty, of Hudson, and Assemblyman-elect Calvin E. Broadhead, of Union county, all Martine men, held a conference here yesterday afternoon, at Trenton, to discuss the Senatorial situation. At the close of the confab Dr. Wilson would only say that the campaign had been discussed, but Senator Osborne had talked more freely.

Mr. Osborne declared that a mass meeting campaign against the candidacy of Mr. Smith would be begun soon, probably next week or at least early in January. Dr. Wilson will speak to crystallize public opinion in favor of Martine. "It is a question of principle rather than of personalities," said Mr. Osborne. "Mr. Martine, the primary nominee, must be elected if the democrats' reform promises are to be kept."

Dr. Woodrow Wilson said last night that he did not intend to make a stumping tour of the State in the interest of James E. Martine for United States Senator, but that he would make two or three speeches in Mr. Martine's behalf.

"It is not necessary," said Mr. Wilson, "to take the stump to arouse public opinion against Mr. Smith. It is already aroused."

Each of the eleven Essex Assemblymen-elect who signed the recent invitation to James Smith, Jr., of Newark, to become a publicly announced candidate for United States Senator yesterday received this letter from Governor-elect Wilson:

"I think that it is imperative in the common interest that we should fully understand each other with regard to the question of the United States Senatorship, and I should be very much assisted by a personal interview with you. May I not ask that you will make it possible to see me at Princeton next Wednesday, the 21st, in the late afternoon or in the evening? I would esteem it a real favor if would do this?"

Plans are being made in Essex and Hudson counties for meetings within the next ten days, at which it is expected that Dr. Wilson will be the chief speaker, the topic being the United States Senatorial controversy.

It was announced yesterday by Assemblyman Edward Kenny, dean of the Assembly, that the democratic majority members of that body will caucus in the rooms of the Democratic State Committee, Newark, on Wednesday, December 28. The date was arranged after a conference between Mr. Kenny and State Chairman Nugent. No date has yet been set for a caucus of the democratic Senators.

BOROUGH SCHOOL BOARD HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

The North Plainfield Board of Education held a regular meeting last night during which the members informally discussed the recent visit of the Senate investigating committee to the borough. From the opinions expressed by the investigators at the time, the board was assured that everything within its control has been conducted in a thorough manner. The full report of the session has not yet been received, but when it is the members held the belief that it should be published in pamphlet form for distribution among the taxpayers.

The board discussed at some length the question of insurance on both the Somerset and Watchung buildings. A number of policies recently expiring have been re-written and are soon to terminate. Bids were received from several companies for taking these up and they were referred to the proper committee.

The board recently authorized an analysis of the coal used in the schools and the report of the chemist was received last night. He stated that the samples were fully up to the requirements and according to the specifications.

The usual Christmas holidays will commence next Friday and resume on Tuesday, January 3. While the schools were closer, various repairs will be made to both the buildings, one of the most important innovations will be the installation of a science labratory in the manual trainging department. Bills to the amount of $6,602 were ordered paid.

CHARTER MEMBERS REPORT FOR DUTY

If you have the real spark of fire in your system, the spark that responds when human sympathies are touched, you would throw your hat up in the air and give three lung-bursting cheers after reading some of the letters which came in this morning's mail for the Good Fellow. Each one of them, whether it be from man, woman or child, has the true ring in it. If the proportion of recruits to the Army of Good Fellow continues until Friday every poor little child in the community will be sure of a real Christmas. Last year 542 youngsters were made happy by the Good Fellow, each of whom was found previously by the Charity Organization Society's agents to be worthy. Can that record be equalled this year? It's up to you. Read the letter to the Good Fellows of Plainfield published today on page 5, and as we said before, govern yourself accordingly.

Some of the charter members of the Plainfield Army of Good Fellows reported for duty yesterday and today. One of these, a corking fine fellow, writes:

"Please keep me in your club and send me eight or ten names."

Here's another letter:

"I only wish I might take care of sixty little ones instead of six. You certainly deserve the happiness of Christmas for you will do much for Christmas morning in many a home and gladden many a little heart."

Very kind of the warm hearted woman who so expressed herself, but she's too generous. The ones that will gladden the hearts of the little ones are such as her.

TUBERCULOSIS CLASS TO BE FORMED HERE

The trustees of the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield, met in the parish house of Grace church, last night, and decided several matters of importance. In addition to receiving reports from the treasurer and other officers. Final arrangements were made for holding a tuberculosis class commencing the first of the year. The class will meet possibly twice a week in the office of the Charity Organization Society in the Babcock building and will be in charge of Dr. Edward S. Krans.

This class will be for those patients discharged from the local camp and others afflicted with the disease, it being the plan to have them report once a week to Dr. Krans for advice, examination. They will also be weighed and statistics will be kept on file.

The treasurer reported that $300 had been subscribed to the work during the past month and that there is a balance of $80 in the treasury. The league is doing everything possible to stimulate a sale for the Red Cross Stamps. There are 70,000 stamps allotted to Plainfield and if these can be sold it will mean a profit of $700 for the local society's work. It was reported that a cooking and heating range has been installed at the uberculosis camp, which will mean a great saving.

A Christmas party will be given at the camp Saturday afternoon, by Mrs. C. B. Tyler and Mrs. Sherman B. Joost.

LEAL SCHOOL GRADUATES WIN SCHOLARSHIP HONORS.

The Plainfield Yale Club in addition to offering a cup each for the young man in the city and borough high schools passing the best all-round examination, offer two $25 prizes for the young man from this city passing the best entrance examination at Yale.

This year two young men from John Leal's school won these prizes, Thomas M. Day, Jr., winning the prize for passing the best academic examination and Thomas Foote the prize for passing the best examination at the Sheffield Scientific School. Young Foote passed an exceptionally creditable examination. This work reflects great credit on their teacher, John Leal, who has been very successful in preparing boys for college.

No Corporation Counsel.

No action will be taken by the present members of the Common Council toward appointing a successor to the late Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh, that decision being made at an adjourned session of that body last night. Mr. Holt reported on the matter, stating that in view of the question involved as to whether the city is working under the ordinance or the State law, it was decided to lay the matter over until next year.

—Neuman Bros. announce a fine line of Christmas specials including fancy table raisins, new nuts of all kinds, Hyler's salted almonds,, new pulled figs, layer figs, candied fruits, table raisins, new dates.

HONOR COUNTY CHAIRMAN

Silver Service Presented to F. H. Smith Prior to Dinner Given for Him.

Anxious to show their appreciation of his services to the party, the members of the Union County Republican Committee and other friends last night presented a costly silver service to County Chairman Frank H. Smith. The token of esteem was formally presented at a meeting of the committee at the Dix building, Elizabeth former County Chairman Hamilton F. Kean making the speech. Mr. Smith seemed much affected and in his response said that it did not need any such expression to let him know how cordial had been the relations of the committee.

Following the meeting a banquet was held at the Elks' culb with Mr. Smith as the guest of honor. Former County Chairman Hamilton F. Kean acted as toastmaster and speeches were made by the present county chairman, Former County Chairman Charles N. Codding, of Westfield; Surrogate George Porrot, of Elizabeth, also a formerCounty Chairman; former Mayor James F. Buckle, of this city, Mayor Vreeland, of Summit, and Postmaster Charlock, of Elizabeth.

County Chairman Smith referred to the recent defeat of his party, declaring that such temporary setbacks were to be expected at any time but that he felt sanguine that the Republicans who elected a Democratic State administration would return to the fold in the next campaign. Party leaders, he said, were chosen, not self-appointed, and he predicted that Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson would find this to be true before long.

Former County Chairman Codding voiced his sentiments against the direct primary for the selection of United States Senator, while former Mayor Buckle paid a tribute to Mr. Smith and discussed human nature in politics.

Among the Plainfielders present were Amos Andrews, Andrew McCardell, E. C. Westcott, H. Adelberg, Herbert Buxton and James F. Buckle. Dr. F. W. Westcott and George Johnson represented the Fanwood and Scotch Plains Republicans.

Pastor's Mother Slightly Better.

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, who was called to Grand Rapids, Mich., by the serious illness of his mother, has written to a member of the Consistory of the church, stating that a consultation of physicians was held on Saturday and that his mother showed a slight improvement. She is still in a critical condition, her heart being very weak. A telegram today states that he will not be in his pulpit on Sunday, feeling that his first duty is to his mother.

P. O. SAVINGS BANK WILL OPEN ON JAN. 3

Washington, Dec. 20.—The postal savings banks system will be inaugurated on January 3, the first working day of the new year, in the different cities of the country which have been selected for an experimental test. Postmaster General Hitchcock announced last night that the work of drawing up regulations, forms and instructions to postmasters and to the prospective depositors had progressed so satisfactorily as to assure the beginning of operations at experimental offices on that date. One office will be opened in each state and territory to receive deposits, with a view to testing the system which has been devised.

Especial care has been taken, Mr. Hitchcock said, in selecting postoffices with postmasters whose records were excellent in starting the test. The offices are all of the second class in localities where conditions are favorable for the development of the postal bank business. Many of the offices are located where foreigners reside who remit considerable money to relatives in their native lands.

During the last few days a conference was held at the postoffice department for the instruction of twelve postmasters from the Pacific coast and Rock mountain states. They were instructed how the system could be maintained. Within a few days postmasters of thirty-six offices will meet in Washington for similar instruction.

"I Don't Know What I Would Do Without a Telephone"

said a young lady, who came into one of our offices. "It serves me regardless of the season or of what I want to do. Just now I am using it for Christmas shopping, and with great success. All the shops take telephone orders, and some of them have wonderful telephone systems for the benefit of their customers.

One store that I know of even goes so far as to maintain a night force of telephone salespeople so that customers can shop by telephone at night as well as during the day. Isn't that great? It only goes to show what a truly wonderful thing telephone service is."

The telephone is of assistance in many ways during the busy holiday season.

NAME GENERAL COLLINS TO ARRANGE FOR BALL

General D. F. Collins has received notice from the arrangement committee which has in charge the Inaugural Ball to be given in honor of Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson in Trenton, on Tuesday, January 17, that he had been appointed on the general committee from Union county. He is requested to give all possible information as to persons to whom invitations to the even should be issued.

General Collins stated that he would make an effort to arrange for a party large enough to warrant the use of a special train to leave Elizabeth and to stop at Cranford and Garwood. With this end in view he will meet men representing the different municipalities so that more complete information may be gained.

A special request has also been made to General Collins that the officers on his staff be present at the ball in full dress uniform.

The ball is to be held under the auspices of the Second Regiment, N. J. N. G. in the Second Regiment Armory. The Second and Third regimental bands will furnish music and it is also planned to have a band of field music.

It may happen that some person who wishes to attend may be overlooked by the invitation committee. In such case General Collins asks that the person apply to him. Tickets will be $5 a couple.

WORLD'S CHAMPIONS LOSE DOUBLE-HEADER.

The Cuban trip of the Philadelphia Americans was brought to a finish Sunday by getting walloped twice. The world's champions were first beaten by the Almendares Club by a score of 7 runs to 5 and going down before the Havana nine by a score of 6 runs to 2.

The trip of the champions was a financial success and an artistic failure. The Athletics won only a third of their games, the Cubans hammering the life out of "Chief" Bender, Eddie Plank and Jack Coombs. News to the effect that the National Commission in the near future will adopt stringent rules prohibiting champion teams from going to the island hereafter reached the ball players yesterday, and did not have a good effect on them. The Athletics cannot understand how they happened to be so easy for the Cuban teams, and blame their reverses on the climate.

The players started for home yesterday some going first to Key West, but most of them setting out for New York. The players who made the trip were Jack Coombs, "Chief" Bender and Eddie Plank, pitchers; Jack Lapp and Ira Thomas, catchers; Harry Davis, Jack McInnes, Frank Derrick and Jack Barry, infielders, and "Topsy" Hartsel, Briscoe Lord and Danny Murphy, outfielders. Each player received $500 and his expenses.

JOHNSON MAY BOX SIX ROUNDS IN PITTSBURG.

Jack Johnson, heavyweight champion, who will second his sparring partner, Walter Monahan, in the latter's bout with George (Kid) Cotton at Pittsburg tonight, said he had received an offer from a Pittsburg athletic club asking him if he would consent to box six rounds with an opponent whom the club selects on some night during the holidays.

Having convinced himself by his workouts with Monahan that he is in pretty good shape, Johnson said he would agree to fight any one over the six-round route if there was enough money in it.

"I am not afraid to step into the ring with any of them tomorrow over the six-round route," said Johnsan. "Just let them give me enough money to make it worth while and I will sign articles next week. My short bouts with Monahan have convinced me that it will take little work to put me in shape for six fast rounds with any one the club selects."

TO THE "GOOD FELLOWS" OF PLAINFIELD

TO THE GOOD FELLOWS OF PLAINFIELD:

Just about this time last year I told you my story. You listened to it—you did more—you followed its spirit out in a bang-up style. I'm not claiming any credit for my story; I'm claiming credit for knowing that there are many Good Fellows in this fine old town of ours—royal chaps who don't do much preaching but when it comes to doing a good turn, well, they're there with the goods. This is no sermon that I'm handing you, it's a heart-to-heart talk with men with red blood in their veins, and here it is off last year's reel:

Last Christmas and New Year's eve you and I went out for a good time and spent from $10 to $200. Last Christmas morning hundreds of children awoke to an empty stocking—the bitter pain of disappointment that Santa Claus had forgotten them. Perhaps it wasn't our fault. We had provided for our own; we had also reflected in a passing way on those less fortunate than our own, but they seemed far off and we didn't know where to find them. Perhaps in the hundred and one things we had to do some of us didn't think of that heart sorrow of the child over the empty stocking.

Now, old man, here's a chance. I have tried for the last five years and ask you to consider it. Just send your name and address to The Daily Press—address Santa Claus—state about how many children you are willing to protect against grief over that empty stocking, inclose a two-cent stamp and you will be furnished with the names, addresses, sex, and age of that many children. It is then up to you, you do the rest. Select your won present, spend 50 cents or $50, and send or take your gifts to those children on Christmas eve. You pay not a cent more than you want to pay—every cent goes just where you want it to go. You gain neither notoriety nor advertising; you deal with no organization; no record will be kept; your letter will be returned to you with its answer. The whole plan is just as anonymous as old Santa Claus himself.

This is not a newspaper scheme. The Daily Press was asked to aid in reaching the good fellow by publishing this suggestion and to receive your communication in order that you may be assured of good faith and to preserve the anonymous character of this work. The identity of the writer of this appeal will not be disclosed. He assumes the responsibility of finding the children and sending you their names and guarantees that whatever you bestow will be deserved.

Neither you nor I get anything out of this, except the feeling that you have saved some child from sorrow on Christmas morning. If that is not enough for you then you have wasted time in reading this—it is not intended for you, but for the good fellows of Plainfield.

Perhaps a twenty-five cent doll or a ten cent tin toy wouldn't mean much to the children you know, but to the child who would find them in the otherwise empty stocking they mean much—the difference between utter disappointment and the joy that Santa Claus did not forget them. Here is where you and I get in. The charitable organizations attend to the bread and meat; the clothes; the necessaries; you and the rest of the good fellows furnish the toys, the nuts, the candies; the child's real Christmas.

GOOD FELLOW.

The Daily Press, one year ago, investigated the "good fellow" who wrote the above, looked him in the eye and put its O. K. on the plan. The cold blooded, blase representative who saw him wrote: "He made me feel, personally, that it would be really worth while in satisfaction to carry a little happiness to some children who otherwise wouldn't get any on Christmas eve." "Good Fellow" is not a professional philanthropist, he takes a drink, and even goes out at night with the boys for a mild good time—but he has taken care of from fifteen to twenty children a year in Plainfield. He said that a year ago last Christmas day he wished he had curtailed his holiday joy-making with the good fellows even more than he did, so that he might have had more money to gladden childish hearts.

The Worthy Grand Master of the lodge of Good Fellows has laid his plans for securing names through the Charity Organization Society.

This is how you can join the lodge of Good Fellows. Write a letter to "Santa Claus," care of The Daily Press, something like this:

I live at No.———— Street. I will be Santa Claus to 6 children.
John Jones.

The letter will go to Santa Claus. He will indorse on your letter the names and addresses of six children. That letter will be remailed to you. Then you get busy. That's all. Come on in, good fellows.

Dr. Richard's Portrait Unveiled.

Rev. Dr. William R. Richards won for himself so large a place in the hearts of this community during his long pastorate of eighteen years over the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, that every tribute to his memory is of interest to Plainfielders. Parishioners of the Presbyterian church of the Covenant, New York, have presented to the church a portrait of Dr. Richards which was recently unveiled at a memorial service. The Church of the Covenant is affiliated with the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, of which Dr. Richards had been pastor for seven years aat the time of his death last January.

More Trouble for Schwartzman.

It is said that Max Schwartzman, who conducts several fur stores in this State has now to face an action brought against him by his brother, Abraham Schwartzman, of New Brunswick, in which the brother seeks to restrain Max from using the firm name of "New York Fur Co.," which he claims is an infringement on the name of the company which Abraham represents. Max Schwartzman recently caused the arrest of his manager Julian Davis on a charge of embezzling the funds of the store on East Front street.

Funeral of Mrs. Murphy.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Murphy, wife of Stephen Murphy, was held in St. Mary's church this morning in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. The mass was said by Rev. Father Bogan. Burial was made in St. Mary's cemetery, the pallbearers being James Caulfield, John T. Caulfield, John M. Caulfield, Harry Goff, Martin Muldowney and John Duffy.

Boarder Disorderly.

Mrs. Annie Slonsky, a boarding house keeper, of the West End, preferred a charge of disorderly conduct against Samuel Lorman, a boarder, in the city court this morning before Judge William N. Runyon. At the request of Francis J. Blatz, counsel for Lorman the case was postponed until Friday morning for a hearing.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Staats, wife of Peter Staats, was held at her late home on North avenue, yesterday morning. The service was in charge of Rev. W. A. Knox and was attended by many relatives and friends. The body was afterwards sent to Bloomsbury where interment was made. Those acting as pall bearers were Paul Reusch, Charles Richardson, Edwin Lewis and Abram Case.

Tax Collector I. J. Stites has had a busy time of it since yesterday, receiving tax money from local property owners and others. The collections yesterday amounted to $1,600 and a much larger sum will probably be received today. According to law a penalty of twelve per cent. may be added for failure to settle bills before tomorrow. The borough payments, on the whole, are very good.

Danish Lutheran services will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Swedish Pilgrim church, West Sixth and New streets with preaching by Rev. N. H. Nyrap, of Brooklyn.

The Junior C. E. Society of the Temple Baptist church, recently organized, will meet Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The society now has a membership of thirty. Mrs. Charles Griffin is superintendent and Mrs. Frank Stewart the assistant.

Mrs. John O'Keefe, of Boston, is spending a few days with friends in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, of Brooklyn, has returned home after a visit with friends here.

Phillip Vroom, brother of Miss Wilhelmina Vroom, of this city, is seriously ill with heart trouble at his home in Bayonne. He has been superintendent of schools at Bayonne for over thirty years.

Benevolent Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will elect officers at its meeting Friday night.

A terrific explosion in the yards of the New York Central Railroad, at Lexington avenue and 56th street, New York city, killed at least nine persons, injured more than a hundred others and did enormous damage to property for two blocks in every direction; an explosion of Pintsch gas from a main broken by a runaway train was generally believed to be the cause, according to those who investigated the disaster.

GIRL, 11, BRAVE AS FEET ARE CUT OFF.

With her left foot amputated at the ankle and her right foot amputated at the instep little Rose Bondisha, 11 years old, of 14 Bay street, Montclair, is lying in the Mountainside Hospital suffering great pain as the result of being run over by a passenger train of the Lackawanna Railroad Saturday afternoon.

The train had been emptied of its passengers at the Montclair station and was backed down on the siding in the rear of Blondel's coal yard. The girl was picking coal there and did not notice the approaching train. It is not known how many of the cars passed over the girl's feet or how long she had lain there before she was discovered by Michael Caruso, who was passing. He knew the girl, as she lives with her parents and five other children in his father's house.

Caruso ran to the railroad depot and engaged a hackman and had the injured girl removed to the hospital. It was found necessary to perform amputation in an effort to save her life.

At the hospital yesterday it was said that the girl was one of the bravest ever operated on in the hospital. Her condition is critical. The loss of blood and exposure to the cold before being found may cause her death.

MAY IRWIN GOES INTO THE POULTRY BUSINESS.

May Irwin, the actress has that chicken-raising bug which every one gets once in a lifetime. The first inkling of her new fad was given in a lavender tinted note received by Mayor Crawford, of Montclair, yesterday morning. The Mayor is secretary and manager of the New York Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Association, which holds its annual show in Madison Square Garden, December 27, 28, 29, 30 and 31.

Miss Irwin modestly asked for information concerning the New York show, tells of her new experience—raising chickens—and expresses a wish to enter birds for prizes.

But, the Mayor says, Miss Irwin must wait until next year to exhibit them, the entries having closed.

THE HARVEST MOON

Copyright, 1909, by Augustus Thomas

"America," said M. Vavin, with a smile, "is a wonderful nation, wonderful in that she is growing more wonderful every day. She wants things that pertain absolutely to herself, and there she is absolutely right. The great art is never produced by any nation unless it pertains absolutely to that nation. My plays pertain to France. Your American dramatists sometimes have, I think, less finish than we of the older nation. You will pardon me if I say that sometimes your dramatists are, from our point of view, rather crude, but that is not the question. The plays of your best dramatists would not succeed in France, and the best plays of my confreres in France do not succeed in America for the same reason."

It was all a trifle too technical for Winthrop, but before they had finished their walk the consideration and the great courtesy that he had been shown in this conversation, the deference that had been paid to his far from acute understanding, had fascinated him, and for the rest of the voyage he and M. Vavin were walking companions.

When they sat down to the captain's dinner on the last night out he had begun to feel that there was in him an undeveloped intellectual power—the inevitable and sometimes unfortunate result of association with intellectual men. In addition, he had in the course of his conversation during the voyage referred to the fact that he knew and had been engaged to Dora Fullerton, and Vavin, with surprise well concealed, had after that hunted him up on every favorable opportunity to get his opinion of the young woman, her surroundings, her friends and her inclinations.

"I met Mlle. Fullerton," he told Winthrop, "some years ago in Paris, when her father, Professor Fullerton, was lecturing there. She was a very sweet girl, and every year I have taken the liberty of sending her a token of my respect."

It may have been the champagne, it may have been the ground on which they met—talks about Dora—but when the captain's dinner was nearing its close Winthrop, who was known in college as the "great introducer," stood on his feet and declared he thought that it was about time they had "some remarks from M. Vavin, the great intellectual light of France."

There was a ripple of laughter, some half hearted applause, but the idea had gained momentum, and finally Vavin was obliged to stand and bow his acknowledgments.

"Speech!" insisted Winthrop, a cry that was laughingly taken up by the rest of the diners.

"Mesdames et messieurs, it is a great honor that you do me," began M. Vavin in French, and then, fixing his beetle eye on Winthrop, he continued in English, "I should hesitate to respond to this flattering idea of having me talk my way into this wonderful country of America if I did not understand that perhaps it is the national custom." And along this line he spoke for several minutes pleasantly and satirically, paying his attention to the rest of the guests and issuing them the compliments that only a Frenchman of his ability can issue.

"But, seriously, there is nothing in my life that I regret more than to say that at the age of fifty-nine I am coming to America for the first time. America is the great country of the woman. The entire geological process of the universe has meant America, because the time was bound to come when the women would control monsieur—would control the nation. The amazon was a futile effort, a sporadic outbreak. Generalship on the part of the women has only paved the way for America, the country of, for and by whom, if I may paraphrase the words of your remarkable patriot, Mr. Alexander Lincoln."

"Abraham!" shouted Winthrop.

"Was it Abraham?" said M. Vavin calmly. "It should have been Alexander. You will pardon me if the parents made a mistake of that kind. I am quite serious in what I say, and I say it with all respect. I say it with the most sincere emotion—the finest woman that I ever knew," and into the eyes of the speaker there came just the suggestion of a tear, "was an American woman. The finest woman that is living"—his voice grew strong and vigorous—"is an American woman." Then, realizing with the Frenchman's keen intuition that this change in tone and sentiment had rather startled his audience, he dropped his voice and added, "And it is with great satisfaction for my nation, if not for myself, that I say that both of these women had in the one instance a fondness for France and in the second a claim on France."

He was an extraordinary man, was this Jules Vavin, coming up to Paris at twenty with his little collection of poems under his arm. He had made the rounds of the publishers and the journals only to be regarded with amazement and even with laughter.

It was at a time when the Parnassians were at their height, with the symbolists crowding them closely and with here and there such rampant individual notes as Jean Richepin's "Je Blaspheme" adding literary chaos and color to the situation. One publisher, more kindly, more patient and with more leisure than the rest, at last promised, after he had glanced over the first poem of the series, to look them all over. Every one else had handed him back his manuscript after glancing at the first word and skimming over the titles.

Poor Jules came back to the publisher's office the second day, his heart full, his stomach empty, for the cheapest of Paris living had eaten up his funds, and there was only his mother who took financial interest in his welfare, but her income also was meager. To have an interview with the head of the great firm that was Hachette's principal rival was in itself a step forward, he argued. And if his book should be published—

MONDAY AFTERNOON CLUB DISCUSSES NEXT PROGRAM.

Under the direction of Mrs. Dense M. Van Vliet, the program for 1911-1912 was discussed at the meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club, held yesterday in the Hartridge School Auditorium. Many suggestions were made helpful to the executive board in arranging the plan of next year's study.

An interesting discussion followed on "Woman Suffrage," the theme for the past two meetings, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw having lectured in its favor, on November 21, and Miss Mary Jordan opposing it in her lecture on "Democracy and Women," delivered December 5.

MONMOUTH LAWMAKER IS OUT FOR MARTINE.

Assemblyman-elect James A. Hendrickson, in a formal statement issued yesterday, says he strongly favors the election of James E. Martine for United States Senator. He regards Mr. Martine as the party choice because of the primary result. Mr. Hendrickson has been classed as a Martine man all along.

The First District Democratic Club of Red Bank, has indorsed Martine for the Senatorship and adopted resolutions "urging upon the Assemblymen-elect from Monmouth County the importance of doing all in their power to aid in his selection, as we firmly believe that if the people's choice is over-thrown, it will do irreparable injury to the Democratic party in this State."

MARTINE HAS 29 VOTES

This is Enough to Make Primary Winner Choice of the Caucus.

Boss Jim Smith, Jr., had another bad day yesterday at the hands of the New Jersey progressives. Another of the alleged props was knocked from under his brazen attempt to wrest the United States Senatorship from his party and from the Democratic voters of the State. The delegation to the assembly from Morris county yesterday announced that it will line up with Governor-elect Wilson and the progressives in their advocacy of James E. Martine, the choice of the Democratic primary for United States Senator.

According to the calculations of the progressives, Martine now has enough votes in the assembly to assure his election. The latest estimates of his strength give him 29 votes, with but 11 votes pledged to Smith and with 10 votes doubtful. There are fifty Democrats in the legislature, and Martine thus requires 26 to win out.

It is fully expected by those who are watching the trend of events most closely that day by day the Martine strength will grow apace, for in the fierce light of the public opinion, which is every day becoming more intense and outspoken in its depudiation of Smith and all he stands for in the way of machine politics and special privilege legislation, the Democratic legislators are feeling a pressure from the public at large which is unique in the political annals of the State.

The bosses, both Democratic and Republican—for in this fight there is a fraternity of feeling between the bosses of both parties in their last desperate stand against the new force which Wilson and the solid phalanx of voters back of him represent—were further dismayed today by the announcement that Doctor Wilson will go before the people in another public document in a few days.

On Friday or Saturday of this week the Governor-elect intends to issue a lengthy statement to the people of New Jersey which will be at once an analysis of the situation and an inspiring call to arms to all good men and true in the State to arise and demand that the men whom they have elected to represent them as they indicated their will in the primary.

Doctor Wilson, followed his habit of taking the people entirely into his confidence in regard to all matters of public import, has felt it his duty as the elected leader of his party to resolve the present fight, which has been beclouded by inspired reports and arguments in all parts of the State and country, into its fundamentals.

He desires to let the people know just what the issues are that are being contested. He wishes to let the legislators know just what they are about to do when they cast their ballots for the United States Senator in this most unique and epoch-making contest.

There is no doubt in the minds of the people of the State but that Doctor Wilson will leave the entire question stripped down to its simplest terms, and that by the time he has concluded his analysis in his own peculiar and almost uncanny method of getting at the essentials, neither legislator nor voter nor political boss nor corporation crook will be in any dubt as to what the electin of Martine or of Smith will mean—both to the State and the country.

By Doctor Wilson's advisers it is thought that this statement will become as famous in the New Jersey political history as the letter to Record which was virtually responsible for the election of Wilson. The statement will be directed to the legislators in the first instance and will outline what, in Doctor Wilson's opinion, is the path of honor of the assemblymen in the contest.

He will point out that every consideration of party honor and public morality calls upon the Democratic assemblymen to stand by the pledge of their party at the convention and vote for the successful candidate at the primary. In the second place, it is understood, Doctor Wilson will address himself to the people of New Jersey, calling upon them to rouse themselves into a mighty storm of vigorous protest against the election of Smith, and thus force the recalcitrant legisaltors to actually represent them.

In the third place, it is thought that Doctor Wilson will go into the question of the circumstances surrounding his nomination and what he at that time understood the attitude of Smith to be regarding the senatorship. It has how become a matter of general report that Doctor Wilson in the conference in New York last July, at which the matter of his nomination for governor was discussed, was given to understand that Smith was in ill health and that

GOVERNOR-ELECT THANKS MR. MARTINE'S NEIGHBORS

Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson has written a letter expressing his appreciation of the action of Plainfield's business men in denouncing the attacks made on James E. Martine, which questioned his ability to fill the office of United States Senator. The merchants' resolution as transmitted to the scholar-statesman rebuked the newspapers published at distant points for giving space to articles reflecting on Martin's ability.

In his reply, acknowledging the "round robin," Governor-elect Wilson says:

"Allow me to acknowledge with real appreciation your letter of December 16, with its enclosures, the resolutions concerning Mr. Martine. Such resolutions greatly strengthen me and assist not a little to guide my purpose."

GOVERNOR-ELECT WILSON IS IN FIGHT TO FINISH

Calvin E. Brodhead, Assemblyman-elect, when interviewed as to the Senatorial situation yesterday, had this to say of Mr. Martine's chances:

"Mr. Smith's letter has made no change in the Senatorial situation. Everybody knows that he has been an active candidate ever since the election was over. On the other hand his strength is growing and will crystallize into an irresistible force before the balloting commences. Governor-elect Wilson is in the fight to a finish and there will be no compromise."

Xmas Music at 1st Baptist Church.

The clubhouse will be elaborately decorated, as usual, for the holiday season, and there will be a number of attractive features. The Junior dance will be held Saturday night, December 31, and there will be the usual New Year's Day festivities.

SALVATION ARMY DINNERS

Five Hundred Families to Enjoy Christmas Cheer Through Salvationists.

Five hundred dinners will be distributed among the poor of Plainfield on Saturday night next, and as a result, joy will reign on Christmas Day in humble cottage as well as palatial mansion. Indeed, it is fitting that sympathy should be the keynote at this festive Yuletide season and that the right hand of good fellowship should be extended at this time toward those whom the world deems less fortunate.

This evidence of "good will toward men" has been made possible through the kindly contributions of the citizens of Plainfield and is a climax worthy of the untiring efforts of the local Salvation Army.

Lest some should fail to grasp the full significance of these five hundred dinners it might be well to mention that each of them will contain: chicken, potatoes, bread and butter, sugar, coffee, crackers and oranges, in varying proportions, according to the size of the family provided.

These Christmas dinners for the poor will be given out at eight o'clock on Saturday night at the local headquarters of the Salvation Army and the people who will be served have been carefully selected as the most needy and deserving in our midst.

A like number were fed last year at Christmas time, though now there are many new comers to the city. On the following Wednesday, an entertainment will be given at the Salvation Army hall to poor children and among other things each child will receive presents such as toys, warm underclothing and dolls. Not the least interesting feature of the entertainment will be a Christmas tree. These blessings for the poor of Plainfield have been made possible through the generous response of the public and Capt. and Mrs. Hewitt take this opportunity to express their heartfelt thanks to all who have contributed, whether through the medium of the tripod stands on the streets, or by mail.

Those who have displayed their practical Christianity by helping the good cause along will doubtless receive a full reward in the knowledge that they have helped to enlighten the burden of their fellow men at a time when all the world is saying "Peace on Earth Good Will Toward Men."

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH S. S. CHRISTMAS SERVICE

The Sunday-school of the First Baptist church, under the direction of a committee of which Arthur M. Harris is the chairman, has planned an elaborate religious Christmas service to be held at the church, Friday evening at 8 o'clock. In addition to the singing of Christmas carols by the school and recitations, presentations of gifts, etc., there will be instrumental selections by the Norma Trio comprising Miss Edna White, trumpet soloist; Miss Norma Sauter, violinist and Miss Cora Sauter, 'cellist.

This trio filled a long engagement at the Ocean Grove Auditorium last summer and proved one of the great attractions at the concerts; also at the Sunday services. An address will also be made by Rev. Winfred R. Ackert, pastor of the Vermilye chapel, connected with the Collegiate church of St. Nicholas, New York city.

The aim of the First Baptist church and Bible school this year, is to carry out the teaching of Christ, "It is more blessed to give than to receive." The presentation of gifts by the different classes for the poor will be an important feature of the service.

Slick Thief.

One of the slickest thieves yet caught is one John W. Vincent, alias John W. Wilson, who was arrested in Providence, R. I. yesterday. Vincent disguised himself as a workman and helped himself to silver bars from the safe of the Gorham Mfg. Co., in Providence. Vincent was caught through the vigilance of John F. Harmon, of West Eighth street, this city, who became suspicious when a bar of the stolen silver was presented to his firm, Handy and Harmon, at 22 Pine street, New York, to be refined. Mr. Harmon wired the Providence firm and Vincent was nabbed after stealing another ingot worth approximately $800.

SWEET SENTIMENTS OF "GOOD FELLOWS"

Two mighty Good Fellows dropped into the poetical yesterday and announced that they had made up their minds to keep up their membership in the club in language whose import cold type can scarcely convey. Here's one of them:

"Well, here's Christmas again. Some call it Merry Christmas because everybody wants everybody else to be happy. Yes, I want all the youngsters to be happy, but unfortunately I cannot take care of more than twenty. I want them to be happy as I am while I am writing this to the big "Good Fellow." I find it hard at times to tell others my feelings, but I find it easy to share mine with them, especially when they are brimming over as they are today."

The other fellow says: "It is the merry laugh of children, the warm hand clasp of a friend, the thought of gladness.. All quickens the heart and causes it to sing. It makes one forget self in wishing others well and that echoes up to the very stars the notes of happiness."

There are but three days left for you to enlist now and there are still some poor little folks wistfully looking up and around the chimney for the coming of Santa. Will you let them look in vain? I would not. Get on the big sleigh with the ruddy faced saint and put your gifts in his sack. Then lay back and see the smiles creep over the features of the happiest little mortals you ever conjured up in your mind's eye. It will spell happiness for you the rest of the year, regardless of whether November's political results or the last snowstorm or anything else has made you a little grouchy.

"Good Fellow" is waiting to acknowledge your willingness to help him help others to have just the best and happiest time ever. Read the letter published today on page 4, addressed to the Good Fellows of Plainfield.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE FOR LINAS WALPOLE OF ' PLAINS.

Linas Walpole, of Scotch Plains, got into a mess with R. H. B. Dalley, special policeman employed at Proctor's theatre last night and as a result was arrested and passed the night in a cell at Police headquarters. He was arrested by Patrolman Tobias Nolan on complaint of Ernest James and special policeman Dalley.

James appeared as complainant in the police court this morning and said that Walpole created a disturbance in front of the theatre which attracted a crowd, and when requested to go away insisted upon entering the theatre. Sentence was suspended this morning bp Judge Runyon.

BOUND BROOK BOILING

Don't Like Being Told That They Cannot Protest Against Sewage Disposal.

Bound Brook is stirred from centre to circumference today and excitement is running high over the statement of Sherrard Depue, of the law firm of Lindaberry, Depue & Faulks, of Newark, that Bound Brook had permitted the time limit for objections against a North Plainfield sewerage disposal plant to expire. That such is the case seems to have awakened the people to a sense of what is termed their danger of having a sewage disposal plant in their back yard.

Mr. Depue, on Monday, appeared before the State Board of Health and urged the claims of North Plainfield for the establishment of its plant and in arguing the point for the borough declared that the limit of thirty days provided in the statutes of 1907 had expired and that therefore the inhabitants of the township of Bound Brook had no further right to object to the work proposed by North Plainfield.

Residents of that pretty section of the country seem to think that they have not only a right, but propose to exercise it, and that vigorously, to prevent the dumping of sewage within a mile of the township limits. According to the law, to which Mr. Depue is said to have referred, the residents of a municipality are not the only people who have a right to object to a proposition such as a sewerage question is, but all the people of the township, borough and municipality and therefore, there is no legal time limit put on those outside of the city in which to file their objections with the State Board of Health.

Monday's hearing was not advertised, it is said, so that those of the territory concerned could be present to raise their voices against the proposed establishment and only one or two of those concerned convinced the president of the board, John H. Capstick, that the motion of Mr. Depue was illegal and the public hearing was set down for January 24 next.

In speaking on the subject this morning Henry C. Snyder, of Bound Brook, said that his interpretation of the law under which Mr. Depue had based his opinion as to the expiration of the time limit was entirely different and he believed that the people of Bound Brook had a right to object on sanitary grounds against the proposal of the North Plainfield people to make an ill-smelling spot of the environs of his city.

DE BRIGARD IN TROUBLE, HIS STORE IS CLOSED

Boice, Runyon & Co., through Isaac P. Runyon, has placed an attachment on the goods in the store of Louis DeBrigard on Park avenue, for the November and December rent. Mr. DeBrigard closed the store, which is in the building of Boice, Runyon & Co., several days ago and has failed to notify the concern as to what he intended to do.

Mr. DeBrigard had a young man working for him, who joined him in signing the lease for the store, but the clerk disclaims any responsibility and says that he was not in partnership with DeBrigard. DeBrigard conducted an art and supply store, having been located on Park avenue for the past two years, formerly being associated with Paul Collier.

SCHWARTZMAN'S FURS FOUND IN NEW YORK

Perhaps some of the fur articles alleged to have been stolen from the store of Max Schwartzman, on East Front street, were not taken at all. Chief of Police Kiely has received a letter from C. E. Malgadey, 36 West 26th street, New York, in which Mr. Malgadey says that he has some furs which were sent to him by Julian Davis, the young man accused by Schwartzman, of embezzling $500. The articles were sent in to be repaired.

The New York merchant enumerates certain furs which he says belongs to customers of Mr. Schwartzman, in this city. As they could not have been on hand when the last inventory of the stock in the store was taken they may prove to be part of the furs alleged to have been disposed of by Schwartzman's manager.

WATCHUNG RESIDENTS HAVE MAD DOG SCARE

The residents of Watchung are in the midst of a mad dog scare as the result of a rabid canine running amuck in the valley about two weeks ago. The animal bit two dogs belonging to John Mobus and another belonging to Theodore Luerson, both of which went mad yesterday. They were promptly shot by Marshal Clement. Six pigs the property of Clarence Kellogg, whose barn was destroyed by fire last week, also fell victims to the dog's bite and had to be slaughtered Monday. The porkers were separated as soon as it was known the canine had been in their midst but all gave unmistakable signs of rabies.

Beside the three dogs and pigs, it is known that two cows were also bitten but the owners have not been located. An effort is being made to find them. It may be possible that other animals have been affected and all the farmers are keeping a close watch on their stock.

The dog at the bottom of the trouble was a homeless mongrel that first made its appearance directly in Watchung. As soon as it became known that it was mad, Constable Clement started in pursuit and finally killed it. The head was sent to the State chemist at Trenton and word was received in reply that rabies were plainly evident.

SALE OF CITY MARKET PROPERTY JANUARY 4.

A sale of the City Market property was scheduled to take place in the sheriff's office at Elizabeth at 2 o'clock, this afternoon but a postponement was obtained by the interested parties pntil January 4. There are two mortgages on the property, one held by Mrs. Lillian Mendenhall, of New York, who is represented by I. P. Runyon, and another by Mrs. Lydia Bullock, of this city, who invested $4,000 in the venture, and who is represented by W. S. Angleman. It is said that it will require about $32,000 to clean up the matter.

Among those who are interested in the company controlling the market property are Clarence L. Murphy, Ira L. LaRue and Mrs. T. Logan Murphy, known as the Quoin Investment company. They acquired the property from a Mrs. Peck, of New York, and the market was opened about a year ago.

RIDDLES SMITH BOOM; PLEADS FOR MARTINE

The candidacy of James E. Martine for United States Senator received a big boom Sunday at a meeting in the People's Institute at Jersey City. Representative-elect Henry George, of New York, said that now was New Jersey's opportunity to take a great stride toward redeeming herself in the country's eyes.

Then he continued:

"James Smith, Jr., boss of the Democratic machine, now in the ascendency in New Jersey politics, is, outside the borders of your State, regarded as a type of monopoly corporation servant. He has been in the past faithful to their interests. He is believed to be such now. What guarantee does he give that he will not be so in the future? On the other hand, James E. Martine is, and always has been, faithful to the principle of equal rights for all and special privileges to none. Moreover, the Democratic platform declared for Martine. Is Mr. Boss Smith to be permitted to set aside this referendum to the Democratic party and put himself into the Senate?

I believe that the aggressive, brilliant and courageous Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson, in taking the leadership of his party into his own hands and making war against the old-style, rotten machine interests of the people while serving the least bidding of privilege, is not only doing his duty toward the State of which he is to be the Chief Magistrate, but is giving hope to the whole country that the day of New Jersey's redemption from the thralldom of privilege has begun to dawn."

TRAIN KILLS A HORSE AND INJURES DRIVER.

A one-horse delivery wagon belonging to Crickenberger Bros., and driven by Matthew Slaughter, colored, was struck by an eastbound freight engine at the Central avenue railroad crossing, Westfield, at 6:45 o'clock yesterday morning. The horse was killed and the wagon demolished.

The driver was picked up unconscious a few moments after the accident, put on the train and taken to the Elizabeth General Hospital. The gate-tender, Pierce McCormick, claims that the man drove under the gates as he was lowering them, apparently trying to cross ahead of a passenger train standing at the station, but not seeing a fast freight approaching, which was hidden from his veiw by the passenger train.

Wind Up Your Christmas Shopping Here

Some stores allow their Christmas stocks to run down so that those who, through necessity or oversight, have put off their holiday buying until the final hour, are obliged to take whatever there is left. It would be manifestly ridiculous for us to claim that our stocks are as complete now as they were a fortnight since, because every one knows that we have had the greatest holiday trade in the history of our business, but we do say and we stand ready to prove it, too, that our assortments are more complete than some stores because we buy in greater quantities and because we are constantly replenishing. If the very thing you have set your heart on is not here (which is improbable) you will have no difficulty determining upon something else just as good. Wind up your shopping at this store—your Christmas will be all the merrier for it.

Santa Claus Getting Busier

Hello! Hello! That you, Hahne & Co.? Yes? Well, this is Santa Claus—and I want to tell you there are more kids around this town than I ever saw before. Letters piling upon me to beat the band. I don't know how I'm going to fill all the stockings. Better order 10,000 more dolls, 1,000 more trains of cars, 4,000 more sleds, 50,000 more books, 1,000 more drums—and those traction toys, can you get any more of them? Air rifles, too—several hundred more of them. And how about tree ornaments? Got plenty? Need lots of them—going to put up more trees than ever.

"Think I'm getting old? Think I'm getting played out, maybe? Well, we'll see. I'm going to dump more toys, more playthings in on Newark than it ever saw before, and pretty nearly all of them are coming from your store. Big job? You bet. But I'm an old hand at this business and anyone who knows how to crawl down chimneys like I do knows how to get around to every house in town in jig-time.

"I'm working both reindeers and automobiles this year. Look out for the 'din-a-ling' and the 'honkhonk!'

"Tell folks to put the kiddies to bed early for I've got to make an early start to get thru. By the way, better make a hundred tons more of those bully candies you sell. I can't get any others as good as they are anywhere So long."

FRED TENNEY WILL MANAGE BOSTON CLUB

Fred Tenney will manage the Bostno National League baseball team next season. The board of directors, William Hepburn Russell, L. Cowes Page, George A. Page and Frederic J. Murphy, met at the club office and at the conclusion of the meeting President Russell made the following statement:

"The board of directors has been in session and has conferred with Messrs. Fred Lake and Fred Tenney.

"The directors all like Mr. Lake very much, and had it not been for negotiations made previous to the change of ownership, no change would have been made in the management of the club at this time.

"Mr. Tenney has been of greatest possible service to me as the negotiations to buy the club were in progress.

"Today the directors decided that the manager of the club for 1911 should be Fred Tenney.

"Mr. Lake's contract, which calls for $5,000 salary for 1911, will be lived up to in every particular, and the money will be paid in accordance with his contract unless at Mr. Lake's own request the contract is terminated.

"We only regret that we cannot have two heads for the same undertaking, but it is obvious that we can't.

"Lake will remain connected with the team as an advisor until the termination of his contract."

BASEBALL.

The national Baseball Commission yesterday decided that Catcher O'Neill, drafted by the Philadelphia American League Club from the Elmira club of the New York State League, had been purposely released by the Elmira club to avoid the drafting of the player. The drafting of the player is held to be legal, but on account of the action of the Elmira club the money is awarded to the New York State League. The commission also decided that in the similar case of Player Smith, drafted by the Pittsburg National League Club from the Jacksonville club, the drafting was legal. However, the drafting money is to be paid to the South Atlantic League instead of the Jacksonville club, because of the Jacksonville club having already signed the player to a contract for 1911.

Herrmann has not abandoned his scheme for an interleague schedule. He talked with magnates in both leagues last week and has so many arguments to show that his plan is practicable that he believes there will be a change of sentiment in his favor before another year has passed. Hermann says that his plan can be modified so that each major league can play a schedule of ninety-eight games, including two Western and Eastern trips, after which each club in the National for instance can play eight games with each club in the American, a combined schedule of 152 games instead of 176 games for the entire season.

The Cleveland club, in addition to Griggs, secured from the Browns in exchange for Catcher Clarke, has landed a pitcher named Gregg, who did remarkable work on the Pacific coast this year. Deacon Jim McGuire, the Cleveland manager, appears to have rounded up a formidable lot of young players, including Joe Jackson, the heavy-hitting outfielder; First Baseman Hohnhurst, and Pitchers Blanding, Mitchell and Kaler.

It is predicted by scouts that in Chalmers the Philadelphia Nationals have picked up a coming pitcher. Chalmers is a New York boy who first attracted attention by his work with semi-professional teams in Harlem and The Bronx. He was the best pitcher in the New York State League last season and after joining the Quakers he showed unusual form against the Giants at the Polo Grounds, by holding them down to a few scattered hits and winning his game. He is a powerfully built fellow, about 26 years old and has unlimited confidence in his ability to make good in fast company.

MANAGER CONNIE MACK IS REWARDED BY CLUB.

That the services of Manager Connie Mack, of the Philadelphia Athletics, are appreciated by the stockholders of the Athletic Baseball Club was shown at the annual meeting, when the assembled potentates voted the popular manager of the White Elephants $5,000 as a wedding present, in recognition of his services during the past season.

Connie and Mrs. McGillicuddy are now somewhere in the south of Europe, and the letter sent by the club, enclosing the best wishes of the sockholders and the check for $5,000 will probably arrive before Christmas. This is the first time in the history of organized baseball that a manager has been so handsomely treated for winning a world's championship.

Owing to the holiday season the missionary study class of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church will not hold its regular meeting this week.

THE DAILY PRESS.

Plainfield, N. J., December 21, 1910.

CONSOLIDATION FIRST.

It is quite apparent that there is a difference of opinion among the people of North Plainfield and Plainfield as to the feasibility and practicability of a consolidation of the two places. Even among those who look with favor upon the merger plan, there appears to be a strong sentiment against renewing the agitation at this time. Some citizens, some very influential citizens, hold that in the light of present events in both the city and the borough, it is most inopportune to stir up the subject just now. One even goes so far as to remark that he "does not consider the matter is regarded seriously enough by the municipal bodies of either the borough or the city" to warrant discussion.

During the last week or so, this paper has communicated with men prominent in civic affairs, men who pay into either the city or borough treasury, goodly sums as taxes each year. Unfortunately we are honor bound not to reveal the identity of most of those whose views we have sought nor the expressions which they have made for permission to publish the replies was expressly withheld. It is no violation of confidence, however, to state that the sum and substance of the objections to reviving the consolidation proposition are based on the claim that other weighty problems on which time, effort and money have been expended are still unsettled and it would be an injustice to divert public attention from these matters which are held to be of prime importance and urgent necessity.

At no small sacrifice to themselves, a number of the borough's citizens have worked indefatigably for the solution of the sewage disposal problem. It is quite natural that they should be anxious to bring their efforts to a successful termination before the borough tackles another big problem. And so it is as respects the water question, which interests the residents "over the brook" quite as much as it does the authorities of this city who have expended thousands to ascertain if by some chance there be a way to rid the community of the private monopoly and to make money and reduce rates at the same time in the operation of an "M. O." plant.

To us, such reasons as objections to renewing the agitation for consolidation are unsound. They are in reality, we submit, reasons why a merger should be brought about at the earliest possible day. It would be manifestly unwise for the borough to construct a sanitary sewage disposal system larger than is required for its needs for a reasonable time to come unless first assured that such a plant would be adequate for the needs of both borough and the city as well, and that it would be required for such purposes. Nothing less than the consummation of a merger aforehand would warrant this assurance. The same line of argument holds good as to the water problem. Each community is at a disadvantage in attempting to satisfactorily solve this question as the situation is at present. To our way of thinking the thing to do is first to ascertain definitely and for all time whether the community is to be one in law as it is in every other respect or whether it is to continue to be divided against itself. Then the water and sewage problems would be easy to settle.

HACKLEBARNEY WATER.

After examining half a dozen sources from which Plainfield may possibly obtain a water supply, Mr. Fuertes, the expert, whose report will be considered tonight by the Common Council meeting as a committee on the whole, expresses a preference for Hacklebarney. Hacklebarney is a hamlet in Morris county, two or three miles southwest of Chester, and about eighteen miles from this city "as the crow flies," but by pipe route nearly twenty miles. Water, the expert asserts, will flow from that source to Plainfield by gravity, but occasionally, at least, before it enters the city it must be passed through a filter plant and treated with soda ash, bleaching powder, sulphate of aluminum, hypochlorite of lime and compressed air to remove turbidity, color, odor and bacteria.

The quantity of water in its raw state at Hacklebarney, which is on the Lamington or Black river, is thus described in the expert's report:

"The only respect in which Black River water, as drawn from the proposed reservoirs (at Hacklebarney) without filtration, might not entirely satisfy the inhabitants of Plainfield would be in regard to tubidity or muddiness. Plainfield has been supplied for many years with clear colorless water derived from underground sources, and a very high standard has thus been unconsciously established with which comparisons would be made by the water consumers in the event of a new supply being provided. Unquestionably any natural surface water supply will be less attractive in appearance, and possibly less palatable than the ground water now supplied to Plainfield. Surface waters almost always are slightly discolored, are usually very slightly turbid, and in the fall of the year sometimes acquire noticeable odors and tastes, due to plant life. These odors and tastes most frequently result from the secretion of pungent vegetable oils from cells of very small plants and organic forms, frequently microscopic in size, which grow in the water under favorable conditions of temperature and sunlight. In most instances these more or less unpleasant features are not sufficiently noticeable to cause complaint by the consumers. In other cases they are the cause of much dissatisfaction."

We are assured, however, by the expert, that all of these objectionable qualities can be removed by the scientific treatment recommended in the report. We are not assured, however, that the taste of the water can be rendered acceptable to the palate by any process heretofore devised.

And there are other objections to Hacklebarney as a source of water supply for us, which we will point out should the city fathers tonight or at any other time seriously consider it. It is most likely that as the report is thoroughly digested, it may appear that some other place in preferable to Hacklebarney.

Among all the candidates for police court judge in Elizabeth, there is but one who would grace the bench and he is Robert H. McAdams.

—Charles Conover, of Elmwood place, is building an adition to his barn, making it double its present dimensions.

TO THE "GOOD FELLOWS" OF PLAINFIELD

TO THE GOOD FELLOWS OF PLAINFIELD:

Just about this time last year I told you my story. You listened to it—you did more—you followed its spirit out in a bang-up style. I'm not claiming any credit for my story; I'm claiming credit for knowing that there are many Good Fellows in this fine old town of ours—royal chaps who don't do much preaching but when it comes to doing a good turn, well, they're there with the goods. This is no sermon that I'm handing you, it's a heart-to-heart talk with men with red blood in their veins, and here it is off last year's reel:

Last Christmas and New Year's eve you and I went out for a good time and spent from $10 to $200. Last Christmas morning hundreds of children awoke to an empty stocking—the bitter pain of disappointment that Santa Claus had forgotten them. Perhaps it wasn't our fault. We had provided for our own; we had also reflected in a passing way on those less fortunate than our own, but they seemed far off and we didn't know where to find them. Perhaps in the hundred and one things we had to do some of us didn't think of that heart sorrow of the child over the empty stocking.

Now, old man, here's a chance. I have tried for the last five years and ask you to consider it. Just send your name and address to The Daily Press—address Santa Claus—state about how many children you are willing to protect against grief over that empty stocking, inclose a two-cent stamp and you will be furnished with the names, addresses, sex, and age of that many children. It is then up to you, you do the rest. Select your won present, spend 50 cents or $50, and send or take your gifts to those children on Christmas eve. You pay not a cent more than you want to pay—every cent goes just where you want it to go. You gain neither notoriety nor advertising; you deal with no organization; no record will be kept; your letter will be returned to you with its answer. The whole plan is just as anonymous as old Santa Claus himself.

This is not a newspaper scheme. The Daily Press was asked to aid in reaching the good fellow by publishing this suggestion and to receive your communication in order that you may be assured of good faith and to preserve the anonymous character of this work. The identity of the writer of this appeal will not be disclosed. He assumes the responsibility of finding the children and sending you their names and guarantees that whatever you bestow will be deserved.

Neither you nor I get anything out of this, except the feeling that you have saved some child from sorrow on Christmas morning. If that is not enough for you then you have wasted time in reading this—it is not intended for you, but for the good fellows of Plainfield.

Perhaps a twenty-five cent doll or a ten cent tin toy wouldn't mean much to the children you know, but to the child who would find them in the otherwise empty stocking they mean much—the difference between utter disappointment and the joy that Santa Claus did not forget them. Here is where you and I get in. The charitable organizations attend to the bread and meat; the clothes; the necessaries; you and the rest of the good fellows furnish the toys, the nuts, the candies; the child's real Christmas.

GOOD FELLOW.

The Daily Press, one year ago, investigated the "good fellow" who wrote the above, looked him in the eye and put its O. K. on the plan. The cold blooded, blase representative who saw him wrote: "He made me feel, personally, that it would be really worth while in satisfaction to carry a little happiness to some children who otherwise wouldn't get any on Christmas eve." "Good Fellow" is not a professional philanthropist, he takes a drink, and even goes out at night with the boys for a mild good time—but he has taken care of from fifteen to twenty children a year in Plainfield. He said that a year ago last Christmas day he wished he had curtailed his holiday joy-making with the good fellows even more than he did, so that he might have had more money to gladden childish hearts.

The Worthy Grand Master of the lodge of Good Fellows has laid his plans for securing names through the Charity Organization Society.

This is how you can join the lodge of Good Fellows. Write a letter to "Santa Claus," care of The Daily Press, something like this:

I live at No.———— Street. I will be Santa Claus to 6 children.
John Jones.

The letter will go to Santa Claus. He will indorse on your letter the names and addresses of six children. That letter will be remailed to you. Then you get busy. That's all. Come on in, good fellows.

"THE PRINCE OF MYSTERY" THE ATTRACTION XMAS DAY.

"The Prince of Mystery." That is the name that has often been applied to Powell, the magician who, with his excellent company headed by Zazell & Vernon, comes to the Plainfield theatre, Christmas Day, December 26, for two performances, matinee and night. His feats of legerdemain are without a parallel and children as well as grownups are mystified by his wonderful magic.

Christmas Day has been chosen by Proctor & Sanderson for this great attraction as the day stands for good cheer and the holiday spirit pervade—and the performance will be in keeping with the day and season—one of hilarity, happiness and festivity. Patrons are advised to secure seats early as there is a great demand for tickets.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The Prosperity League of Cape May County has decided to issue a large map of the county.

With the continuation of cold weather cod fishing has commenced in earnest from Anglesea, and a large number of fine specimens are being brought in.

Fire from the explosion of a lamp at the home of Morris Miller, of 159 North Third street, Paterson, caused a loss amounting to $2,500 Saturday evening.

Mayor John J. Cain, of Bayonne, has appointed Dr. Archibald C. Forman, Dr. J. C. L. Borgmeyer and Thomas M. O'Brien members of the Board of Education to take office on January 1. They are all Democrats, and the new board will be the first Democratic one in four years.

Petitions are being numerously signed in Trenton for a Carnegie medal for John L. Van Luppen, of 1106 Chestnut avenue, that city, who has in the past four years stopped ten runaway horses and saved many lives thereby. The man gained his experience with horses in the West, and it is estimated that he has saved more than twenty-five lives in the past four years.

Boardwalk promenaders in the vicinity of the Casino, Atlantic City, were startled Sunday afternoon to see two young men in bathing suits dart swiftly from the Casino and hurl themselves breast high into the surf. They were James Phillips and Earl V. Dailey, of Philadelphia, who are week-end visitors at the Hotel Dunlop. Hundreds of persons gathered in a drizzling rain and watched their antics.

Breaking through the ice into the deep channel of Assiscunck Creek, Burlington, a valuable trotter owned by T. P. Barnaby was rescued in a sensational manner Sunday afternoon. Courageous skaters cut the harness and wagon from the floundering horse, and the vehicle disappeared under the ice. Ice saws were then procured from a nearby icehouse, a long lane was opened and the animal was drawn ashore, practically uninjured.

Rev. Bernard Daly, O. S. A., for the past year assistant pastor at St. Nicholas' Church, Atlantic City, has been elevated to the pastorate of the Church of Our Lady of Good Counsel, at Tompkinsville, Staten Island, and will leave to assume his new charge on Wednesday. He will be succeeded at Atlantic City by Rev. John Howard, at present assistant pastor at Schaghticoke, N. Y., where Rev. Edward J. Flynn is pastor.

The ceremony uniting in marriage Rev. Joseph Lyons Ewing, of the West Presbyterian church, Bridgeton, and Miss Mary Edna McGalliard, superintendent of the primary department of his Sunday school, will take place in the church on Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Heber H. Beadle, of the Second church, will officiate. Mr. Ewing has resigned the pastorate of the church and will go at once after the ceremony to his new charge at Jersey Shore, Pa.

A suit instituted by John T. R. Proctor editor of the Bayonne Daily Times, a Republican newspaper, to compel former Recorder Hyman Lazarus, a Democrat, to surrender a majority of the stock of the company, has been decided by Vice-Chancellor Garrison in favor of Lazarus. Proctor asserted that he gave the shares to Lazarus as security for his indorsement of loans aggregating $7,000. Lazarus contended that the stock was given to him in return for his services to the paper.

The Cumberland County Board of Freeholders has issued orders to the justices of peace throughout the county that prompt reports of fines collected and money collected in criminal cases must be made to the county collector and the cash paid to the county treasurer. It is stated that the board intends to proceed against delinquents. The records show that but four justices of the peace in the entire county have made settlement in full and retired without making any returns at all.

But for the snoring of James Hughes, said to have been bound out to a farmer of Cranbury, N. J., by the authorities of an institution at Glen Mills, Pa. the small lad would have frozen to death late Saturday night. A Trenton policeman heard the snoring as he was passing a freight car, and investigating, found the Hughes boy asleep. The lad was taken to the police station and his feet were found badly frozen. He said he had run away from the Cranbury farmer because of bad treatment he had received.

Suffering from a disclocated shoulder, Joseph Kane, twenty-six years old, of Second and Washington streets, was attended at Cooper Hospital, Camden, Sunday and later locked up on a charge of assault and battery preferred by Eli Jackson, of 318 Line street. Jackson made the complaint on behalf of his 16year old daughter, who alleges that Kane made an effort to assault her. It was when Kane started to run away from the angry father that he fell on the ice, Jackson says, and sustained the injuries that sent him to the hospital.

Accosted by a young highwayman, who brandished a loaded revolver while he demanded her money, Miss Mary Newell, in Bridgeton, late Saturday evening, handed over her pocketbook to him without a word, and then as he ran off with it she hastened to notify some young men whom she saw approaching. They captured a man in the City Park who is now in jail awaiting a hearing. He proved to be Robert Shoemaker, nineteen years old, son of a farmer just outside of Bridgeton, and a regular attendant at one of the Bridgeton Sunday schools.

Fearing that in Atlantic City, as had been done in Washington, the collection of the mail by automobile might receive a setback if too many accidents were reported, Charles B. Johnson, thirty-four years old, one of the men engaged in the collection of the mail, suffered the most intense pain for twelve days from a broken rib rather than report the accident. Johnson fell across the mail box of the automobile with such force that one of his ribs became fractured. Saturday the pain became so intense that he was compelled to seek surgical attention.

GOOD WORK.

Done Daily in Plainfield—Many Citizens Tell of It.

Nearly every reader has heard of Doan's Kidney Pills. Their good work in Plainfield still continues, and our citizens are constantly adding endorsement by public testimony. No better proof of merit can be had than the experience of friends and neighbors. Read this case:

Mrs. W. W. Mills, 304 West Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "A dull, heavy, bearing-down pain in ym back othbered me a great deal especially when I caught cold. I also had frequent headaches and was at times so dizzy that I could scarcely see. If I did much stooping or lifting, my back became very lame and though I used plasters, I was relieved only for the time being. Finally on the advise of a friend, I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Pharmacy and began this use. They acted in every way as represented and in a short time rid me of all symptoms of kidney trouble. I am pleased to recommend a remedy of such undoubted merit."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

FILET LACE BEDSPREAD.

Filet lace upon a bedspread in conjunction with broderie anglaise is much used. A foundation of fine linen hemstitched with a fancy beading is very nice. Large and small squares of filet lace are inserted at regular intervals, the design for broderie anglaise being so arranged that it mingles with, surrounds and supports the lace.

The principal part of the decoration should be upon the top of the bedspread, as the part hanging over the sides is not seen so much. Filet lace with this work seems to give the required lightness, and any one unable to make the lace can buy squares prepared and ready for insertion, after which the broderie naglaise is done.

Filet lace will be found a fascinating study. The squares of net are sewn into frames specially made for the purpose and the darning process is then done. Patterns to copy and books on the subject make its manufacture quite easy.

OUR INVALID.

It is only in extreme cases and at inopportune times that visitors are excluded from the sickroom—the tedium of confiement is relieved so much by the smiling countenance and cheery word of a friend.

It may seem almost superfluous to offer any suggestions as to the means of making a call upon the sick acceptable, yet "often times we do offend where most we wish to please." How many, even among those who are the promptest to discharge their duty in such cases, are so welcome that their return is awaited with eagerness?

The failure, or partial failure, of such well-meaning persons may arise from the fact that the sense of duty which has promptel the visit is allowed to make itself too apparent. Calling upon the sick is by no means the pleasantest of tasks and it is not to be wondered at, perhaps, if the duty is sometimes put off until the delay is no longer excusable.

THE HARVEST MOON

Copyright, 1909, by Augustus Thomas

The reception was most encouraging. "Sit down, my boy," said the old gentleman as Jules was ushered into his office, an office that had known the presence of nearly every great literary man of France for years. Here Hugo had come with his first work, Lamartine and Balzac had conferred with this old man, and dramatists galore from Augier to Dumas fils had taken his counsel. It was to young Vavin another academy, dedicated to literature, having an atmosphere of its own—being, in fact, a universe, different from that which made its presence known by the clattering cabs outside on the Boulevard des Italiens.

"You come from where, monsieur?" he said after a few minutes' commune with himself, fingering the while Jules' manuscript, which was on the desk before him when the young poet entered.

"From Haute-voire, monsieur."

"And you are—years of age?"

"Twenty, monsieur."

"And you look to poetry as a profession or trade?"

The old man's eyes twinkled, but Jules did not see that. At twenty one sees little but oneself, one has one's own orbit, and the things and influences one admits at that time become an irrevocable part of the after life of the young individual.

"Monsieur, I beg your pardon"— To speak of poetry as a trade or a profession was to Jules a gratuitous insult.

"Do not be hasty, M. Vivan. I am an old man, and I know many things. I wish I knew less. Here you have written many beautiful things. You have written them beautifully, but," and the old man spoke in tones that were genuinely sad, "you have only written poetry."

Inexperienced in the irony of the Parisian world, of which he was afterward to be the acknowledged master, Vavin stared hopelessly at the publisher.

"I am a Frenchman—as loyal, as true a Frenchman as there is," went on Flamand. "But we are not doing the things our instinct prompts. We are the Frankensteins of our intellect. You are a failure as a poet because you do not realize that with us poetry must be written to prove something, to suggest something or do something that to your unlettered mind has nothing whatsoever to do with poetry. I suppose you will say that this is all wrong; that a lark when she sings does not try to suggest to you the cathedral at Rouen or an English fog or that she is not trying to preach a sermon on anti-Semitism or pro-Kantism or anything of that sort. We have the greatest artists in the world. They are technically the most accomplished, they are the truest lovers of art, but—so people say—they paint with the soul of a preacher. They are more interested in their theories than they are in their art. Art to them is a mistress, not a wife.

"You are a poet. That is not bad," he continued. "But that is all you are. A poet in these days must be a poet philosopher, or poet Socialist, or poet colonist, etc., and must get into what he writes more philosophy, socialism, color, etc., than poetry. The people do not want poetry, but they will read it occasionally if, like the doctor's pills, it has a coating that is palatable.

"Your poems are therefore impossible, and that you should have written them demonstrates that you—pardon my frankness—are also impossible. Your poems are an insult to intelligent Paris. They will be laughed at by every man who reads poetry or reviews it. You will be pointed out in the sheets as a very ridiculous figure. You have affronted all Paris by offering me these manuscripts, and I will publish them with our January works."

Jules, who had sat spellbound during this talk, breathing hard, angrily, but gradually getting the spirit of the discourse, verily leaped from his chair at the unexpected decision.

"And," continued the old man, ignoring Vavin's excitement, "as you will probably find, Paris will not offer you occupation readily, and, as you have no money, your father is dead and your mother has little money, do me the honor to call here on Tuesday and I will introduce you to the professor of Greek languages and literature at the Rouen academy, who is looking for an assistant."

In his memoirs, yet unpublished, Vavin has written:

"That conversation changed my whole life. I came out gasping. He was an elder man than I, and therefore I could ask no questions. He seemed to me the very embodiment of the Mephistopheles of the middle ages—smiling, unbelieving, all knowing, all possessing, yet kindly. Only when I read my own poems in print did I realize that he had gathered his knowledge of me from them."

FOR HOME AND PERSONAL USE.

Christmas Gifts which add to the convenience of the home or the physical comfort of the recipient are always appreciated.

In this class are portable lamps, gas or electric, which may be had in a variety of designs and at prices to suit any purse. Also artistic domes for the dining room or library.

For cooking, the electric chafing dish, the coffee percolator, the electric or gas toasters and waffle irons are handy and cost but a few cents for each operation.

A Cabinet Gas Range would make a gift of lasting benefit to the housewife and so would a Gas Water Heater.

On display at our showrooms.

CHAPTER IV.

IT took only a week of experience with audiences in towns ranging from 20,000 to 70,000 inhabitants for Dora to learn the difference between a papered house and a real audience and to understand the true significance of the "bad" house.

The first night the company was full of excitement and joy, rumors and gossip, expectations and beliefs. When the curtain went down on the last act of the play for the first time every member of the company was quite sure that he or she had made a great hit. The author, who was traveling with it, was positive that his play was a masterpiece. The manager was positive that he would have three or four New York houses offering him "time." Everybody agreed that the play had gone reasonably well. Ludlow said he never saw so much enthusiasm in an audience.

Holcomb alone was calm and apparently unaffected by the general excitement.

"The play is bad," he said to Dora as he walked with her to her hotel—"atrociously bad, and I am afraid we will all be 'panned' in the morning," a bit of theatrical slang with which Dora had become familiar by this time, understanding that it referred to an editorial rather than to a culinary process.

MARTINE HAS 129 VOTER

the death of his wife had removed from him all ambition for the United States Senatorship.

At that conference there were present James R. Nugent, chairman of the State committee; Richard V. Lindaberry, a prominent corporation lawyer and personal friend of Smith; Eugene Kinkead and Robert Hudspeth, representing Boss Bob Davis, of Hudson county, and Colonel George Harvey, personal friend of Smith and, at that time, a personal friend of Wilson.

Wilson had every reason for believing that these men spoke with authority when they declared that Smith would not be a candidate for senator and Wilson had foresight enough to make himself perfectly certain on that point. It was not until after the election that he became assured that Smith was laying wires cunningly and secretly for the coveted senatorship.

It is thought the governor-elect may have something to say of these inside facts in his public statement this week.

Doctor Wilson and his friends feel that the fight will be won when this statement appears and is spread broadcast throughout the State. But, if, in spite of it, the bosses continue to show their teeth and to keep on with their plans to ruin the party in the State, Doctor Wilson will take the stump and will probably go from end of the State to the other in his campaign for Martine. That, the the progressives say, in the light of Doctor Wilson's wonderful personal popularity and influence on the stump during the gubernatorial campaign, would simply wipe away the last vestiges of the bosses' domination in the State and would result in overwhelming defeat for Smith.

With a view to giving all of the legislators an opportunity to get in line before he issues his statement upon the senatorial situation, Doctor Wilson has invited the delegates of Essex, Warren and Sussex counties to visit him at Princeton. Those from Essex county, Smith's bailiwick, are down on the card for tomorrow, and at this conference Doctor Wilson hopes to be able to dissuade the Essex men from a course of madness and certain political suicide, if they were to fly in the face of the people's express will, as shown at the primary election.

WILSON WHIRLWIND TOUR

Governor - Elect to Dash Through State in the Interest of James E. Martine.

Dr. Woodrow Wilson will start out on January 4 as the Governor of New Jersey on a whirlwind dash through nearly all the counties of the State in an effort to crush every chance of the election of James Smith, Jr., of Newark, to be United States Senator. At the same time he will with all the force and eloquence at his command, attempt to convince the newly elected legislators that James E Martine, of this city, having received the majority of votes in a primary election held to give the people a chance to express their choice of a man for the Senatorship, is the person who ought to be sent to the national capital.

Dr. Wilson's tactics will be practically the same as those used by Eugene N. Foss, of Massachusetts, to bring about the defeat of Senator Lodge, and all of his preparations presage a battle that will attract national attention, his friends said last night.

Although it has been known since Dr. Wilson was elected Governor that he would make a fight against Mr. Smith who aims to succeed John Kean, the extent of the campaign to be waged by the Governor was not known until last night, when in a letter he had written to Assemblyman Joseph P. Tumulty, of Jersey City, he announced his program.

From now until the first of the year, the Governor-elect announced, he will grant audiences to all men who wish to see him with reference to his determination, and he will hear both sides. Then, no matter what sentiment he finds, he will make himself heard and felt on the subject from Bergen to Cape May.

In the letter the Governor-elect states in plain terms that he is irrevocably committed to the cause of Mr. Martine as against Mr. Smith, and he declares he will exhaust every honorable means to keep Mr. Smith from becoming Senator John Kean's successor.

Indications are that many of the Democratic Assemblymen-elect in New Jersey are in sympathy with Dr. Wilson and that he will have a substantial following. Mr. Smith, however, is not without support in important localities. Robert Davis, the Democratic leader of Hudson county, came out in his favor in an open letter. Hudson county has thirteen representatives in the Legislature, and it is believed by some Democrats that these, with support from the Essex county delegation, a large part of which is already pledged to Mr. Smith can select Mr. Martine's opponent.

Dr. Wilson last night had five Assemblymen of Essex county at his home in Princeton for a three hour conference. The Essex county men were the ones who invited Mr. Smith to run for the Senate, and last night's conference was for the purpose of attempting to win them over to Mr. Martine. Dr. Wilson would say nothing as to whether they had changed their views. The Assemblymen let it be understood that they had not done so.

The legislators were James P. Mylaod, Charles W. Brown, Frank A. Boettner, William P. Macksey and Edward D. Ballantine. Dr. Wilson, is is said, made the argument of party fidelity to a party policy. The five men are regarded as being the most likely of the eleven Essex Assemblymen to turn to Mr. Martine, according to the primary election.

Others of the Essex delegation will meet Dr. Wilson at the Hotel Collingwood, Newark, today.

Dr. Wilson's next and probably the most important step in his campaign will be the issuance of a statement of the general situation. It will be made public tomorrow afternoon. It is understood it will be an answer to the criticism that has been directed against the Governor-elect since he came out against Mr. Smith, and that it will even include comment on some Republicans, such as John W. Griggs, who attacked him in a letter recently and Joseph G. Cannon, Speaker, who made fun of Dr. Wilson at a banquet an Saturday night last.

Dr. Wilson last night made emphatic denial of a report in Mr. Smith's Newark newspaper to the effect that he had suggested Mr. Smith as a compromise candidate.

Singificance was attached to the announcement yesterday that Assemblyman Edward Kenny, of Hudson county, the leading candidate for election as Speaker, is for Mr. Martine. He says that he was for the primary expresion of choice for United States Senator before the campaign and that he is still of the same mind.

According to the poll of the Democratic members of the incoming Legislature, Senators and Assemblymen, made by a Newark newspaper, seventeen have announced themselves as for the direct primary principle and Mr. Martine; eleven, the Essex county delegation to the Assembly, have publicly declared for Mr. Smith,

CITY FATHERS DISPOSE OF UNFINISHED BUSINESS

Principally for the purpose of passing the bills for the month, an adjourned meeting of the Common Council was held last night. There was just a quorum present, Messrs. Tolles, Taylor, Gloak, Buxton, Mygatt, Clay and C. C. Randolph, while Messrs. Holt, W. W. Wilson and Frank Randolph were the absentees.

The various heads of committees referred petitions on hand to the 1911 council, and it was arranged to hold the final meeting of the year on Wednesday night, December 28. The new body will hold its first meeting Monday night, January 2 for organization purposes, when President R. I. Tolles will be re-elected and committees will be announced.

A resolution offered by Mr. Gloak and adopted, authorized the appropriation of $500 for street work for the remainder of the year. Jacob Sachar's bond protecting the city from damages in the removal of one of his buildings was filed.

Overseer-of-the-Poor A. D. Ayers reported outside expenses for the past month to be $1,887.57 and alms house expenses of $262.59. The report was filed. On motion of Mr. Buxton the last report of the late corporation counsel, C. A. Marsh, and a number of petitions were referred to the incoming body. Mr. Mygatt offered a resolution which was adopted, passing the bills.

The janitor of the building banked his fire at 6 o'clock last night and when the members of the council got ready for their meeting the rooms were so cold that overcoats were comfortable. The condition so exasperated the members that Mr. Buxton offered a motion, which was adopted, instructing the city clerk to write the owner of the building with a view to having the building properly heated. City Clerk MacMurray also complained about the lack of heat in the clerk's office almost every evening.

PLUM FOR SWACKHAMER?

He May be Appointed Circuit Court Judge by Woodrow Wilson.

The term of Hon. Wilbur A. Heisley, of the Circuit Court, expires next February and this fact has given rise to much speculation as to who will be his successor. Two men, prominent Democrats and well known throughout the State as staunch supporters of Dr. Woodrow Wilson, Governor-elect, have been mentioned as possible nominees for the judgship the most prominent hereabouts being former Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer. It is believed that Mr. Swackhammer's appointment to this office would give general satisfaction as he is considered eminently qualified to discharge the duties and is very popular.

While representing Somerset county in the Legislature, Mr. Swackhamer made a remarkable record for honesty and ability and won the esteem of Republicans and Democrats alike for his straightforward business-like work. Although he desired the nomination for Congress in the Fourth district last fall and his friends confidently expected that he would be the nominee, he withdrew his name in favor of Professor William Libby in the interest of harmony and made a speech seconding Mr. Libby's nomination.

At the State convention Mr. Swackhamer was a delegate from Somerset county and threw his influence in favor of the nomination of Woodrow Wilson and during the campaign he made every effort to aid his election. He is a strong supporter of the Governor-elect in his present effort to secure the carrying out of the wishes of the people as expressed at the primaries concerning the United States Senatorship.

It is thought that Mr. Swackhamer's uniform efforts in favor of clean politics and popular government and his strenuous opposition to all political trickery and corruption will appeal strongly to Governor Wilson and that he wil receive some appointment by which the State will secure his services. His appointment to the Circuit Court is regarded as especially desirable as Mr. Swackhamer is a lawyer who has had an extensive practice in the higher courts and has the full confidence of the bench and bar. Judge Heisley's circuit embraces Essex, Monmouth and Ocean counties.

When seen this morning by a Daily Press reporter Mr. Swackhamer declined to be quoted as to his aspirations relative to his possible appointment, but there is no doubt that he would be pleased to be recognized in this way by Dr. Wilson.

The other possibility mentioned for the appointment is Col. Nelson Y. Dungan, of Somerville. Col. Dungan has a record as prosecutor of Somerset county and is popular as the commander of the Second Regiment of the New Jersey National Guard.

JNO. DILLON'S COUSIN CLAIM OF PRISONER

Whiskey was the cause of the appearance in the city court this morning of Joseph Dillon, of the East End. He caused a disturbance in a local cafe yesterday afternoon and was arrested by Patrolman Saunders. He was discharged by Judge William N. Runyon with a warning.

The prisoner told an interesting tale of his life during the past six years. He claimed to be a first cousin of John Dillon, M. P., and that he had helped to plant a cross at Irishtown in Ireland, many years ago when landlordism was at its most strenuous point. He declared that a brother of the great Irish politician, William Dillon, is a lawyer in Chicago, and it was there the he (Joseph) got his first taste of the real American life.

Dillon said that he was sorry he had ever come to this country, because it was politics and always politics that got him into trouble. "I can't open me mout' wid out gittin' in wrong," he said. "Yesterday afternoon I had an argiment wid a feller about the lasht iliction and I wint for him wid me hands. Me Oirish blood got h'ated wid the whuskey and I mixed it good and plinty. But, yer honor, I'm fifty years old and I've niver bin arrested before and it will be fifty years more till I come before ye again av ye let me off."

He was discharged.

TO ALL GOOD FELLOWS!

"And Only the Master Shall Praise Us" for What We do for His.

Have you ever seen little noses flattened against a big plate glass window in front of the big stores on Front street on a cold day around Christmas? Did you ever see that picture by D'Auber showing a ragged little urchin standing amid the falling snow flakes on Christmas eve watching the dancers at a children's party in a pretentious house on "the" avenue? Well, if you have seen these things don't you think it would be a fine thing if such possibilities could be averted in our town?

That's what Good Fellow has been trying to secure and he is thankful that already more than four hundred little folks will not have to look in their stockings in vain on Christmas morning. And it will be Sunday, too. This thought came in a letter of one of the lodge's members this morning: "I will gladly take care of five children on Christmas this year. Last year I was ill and unable to participate in the good work personally, but I managed to see to it that three were cared for. I am increasing the number to five this year because I feel that I have been blessed more than the year before" Now then, if one has the feeling of greater blessing why not pass it along?

Last year every worthy child in Plainfield was taken care of at Christmas time and there were then more than five hundred in the city. So you can readily figure out how many are still to be provided for.

This morning among other things there came a 10-pound box of candies which Good Fellow will see gets to the proper destination. Evidently it was bought by a Good Fellow doing his or her Xmas shopping for it came by express. The donor's name is not known, but we bet he or she was happy when he bought and paid for that big box of sweets. This Good Fellow may rest assured that the candy will be distributed as he would wish and that it will gladden the hearts of many a poor little child. There is a treat in store for the children of the Day Nursery and the Children's Home. On Tuesday afternoon these little ones will be entertained with moving pictures and refined vaudeville at Proctor's as guests of one of the Good Fellows. All members of last year's club who have not yet subscribed to the Good Fellow plan of giving as the master would want him to ought to do so now as tomorrow will be the last day upon which the appeal for the poor children will be made.

Now that you have heard our story we beg you to spare a few minutes to read the letter of Good Fellow published today on page 3.

HIGH HONOR COMES TO REV. MR. MAGUIRE

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, has been invited to deliver the annual address before the nurses of St. Barnabas' Guild at the Church of the Heavenly Rest in New York on Sunday, January 8. The address last year was delivered by the late Bishop Potter. This is a singularly high honor for Mr. Maguire as it seldom falls to the lot of a minister of any other denomination to perform such a function in an Episcopal church.

St. Barnabas' guild is a society in the Episcopal Church in America composed of trained nurses who are communicants of the church. The New York branch includes more than 500 members all of whom are pledged to attend this annual service.

Funeral of Miss H. A. Marsh.

The funeral of Miss Harriet A. Kemble, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, of which the young woman was a member, officiated. There were many beautiful floral tributes. The burial was in Hillside cemetery and the bearers were William Chamberlain, Harry Sawyer, Samuel Dorman and Fred Jacobs.

RUSHMORE'S STOREHOUSE IS DAMAGED BY FIRE

A large storehouse filled with bales of excelsior and located in the yard of the Rushmore Dynamo Works at South avenue and Berckman street, caught fire shortly after midnight this morning and gave the city department a long fight in the bitter cold. The alarm was turned in at 12:50 and it was 4:30 when Chief Doane gave the recall. The damage is placed at $1,100, of which $800 is on the building.

The origin of the fire has not been determined but Samuel Rushmore, the owner, believes it to have been incendiary. The flames were first noticed by an engineer on the Central Railroad who shrieked his whistle until Patrolman McCarthy's attention was attracted at Richmond and East Third streets. He pulled box 52 at the same instant fire headquarters was receiving a telehpone message from the Rushmore night watchman.

When the apparatus reached the scene, the structure was a mass of flames and the railroad trestle and an overhanging foot bridge running along side were also burning. There are a number of small buildings about the yard and for a time a serious conflagration was threatened. One of the first noticed smoking from the heat contained the oil supply for the factory. Chief Doane had the steamer put in action and three streams were turned on the blaze. The storehouse was built of wood covered with iron but burned from the inside. The excelsior was all in bales and Chief Doane had them all cut open and drenched as a safeguard against trouble after his men departed. It was on this account that the department was kept on the scene so long.

The Chief visited the factory later this morning and conducted an investigation without arriving at any further theory than Mr. Rushmore's as to the cause. The loss is fully covered by insurance.

It was there that the director for Carnegie Institue saw it and purchased it for $1,000.

THREE KILLED IN WRECK

Three men were killed and a score or more of people injured in a railroad wreck at Millstone Junction on the Pennsylvania Railroad at 2 o'clock this morning, in which three trains were involved. It was not until 9 o'clock that the road was partially reopened to traffic and it will be late this afternoon before all the debris is taken away.

The killed are J. B. Minehan, a flagman, on a freight train, who lived in Wilmington, Del.; John Lowenberg, of Jersey City, engineer of the second freight train, and Frank Knox, aged 24 years, of 536 Greer avenue, Elizabeth fireman on the passenger train which ran into the wrecked freights. Knox is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Frank J. Shattle ,of West Fourth street.

Prior to the accident there was a freight standing in a block near Millstone Junction, when a second freight came along and crashed into the rear of the first freight. Minehan was caught in the caboose of his train. The collision threw a freight car over on the main westbound track and a few minutes later the "Owl" train crashed into the obstruction. Engineer Lowenberg was killed in the first collision, while Fireman Knox of the passenger train lost his life in the second collision. The latter's father was killed ten years ago in a railroad accident.

The officials of the road place the blame for the accident between Engineer Lowenberg and Flagman Minehan, the former for passing danger signals and going into a block while another train was there, and the latter for not going back with a danger signal to warn the engineer of the "Owl" train. When the passenger train ran into the wrecked freight car, the passengers were severely shaken up and many were more or less bruised and cut with broken glass. There was a mild panic among the passengers in the forward cars of the "Owl" train and it was some minutes before they were quieted. Mrs. Dora Roberless, of Philadelphia, was among the injured removed to the hospital in New Brunswick.

Mr. Knox, one of the killed, leaves a wife and one child seven months old. He is well-known here, where he visited Mr. and Mrs. Shattle.

Will Seek Legal Advice.

During the adjourned session of the Common Council, last night, a recess was taken to consider the recent communication of William A. Coddington, trustee for C. M. Meeker, in his dispute with the city. The amount named, $1,367.24, represents what is still due creditors in the final settlement. The Council was unable to decide the matter last night and before Mr. Coddington's communication is answered advice will be obtained as to what should be done.

Prompt Payment of Tax.

City Treasurer William F. Arnold drew a check today for $130,572.22 to pay Plainfield's share of the county and State school tax. The promptness with which Mr. Arnold has paid this tax to the proper authorities is considered commendable, for it shows that Plainfield is among the very first cities of the State to pay county and State moneys.

PUBLIC SAVES BIG SUM ON PULLMAN BERTHS.

The traveling public will save more than $1,500,000 annually as the result of an order issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission Monday, reducing the charge for upper Pullman berths to eighty per cent. of the charge made for the lower berths.

The commission also gave tentative approval to the new schedule of rates fixed by the Pullman Company, reducing the cost of lower berths to $2 for a twelve-hour ride.

The new schedule, which is to be effective January 20, 1911, is based on the conclusion of the commission in what is known as the Luftus cases, in which it was held that the rates for long distances on lower berths should be reduced, and that all upper berth rates should be cut.

The reduction will effect every line over which Pullman cars are operated in the United States except the New Haven, the Great Northern and the Milwaukee Railroads.

Westfield to Have Auto Club.

Westfield is to have an automobile club. There are about sixty owners in town and they think that an organization could be supported. The idea as advocated is to erect a large clubhouse and garage combined, where the members can store cars and secure needed supplies. The organization will be perfected after the first of the year. A site for a building has been selected and negotiations are under way for the land.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

At the adjourned meeting of the Dunellen Council, Monday night, the members entered into a general discussion of the sewage system and disposal plan. Borough Counsel, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and W. J. Buttfield, chairman of the North Plainfield sewage commission, were in attendance, and enlightened the members on various points. It was agreed that a provisional contract should be entered into with North Plainfield for the join use of its disposal beds and that it should be submitted to the citizens as soon as the approximate figures of cost can be obtained. The Plainfield commission cannot do this at present as the engineers have not completed their estimate on the construction. The council will hold another meeting next week to close up the year's business and reorganize for 1911.

The Western Union Telegraph Company is making extensive changes in its lines through the borough. The big cables fromerly strung along the Central's line are being taken down and replaced by single wires. There are about seventy wires to a pole.

BLOCK BURNED IN CINCINNATI.

Fire in the factory district of Cincinnati, early Tuesday morning, caused damages estimated at $2,000,000 the death of a fireman and an unknown white boy, and the injury of six other firemen.

The fire, which started at 2 o'clock was one of the most disastrous that the local fire department has had to battle with for many years. At the time it broke out a high wind was blowing. When the flames were finally brought under control ten firms had been burned out and eight large buildings destroyed.

TO THE "GOOD FELLOWS" OF PLAINFIELD

TO THE GOOD FELLOWS OF PLAINFIELD:

Just about this time last year I told you my story. You listened to it—you did more—you followed its spirit out in a bang-up style. I'm not claiming any credit for my story; I'm claiming credit for knowing that there are many Good Fellows in this fine old town of ours—royal chaps who don't do much preaching but when it comes to doing a good turn, well, they're there with the goods. This is no sermon that I'm handing you, it's a heart-to-heart talk with men with red blood in their veins, and here it is off last year's reel:

Last Christmas and New Year's eve you and I went out for a good time and spent from $10 to $200. Last Christmas morning hundreds of children awoke to an empty stocking—the bitter pain of disappointment that Santa Claus had forgotten them. Perhaps it wasn't our fault. We had provided for our own; we had also reflected in a passing way on those less fortunate than our own, but they seemed far off and we didn't know where to find them. Perhaps in the hundred and one things we had to do some of us didn't think of that heart sorrow of the child over the empty stocking.

Now, old man, here's a chance. I have tried for the last five years and ask you to consider it. Just send your name and address to The Daily Press—address Santa Claus—state about how many children you are willing to protect against grief over that empty stocking, inclose a two-cent stamp and you will be furnished with the names, addresses, sex, and age of that many children. It is then up to you, you do the rest. Select your won present, spend 50 cents or $50, and send or take your gifts to those children on Christmas eve. You pay not a cent more than you want to pay—every cent goes just where you want it to go. You gain neither notoriety nor advertising; you deal with no organization; no record will be kept; your letter will be returned to you with its answer. The whole plan is just as anonymous as old Santa Claus himself.

This is not a newspaper scheme. The Daily Press was asked to aid in reaching the good fellow by publishing this suggestion and to receive your communication in order that you may be assured of good faith and to preserve the anonymous character of this work. The identity of the writer of this appeal will not be disclosed. He assumes the responsibility of finding the children and sending you their names and guarantees that whatever you bestow will be deserved.

Neither you nor I get anything out of this, except the feeling that you have saved some child from sorrow on Christmas morning. If that is not enough for you then you have wasted time in reading this—it is not intended for you, but for the good fellows of Plainfield.

Perhaps a twenty-five cent doll or a ten cent tin toy wouldn't mean much to the children you know, but to the child who would find them in the otherwise empty stocking they mean much—the difference between utter disappointment and the joy that Santa Claus did not forget them. Here is where you and I get in. The charitable organizations attend to the bread and meat; the clothes; the necessaries; you and the rest of the good fellows furnish the toys, the nuts, the candies; the child's real Christmas.

GOOD FELLOW.

The Daily Press, one year ago, investigated the "good fellow" who wrote the above, looked him in the eye and put its O. K. on the plan. The cold blooded, blase representative who saw him wrote: "He made me feel, personally, that it would be really worth while in satisfaction to carry a little happiness to some children who otherwise wouldn't get any on Christmas eve." "Good Fellow" is not a professional philanthropist, he takes a drink, and even goes out at night with the boys for a mild good time—but he has taken care of from fifteen to twenty children a year in Plainfield. He said that a year ago last Christmas day he wished he had curtailed his holiday joy-making with the good fellows even more than he did, so that he might have had more money to gladden childish hearts.

The Worthy Grand Master of the lodge of Good Fellows has laid his plans for securing names through the Charity Organization Society.

This is how you can join the lodge of Good Fellows. Write a letter to "Santa Claus," care of The Daily Press, something like this:

I live at No.———— Street. I will be Santa Claus to 6 children.

John Jones.

The letter will go to Santa Claus. He will indorse on your letter the names and addresses of six children. That letter will be remailed to you. Then you get busy. That's all. Come on in, good fellows.

THE REASON
I have the confidence of the public is because I never take a contract at a figure too low to enable me to do the work properly and give permanent satisfaction to the customer. It may cost you a little more in the beginning, but a great deal less in the end.

GOLF.

The new home of the Baltusrol Gold Club will be formally opened to members and their friends on January 2. Music will be furnished from noon to 6 o'clock, and the nineteenth green is sure to be more popular than the first, or third, or tenth. The gathering, according to Louis Keller, the secretary, will be a combination of an inspection of the new home and a New Year's party.

Menagerie golf is one of the latest of Pinehurst attractions, and it is so named because of the terms applied to the point system of scoring, both the aggregate and best ball being based on bogie. One below bogie, a "canary," counts one, and two below, an "eagle," counts two. Two above is a "skunk," and a ball in the pond a "frog," each counting minus one, while three above, an "elephant," is minus two.

There was a special meeting of the Fox Hills Golf Club at the Hotel Knickerbocker Tuesday night to consider the advisability of raising the dues from $50 to either $60 or $75 a year. The increase is said to be imperative in order to meet the greater expenses that will be incurred during the coming season. One of the proposed improvements is the piping of the greens. The annual meeting will be held next month.

AVIATION RECORDS.

Paris, Dec. 22.—All world's records for sustained distance flights were broken today by Paul Legagneux, flying in a Bleriot aeroplane, when he covered 322 miles in 5 hours and 59 minutes without alighting.

Unless beaten before January 1, 1911, Legagneux becomes the winner of this year's Michelin Cup valued at $4,000.

Legagneux also holds the world's record for altitude.

At Pau, France, Legagneux recently rose 10,497 feet in one hour and forty minutes.

Legagneux is a famous French aviator who first flew in a Voisin biplane, later used a Somner biplane and then a Bleriot monoplane.

The rapid advance in the aeroplane art is seen by the winnings of the Michelin Cup. It was first offered and won in 1908, when Wilbur Wright flew 77 miles in 2 hours 20 minutes in 23 seconds. In 1909 it was won by Harry Farman, who flew 144 miles in 4 hours 6 minutes 25 seconds.

Chalons, France, Dec. 22.—A non-stop aeroplane flight of 145 miles, with a passenger, was made yesterday by Lieutenant Cammerman. Accompanied by Captain Hugoni, Lieutenant Cammerman piloted his machine from this city to Montigny-Sur-Aube and return. The flight was made in 4 hours and 3 minutes.

The flight, which establishes a new world's record for distance in a non-stop passenger flight, was undertaken under orders from the Minister of War.

NUGENT SUBPOENAED IN CAMDEN ELECTION CASE.

Newark City Counsel James R. Nugent has been summoned to appear today before the Camden County Grand Jury to give testimony in connection with the investigation now being made into the alleged election frauds in the city of Camden. Mr. Nugent admitted yesterday that he had received a subpoena this morning by mail.

The subpoena directs Mr. Nugent to produce "certain affidavit or paper written alleged to be signed by one Samuel Flick and sworn to before one Harry Fisher, and any other paper, writing or statement alleged to have been made by the said Samuel Flick."

HOME STRIPPED ON HIS RETURN.

Returning from Newark Tuesday where he spent the day with his wife shopping, Joseph O'Brien found his home at 6 Aubrey street, Summit, stripped of all its furnishings. O'Brien, this morning declared that his wife, to whom he was married by Rev. Walter A. Purcell, July 17, last, conspired with his father, Patrick O'Brien, to get him to Newark, while the furniture was being taken away. A Newark van, it is said, by neighbors crated the furniture away.

AGANIST THE NEW RULE

Plainfield Country Club Instructs U. S. Golf Association Delegate.

The question as to how the Plainfield Country Club, as a voting member of the United States Golf Association, should vote at the coming annual meeting of the national organization on the question of adopting the recent English rule prohibiting the use of any golf club in which the shaft does not enter the head at the heel, was discussed at a meeting of the trustees of the local club on Tuesday night.

Leighton Calkins president of the club, addressed the trustees at length advocating instructions to the delegate from the local club requiring him to vote against the adoption of the rule, because vicious in principle and because standardization of clubs and balls is foreign to the spirit of the game of golf. The trustees unanimously voted to instruct the club delegate to vote against the adoption of the rule by the United States Golf Association.

Another important matter discussed was that of offering the use of the course to the Metropolitan Golf Association for its tournament for boys in accordance with the plan submitted by Mr. Calkins at the recent annual meeting of the Metropolitan Golf Association. It was unanimously voted to offer the course for that purpose. If this event is held in Plainfield next spring, it will be a great incentive to the boys connected with the local club. The event will probably be limited to boys of about eighteen years and under, with several divisions and many prizes. The entire expense will be borne by the Metropolitan Golf Association.

One other matter of great concern considered was the enlargement of the water plant at the local club. It is now absolutely insufficient for the clubhouse and grounds. The cost of enlargement must be met in some way and plans must be considered before another season. One suggestion was to meet part of the expense by an increase of the dues of house members from $6 a year to $10.

It was pointed out that the enlargement of the clubhouse two years ago, the employment of an expert superintendent and other improvements, had greatly increased the advantages given to members who enjoy the social privileges of the club, and that a slight increase in the dues of that class would not be unreasonable. It is proposed to have a new class, called house members, at $10 a year; and require all golf and tennis juniors to become associate members at $12 a year, leaving the active dues at $30 as at present. If these changes seem advisable the matter will come up for decision at the annual meeting of the club in February.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

Powell, the inimitable wonder worker, presdigitatuer and illusionist, who will appear at the Plainfield theatre Christmas Day, December 26, matinee and night commenced to practice his art at the age of seven years and astonished his little playmates by his sleight of hand tricks with marbles, pennies and other articles within the range of a boy's possessions. His first public exhibition took place at the age of sixteen years since which time he has been continually perfecting his art, which but few men become master of. He has appeared in all the large cities of the world, has travelled extensively in India and has performed before many notable audiences. He has been the star attraction at the Eden Musee for many years and has never failed to draw big crowds. His performance appeals to the children as well as to the older folks, and the company which he has with him stands for the best in vaudeville entertainment. Those desiring seats should apply early as they are rapidly being taken.

NEWS OF THE WORLD FOR THE BUSY MAN

Edward M. Shepard explained his views on the regulation of stock and bond issues before the Hadley Commission.

The French government's attitude in the railway strike was indorsed by the Chamber of Deputies after a socialist attack.

At a meeting in Lexington, Ky., burley tobacco growers from five states agreed to pool the 1911 crop and raise no tobacco in 1912.

The newspaper correspondents in London say the result of the British elections has been to increase the government majority from 124 to 126.

A party of Mormons who arrived at Portland, Me., from Liverpool, England, were detained pending an investigation of their purposes in coming to this country.

President Taft commuted to life imprisonment the sentence of a man convicted of murder at Honolulu, on the ground that he was drunk when he committed the crime.

After investigating the explosion at the New York Central terminal, the Municipal Explosives Commission decided to recommend prohibiting the storage of pressure gas in the city.

The United States Court of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania restrained the coal railroads owning the stock of the Temple Iron Company from exercising further control.

The Navy department awarded the contract for building the battleship Texas to the Newport News Shipbuilding Company at $5,830,000, the vessel to have reciprocating instead of turbine engines.

Congress: Senate: Martin A. Knapp was confirmed as chief judge of the Commerce Court; the omnibus claims bill was passed. House: The day was spent in consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill.

A single and final gift of $10,000,000 by John D. Rockefeller to the University of Chicago was announced at the quarterly convocation of the university in Chicago; this makes a total of approximately $35,000,000 that Mr. Rockefeller has given to the university.

The Public Service Commission wrote to the Board of Estimate that it approved the Interborough proposition for new subway; Controller Prendergast and President Mitchell of the Board of Aldermen said the city should spend its money only for an independent system.

FARMERS VOTE DOWN MARTINE RESOLUTIONS.

Resolutions indorsing the Senatorial candidacy of James E. Martine were promptly tabled at the meeting of the Somerset county Agricultural Society at Somerville Saturday. The resolutions were offered by William H. Rogers, of North Plainfield. In the discussion which followed their introduction, it was argued that politics had no place in the affairs of the society.

Professor H. I. Lewis, of the State Agricultural College, at New Brunswick, spoke on winter dairying. He advocated a system of herd testing by which the productive qualifications of each cow could be ascertained. This could be done by a combination of the farmers in each township at a cost of not over a dollar a cow a year, and it would be of great advantage. He urged the farmers to sell their cream and feed the milk to pigs, etc., on the farm in order to save the productiveness of the soil.

The directors chosen are these: Beminster Township, A. C. Nevius and William C. Lane; Bernards, Charles L. Roberts and Thomas Douglass; Branchburg, Francis D. Opie and Tiunis Ten Eyck; Bridgewater, Bernhard Meyers and Luther Martin; Franklin, George B. Randolph and Charles F. Randolph; Hillsburgh, Jacob D. Quick and Henry S. Van Nuys, Jr.; Montgomery, Louis E. Opie and John N. Drake; North Plainfield, C. F. Debele and William Beetham; Warren, E. C. Cooper and Martin Stulz; representatives to the State Board of Agriculture, William H. Rogers and George B. Randolph; representatives to the State Horticultural Cociety, Charles S. Hamilton and W. J. Logan.

SEEKS BRIDE WON BY CORRESPONDENCE.

Paterson, Dec. 21.—Seeking to discover the present whereabouts of the bride he won through a correspondence matrimonial agency, W. T. Martin, of Pomona, Cal., has asked a local lawyer to find Emma Benward Martin. The girl, he says, was formerly employed in a local silk mill. She has a sister, Mrs. F. D. Simmerson, of Clifton, but Mrs. Simmerson declares she knows nothing about the matter. The last she saw of her sister was when the girl left for California to marry Martin.

Martin writes that he is sixty years old and weighs 233 pounds. His bride, he asserts was thirty-seven and weighed 215. They "made a nice pair," he declares. In a newspaper clipping describing her departure it is stated that she left the Martin home a few days after the wedding. In a note she explained she "could not live on bread, jelly and fat meat."

Feet Tired— So Tired?

TIZ Makes Sick Feet Well, No Matter What Ails Them.

TIZ acts at once and makes tired, aching, swollen feet remarkably fresh and sore proof.

It's the sure remedy, you know, for everything that gets the matter with your feet. It's for sore feet and for sweaty, bad-smelling feet, and for corns, callouses and bunions, too.

"For years I have been troubled with sore and tender feet; suffered intense pains. Have had the assistance of physicians without relief. I bought a box of TIZ, which worked a perfect cure, as it has with a great many of my friends. I would not be without it. All it requires is to be known to be universally used." A. F. Dreutzer, Chicago.

TIZ is not a powder. Powders and other fot remedies clog up the pores. TIZ draws out all poisonous exudations which bring on soreness of the feet, and is the only remedy that does. TIZ cleans out every pore and glorifies the feet—your feet.

You'll never limp again or draw up your face in pain, and you'll forget about your corns, bunions and callouses. You'll feel like a new person.

TIZ is for sale at all druggists, 25 cents per box, or it will be sent you direct, if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

THE HARVEST MOON

Copyright, 1909, by Augustus Thomas

Holcomb was right. Even the despised critics in this small town declared the next day that the piece was positively a failure. The fact that they omitted all mention of Dora herself was not as great a blow to her as it was to Holcomb. He had declared to her that she had deserved favorable comment.

"WHAT DOES HE KNOW ABOUT IT ANYWAY?"

Notwithstanding this the company's hopes were still high, for, while they all bought morning papers rapidly to get the opinions of the critics, when they had read them there was an almost unanimous outburst, "What does he know about it anyway?"

The third day there was considerable excitement, for word had gone round that the "big man from New York" was coming up to look over the piece, and that meant surely that they would soon be "back on Broadway." During the performances there was no talk about anything but how the big man was taking it, reports being brought back between acts by the treasurer of the company.

"He says it is a knockout," was the first report that was carried from ear to ear. "Nobody ever saw him laugh so much," was whispered about. "We will run all season on Broadway," was the third electric charge that fired their minds and warmed their hearts and sent them galloping on joyously to the end of the play.

At the little supper parties into which members broke up that evening there was a great content, whether it was over the more liberal spread of the principals in the restaurants of the main hotel or over the beer and cheese of the stage carpenter and the minor actors. Once more they would be getting home; once more they would be back on their beloved "thoroughfare of the theaters;" once more they would be before the public to which they loved to play, and, of course, the financial end of it—the fact that they could save money—that was not forgotten.

Bleiman himself was not in evidence, but in such short talks as he had with the principal actors the next day he expressed his belief that the good things they all looked forward to would soon be realized.

It was not until the end of the week that, while their expectations were still at the highest, they learned the truth. The big man from New York had declared the play was "rotten" and had refused to give it any more time either in New York or elsewhere, and the notice was posted on the call board, "Company will close on Saturday night next."

It was a bitter blow for Dora Fullerton. Hardly over twenty, she had fought out what to her was a great resolution and discouraging conditions. Her mother she had never known. Her father, a kindly but academic man, had never quite seemed to understand her, while his sister had insisted that all of her improper instincts were those of her mother, who, like herself, had longed for a stage career against the opposition of her husband and to the disgust of her sister-in-law. As far back as she could remember Dora had been accustomed to being told by her aunt that everything she had liked to do was the wrong thing. If as a child she was rebellious over a household edict she was told that she had the nasty temper of her mother; if she spoiled a frock it was a slipshod habit of her mother that she had inherited; if she took a mild, childlike fancy to some boy she had her mother's frivolous disposition, and Aunt Cornelia was always with her to drive home her belief that the girl had no individual [illegible] other than an inherited one, with no good in it.

The winters were spent, of course, in Boston, where Aunt Cornelia's friends looked up to her opinion and encouraged her prognostications that she was going to have trouble with the girl. Their summers were spent in Lenox, and it was here, meeting Graham Winthrop, with his sweet, good nature, that she won her first approbation from her relative by consenting to an announcement of an engagement with the young man.

It seemed as though great relief was in sight, for he had many qualities that delighted her, but it was not long before she realized that to marry him would be a greater mistake than to continue her present life. The invitation to spend the spring and summer with Graham's mother gave her the opportunity to carry out a scheme that she had carefully and slowly evolved.

Going into Southampton early one day, she had succeeded in getting letters of introduction to several managers and had at last secured the engagement which had ended so disastrously. Her father when she made her announcement to him had come on from Lenox to expostulate, but had finally consented. Out of respect for him she had asked the consent of Aunt Cornelia, which had been bitterly refused with virago-like denunciation. And now she had to go back! Now she would have to admit that she had failed, and failed miserably! She had only one more talk with Graham after his last pleadings on the train before the day rehearsals started. He had come to her two days later and said he was going abroad.

FOR HOME AND PERSONAL USE.

Christmas Gifts which add to the convenience of the home or the physical comfort of the recipient are always appreciated.

In this class are portable lamps, gas or electric, which may be had in a variety of designs and at prices to suit any purse. Also artistic domes for the dining room or library.

For cooking, the electric chafing dish, the coffee percolator, the electric or gas toasters and waffle irons are handy and cost but a few cents for each operation.

A Cabinet Gas Range would make a gift of lasting benefit to the housewife and so would a Gas Water Heater.

On display at our showrooms.

TEXAS LEMON WEIGHING NEARLY THREE POUNDS.

The slang expression of being "handed a lemon" has been entirely carried out in the case of Mrs. W. E. Davis, of West Fourth street, and Mrs. Sarah Kline, of Sandford avenue, who have received some of the largest specimens of the citric fruit ever seen in this city. They weigh about two pounds each and came from the ranch of W. H. Emory, of Aransas Pass, Texas.

Mr. Emory formerly lived at Lebanon, Hunterdon County, and was a neighbor of the Plainfielders. In a letter accompanying the lemons, he states that they came from a tree which bears about twenty-five or thirty of the same kind, weighing from one and three quarter to two and a half pounds each. One of the lemons is displayed in the show window of Smalley Brothers' market on North avenue and is attracting considerable attention.

—Among the specials at Neuman Bros. for tomorrow's trade will be twenty-five dozen bunches of fancy celery, Boston head lettuce, hothouse cucumbers and fancy mushrooms.

Colored Men Want to be Cops.

Seymour Blake and Charles Sheldon, both colored, have made application for positions on the police force, hoping to secure the appointment if they are successful in passing the required examination, physical and mental. There is at present one colored member of the force, James Saunders, who has been in the service for many years and has a clean record. Blake is at present employed by the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, while Sheldon has a position driving for a local merchant.

Fire in Fruit Boxes.

An alarm from box 12 at 10:30 this morning called the city fire department to Tony Lusardi, Jr.,'s fruit store at Front and Somerset streets. A slight blaze had started in some fruit boxes, evidently the result of someone throwing a cigarette stump into loose paper. The fire was put out with a pail of water before the apparatus arrived.

The Plainfield High School basketball team was defeated by the Suffragettes, a sophomore team, on Tuesday afternoon by a score of 28 to 10.

WILSON TO THE PEOPLE

Governor-Elect Calls Upon New Jersey Citizens to See That Justice is Done.

BITTERLY DENOUNCES SMITH.

Democratic "Boss" Placed in the Limelight in a Most Remarkable Document—Eulogizes Martine.

Calling upon the people to "speak their minds in unmistakable terms to those whom have been chosen to represent them," Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson, in the most remarkable statement to the voters ever issued by one in a similar position, denounces James Smith, Jr., in no unmeasured terms for his attitude in the senatorial contest.

The letter follows:

"In view of Mr. James Smith, Jr.'s, public avowal of his candidacy for the seat in the Senate of the United States presently vacated by the Hon. John Kean, it becomes my duty to lay before the voters of the State the facts as I know them, and the reasons why it seems to me imperative that Mr. Martine and not Mr. Smith should be sent to the Senate.

"Before I consented to allow my name to be put before the State Democratic Convention for the nomination of Governor, I asked the gentleman who was acting as Mr. Smith's spokesman if Mr. Smith would desire to return to the Senate, in case the Democrats should win a majority in the State Legislature. I was assured that he would not. I was told that the state of his health would not permit it and that he did not desire it.

"Immediately after the election Mr. Smith came to see me and said that had been his feeling before election, but that he was feeling stronger and hoped that the Legislature would offer him the seat. I pointed out to him that this action on his part would confirm all the ugliest suspicions of the campaign concerning him, and urged him very strongly not to allow his name to be used at all; but my arguments had no effect upon him.

"I subsequently learned that before my nomination and at the very time I was told that he would not desire the seat, he had made an agreement with the leader of the Hudson county organization that the votes of the Hudson county members in the Legislature would be cast for him as Senator in case the Legislature should be Democratic. The gentlemen who were to be nominated for the Assembly from Hudson were not consulted; it was an agreement between leaders. The vote was to be turned over to Mr. Smith by the organization in case of a Democratic victory.

"Mr. Smith has at last publicly announced his candidacy, but he has been a candidate from the first. Ever since the election he has been using every means at his disposal to obtain the pledges of Democratic members of the Legislature to vote for him as Senator. He has assumed, in dealing with them, that the State organization would be in control of the Legislature; that its offices would be distributed as he should suggest; that members would be assigned to committees and the committees made up as he wished them to be. He has offered to assist members in obtaining membership on such committees as they might prefer. In brief, he has assumed that he and other gentlement not elected to the Legislature by the people would have the same control over the action of the houses that is understood to have been exercised by the so-called Board of Guardians of the Republican party in recent years.

"I said in my former statement regarding this matter that if Mr. Smith should be sent to the United States Senate he would not go as the representative of the people. I meant that he would go as the representative of particular interests in the State, with which it is well known he has always been identified. It is significant that his candidacy is supported by the Camden paper known to be owned or controlled by Mr. David Baird. Mr. John W. Griggs in a letter recently published, has condemned me for taking any part in this matter and has thereby confirmed the impression that he also has clients who are interested in being represented in the Senate by Mr. Smith. So far as the voters of the State are concerned and the States' essential interests, there is no reason why a change should be made from Mr. John Kean to Mr. James Smith, Jr. They are believed to stand for the same influences and to represent the same group of selfish interests. It should be a matter of indifference to both Republicans and Democrats which of the two represents the State at Washington.

"I say these things with genuine regret. I made every possible effort, consistent with dignity and self-re-

MEETS DEATH ON TRACK

Plainfielder Was Searching for Work When Killed at Cheltenham.

SAD CHRISTMAS FOR WIFE.

Victim Wanted to Earn Enough Money to Buy Her a Christmas Present When he Was Struck by Train.

Axel Larson, 38 years old, of 1432 West Third street, was yesterday identified as the man who was killed by a train on the Reading Railway near Cheltenham, Pa., and it became known that he virtually sacrificed his life in an effort to earn money to buy Christmas presents for his wife and three small children.

Larson was out of work and left his home Tuesday to seek employment. A neighbor who identified the body promised to give Larson work if he would wait for one week, but the latter wanted to obtain a livelihood at once.

"Christmas is coming and I want to earn some money to get my wife and children some gifts, so they will be happy," he said.

Larson's three children are all girls, the oldest of them being only six years old. The neighbor, who identified the body, told Deputy Coroner Clarence Foote at Cheltenham that the family was in such circumstances that Mrs. Larson was financially unable to go to Philadelphia to identify the body.

Friends and neighbors here have taken an interest in the family with a view to rendering substantial help.

GOOD FELLOWS' WORK IS SIMPLY 'IMMENSE'

Good Fellow is lying back in his chair this afternoon with his feet on the fender and his solacing pipe emitting whiffs of fragrant smoke while preparations are under way for completing the work he started a week ago to give the poor little folks of this town a good time on Christmas Day. He wears a broad smile of satisfaction as he reminisces back to the day when the thought first struck him that he could be of some material use to the less fortunate than his own children and the outcome has been satisfactory.

Every poor little child in Plainfield will be remembered on the day that Santa Claus makes his annual visit and that this is possible is due entirely to the other Good Fellows who joined the lodge last year and those who added their names this year, and to all of these Good Fellow extends his thanks for so generously responding to the appeal he made. None but those who can feel a sense of a duty well done can understand the feeling of joy that sweeps over the whole person who has turned his or her hand to make "one of the least of these" happy.

A Mitchell stock car has been placed at the disposal of the Charity Organization Society by the local agent for the distribution of some of the gifts for the little folks and this part of the work will be continued tomorrow until all the presents are distributed.

Somewhere, sometime and in some way those who have assisted in the noble undertaking will receive their reward aside from the feeling of satisfaction experienced in doing good. So, to all these Good Fellows Good Fellow wishes a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

DISCUSS WATER PROBLEM

Offer Suggestion That Effort First be Made to Obtain Better Contract.

PROMINENT CITIZENS CONFER.

Gilbert, Dumont and Holstein do not Look With Favor on "M. O." Idea—Randolph and Frost Take Opposite View.

Upon invitation of the special water commission, prominent citizens and large taxpayers attended a conference held in the Common Council rooms, last night, for the purpose of discussing informally the water question in view of the recent report made by James Fuertes, the expert engineer.

Among the invited ones present were L. V. F. Randolph, John B. Dumont, Alexander Gilbert, William S. Tyler, George M. Holstein, George P. Mellick, City Treasurer William F. Arnold, Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett and George H. Frost. The members of the Common Council present were, Frederic E. Mygatt chairman of the special water commission; Frank L. Holt, William L. Gloak, George S. Clay, Duncan W. Taylor, Francis L. Montgomery, Herbert Buxton and Mayor-elect G. W. V. Moy.

Having another engagement later in the evening, Alexander Gilbert was the first speaker. He advised the Council to weigh the question of a future water supply slowly and carefully before deciding on municipal ownership. He expressed himself in favor of an effort to make a satisfactory contract with the Plainfield-Union Water Company, before deciding on an independent plant. Mr. Dumont supported Mr. Gilbert in his opinion and urged that the Council go cautiously in the matter. He said that the great question seemed to be as to whether there would be sufficient water supply for the future needs of Plainfield, even under present conditions. While some people seemed to be of the opinion that there is plenty of water and that a municipal plant could be operated successfully there is also some doubt as to the ultimate result.

Until such time as the question can be settled definitely, Mr. Dumont believed that the city should try to make the best possible contract with the present water company and thus avoid any trouble in the immediate future. Mr. Dumont did not favor the bonding of the city for a million and half for the purpose of acquiring a municipal plant and Mr. Gilbert was of the same opinion.

L. V. F. Randolph spoke in favor of a municipal plant, it being his opinion that the present water company cannot guarantee to furnish an adequate water supply for years to come. He believed that the city should seek to protect its water rights as far as possible and control its own supply. George H. Frost agreed with Mr. Randolph, adding that now is the time to solve the problem instead of waiting any number of years.

The legal rights of the water company were explained by William S. Tyler, former councilman, who, as a member of a special committee, investigated this phase of the question sometime ago.

An important declaration by Mr. Randolph was to the effect that in his opinion the old charter of the Plainfield Water Company, which was sold by the late E. R. Pope to Frank Bergen and John Kean, was dead before it was sold. If this was true, Mr. Randolph said that if condemnation proceedings were adopted it would not be difficult to prove that the franchise damages should not and would not be anything.

George M. Holstein favored making as satisfactory contract as possible with the present water company and continuing the investigation of the advantages of a municipal plant until such time as all important points are definitely settled.

The members of the Common Council did not enter into the general discussion, the object of the conference being solely for the purpose of getting the opinions of some of the large property owners. It is probable that other conferences of a similar character will be held in the near future with a view to getting additional opinions on the subject.

Plainfield vs. Pomeroy Thistles.

The Plainfield A. F. C. and the Pomeroy Thistles, of Newark, will clash Monday morning at 10:30 on the Clinton avenue field, in a league game of soccer. On account of the recent bad weather no football games have been played, but the management is now hopeful of completing the schedule. The two teams are evenly matched. Two months ago they met and the Pomeroys defeated the locals by one goal. The local team will lineup as follows: McNeice, Craig, Buckland, McCombs, Hosie, Crawford, Spalding, Menzie, Heaume, Crawford and Sutton.

DOG CAUSES A ROW AMONG NEIGHBORS

Charges and counter charges of assault were made this morning by Mrs. J. Sneiderback and Lawrence Miner, both residents of the West End, and for lack of witnesses the hearing was put off until Monday morning by Judge Runyon.

Mrs. Sneiderback was first heard and she related how Miner's dog had bitten her while she was a hanging cloths in the yard of the home of Mrs. Erner whom she was nursing. She said she kicked the dog away from her and in a minute or two Miner came on the scene and took the canine's part by administering a kick or two himself on her person.

Miner stoutly denied that he had acted in the unchivalrous manner declaring that Mrs. Sneiderback had hurled vile epithets at him when he remonstrated with her for kicking an inoffensive dog. Anyway, the case will probably be cleared up on Monday.

Cross Christmas Seals, and on December 16 in all parts of the United States a film entitled "The Red Cross Seal" will be exhibited for the first time, according to an announcement of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

The picture drama has been produced by the Edison Manufacturing Company in co-operation with the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis and the American National Red Cross. It portrays an interesting story of New York life, and is besides filled with educational scenes that show how tuberculosis is contracted and how it may be prevented and cured. The film is 1,000 feet long. The tuberculosis workers in every state of the United States are urging their local theatres to exhibit the picture.

The plot of the story centers about the winning of the prize of $100 for the best design for the Red Cross Seal for 1910, by Ellen Williams, a poor girl of the tenements who makes her living by decorating lampshades for very meagre wages. She has applied to the art school where she longs to take a course of study, but finds that the cost, $100, is too much for her purse. As she turns to leave the school, a young man of wealth sees her in the office and is struck by the pathos of her beauty and disappointment. Tired of his purposeless life, Jordan resolves to see for himself "how the other half lives." Dressed as an ordinary day laborer, therefore, he rents a room in the same tenement with Ellen, and soon becomes greatly attached to her. He sees her struggle to win the $100 prize for the Red Cross Seal design, and finally sees her win it. Then he sees her give up all the ambitions of her life, when she turns over the $100 to a neighbor, so that her consumptive boy might have a chance to be cured at a sanatorium.

Struck by the noble sacrifice, Jordan unknown to Ellen(buys the tenement, renovates the neighboring apartment, enlists the co-operation of a district nurse, and helps thus to restore the consumptive to health and remove from his family the danger of further infection.

Thus, in the end, When Jordan reveals to Ellen his identity, she finds in his proposal that she share with him his palatial Fifth avenue mansion, she has gained a great love, a home, and the satisfaction of her ambition, all because of the Red Cross Seal.

EARLY MORNING BLAZE

Residence of D. C. Ivins Badly Damaged by Water and Flames.

LOSS PLACED AT $3,000.

Originated in Basement and Spread Through Walls to Second Floor —Firemen Hampered by Smoke.

The home of De Witt C. Ivins, located at Hillside avenue and Lake street, was badly damaged by fire at an early hour this morning. When discovered by the owner and his son, the only occupants at the time, shortly after 2 o'clock, the structure was filled with smoke emanating from the lower floor. It was afterward learned that the flames originated in the basement and may possibly have been caused by the wooden cold air box catching in some way from the furnace. In the opinion of Chief Doane the flames had been smouldering for several hours.

Mr. Ivins telephoned to fire headquarters as soon as he was aroused and when Chief Doane arrived with the first apparatus he sent in a general alarm from box 27. The men found the basement and first floor in flames, mostly in the partitions. The basement was finished off in plaster and lath and most of it had to be torn away before the water could be made effective. The task was rendered very difficult by the choking smoke which greatly hampered the choppers. Several of them were almost overcome.

The flames worked their way through the walls to the second floor but did not get beyond. The chemical stream and four lines of hose from the steamer poured water into the lower part of the house and the fire was finally drowned out at half past four. The recall was sounded at 4:48.

A number of holes were chopped in the first floor and these proved a danger to the firemen as they moved about in the darkness. One of them, G. H. Freeman, fell through to the basement and injured his back slightly. Others had narrow escapes.

Most of the furniture was gotten away from the water and flames so that practically all the damage was to the house. This is placed at $3,000. The loss on contents is trifling. In both instances the damage is fully covered by insurance.

Mrs. Ivins and her daughter, Miss Hope Ivins, are south at the present time and Mr. Ivins and his son have been living in the house alone.

BOUGHT BITTEN CATTLE BUT REGRETTED BARGAIN

The North Plainfield township authorities have learned that the two cows bitten by the mad dog that ran amuck in Watchung about two weeks ago were the property of Silas Winans, who lives in the valley. It was not known at the time who was the owner and no safeguard could be taken.

Winans sold the cows after they were bitten to a local Hebrew butcher. The latter had them slaughtered, knowing that they had been victims of the rabid brute. When he learned that the bitten hogs belonging to Clarence Kellogg had gone mad he regretted his bargain and took the carcasses back to Winans, demanding the return of his purchase money. It was given back to him and the beef was buried.

So far as known, there were no other animals bitten by the dog but residents of the valley are keeping a close watch on all their stock. The canine's victims numbered the two cows, six hogs and three dogs.

MRS. G. H. BABCOCK DEAD

Well Known Woman, Noted for Benevolences, Succumbs After Long Illness.

A STEPSON SURVIVES HER.

She Had Large Realty Holdings Bequeathed by Her Husband—The Funeral Tomorrow Afternoon.

Mrs. George H. Babcock, aged 63 years, died suddenly at her home on West Eighth street, yesterday afternoon. The immediate cause of death was cardiac asthma. Mrs. Babcock had been ill for the past five years with a complication of diseases, including diabetic trouble, neuritis and last summer she suffered a second stroke of paralysis, while at her summer home in Watch Hill, R. I. She was able to be about, however. On Wednesday she took a drive and yesterday she was about the house during the early part of the day.

Mrs. Babcock was Miss Eugenie L. Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan K. Lewis, and she was born at Hopkinton, R. I., March 29, 1847. She spent her girlhood days at Hopkinton. Later she was engaged as a school teacher at Westerly, R. I. She came to Plainfield in 1883, having been engaged as a school teacher at the Bryant School. She held this position until 1893, when she was married to Mr. Babcock.

Mrs. Babcock was a woman of rare qualities and was beloved by all who knew her. The extensive educational, religious and charitable work carried on by her husband was continued by her. She was liberal in her contributions to worthy causes. She and her son, George L. Babcock, gave $4,000 toward the equipment of the laboratory at the Plainfield High School, it being given in honor of the late Mr. Babcock.

The English prize of $25 in books, which was given each year at the Plainfield High School commencement by Mr. Babcock, was continued each year by Mrs. Babcock. She also was generous in her contributions to local charity, as well as to the Seventh-Day Baptist church, of which she was a life-long member.

In addition to these benefactions, Mrs. Babcock was continually giving to the worthy poor, many individual cases receiving her care and attention. It has been said that no worthy person or cause was ever turned away by her, so anxious was she to help the needy. Mrs. Babcock had large property interests left to her by her husband. Mr. Babcock was for many years one of Plainfield's most prominent citizens, the business block on West Front street bearing his name, being considered one of the finest in the city.

Mrs. Babcock owned a handsome summer home at Watch Hill, R. I., and her residence on West Eighth street, which was recently completed, is without doubt one of the most attractive and handsomely furnished in the city.

Mrs. Babcock is survived by a son, George L. Babcock; a brother, Wayland W. Lewis, of Westerly, R. I.; also Nathan E. Lewis, of this city, a nephew, while Mrs. H. M. Maxson, of this city, is a cousin.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon and the interment will be at Westerly, R. I.

Scene from "The Country Boy," N. Dudley Hawley, the Country Boy; Mrs. William Butler, His Mother, at New Plainfield Theatre, One Night, Tuesday, January 3.

Who Was There That You Knew?

IN the shadowy ranks of those who marched to defeat or death or victory fifty years ago in the mighty conflict that convulsed this great nation, is there father or grandfather or uncle of yours? Would you like to see a photograph of him in that long ago day of his youth—a photograph that he never knew was taken? Perhaps we can show you one; and in any case, we can tell you a story, stranger than any detective fiction, of 3,500 priceless photographs that were lost and are found again.

3,500 Long Buried Photographs of the Civil War

THEY were taken by the greatest photographer in the United States of that day; they were bought by the United States Government for $30,000; they were buried in the War Department for 50 years—they are buried there still. But a duplicate set was kept by the photographer—who died poor and broken down; that duplicate set was knocked from pillar to post for nearly 50 years, until it was discovered by a New England collector. J. Pierpont Morgan tried to secure the collection—Ex-President Garfield and General Benjamin F. Butler said it was worth $150,000—yet with the help of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS, the entire collection has been gathered into 10 great volumes and is placed within your reach at less than the value of one of the photographs. It is the one accurate, impartial history of the Civil War—for the camera cannot lie. It tells the story of the War you never heard before. Taken under protection of the Secret Service, these photographs bring to light thousands of little-known phases of the war; they penetrate to strange places and record strange things.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

WESTFIELD.

An umbrella mender who gave his name as John Ward was picked up nearly frozen to death beside the road on Central avenue Wednesday night about 9 o'clock. He was so far gone that he could not help himself and had to be carried to a boarding-house, where he was cared for. If it is found that he is seriously frozen, he will be sent to a hospital.

It is reported from the Elizabeth General Hospital that the injuries of Matthew Slaughter, who was struck by a train at the Central avenue crossing Monday morning, are not serious and that he will be out in a few days.

The ice houses at Echo Lake are all filled. The largest cutting since the houses were erected has been made there this winter. Most of the Westfield supply for next summer will come from this lake.

Santa Claus made his annual visit last night to the members of the Baptist Sunday-school and its friends. The event will long be remembered as one of the pleasantest Christmases the school has had in a number of years. An enjoyable program of recitations, songs and carols was rendered, after which Santa Claus arrived and a merry half hour was enjoyed distributing the presents for large and small, each scholar receiving some reminder of yuletide as well as a box of candy and orange. The members and friends of the church remembered the pastor, Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, in a substantial way, A. D. Beekon, acting superintendent, making the presentation. A Technical Wheeze.

Gibbs—Good many carbuncles afflicting humanity just now.

Nibbs—So Doc. Blunt tells me. He's got more'n a dozen patients suffering with 'em. Doc reminds me of one of the knights at King Arthur's round table.

Gibbs—Which one?

Nibbs—Lance-a-lot. Old, is it?

And Gibbs said if it wasn't it ought to be.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Broad View of Humanity.

Pat was being shown an incubator by one of his friends who had removed to the suburbs. He took great interest in all of the details and examined everything with great care. Then, as he locked at about 100 young chickens that had just been hatched, with an awed expression he said: "Human nature is a funny thing, after all."—Everybody's.

Art Versus Nature.

The Girl—The whole trip along the river was like a series of your superb etchings.

The Artist—Yes. Nature is creeping up.

Accidentally Embraced.

Myrtle—How do you like those hobble skirts?

Mamie—Fine! I have fallen into the arms of no less than five men this afternoon, and its only 4 o'clock.

Mistaken Meaning.

The Father—That young fellow who has been calling here lately is a very fine young man; he has the right ring about him.

The Daughter (eagerly)—Has he? Have you seen it? Is it a diamond?

Might Have Said It.

First Student—That was a swell looking girl you had at the football game.

Sceond Student—Yes, I suppose she was padded to the limit, but you needn't be harping on it all the time.

Protecting Hubby.

Littl Hubby—It's only fools that get married.

Big Wife—That's how Providence looks after them.

Little Hubby—How?

Big Wife—By giving them wives to care for them.

SPORTS
News and Notes

BASEBALL.

The stories are beginning to come in about players who have refused to sign for next season. Every year these rumors originate and every year finds most of the players in harness again at the beginning of the season. Many men have voluntarily severed their connections with the actual work on the diamond, but most of them are still connected with the game as owners, managers, scouts or in some capacity which keeps them actively interested in baseball.

There are a few men, like Fielder Jones and Jake Stahl, who have really retired at the height of their usefulness, but such cases are rare and even they may some day be unable to resist the old lure of the diamond. If a man does not send his signed contract in early, or if he delays signing while bargaining for better terms, the report that he has decided to take up some other profession permanently comes from every corner of the land.

The latest story is that Mordecai Brown and Orvie Overall are lost to the Cubs forever. It is said that the two famous pitchers have announced their intention of giving up baseball and devoting their entire time to their California ranches. They are reported as stating that they have no grievance against Murphy or Chance, but have simply decided never to return to the diamond. Will they feel the same way about it when the training camps open in the spring? The fans hope that they will exercise the privilege of women and ball players and change their minds.

Now that Fred Beebe, Paskert and Louis Shettler have signed for next year, most of the Phillies' contracts are autographed. With these two in line the club now has eighteen men on its books for next season.

Rowan and Lobert are still among the missing, but as they have been offered a handsome increase in salary, it is believed they will soon come safely into the fold.

George Allen, of the borough, has recovered from a recent serious operation.

Mrs. Andrew Findley, of Jersey City, has been visiting relatives here for a short time.

Miss Marguerite Brown, of Brooklyn, has returned home after a visit with friends here.

Mrs. William Moffett, of Elmwood place, has been entertaining her sister from Morristown.

Thomas H. Keller, formerly of this city, was in town yesterday calling on friends and relatives.

Clifford Randolph, of Grant avenue, has returned from the hospital, where he was under treatment for typhoid fever.

Miss Grace Stillman, of West Fourth street, who has been under treatment at the hospital, will return home this week.

LA MONTE, OF SOMERSET, WON'T VOTE FOR SMITH.

That he will not vote for James Smith, Jr., is stated in a letter written by George M. La Monte, Democratic Assemblyman-elect from Somerset county, to Mr. Smith himself. This information has been given to the Democratic Club of Bound Brook, where Mr. La Monte resides.

The letter, it is understood, was written in response to one from Mr. Smith, asking the support of Mr. La Monte. The Somerset Assemblyman would not talk about the matter yesterday, but said that his position would be made known in a formal statement next week.

COMES ACROSS HIDDEN MONEY.

While cleaning a closet in the old Dekay house in Vernon Wednesday, Miss Ida Simonson overturned an old wash-boiler and in it found $500 in gold, wrapped in old papers. Continuing the search, several bundles of bills were discovered. One of these contained ten $100 bills. The others were of smaller denomination. The "find" is worth $4,000.

The money had the appearance of having been secreted several years ago. The theory is advanced by some that a wealthy resident, who occupied the house during the Civil War, withdrew funds from the banks to escape the high tax rate, and died without telling of the hidden places of the coin.

Miss Simonson will give out no details, but neighbors believe the articles containing the money belonged to her mother.

The Simonsons were one of the pioneer families of the Vernon Valley and were well to do. Theodore Simonson, of Newton, who is a member of the State Board for the Equalization of Taxes, is a cousin.

spect to induce Mr. Smith to withdraw from his candidacy. It was my sincere desire that he should earn the credit which is due him for the undoubted service of the Democratic State organization in the recent campaign. By withdrawing he would have won respect and applause and I should have been very glad to join in according him all just praise. I had hoped that it would be possible for me to assume office and enter on the performance of my duties without giving utterance to anything about individuals that would give them pain, or draw me away from the attitude of respect which I had tried to maintain. But I have been left without a choice in the matter.

"The issue is plain. If Mr. Smith is sent back to the Uniter States Senate, the Democratic party and the State itself is more delivered into the hands of the very influences from which it had struggled to set itself free. Nothing could have been more unfortunate than Mr. Smith's candidacy. It revives the alarms and prejudices which make fair and just legislation so difficult and doubtful. It renews and intensifies the struggle between the people and selfish interests, between popular rights and property rights, between privilege and opportunity, which ought to be accommodated by laws which will be fair to all parties. It is a sad circumstance that the conflict must be fought out through this last unfortunate stage. But of course it must be. Mr. Smith and those whom he represents have made it inevitable.

"The people must now speak their minds in unmistakable terms to those whom they have chosen to represent them. It must now be determined whether the present members of the Legislature are representatives of the people or puppets of a bi-partisan machine. I believe in organization. I desire to co-operate with Democrats of every affiliation in carrying the party forward by union and harmony of action towards the great service which it can render the country, if it will but be true to its principles. But when organization is used for the elevation and benefit of individuals who do not represent the people, whose interests are opposed to those of the people, I must resist it by every means at my disposal.

"Over against all this selfish effort to use a machine, over against all this sinister pressure to put a man into the United States Senate who by common consent will not represent the people, stands the candidacy of Mr. Martine, supported by the votes of a very large majority of the Democrats who chose to express their preference at the primaries. It is my earnest and deliberate judgment that it is the duty of the Democratic members of the Legislature to ratify that expression of preference by electing Mr. Martine a member of the Senate.

"The last time a Senator from New Jersey was chosen the party caucus formally indorsed Mr. Martine as its candidate. Three years ago Mr. Smith proposed Mr. Martine for the Governorship. Throughout the Union the Democratic party has turned with greater and greater enthusiasm to the practice of following the preference of the people expressed at the primaries in the choice of Senators. The Democratic party in New Jersey has again and again indorsed the principle and favored the practice. It cannot turn from its duty in this instance without completely discrediting itself and all its professions of faith in this popular and admirable reform.

"Mr. Martine is a man of sterling character, of fine fidelity to his party and to its principles, and is considered by those who know him best to be undoubtedly qualified to serve the State well and honorably in the Senate. His election will definitely and finally commit the State to the practice of elevating to the Senate men indorsed at the polls by the people. This is the opportunity, the significant and critical opportunity, for the Democratic party to prove its good faith in this cardinal matter of self-government. Confirm the vote of Mr. Martine and the principle of the people's choice is established—will live vitally in practice; ignor it and the people will distrust both primaries and parties. If the present members of the Legislature turn away from the people now they will never again have or deserve another opportunity to enjoy their support and confidence.

"The issue is, therefore, not merely an issue between choosing a representative of the people or a representative of the business machine, but an issue between sustaining or rejecting a great principle to which the party is unequivocally committed. I do not see how any true Democrat can in the circumstances doubt his duty or turn away from it to hazard shame and utter discredit."

POST OFFICE BUSIER THAN EVER BEFORE

Nobody who has not seen the big stacks of mail at the local postoffice can realize the enormous job that Postmaster Bird and his clerks has on hand this year. Packages which would fill a Central Railroad freight car and then ahve some left over are being sorted and made ready for delivery, but it is quite likely that the job will not be finished until Monday. In spite of extra clerks and carriers the business has managed to get ahead of the handlers and it has been impossible to make regular deliveries.

Yesterday over 25,000 one cent stamps alone were sold which is an indication of the enormous business done in handling post cards, but in spite of all the heavy traffic outgoing mails have not suffered an instant's delay. Every night the outgoing mail has all been cleaned up before the office has been closed and the delay in delivery of incoming matter is made as little as possible.

Postmaster Bird said this morning that indications pointed to a large increase in mail matter to be delivered in this city than was handled last year at this time. It will necessitate the use of wagons by the carriers on their regular routes on Monday on which day there will be but one delivery. Everything will be delivered as far as it is possible to do so, but the postmaster hopes that the people will be patient and not censure the department if delays occur in delivery. The office will be open an extra hour on Sunday morning to accommodate those who call for their mail.

MATHIS LOSES HIS SEAT.

Decision of Judge Voorhees Implies That Ballot Boxes Were Stuffed. for Recount.

By an opinion handed down at Trenton by Justice Voorhees in the Supreme Court yesterday Senator Thomas A. Mathis of Ocean county, who sought to retain his seat in the State Senate after a recount had shown that he was elected over George C. Low, Democrat, will not receive a certificate of election, and Mr. Low, who was elected on the face of the returns on election night, wiill be seated. This will make the Senate stand: Republicans, 12; Democrats, 9.

Justice Voorhees based his decision on the ground that the ballots in the boxes at the recount were not those voted on election day. This is taken as a practical admission that the boxes were stuffed.

At the Senatorial Republican caucus this week here $12,000 worth of patronage was withheld so that it might be given to Ocean county, in the event of Mr. Mathis' success in the contest. It will not be distributed now that the seat was gained by a Democrat.

N. P. H. S. Christmas Dance.

The North Plainfield High School classes held the annual Christmas exercises and dance in Debele's auditorium, last night. The upper departments handed out customary knocks on the Juniors and presents were distributed from a Christmas tree, Santa Claus being impersonated by Andrew Stiglitz, Jr. The dancing commenced at the conclusion of the exercises.

Remember The Day Nursery.

During the holiday season, when exchange of gifts is the rule, a request is made that The Day Nursery, the King's Daughters' charity, be not forgotten by the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield. The needs of the nursery are increasing all the time and gifts of fruits, vegetables, cereals and money will be acceptable.

Poor Children Enjoy Show.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The trial of Oscar Harrison, of the borough, who was held in $100 bail by Recorder Campbell, will be heard at the January term of the Middlesex court. He is accused of assault by Andrew Compton, of Bedminster, who claims that Harrison struck him when he was discovered removing the extra tire from the complainant's automobile, left standing in front of Taylor's hotel. Harrison was placed under arrest by Marshal Benson, who witnessed part of the affair.

George Rinehart, of North avenue, is laid up with a badly crushed hand, the result of an accident while at work a few days ago. He is a member of the Central's bridge gang and was engaged on a structure at Atlantic Highlands when his hand became caught beneath a heavy shoe. The injury was dressed by a physician and he returned to his home in the borough.

The annual Christmas exercises of the Methodist church Sunday-school will be held in the main auditorium tonight. An attractive program of carols, recitations and a short cantata has been arranged. Reward of merit cards will also be distributed to members of the school who have been present every Sunday during the year.

Harry Piddington, of New Market, had the ends of two fingers almost severed while at work in the J. D. Loizeaux lumber yard at Rock avenue, Wednesday. The hand became caught in one of the planing saws. The injured digits were dressed by Dr. Pittis, of Plainfield, and an effort is being made to save the tips.

The art store in Plainfield conducted by Louis DeBrigard, of Front street, the borough was closed on attachment Wednesday. The proprietor has been beset by business difficulties but hopes to have them properly settled in order to resume.

A watch night service will be held at the Methodist church on New Year's Eve. During the first week or two of January a series of evangelistic services will be conducted in the church.

Henry Vogel, who was incapacitated by having his foot run over by a wagon, is able to be about again but still has considerable difficulty in attending to his customary duties.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Carkhuff, of Centerville, have returned home after a week's visit with relatives in the borough and New Market.

Mrs. John Logan and daughter, Miss Mary Logan, were among the Christmas shoppers in New York, Wednesday.

DUTIES OF CITIZENSHIP

Imitation of the Master and Practice of the Golden Rule.

SAYS SAMUEL S. SWACKHAMER.

Address to Men of Church of the Heavenly Rest—Upholds Woodrow Wilson and the Primary Election.

A goodly representation of the members of the Men's Club of the Church of the Heavenly Rest heard a speech by former Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer, last night, in the parish house which elicited three hearty cheers at its close. As a mark of esteem Mr. Swackhamer was elected an honorary member of the association and was besides given a rising vote of thanks.

Mr. Swackhamer spoke on "The Duties Of Citizenship," telling the members of the club that they each had a duty that should not be shirked. He said that to bring the millenial down men must live in imitation of the Master and practice the golden rule. "The spirit of Democracy has spread," he said, "in Germany, England and in the United States, and in the latter country gave on November 8 last an unmistakable sign to the enemies of liberty of the people."

Mr. Swackhamer in his speech proceeded to demonstrate that the fight now on between Governor Woodrow Wilson and his supporters, and the opposition is momentous. He stated that trade politicians and those who had axes to grind were lined up in opposition to the right of the people to choose their United States Senators, and that these opposers were found in both parties alike; that the trusts and special interests were antagonistic to the popular choice of United States Senators, because the people would be likely to choose such men as would withhold their support from such legislation as these interests desired. He insisted that the only remedy for the evils of class legislation is the selection by the people of representatives who are in favor of equal rights and opposed to governmental favoritism. He said it was the duty of all good citizens to consider seriously the contest which is now on, and to act the part of patriots. He said it would be found that practically all the enemies of popular government are on the side of the special interests, and against the Governor in this struggle, and that this fact characterizes the conflict. He urged all citizens to take a hand in upholding the principle at stake, and predicted that the people would finally triumph.

Referring to the fight now going on between principle and "the interests" he said that the party which won so signal victory at the polls was now divided, but that the fight for the principle, whose champion was Woodrow Wilson, will be fought to a finish against the manipulators of both parties, and every honorable means would be used to save from final defeat the great victory won in November. Mr. Martine's candidacy for the United States Senate was upheld and the contest between him and James Smith, Jr., declared to be the greatest ever faced by the people of the State.

Following the speech the entertainment committee served hot coffee and sandwiches. On the evening of January 5 the club will hold a "ladies night" with progressive euchre.

HERE AND THERE.

Enforcement of Federal liquor laws in Northern Minnesota is interfering with church rites by preventing them from procuring wine for communion.

To remedy conditions Bishop McGolrick, of Duluth, conferred at St. Paul with Arch-bishop John Ireland Wednesday afternoon. Bishop McGolrick says the railroads have refused to carry wine for church use to towns in the "Indians country."

Archbishop Ireland and Bishop McGolrick will take action looking toward having the prohibitive order modified.

Six thousand Bibles are to be placed in the hotel bedrooms of Chicago. They will not be chained down. If a guest steals a Bible to read it, the book will be replaced and the loss charged to the credit account, because the purpose of the project is to encourage Bible reading.

The Gideons, an association of Christian traveling men of the United States, are back of the movement. The Bibles are to be delivered to the hotel bedrooms at 3 o'clock p. m. on the last day of the year. The delivery will be by 1,000 young men from the churches and other religious organizations.

The Bible carriers will be formed into a procession at the Central Y. M. C. A. and will march to a central point in the loop district, where they will break ranks and go to the various hotels.

On account of Monday being a holiday, Plainfield Council, No. 294, Jr. O. U. A. M., will omit its meeting for that night.

THE HOME, SWEET HOME OF THE FUTURE.

HE.

What's happened to the dinner, wife?
The roast is more than rare,
The soup is cold,
The bread is old,
The coffee only fair.

SHE.

The cook has left me, hubby dear,
Her words I'll have to quote;
"Me duds Oi'll pack!
Oi won't come back!
For, faith, Oi hov me vote!"

HE.

What's happened to the parlor, love,
The dust is inches high?
An awful gloom
Pervades the room
And not a maid I spy!

SHE.

The maid has gone away, my pet,
She flitted from my sight
With just a word,
"Twas this I heard—
"At lasht Oi hov me roight!"

HE.

You have your hat on, wife sweet,
Oh, tell me, dear, I pray,
Now hubby's home,
Why will you roam—
Ah, what is this you say?

SHE.

A home is but to sleep in, dear,
A refuge from the wet.
I'm out, you see,
To lunch and tea,
Now I'm a Suffragette!

—LURANA SHELDON.

The officers-elect of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and the Women's Relief Corps will be installed jointly at the first meeting in January.

A FLOWER LEGEND.

How the Myosotis Came to Be Called Forgetmenot Is a Romantic, if Improbable, Tale.

Dr. A. F. Themson communicated to Mills' "History of Chivalry" the following romantic account of the origin of the popular name, forgetmenot, of the favorite little flower myosotis: "Two lovers were loitering on the margin of a lake on a fine summer's evening when the maiden espied some of the flowers of myosotis growing on the water close to the bank of an island at some distance from the shore. She expressed a desire to possess them when the knight, in the true spirit of chivalry, plunged into the water and swimming to the spot, cropped the wished for plant, but his strength was unable to fulfill the object of his achievement, and, feeling that he could not regain the shore, although very near it, he threw the flowers upon the bank, and, casting a last affectionate look upon his ladylove, he cried 'Forget me not!' and was buried in the waters. As the world insists upon a reason, this story is as good as another, but the worthy knight must have been sadly out of his element not to have been able to return from a bank on which his mistress could discern a minute a blossom, unless, indeed, we suppose him to have been clad in armor, which was a habiliment ill adapted for a lover by land or water."

THE RHINOCEROS.

This Malicious Brute Is the Assassin of the Jungle.

If the genius of hell used up all his mental energy making a devil for the animal kingdom, he could not have created a more uncertain, malicious and ugly brute than the rhinoceros. This animal has buried more hunters than all other big game combined. It seems to be the hired assassin of the jungle.

Its success as a homicide is not due to the fact that it seeks its victim, but because its victim falls over it. If the rhino knows that there is an enemy about, it will try to get away without being seen. If, on the other hand, it thinks that by keeping still it will be passed unnoticed, it stays as silent and motionless as Gibraltar, its little hog eyes watching the direction of the noise and its nose sniffing the air.

Should an enemy show up suddenly in the jungle the rhino charges like a flash, nose down and horns leveled like swords for the thrust, its huge bulk crushing through the brush like an express train. It is always a fight to the death, for a rhinoceros, once in a fight, wins or dies, and it mostly wins if it is not confronted with an express rifle in the hands of a cool, good shot.—Hampton's Magazine.

The Old Time Album.

"The terrors of the autograph album" must have been more general in the middle of the last century than they are now. The volume had embossed pages of various colors and showed alternate literature and art—original verses and drawings of ruins and bridges heightened with white chalk. Girls presented it for contributions so universally that Charles Dickens was on one occasion much astonished to find none forthcoming. He had actually brought with him some verses addressed to a beautiful maiden, on whose parents he was calling, and he carried them away again. Sending them to her by post, he wrote, "I had meant to put these lines into your album, but you, who do nothing like anybody else, did not produce one."—London Standard.

In Morocco.

In Morocco the prevailing tone is grayish white, men's clothes and houses, towns, bushes, tall umbelliferae, nodding like ghosts in autumn—all are white; white sands upon the shore and in the Sahara and over all a white and saddening light, as if the sun was tired of shining down forever on the unchanging life. In no part of Morocco I have visited does the phrase "gorgeous east" have the least meaning, and this is always noted by the wandering easterners, who find the country dull and lacking in color compared with Asia, or, as the Arabs call it, "Blad Es Schark."—"A Journey to Morocco."

Russian Vengeance.

The Russian revlutionaries have absolutely no mercy on those who betray them. It is well known that in the year 1903 a traitor caught at Odessa was bricked up alive in a cellar.

Regnier, a French spy in the pay of the Russian police, for a long time eluded the vengeance of the revolutionaries. But they caught him at last, and that just at the moment when he fancied himself safe. His body was found in his cabin on a ship which reached Antwerp. He had been suffocated by fumes of sulphureted hydrogen. How this was done was never discovered.

The Considerate Clock.

"One kiss!" pleaded a departing lover.

"Nonsense!" exclaimed his fiancee in a teasing mood. "Some one might see us."

"Who?"

"Why, the clock; it has a face."

"Yes, but it keeps its hands in front of it!"

When He Missed It.

The baldheaded man was asked if he missed his hair much.

"Only when some fool question makes me so mad I want to pull it," he replied pleasantly.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The rain falls on the just and unjust, but the latter nearly always have the former's umbrellas.—Town Topics.

THE SAILOR COLLAR.

Embroidered Linen Is Mostly Seen In Connection With This Popular Adornment.

The popularity of the satin sailor collar on the jackets of this winter has started girls to making lingerie collars in the same shape for their one piece frocks and blouses.

Lace, especially Irish crochet, is not as first class as it was. We are rather tired of it in the form of endless collars. The embroidered linen ones are considered newer, and when well done they are exceedingly pretty.

If a girl wants something dainty for Christmas she will find them acceptable gifts. The new sailor collar differs from the old one in that it does not reach the armhole. It is longer than it is wide, and many reach halfway to the waist line.

The linen that has a faint tint of age, as though it had yellowed in a cedar chest, is the best kind to use for these collars. The deep ivory tone is considered better than dead white. The embroidery is dainty, even if done in the Chinese fashion.

The edges are not scalloped, but overcast with a heavy buttonhole stitch. Some are bound with black satin. These have square fronts and when worn are finished with a cravat of satin or velvet ribbon.

It will remain the fashion to go without the stock, and these wide collars are a graceful adjunct to a dark gown.

KNITTED GOODS.

Three Piece Costumes, Consisting of Cap, Gloves and Sweater Coat, Are the Latest Vogue.

There is at present a vogue of knitted goods. The latest fancy is the three piece costume, consisting of cap, gloves and sweater coat. This is intended primarily for skating, etc., but will be worn this winter even on the street. The coats are very long, with deep pockets and with leather revers and turnback cuffs.

Among caps there are the tam-o'-shanter and the capuchin types, the latter buttoning in front and having a warm little cape that fits about the neck and shoulders.

Even knitted skirts are not unknown and are a joy forever to the happy autumn golfer. All these garments are made to fit rather snugly and do not require belts or any other form of extra fastening. Gray, white, brown and green are the favorite colors.

If you know how to knit or can learn how here is the way to make yourself a pretty and fashionable set for winter that will be warmth itself when warmth is most desired.

Ruffles on Skirts.

The prevalence of the tunic and the overskirt has given rise to a modification of these in the shape of circular ruffles extending from waist to ankles. This is quite in the old style of several years back, but somehow combines fluffiness with simplicity and maintains the tight and narrow skirt announced for this fall and winter. Usually five ruffles are used on a skirt. Sometimes these are plain; again they are edged or veiled with chiffon or tulle. This style is becoming to every one but the short, stout woman, who should beware of it.

To Try the Iron.

Keep on your ironing board a large folded piece of unbleached muslin on which to try the hot iron. If the muslin scorches it does not matter, and it is easy to supply a new piece when the old is burnt through. You will rejoice in the saving on the cover of your ironing board.

TRIMMED WITH WIDE RIBBON

The extreme simplicity of this little dinner frock does not give even an idea of the rich colors used in the model, for the material is gold satin charmeuse with a glint of olive green. The embroidered bands are in a green gold tone, and the velvet ribbon used in bretelle and sash effects is a shade darker than the satin of the frock.

In the square decolletage gold colored chiffon is set; this is laid over flesh colored chiffon to produce the effect of a deep decolletage, though as a matter of fact such a deep yoke could scarcely be worn without a lining of some sort.

SILK BLOUSES.

Taffeta Has Given Way to Better Fitting Materials.

Buttons, Braids and Lace Used In Profusion Tend to Bring Out Very Decided Effects.

How different are the silk blouses of today from those of a few seasons ago! The stiff taffeta has been replaced by an attractive, good fitting style that shows silk in its most attractive colors, trimmed in clever ways and so designed that a tailored suit is instantly changed into a three piece gown. There are no straight silk collars to absorb the oil from the skin; there are no lines at the shoulder seams that verily hide the graceful figure under unnecessary folds.

Simplicity, attractive ornamentation of braid and buttons and the popular chemisettes of lace to insure freshness at the yoke and sleeves are the main factors that contribute to the importance that blouses have attained in the field of woman's dress.

Let us take, for instance, a blouse of plain dark blue satin. It is trimmed with a shallow yoke of lighter blue satin—nattier blue—covered in easily stitched lines of soutache. Cuffs of this trimming edge the three-quarter length sleeves that are the favorite extension of the bodice. Collars and subcuffs are of lace. These are most satisfactory if made on a lawn or batiste lining, making a change of guimpes possible and lessening the wear on lace collars.

There is a great vogue for white satin in Paris. For women to whom colors are not becoming the soft white silk is suggested for afternoon wear. A white silk blouse with a military touch of dull silver braid and buttons is another valuable idea. These outline the shoulder seam and form a shield at the front. A tiny bow of black is caught at the collar line, the long ends reappearing at buttonholed slots below the yoke. Braid and buttons are used on the cuffs.

Dull crepe de chine in a soft gray in combination with silver lace and braid makes a beautiful blouse. The sleeves should be made bell shaped and button trimmed. In this case white mousseline forms the collar and yoke. A touch of silver lace is used to outline the rounded top edge.

In our fourth idea black and white are given one more opportunity to join hands in the season's modish alliance. Here a white crepe de chine blouse is to be worn with a black velvet suit. A square yoke and straight bands for the sleeves are of tucked black chiffon or mousseline. A collar and cuffs of Irish lace are added, while six dull jet buttons are used on the front. If you wish a touch of color you may use the shaded enamel buttons that cost much, but can be worn over and over again.

If you have just a little piece of material left after the coat and jacket are made you may use it for a blouse over a foundation of all over lace, cream or dyed to match the fabric. A shield shaped front should be stitched and applied. The sides are curved almost like the lines of a bolero and the coat sleeves pieced out with lace. Here is the chance to use an old lace waist.

Dark green liberty silk is used in the model which is here illustrated. Velvet outlines the yoke that is cut in a modified line at the front over ecru lace. The buttons are of dull silver, placed on each side of the front and on the outer edge of each sleeve.

Filling Sachets.

Fill the tiny bags with a mixed powder of iris and heliotrope and add a few peppercorns, which will both preserve the perfumed powder and bring out its sweet scent.

A CONCRETE CORNCRIB.

The Floor, Above All, Should Be Made of This Material, as Rats Cannot Nest In It.

Rats destroy grain, carry "catching" diseases from house to house and from their love of matches cause destructive fires. This useless waste has become such a national loss that the department of agriculture at Washington has issued a free bulletin on "How to Destroy the Rat." To get rid of the rat remove his nesting place. With this object in view the department recommends concrete floors, especially for barns, poultry houses, cornerib and granaries. The experience of many farmers is that grain mature enough to be placed in storage will not spoil on concrete floors. Corn will not mold in contact with them, provided there is good ventilation and the roof is tight.

For a cornerib choose a well drained site. Excavate a trench for an eight inch concrete foundation wall around the outside of the building and to the depth of two feet. With box forms of one inch siding on 2 by 4 inch studding, carry this eight inch wall to a height of twelve to eighteen inches above ground level, depending upon the height of the drag belt conveyors used by local corn shellers.

There are several ways of attaching the studding to the concrete floor. One of the simplest and easiest is the nailing sill or plate, generally a 2 by 6 inch piece bolted to the concrete foundation wall. For such a sill while the concrete is still s ft set five-eighths inch bolts eight to ten inches long, head down, three inches in from the outer edge of the foundation wall and projecting two and a half inches above the concrete. These bolts should be placed not more than three feet apart.

Some farmers prefer to countersink the nailing sill so that its top will be flush with the surface of the floor. So placed, the sill is liable to rot more quickly.

After the forms are removed place a well rammed fill between the foundation walls and within four inches of their tops. Coarse gravel and crushed rock are the best materials for this purpose. If some clay must be used, tamp it in the bottom, but let the floor rest on at least six inches of gravel or crushed rock. With the fill thoroughly settled, commence placing the four inch floor. This concrete should be only wet enough that it will flush a little liquid cement when tamped into place.

Experienced concrete workers often use only an outside board form, one wall, for the foundation walls. They place the concrete for the foundation wall against this outside form and at the same time tamp the gravel fill back of the concrete. In this case the foundation as well as the floor is built in sections and both at one time. The saving in lumber so effected really amounts to nothing, as all the boards can be used later in the crib.

Re-enforced concrete floors, not supported by earth or gravel fill, but by the foundation walls alone, can and are being successfully built. Since the strength of each floor, on account of the variation in size and loading, is a different problem, it is advisable to refer every piece of such work to a man who is thoroughly familiar with the principles of re-enforcing. The main point is that concrete floors last forever. They afford no nesting place for rats. And with dollar wheat, seventy-five cent corn and fifty cent oats the saving thus effected adds considerably to the profits of each year.

Short Feeding Poor Policy.

If there is not enough feed on the place to carry the hogs through and fit them quickly and if prices do not seem to warrant the purchase of feed, then it is much better to market them at once rather than stunt them by short feed in the winter. A stunted animal never made anybody money.

FARM NOTES

The best land for strawberries is a sandy loam.

To rid flowerpots of earthworms water with limewater.

The climbing or trailing nasturtiums can be planted either with or without support.

Do you save your tomato seed? If so obtain them from fine, large specimens of fruit.

Sweet potatoes should be dried and stored in boxes of sand before the frost touches them.

Good garden implements are essential for successful gardening. Much of the benefit and pleasure derived from work in the garden are missed by having poor tools. The best are the cheapest.

Remember that there is no fertilizer for the garden that compares with well rotted barnyard manure. Application may be made any time during the fall, even if the ground is not to be plowed till late.

NEWS BRIEFS

JIM SMITH AT PRESENT AND IN FORMER

irway of her esday, Mrs. her arms

Hisory is repeating itself in New Jersey. In the fall of 1892, shortly after Cleveland had been elected President, eight Assemblymen from Essex county addressed a letter to James Smith, Jr., asking him to become a candidate for United States Senator. Smith was the county chairman, and every one of the eight owed their election to him. Up to that time he had declared himself in favor of the election of Gov. Leon Abbett. There was supposed to be no other candidate in the field. But the letter from his henchmen paved the way for him to take the field in opposition to the Governor, whom he had promised to support. On the eve of the legislative caucus, he announced himself as a candidate, and, by means which need not here be rehearsed, he was elected.

This year it was generally understood to have been one of the conditions which Woodrow Wilson imposed on the party leaders before he would consent to accept the nomination for Governor, that Smith should not later—in the event of a Democratic victory—become a candidate for the Senate. It was understood that a virtual promise was made to him by "Nephew" Nugent and others who professed to have the right to speak for Smith, that Smith accepted this condition and would not become a candidate.

Three weeks ago, the eight Assemblymen from Essex county, acting exactly as did their predecessors eighteen years ago, addressed a letter to Smith asking him to become a candidate for the Senate. Yesterday his reply to that letter was made public. In it he disregarded his pledge just as he did on the former occasion, and agreed to become a candidate.

There is this difference only: In 1893 he delayed the announcement of his decision until the eve of the caucus, when it was too late to prevent the betrayal. This year he has replied early enough, it is believed, for his opponents to demonstrate many powerful reasons why he should not be allowed to have another opportunity of misrepresenting his State in the Senate.

The political record of James Smith, Jr.,' the Democratic boss who aspires to succeed John Kean in the United States Senate, is one long story of betrayal of friends and of party. He has broken party pledges and personal promises. He has advanced his own interests at the expense of his friends and enriched himself. He has been unscrupulous in accomplishing partisan ends by means of trickery and the expenditure of enormous sums of money under the name of "campaign contributions," and then, in the same unscrupulous way and by the same means, he has accomplished his own ends at the expense of the party whose machinery he controls.

It is doubtful if another man of like prominence in public life in America today has a record that should so absolutely disqualify him from seeking a seat in the highest legislative body in the land.—New York Evening Post.

LITERARY

Price Collier recently returned to New York after a long absence, having spent about a year in India and the Far East, and then made a journey to South America. Mr. Collier's book, "England and the English from an American Point of View," opened to him the doors of the ruling class in India, and he has written for Scribner's Magazine a striking series of articles beginning in January on "The West in the East," particularly England's rule in India, and with special reference to America's own problems as a power in Eastern affairs.

A Straining Bag.

A flannel straining bag is a necessity in any kitchen where jellies are prepared. Instead of investing in an expensive strainer, an excellent substitute may be made of ordinary flannel, which should first of all be hemmed neatly and then soaked and wrung out in boiling water. When it is used, it should be laid inside a large bowl and the fruit or liquid jelly poured into it. The four ends of the flannel should then be tied together and a string passed through the knots. The bag can then be suspended over a bowl by means of a couple of chains and left to drain slowly until all the liquid has passed through. A blanket should be thrown over the top in cold weather, so as to prevent the jelly from setting too soon.

A Transportation Problem.

Reindeer's mighty skiddish and
Dey don' look strong o' limb.
Foh travelin' 'cross de winter land
Out in de starlight dim,
No matter whut's de freight you draws,
"Go slow's de safest rule;
If I wus Mistuh Santy Claus
I'd git myself a mule.

'Course, he could have a motor car—
But s'pose she staht to skid?
Dem aeroplane dey travels far;
But s'pose dey comes undid
An'draps de outfit?—if he'd pause
An' figger calm an' cool,
I bet ol' Mistuh Santy Claus
Would get hisse'f a mule.

OLD ZOUAVE ARMORY IS BEING TORN DOWN.

Elizabeth's old Veteran Zouave Armory, in Elizabeth, which was built forty years ago and was the scene of many notable events, including receptions to General Grant, General and Governor Gordon, of Georgia; Kansas City Veteran Zouaves and Chicago Zouaves, is being torn down. It was recently purchased by Commodore Walter Summerton, of the Elizabeth Yacht Club, for $405.

Only a few years ago the city of Elizabeth paid $11,000 for the structure, to be used as an armory for the National Guard, but it was found to be too dilapidated to answer the purpose. Then the Norwood Athletic Club offered the city of Elizabeth $500 a year for a lease of the place, but the city asked $800.

OAK LEAVES AND ACORNS.

Combined They Make a Most Attractive Design For a Library Table Centerpiece.

Oak leaves and acorns lend themselves readily for the design of a pattern which may be used for a library table for the use of the one who makes it, or, on the other hand, it is a very good suggestion for a gift.

Tan linen is the best for this, and the easy couching stitch may be used, with which most every one is familiar. Outline the leaves in this way, using the thick rope silk or cord that comes for couching, and catch down every half inch or so with a finer thread. In other words, you follow the outline with the left hand and the thick thread and tack it in place with your needle of the right hand.

It will be extremely effective if you combine green and brown or brown and red in the couching stitches, holding down the thicker thread with a contrasting color.

Work the stems in stem stitch with solid midribs.

The acorns you will outline in brown on the dome shaped tops and fill in the acorn cups with brown French knots. This is very striking and gives a few solid spots on the design.

Pad the scallops with darning cotton and work with brown, using the buttonhole stitch. If you wish you can enlarge this pretty centerpiece still more by adding wide ecru lace in torchon or cluny under the edge.

A little introduction of red or yellow is good; by adding an extra line below the couch stitching to emphasize the brown you will greatly improve this design.

This design is undeniably pretty. You will naturally have to enlarge it to whatever size you may wish.

The Christmas season being so near at hand, this suggestion should serve as a hint to all needleworkers.

SCARF AND MUFF.

Made of Velvet. These Are Very Effective, and the Cost Is Insignificant.

Straight from Paris comes the idea of a matched set that is less expensive than one entirely of fur and yet from the points of utility and beauty is equally successful. A broad band of black and white striped velvet forms the body of the scarf. The central portion is cut to fit the shoulders with a capelike perfection, and the ends taper to graceful points, from which hangs deep fringe.

An inner band of black fur is used to outline the entire stole, which is possibly three yards long. This fur is applied just inside the edge, and a filling of satin or mousseline softens the outer line.

With this there comes a muff, large, supple and flat. Striped velvet forms the central band, on each side of which is the fur, and broader puffing of velvet makes the assurance of size doubly sure. Quillings outline the openings at the sides.

Any idea can be carried out along these lines. Indeed, there is no excuse for old fashioned sets being kept in camphorated inactivity. Bring them out and make them join forces with velvet or silk. The scarf and muff to match are too good to be missed.

HIGH BANDEAU HAT.

For so many seasons the bandeau has been absent and hats have got into such a way of settling down over head and hair that it is a decided change of fashion to see the hat lifted high by the bandeau once more. This fashion has already obtained great hold in Paris, where Lewis brought out the first of these scoop shaped hats raised thus at the back. Sometimes the space under the lifted brim is filled with chanticleer feathers, sometimes with massed roses and sometimes, as in the present instance, with lace frills and a drooping bow of velvet ribbon. The hat shown is of prune colored velvet, with a lining and ostrich plumes in a somewhat lighter shade of the same color.

A clash between policemen and employes of the Riverside Traction Company was averted Tuesday afternoon when the railroad submitted to the demand of Mayor Farner, of Burlington, that it erect only straight poles in the city. Atlantic City's big sixty-inch wooden water main, seven miles long, bound together with steel hoops, is finished, and it will be ready to deliver water in a few days at the rate of 7,000,000 gallons a day. This is more water than is today supplied by the three metal water mains which stretch across the meadows from the resort to the artesian wells near Absecon.

HERE AND THERE.

"I was much interested," said a man from up the State, "in a point raised by a visitor the other day as to which was better, a young man's impulse, or what is called sober judgment. I have a case in mind.

"Two brothers who grew up in my town started out in different ways. One, whom I will call Eph, was of a saving, thrifty nature. He burned the midnight oil, was sober and industrious and everybody said Eph would be one of the greatest financiers of his age. Eph came down to New York, went into business and everybody thought he was a millionaire when the crash of 1907 came. It left Eph a broken man, actually unable to make a decent living.

"The other brother, whom I may name Eli, discovered early in life he had a big crop of oats to sow. He went in for striped shirts and loud neckties and for coloring the town to match them. He inherited money but went through it, the end coming when he made one farewell swoop on New York. Here he fell in with a man from the West who was looking for somebody to grubstake him. He was down and out and Eli's heart went out to him. He gave him all the money he had except $100, devoted that to a farewell to Broadway and then went back home and got a small job.

"He worked away for several years incidentally serving as an illustration for local moralizers, and then suddenly one day came a telegram. The man he had grubstaked several years before had struck a good mine and out of gratitude had counted Eli in as a partner. Eli is now living in luxury and taking care of Eph."

Valuable Help.

"I understand that your wife collaborates with you?"

"Yes, he work aids me immensely."

"I don't believe I have ever seen any of her writings."

"She doesn't write; she prepares my meals."—Houston Post.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 25, 1910.

Topic.—"Be born in us today."—Eph. iii, 14-21. (Christmas meeting.) Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

Today is the birthday of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. But Christ was not only born of the Virgin Mary by the power of the Holy Ghost, but He is also capable of being born into the human heart or of coming by faith into the hearts and lives of men and dwelling there and directing the motives and aspirations of the heart and the external acts of the life, which are the fruits or results of Christ "dwelling in us by faith."

The birth of Christ into the human heart is a mystery. This cannot be denied. No more can it be denied that it is a fact. This is the important phase of this tremendous claim. What matters the mystery if the glorious fact be true? The blind man could not explain how he was healed, but that was of little importance to him since he could say, "Whereas I was blind, now I see." His concern was not about the method of his being made to see, but it was concerned only with the fact that he could see. He knew he had been blind. But whereas he had been blind he knew that he could see. That was all sufficient for him. Hence if we know that Christ does dwell in our hearts, has been born in us by the power of the Spirit, why should we worry about the mystery in connection with the event itself? His own birth is mysterious, and many doubt or deny the virgin birth of Christ, but if we believe it, accept it and act upon it there need be no sleepless nights spent in considering how it could have been. "With God all things are possible." So it should be with Christ's indwelling in us.

The Scriptures declare the fact of Christ's indwelling presence. The topical inference consists of Paul's prayer for the Ephesians. It follows in form the Lord's Prayer, having (1) a preface, (2) petitions, (3) a benediction or doxology. This entire prayer is well worth our close and prayerful study. In one of the petitions Paul prays "that Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith." Paul had had a deep religious experience. He spoke from experience. Christ lived or dwelt in Him by faith. To the Galatians he writes, "It is no longer I that live, but Christ liveth in me, and the life which I now live I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me and gave Himself for me" (Gal. ii, 20). If in Paul and in the Ephesians Christ lived He can and will also dwell in all who accept Him by faith.

The character of Christ demonstrates His indwelling presence. Christ is divine; He is deity—not divine merely in the sense that we are all divine or possess the image of God. He is "very God of my God." Hence He is omnipotent, all powerful and can do anything. Of course His physical body does not dwell in our bodies. No one could conceive of such an absurdity. It is spiritually that He abides with us, and since His departure from earth it is the Holy Ghost who dwells in us as His personal representative. "It is expedient for you that I go away, for if I go not away the Comforter [the Holy Spirit] will not come unto you." He also says to His disciples, "Abide in me and I in you." "I in you!" This is His own declaration, and, being God, He can and will fulfill it.

Personal experience proves the indwelling presence of Christ. Millions can testify by experience of the presence of Christ in them. What more do we want? The question of great importance now is, Does Christ dwell in me? If not, let Him come in now—this Christmas time—today! Today is the only day we are assured of. Yesterday is past, and tomorrow will never come. On a Christmas Sabbath evening a pastor closed his Christmas sermon by saying: "This is the day of giving gifts. Why not give to Him whose birthday we commemorate, the best of all gifts—yourself? He invites you to come. Will you accept His invitation?" A youth about seventeen years of age accepted, made a Christmas gift of himself to Christ and is now a successful minister of the gospel. "Let the dear Saviour come in—today."

BIBLE READINGS.

Isa. ix, 6; xi, 1-5; Matt. ii, 1-11; xi, 28-30; John xiv, 15-17; xv, 1-14; John iii, 1-8; Gal. ii, 20; iv, 19, 20; Col. i, 27; iii, 8-14; Rev. iii, 20.

Quiet Moments.

In every church there should be a quiet moment after the benediction, when with bowed heads and reverent mien we wait before God for the blessing which has just been invoked upon us all. In this respect the Episcopalians set an admirable example to most denominations in this country, though I have seen the same quiet moment observed in some Presbyterian churches in this country and always in Scotland.

Why should not every service, whether preaching, prayer meeting or Christian Endeavor, be closed with a silent moment of meditation and prayer with bowed head and closed eyes?

I commend this heartily as an invariable rule for the close of every Christian Endeavor meeting.

Then when the benediction is pronounced there is another chance to show that God and heavenly things mean something to us by not relapsing into the frivolous small talk which often occupies the first half hour after the service.—Francis E. Clark, D. D.

How to Have a Warm House

First—install a BOYNTON "Square Pot," Patented, Furnace in the basement.

Then—in the morning before business and in the evening before retiring, step down and turn the BOYNTON clinkerless, ash-cutting grate. This clears the fire perfectly. Now put in a little coal; set the dampers for the degree of heat you wish, and leave the to do the rest. The BOYNTON is the most reliable house-heater known. It consumes less coal and gives more heat for the coal consumed, than any other heater on the market.

The BOYNTON "Square Pot" never holds dead fire. BOYNTON Boilers are now equipped with this same economical fire box and quick clearing grate. See your dealer about BOYNTON "Square Pot" furnaces and boilers.

THE HARVEST MOON

Copyright, 1909, by Augustus Thomas

"Isn't this rather sudden?" she asked.

"I can't help it, Dora," he said. "It's the only thing that will calm me down. In one way I feel that I ought to stay around in case you should need me; but, on the other hand, I don't think I will really be of much use, and I must get a change. I am going over for only a week or so, purely to get the sea air."

And the next day he sailed.

While the failure of the venture was a bitter blow, the thing that bore most heavily on Dora was the thought that she, confessedly defeated, would have to meet Aunt Cornelia. That essentially decisive type of the New England spinster had become a veritable bete noire to the young girl, who was all sensitiveness, preponderately emotional and dominated by the gentlest impulses.

Her father met her at the train when she arrived in New York and was even more affectionate, more gentle and more sympathetic than was his wont, but underneath it all she could see that he was glad—that he regarded it a victory for his judgment—and she thought if he were unable to conceal his exultation over her defeat what would not Aunt Cornelia show.

They got into a cab at Forty-second street, and he explained that they were also in New York to meet M. Vavin.

"M. Vavin!" exclaimed Dora. "I did not know he was to come so soon." A warm thrill went through her at the thought that once more she was to meet the kind, distinguished gentleman who seemed always to have understood her, even more than her own father.

"His resolution was rather sudden," said the professor, "and, frankly, it caused a little trouble, as we had undertaken to have Doumice come over and give the lectures, and Doumice really was announced. Doumice himself wired us that there had been changes in his program made necessary by family affairs and that he had persuaded Vavin to deliver the course for him and take up the work. Of course it is perfectly splendid."

"And he is here in town?" asked Dora.

"Yes; he is stopping at the hotel."

She settled back in the cab. The first contented feeling that she had had since the announcement of the closing of the tour had come to her in the thought that at least in the company of Vavin she would gain the strength with which to meet the dreaded female relative.

Vavin was out when they arrived at the hotel, but they met at dinner, he just as blithesome and happy over the meeting as she was. He kissed her hand affectionately.

"My dear little Miss Dora," he said, "it is so nice to see you again."

Her father had told her during the afternoon that Vavin had been much interested in her experiment with the stage—in fact, he had written to him most sorrowfully that his daughter was about to go on the stage and that he had been unable to control her. It was in reply to this letter that Vavin had accepted the invitation to visit Fullerton and lecture in America.

"You have had a jolly experience, eh?" he said when they were seated. "You have been an actress, eh?" Then, noticing that through her smiles there was a suggestion of a tear, he patted her hand and said:

"It is very fine to be une actrice, ne c'est pas? Failure! What is that? A great experience. Had you succeeded you would know little. You have failed; you are not forgotten."

Fullerton himself, however, did not seem to agree to the turn the conversation had taken, and during the rest of the dinner he carefully avoided allowing the subject to be brought up. It apparently was a great humiliation for this man that first a wife and then a daughter should have gone into things that to his mind were not of the well ordered world.

They passed the evening at the theater. Vavin, much to his own amazement, had found that he had an engagement in the "fat west," as he called it.

"I had expected," he explained to Dora, "that if I did any other lecturing than that which Professor Fullerton had asked me to do it would be a matter that I would think over. But before I left Paris I signed an agreement to lecture quite frequently. I arrived today. I lecture tomorrow afternoon in Pittsburg, is it not? Wonderful country! I should not have been surprised at all, though I hardly contemplated such a thing, believe me, had I been met halfway on the ocean by a steamship full of people who wished to hear of the wondrous beauties of the French lecture, of the drama and critique."

During the entr'acte Dora caught sight of Holcomb leaning over the rail at the rear of the orchestra gazing steadily at her. She bowed to him cordially. He seemed to hesitate, and then she gave him further indications that she would be glad to see him. He came down to the box hesitatingly and looking a trifle guilty. She was too much pleased, however, to notice this, though Vavin's sharp eye caught the young man's embarrassment.

"Miss Fullerton tells me that you are also of the experiment," said Vavin politely.

"It had the ingredients of an experiment, sir," replied Holcomb, "but it hardly lasted long enough to be so denominated."

"You should be a good actor," said Vavin, looking at him and scrutinizing his face carefully.

"I should rather, sir, be a good author."

"Ah, you write, then?"

"I had my first play accepted this afternoon, sir," he said, looking at Dora, whose face flushed with pleasure, for on the road he had told her of his ambitions, though he was hardly hopeful concerning a play which he had left in the hands of a manager before they left New York.

"The first play," mused Vavin, nodding approvingly—"that is a great thing. It is like a first marriage or a first baby. You can never have a first play a second time. I envy you."

Holcomb laughed.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The Great Powell, late of the Eden Musee, in New York city, and for many years its great drawing card, has been secured by the management of the Plainfield theatre for Christmas Day, Monday next. Powell comes to this city very highly recommended and all those desiring the best in a vaudeville performance that has been seen in this city in a long time will do well to attend either the matinee or night performance on that day. Powell's feats in magic are short of wonderful and he is continually adding additional ones to his already large repertoire. rPices are within the reach of everyone.

In connection with the coming engagement of "The Country Boy" at the Plainfield theatre on January 3, it will be interesting to the theatregoers of this city to learn something of the personality of Henry B. Harris, the eminent New York manager, who will present Edgar Selwyn's great comedy hit of the year here. The "Country Boy" is a strong story of city life, and has been the greatest comedy hit of recent years. It was entirely due to the good judgement of Mr. Harris that Mr. Selwyn wrote the play. Both Mr. Harris and Mr. Selwyn are members of the famous Lyons Club in New York and at one of the annual Lamb's Gambles Mr. Selwyn contributed a one-act sketch showing a scene in a typical New York theatrical boarding house. Mr. Harris was impressed with the sketch and urged Mr. Selwyn to develope it into a comedy which he did and the result was "The Country Boy," a play which every critic in the Metropolis has praised.

For many years Mr. Harris' atractions have been coming to this city and the people have learned when they see the familiar sign "Henry B. Harris presents," that it means they will get a performance of unusual excellence given by a competent cast, because Henry B. Harris always keeps faith with the theatre-going public, and never sends out a mediocre production or a poor cast, and it is due to this fact that Mr. Harris has become so popular and prominent with theatre-goers all over this broad land.

Mr. Harris' offices are in the Hudson theatre on West Forty-eighth street, New York. There all the business details of the great Harris enterprises are worked out. Mr. Harris is a gentleman of culture and learning, easy to approach, and always most affable and pleasant. The most unimportant person who calls at the Harris offices is treated with the same respect and consideration as is given to the most prominent.

The many stories which have been written concerning impudent and impertinent office boys in theatrical managers' offices, who treat those who have business with the managers with rudeness, cou'd never have been written concerning the Henry B. Harris offices. Each visitor is courteously and pleasantly received and without formality of any kind, goes into Mr. Harris' private office and transacts whatever business he or she may have called about to discuss with Mr. Harris.

All really great men have impressed their personality on those who work for them and this is particularly true of Henry B. Harris. The men on his business staff, managers, the actors and actresses, and all others who are in the employ of Mr. Harris, go about their work with enthusiasm and a loyalty that is rarely found nowadays. This is simply the result of the fact that they know Mr. Harris treats them fairly, always with kindness and consideration, and more than this, he is thoughtful of those who are working for him.

Indeed, wherever theatrical people are gathered together, you will always hear the name of Henry B. Harris spoken of with the greatest respect. It makes no difference whether it is on the road or on the realto in New York. Mr. Harris was recently elected treasurer of the Lambs Club in New York in a hotly contested election, and this was a great tribute to his popularity with members of the profession. He is treasurer of the Actors' Fund of America and besides the Hudson and Hackett theatres in New York, has the Jackson Theatre in Bridgeport the Grand Opera House in New Haven, and the Historic Walnut Street Theatre in Philadelphia. He is also completing now a new theatre in New York "The Folies Bergere." Mr. Harris' Father, Wm. Harris, is one of the best known men in the theatrical world, but Henry B. Harris has succeeded in becoming one of the greatest producing managers in this country by his owne energy and ability. He has done more than any other manager to develope the native American dramatists, and today, stands as one of the most conspicuous figures in the theatrical world.

It is interesting to note in this connection, that whatever disagreement may have existed in the profession, men of all shades of opinion have always been most pronounced in the expression of their respect and admiration for Henry B. Harris. Mr. Harris is thoroughly familiar with all the details of the theatrical profession, and his high standard in conducting his many theatrical enterprises have won for him respect and admiration of both the members of the profession and the theatre-going public of this country.

MILLIONS OF SEALS SOLD BY RED CROSS

Reports from headquarters of the American Red Cross given out Tuesday indicate that at the beginning of the last week of the sale of Xmas Seals, nearly 35,000,000 have been sold and that the prospects are bright for a sale of more than 50,000,000.

The actual number of Seals sold to date is nearly 15,000,000 in excess of the entire number sold in 1909 and is already nearly three times the sale of 1908. If the sale this week keeps up at the rate as since December 1st, the national authorities estimate that over $500,000 will be added to the tuberculosis funds in all parts of the country. This will be double the amount realized last year.

Engaged in this campaign for selling Red Cross Seals is an army of over 100,000 including men, women and children of every rank and station. Agents have been appointed in one or more places in every state, except Idaho and Montana. Among the grops and institutions which are assisting in the movement are the Anti-Tuberculosis Societies, Red Cross Chapters, Women's Clubs, Labor Unions, Lodges Schools Banks, Theatres, Department Stores, Hospitals, and innumerable other agencies. Thousands of dollars worth of advertising is being donated to the campaign and many millions of circulars are being distributed to remind people ti buy Red Cross Seals.

EVENING COATS.

Wonderful Blendings of Rich Fabrics Distinguish the Season.

Most of These Gorgeous Garments Are of Very Ample Width and Give Appearance of Being Wound Around the Wearer.

No richer cloaks and wraps have been seen in any season than those which swarm the corridors of the theaters at present. The richest velvets, most sumptuous brocades, filmiest gauzes and costliest furs clutter the walls. The coats of the present, while all are enveloping and often twice too big for their wearers apparently, as though they were intended to wind around them again and again, are still straight in line. The deep bands of fur at the bottom of many such coats drag them into the desired lines.

Until the season drove them in for very untimeliness gauze wraps flourished, often with swathings of the richest furs. Just now some of the handsomest coats are made of brocade in old tapestry colors. A beautiful garment seen recently was of old rose velvet shot with silver gray. The skirt part, which was fairly full, was drawn down and shirred into a very deep band of chinchilla, and the same fur went around the neck and down the front and finished the bottoms of the kimono sleeves. A single jeweled button of great size closed the coat far around at the side. Coats of this kind often have the fur that bands the front in kimono style put on so that it can be turned over and so furnish a shield for the throat and chest.

Among the stunning combinations seen have been sapphire blue velvet with sable and leaf green velvet with white fox. A costly cloak of silver gray velvet shot with rose pink was trimmed with chinchilla in a deep band all around. The coat was cut very ample in width and was shirred into a deep band of silver gray silk very closely embroidered with an oriental design in silver thread. The sleeves were of the wide full dolman kind that make a bagging drapery at the sides.

The old time pelisse made of velvet and trimmed with fur is coming out in various styles and is more often than not a pelisse more by name than by actual shape. Such sleeveless overgarments came out early in the season in chiffon as a sort of apology for an outer garment.

The coat in the drawing is made of old blue velvet shot with silver and is trimmed with ermine. Panther skins are the latest cry in furs, and there is an effort to make panther effects a rage. Already panther feathers have been seen, if not heard of, and panther mixtures may be looked for among the fabrics. One of the most luxurious costumes seen for many a day was of bishop purple silk gauze with a silver lace tunic trimmed with chinchilla. The coat was a long, ample affair of silver mousseline over silver satin. There was a big square collar of chinchilla that extended down the fronts in stole ends, and the bottom of the coat had a deep flounce effect of the chinchilla. Such a coat looks unsuitable for cold weather, although its interlinings may be of the snuggest. Mandarin coats and Paisley and India shawls made up with handsome furs are seen among the evening coats.

Hatpin Case.

To carry hatpins when traveling make a case the length of your longest pin and about eleven and one-half inches wide of white or colored linen. Finish the side and one end with shallow buttonholing and bind the other end. Fold the material twice like an envelope and embroider the word "Hatpins" on the outer fold.

Inside the case have a piece of eiderdown about half an inch narrower than the linen and as much shorter as the length of the flap. Through this the pins are to be run. It can be lifted out so that the case can be washed.

Long before the hour anounced for the opening of the doors the little ones began to gather and in order to prevent the overcrowding of the street, Mr. Sanderson premitted the opening up of the house at 1 o'clock and the way the kiddies poured in was a caution. Messrs. Cose and Carney of the Elks' committee had their hands full trying to keep order, but finally suceeeded in getting their guests seated and properly chaperoned.

The entertainment, as usual, was delightful and fully appreciated by the children who were especially pleased with the moving pictures. To Mr. Sanderson is due much of the success of the afternoon's proceedings and for the part he took in providing entertainment which was an expensive one. He has the thanks of not only the committee but of the entire lodge whose members made the treat for the children possible.

Samuel Alamilla Becomes Target for Revolver Bullets.

RUMPUS IN ITALIAN COLONY.

Antonio Bandano and Guiseppe Gimboresco Accused of Shooting—Case Dismissed by Judge Runyon.

Hill street and its immediate vicinity was thrown into hysterics yesterday afternoon when a row at the home of Merlino Santa culminated in the attempted shooting of Samuel Alamilla, a boarder in the Santa home. Alamilla and his alleged assailants, Giuseppe Gimbrosco, and Antonio Bandano, together with Mr. and Mrs. Santa were in court this morning, the three principals having been arrested by Patrolman Kelley and Detective Sergeant Flynn charged with shooting firearms within the city limits. Judge Runyon discharged the whole crowd as nothing of a criminal nature could be proved against the prisoners.

However, behind the shooting there is a story. According to Santa his daughter was playing the part of amanuensis to Alamilla and the latter tried to kiss her. The letter she was writing was conveying the information to Alamilla's folks in Italy that he was engaged to marry the girl and asking for the parental blessing. The letter finished Alamilla attempted to exert the prerogative of an accepted lover by kissing his bride-elect. He was caught in the act and a wrong interpretation being put on Alamilla's act the shooting followed.

Miss Merlina Santa declared that the only thing her would-be lover did was to attempt to steal a kiss and that none of the others had cause to raise such a row. The cause of the shooting came out in her testimony. Some one saw Alamilla attempt to steal the kiss and yelled out something in Italian which brought the whole household clamoring around the room where the pair were sealing the letter. Alamilla was grabbed and hustled down stairs to the kitchen, where he was surrounded by the irate father and mother of the girl, and the rest of the boarders.

Santa telephoned to the police and while awaiting the wagon attempted to hold the prisoner who escaped through the kitchen window and as he was running up along the railroad bank two shots were fired at him neither taking effect. It was impossible to identify the shooter and those who were searched carried no arms.

Alamilla was advised to change his boarding place, but it looked this morning as if he were reluctant to leave his lady love who is a petite brunette about seventeen years old and evidently very much in love.

DINNERS FOR THE POOR OF CITY AND BOROUGH

The annual distribution of dinner baskets for the poor of the city will be made by the local corps of the Salvation Army at 8 o'clock tonight. Over five hundred persons will share a bountiful dinner made possible through the contributions of the generous citizens of Plainfield and the untiring efforts of the Salvation Army here, through the many cold days have stood by the collecting kettles, when the cold seemed almost unbearable.

Each basket will contain a chicken and where the family is large, an extra one will be added; also a liberal quantity of potatoes, bread, coffee, sugar, crackers, butter and oranges. Besides the dinners a number of the most worthy families will receive a half-ton of coal each. The need this year seems to be greater than ever, a number of families have been discovered who have little or no fuel during this cold spell, some depending entirely on what they gather from the railroad tracks, while others have been found where the children have only dry bread and water for food.

On Wednesday of next week the Christmas tree for children and mothers will be held at the local headquarters and promises to be the best ever given in this city. About eighty girls will receive a beautiful doll, besides a lot of toys, warm underclothing. About three hundred children will be cared for. Captain and Mrs. A. S. Hewitt wish to thank all who have contributed in any way by donations toward the work.

XMAS CELEBRATION AT NURSES' HOME

According to the annual custom, the members of the Muhlenberg hospital training school for nurses held a Christmas celebration in the lecture room of the nurses' home last night. The affair was attended by former members of the school, the hospital staff and other friends and was one of its most successful affairs of the kind yet arranged.

The first part was devoted to an entertainment by the village singing school. Fourteen of the young women took part, assisted by Miss Hughes, the hospital superintendent; John V. Todd, who acted as leader; Judge William N. Runyon as accompanist, Meredith Dryden and Dr. Longbotham. The hit of the presentation was made by Miss Rose Spillane, who convulsed the audience with her rendition of the song, "God will protect the working girl." Her accompanying gestures were a work of art. Other numbers were given by Miss Elizabeth White and Miss Hansen. Miss Hughes added greatly to the fun by her impersonation of a deaf old lady who misunderstood everything that was told her, despite the fact that she carried an ear trumpet. The entire program was very meritorious and reflected credit upon the originators, Miss Hughes and Meredith Dryden.

In the second part, Mrs. Harry Johnson contributed a piano selection and Thomas M. Muir gave a monologue, assisted by William H. Fope. In conclusion a shadowgraph operation was performed by Dr. Wolley. He was assisted by William Harrison as patient; Miss White as anasthetist and Miss Culberson as nurse. It created lots of laughter.

At the conclusion of the program refreshments were served and dancing was enjoyed until after midnight. The home was prettily decorated for the occasion with Christmas trees and holly.

Endorses James E. Martine.

The Independent Progressive Club, colored, held a smoker last night in its rooms and endorsed the candidacy of James E. Martine for United State Senator; also the appointments to the police department of Charles Shelton and Seymour VanBlake, who received the entire vote of the club membership. The meeting was a success and several new members were elected.

Elected State President.

At the annual meeting of the State Journeymen Barbers Association in Newark, this week. Alex Stiles, of this city, was elected president. The selection was unanimous and is considered a great honor. Mr. Stiles is employed at E. B. Maynard's shop, on North avenue.

CITY GAIN 33 PER CENT

Plainfield's Growth Greater in Proportion Than North Plainfield.

MANY ARE DISAPPOINTED.

Some Believe the Real Total Here is Near 25,000—Somerville Makes Poor Showing—Westfield's Remarkable Gain.

According to the official figures, as announced yesterday, Plainfield's population is 20,550, which means that the increase in the last ten years has been over thirty-three per cent. The advance was greater during the first five years for since 1905 the advance made in inhabitants is a trifle over eleven per cent.

Plainfield's gain has been much larger than North Plainfield, the percentage of gain during the decade in the borough being twenty-two. During the last five years, the comparison is also greatly in the city's favor, for since 1905 North Plainfield's incerase has been only seven per cent.

In 1900, Plainfield had 15,369 and North Plainfield 5,009. The figures for 1905 were 18,468 for the city, and 5,616 for the borough.

North Plainfield, simply because it is a result of Plainfield's growth, has fared much better than other communities in Somerset county. Somerville, the county seat, for instance, has made very little headway in ten years. In fact the census announcement today shows that there are only 217 more people in that borough than there were ten years ago. Then the population was 4,843 and now it is 5,060. This means a gain of but four per cent.

Rahway, in Union county. has gained approximately nineteen per cent., a remarkable showing. In 1900 it had 7,935 and now it has 9,337.

In 1900, Westfield township had a population of 4,328. Now the town of Westfield has 6,420 inhabitants. This indicates an increase of forty-eight per cent,, the record for the county at least.

The gain in the last five years has been greater than that of Plainfield proportionately. Five years ago Westfield had 5,265 inhabitants. Its gain since then has been approximately twenty-two per cent.

The announcement for Plainfield caused great disappointment here. It was commonly accepted that this city contained at least 25,00 inhabitants, and many cannot be convinced that the census bureau at Washington, D. C., has not made a serious mistake in its tabulations. Postmaster Elias H. Bird, who is in a position to get a definate line on population figures, said today that he was positive that an error had been made somewhere. He feels certain that the population is over 25,000.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane shared the postmaster's views but he says that even his figures are far low. He estimates that the population here is nearer 30,000 than 20,000 and is surely over 25,000. Another man who is in a position to make some good guesses is William R. Causebrook, manager of the P. S. C.'s local electric light and gas department. He considers that there must be some mistake in the statistics given out at Washington and is strongly inclined to believe that the city contains nearly 25,000 inhabitants. At the Board of Health office, is was said that they had considered that Plainfield had over 23,00 population at the least.

Miss Jeanne Montgomery Sites received the five dollar gold piece this morning for making the nearest guess.

AMERICAN BORN AVIATOR PROBABLY LOST AT SEA.

London, Dec. 24.—There was no news yesterday of the fate of Cecil S. Grace, the American-born aviator, who disappeared in the fog while attempting a return flight from Calais, France, to Dover, Thursday. It is feared that he fell into the North Sea.

A great fleet of motor cars were out all night searching every nook of the east coast of England, while warships scattered along the shores and dotting the North Sea swept the waters with wireless inquiries concering the airman. These futile efforts were continued yesterday.

Grace went out for the Baron De Forest prize of $20,000 offered to the British aviator who, in a British-made aeroplane, shall cover the greatest distance, including the passage of the English Channel, during the present year. T. Sopwith a few days ago set a mark of 174 miles, the same day Graham-White prepared for the competition, but met with a serious accident before he sould get under way. The days during which the record of Sopwith might be eclipsed were few, and Grace decided to make the try Thursday in the face of adverse weather conditions.

A heavy fog hung over the channel and obscured the aviator soon after he ascended at Dover. He crossed the channel safely, and wto hours and a half from the start passed over Calais. He reached the Belgian frontier and was going fast with Sopwith's figure, when he encountered adverse winds that compelled him to turn back. He alighted west of Calais, and at 2:10 o'clock again ascended, pointing his aeroplane toward Dover.

GEORGIA WOMAN'S BOY SLAYS HER ASSAILANT.

Witchel Smith, aged twelve, Thursday night, emptied a charge of buckshot into the head of a stranger who was attacking his mother. The killing occured in the Smith store, near Macon, Ga. The stranger,a white man aged about thirty-five, drove up in a light wagon and entered the store. After a brief conversation, according to her story, the man attempted to drag her out to his wagon. The boy cooley picked up the gun and killed him.

Identification of the dead man was impossible. The boy was not arrested.

A "White Way" Celebration.

The opening of the "Great White Way" on Albany street, New Brunswick, when twenty-five new arc lights were put into service for the first time, was celebrated Thursday night with a parade and banquet by the Albany Street Property Owners' Association. The arc lights are located on the three blocks between the Pennsylvania Station and the Albany street bridge. This street was recently repaved with block. William J. McDede was marshal of the parade in which the city officials participated riding in carriages. There was a dozen or so automobiles filled with guests, some floats and fireworks. Union Band led the procession. Church street is now planning a "white way."

The officers-elect of Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M., will be installed Tuesday night.

Washington Camp, No. 38, Patriotic Order Sons of America, will elect officers Tuesday night.

Wetumpkah Tribe, Improved Order Red Men, will elect officers Tuesday night. The Haymakers will also meet that night for election.

DR. EVANS REPORT OF MORRIS PLAINS ASYLUM

Regarding the separation of criminal from other insane patients as of prime importance, the managers of the State hospital at Morris Plains unite with the medical directors in urging in their annul report that action be taken by the next legislature making possible such a segregation. A bill authorizing construction of such an institution upon the grounds of the State Hospital in this city was introduced in the last legislature. The fact that it failed to pass is regarded by the Morris Plains authorities as most unfortunate.

The report points out that the plan proposed would serve the two-fold purpose of relieving the congestion of the State Hospital, which has been the subject of complaint for years, and would serve to render more desirable the surroundings of those inmates who are without criminal tendency. The convict, says the report, necessarily brings into the institution all his evil elements, his bloodthirsty tendencies, his cunning and his deception.

Other needs of the hospital which the managers regard as important are a cottage, workshops and an addition to the corps of physicians. The particular benefits which would result from these acquisitions are dealt with in detail in the report of the medical director Dr. Britton D. Evans.

During the hospital year covered by the report 276 men and 243 women were admitted, the total of 519 being the greatest number of admissions during any similar period in the history of the hospital. The population at the close of the fiscal year was 2,118, an increase of 59 over the preceding year. During the year the total number treated was 2,526. The classification of patients at the end of the year was as follows: 1,813 indigents, 209 pay patients, 66 convicts and 30 criminals. Since the opening of the hospital, thirty-four years ago, 9,981 patients have been received.

The statistical tables show that the patients who are supported entirely by the State number 604, or twenty-eight per cent. of the whole population. Of the patients admitted about thirty-three per cent. were diagnosed as suffering from mania or mental exaltation. Fifty-six patients had a history of homicidal tendencies. In twenty-one and two-tenths per cent. of the admissions dementia was manifested, while eighteen and seven-tenths per cent. were afflicted with melancholic or mental depression. Suicidal tendencies were exhibited in 104 cases.

In over twenty-four per cent. of those admitted a history of hereditary taint was ascertained. In many cases, however, it was impossible to secure reliable data regarding heredity, because of the reluctance of relatives to enter into the intimate phases of family history. Dr. Evans, therefore, does not believe that the percentage given is as large as the facts would warrant.

The statistics for the past year show an increase of cases in which intemperance and other excesses are given as the cause of mental alienation, amounting to seventeen per cent. of those admitted. Of the admissions 179 patients were born in New Jersey, 137 were natives of other States and 203 were of foreign birth.

Dr. Evans says it is gratifying to report an increased percentage of recoveries during the year. The recoveries amounted to 26.2 per cent. based on the number admitted, showing a gain of 1.2 per cent. over the preceding year. More than 86 per cent. of those who were restored gained their mental equilibrium within twelve months after their admission.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY PRESS

HERE AND THERE.

At a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Riskin, in Sherman street, Passaic, Wednesday afternoon, the engagement was announced of their daughter, Miss Gertrude, to Dr. Morris Korshet, one of Passaic's leading physicians. Dr. Korshet surprised the guests by presenting Miss Riskin with books of the drama, poetry, and fiction by Victor Hugo, Honore de Balzac, George Bernard Shaw, Henrik Ibsen, Leo Tolstory, Isaac Zangwill, Jack London, Allen Upward, and others, instead of an engagement ring. Speaking of his departure from the time-honored custom, he said:

"In times long gone by man either captured his female partner or purchaser her from her parents with presents. When she was already his he placed a crude ring upon her finger. It was regarded as a symbol of inferiority and made the wearer appear in the light of personal property. Miss Riskin will not be my chattel, but my equal, my companion and helpmate. What principally distinguishes people is their ability to think and understand. Therefore, I give Miss Riskin something for her mind, and not an ornament for her finger."

Miss Riskin was valedictorian of the class of Passaic High School, which was graduated in June. She is prominent in Passaic's social set.

The young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. MacDonald, of West Sixth street, who has been ill with scarlet fever, is improving.

Despondent, Takes Life.

Delos Bush, aged seventy-two, committed suicide Thursday afternoon at the home of Ralph H. Collins, 414 First street, Westfield, by shooting himself in the head. He had been in poor health for several months, and for the past fortnight had seemed despondent. He made his home for about a year with Mrs. Collins, who was his niece.

Mr. Bush had been about the house as usual during the day, and Mrs. Collins, who was alone in the house, was startled by the sound of a pistol shot coming from his room. Going there, she found him lying on the bed, with a revolver in his hand. He was a widower and had no family.

TIGHT COLLARS HARM THROAT

Rob It of Its Symmetry, Paralyze the Muscles and Impede Circulation of the Blood.

The quality of water that a woman uses for bathing purposes has something to do with the condition of her throat, but more than any other one thing to cause stringiness is a collar which is too tight. In these days, when linen collars, stiff and high, are worn much of the time, all sorts of safeguards must be taken to overcome the effect they will have on muscles. When the bandage—that is what the linen amounts to—is close fitting muscles are paralyzed and the tissues are not properly fed, for circulation is impeded.

Much of this may be prevented by wearing a collar half an inch larger than is actually required. The difference in size will not be apparent in effect, but its action on the throat will not be so harmful.

Soft water must be used always, and, as borax and soda, valuable though they are, may be too drying to tissues, soft water made from cereals should be employed once a day. A cupful of rice or hominy or barley may be put into a quart of cold water and slowly brought to the boiling point. It should simmer slowly for fifteen or twenty minutes, when if stands on the back of the stove until the kettle is cool and the liquid is strained. To a pint of the liquid when cold a tablespoonful of tincture of benzoin may be added, and one has a wash which is not only cleansing, but contains nourishing starch and gluten.

Cereal water should be prepared every three days or every other day, for it will not keep well long.

A very soft cloth is wet in the preparation, and the throat is mopped and very lightly rubbed. That coating is allowed to dry on, and the washing is repeated. When the second coating has dried on the skin is gone over with rosewater, which will remove the stickiness. This done powder may be applied.

The best results from the treatment will be had if it is done morning and night regularly.

A THREE PIECE APRON.

Dainty and Economical, It Can Be Made In Less Than an Hour's Time.

When planning utility garments, such as aprons, models should be selected that do not require much work to complete. A design of this character that has only three pieces is pictured here, and the pattern for it may be bought in four sizes that run from thirty-two to forty-two inches bust measure. When designing this apron economy was taken into consideration, and it requires only four and three-quarter yards of twenty-seven inch material to copy it in the medium sizes, which is little more than is needed for the plainest of kitchen aprons made without a bib.

If thirty-six inch fabric is used three and three-quarters yards will be sufficient.

This apron can be cut and completely finished in one hour.

The side portions are joined to the front and the seams finished with French fells or the raw edges overcast by hand. If the pockets are used they must be placed and stitched according to the directions on the pattern before pieces are joined, and the front edges are caught in with the seams. The edges of the garment may be finished with a hem, a binding or a facing.

The latter mode of finishing offers opportunity for trimming that will add much to the good appearance of the garment.

White is becoming more and more popular for work aprons, and, while it soils more readily than colored goods, the fact that it can be laundered without injury and looks pretty as long as the material lasts is in its favor.

Butcher's linen, canon cloth or Indian head and duck are excellent weaves for this purpose, and any one of these will be pretty finished with a one inch wide bias facing of delft blue linen.

OFFICIAL MINUTES OF THE BOARD OF FREEHOLDERS.

The regular meeting of the Board of Freeholders of Union County was held on Thursday December 1, 1910, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed the following members present: Director Cady, Freeholders Adams, Crane, Darby, Doane, Garrison, Gruener, Hall Jones, Krouse, Martin, Meisel, Perry, Randolph, Smith, Swain and Thompson—17. Absent — Freeholders Haviland, Jensen and Wilbur-3.

On motion of Freeholder Smith, the reading of the minutes of the meetings of November 3 and 18 was dispensed with, the minutes being approved as per printed copies on members' desks.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Association for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis, Elizabeth:

Whereas the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union has determined to erect a county hospital for the treatment of tubercular patients; and

Whereas, there is a great and pressing need for such an institution, because there is now no place in the county where such patients can receive treatment, and delay in the opening of the hospital must result in avoidable deaths and the spread of tuberculosis; and

Whereas, we are advised that efforts are now being made to secure a proper site for the proposed institution; and

Whereas, it is of the highest importance that the hospital shall be easily accessible from Elizabeth by the patients from this city and their relatives and friends; it is

Resolved as follows:

First—That this association heartily approves and commends the decision of the Board of Chosen Freeholders to erect and maintain the proposed hospital.

Second—That this association urges that a site for the hospital shall be selected and the hospital erected and opened for patients at the earliest possible time.

Third—That the site so to be chosen shall be as near as practicable to a trolley line running to and from this city, so that it can be easily reached by the patients needing the same and their relatives and friends.

Fourth—That a copy of this resolution shall be forwarded to the secretary of the association to the Board of Chosen Freeholders.

On motion of Freeholder Doane received and referred to Committee on Tuberculosis.

Gentlemen—Realizing that you are seriously considering the question of selecting a location for a county tuberculosis hospital within the County of Union, we beg to suggest that in selecting the site for such hospital, great care should be exercised, and we are informed that several sizes are now under consideration, among them a site on the southerly slope of the Watchung Mountain back of Scotch Plains in the Township of New Providence, which, in our judgment, is far superior to any other site mentioned, for the following reasons:

1. The elevation of this site, we are informed, is from three to five hundred feet above the other sites under consideration, which elevation renders the air in this section (which is famed for its curative powers) highly favorable to patients afflicted with tuberculosis.

2. This location upon which the buildings necessary may be erected, is of a southerly exposure and protected on the north by the mountain range.

3. The picturesque outlook, with its natural scenery, is unsurpassed, being a landscape skirted by wooded hills.

4. Through this property flows a beautiful stream of water, fed by living springs, known as Greenbrook, which could easily and inexpensively be utilized, and a lake formed for boating and ice gathering purposes.

5. In addition to the water supply above mentioned on this property, are two living springs, one containing mineral properties, and the other consisting of pure, soft water yielding a never-failing supply, sufficient for all purposes and containing a hydraulic-ram power already installed.

6. If these conditions are favorable (as suggested by Dr. Carrington, for wealthy patients), we are humanitarian enough to believe the same chance for life should be accorded the more unfortunate. The main object in establishing hospitals of this character is to cure incipient cases. We know that this can be accomplished more effectually in bracing mountain air than in lowlands near congested population, and where buildings must be screened in summer in order to exclude and avoid the annoyance of mosquitoes and insects; and the outlook in such lowlands would be unattractive and wearisome to patients.

7. We beg also to call your attention to the outlay necessary in securing the location for said hospital. We are informed that the location on the mountain can be secured at the rate of about $100 per acre, and we are also informed that the other sites under consideration which we do not consider favorably, would cost from four to five hundred dollars per acre.

8. We understand the question of accessibility to the location has been raised as an objection to the location on the mountainside. We beg to state, that, in our opinion, while other locations might be more accessible, yet the location on the mountainside is easily reached, and a slight difference of five or ten cents in reaching the same should not count against the other advantages obtained by reason of said location.

Signed by 104 residents of the county.

On motion of Freeholder Doane received and referred to Committee on Tuberculosis.

Mr. John N. Cady, Summit, N. J.

My Dear Sir—Confirming our verbal acceptance of Edgar Road, Lenington street and Milton avenue connection, Union county, on October 13, 1910, I hereby notify you, and, through you, the Board of Chosen Freeholders, that the said road has been completed to our entire satisfaction and is therefore accepted upon the part of the State.

Very truly yours,
FRED. GILKYSON,
Commissioner.

On motion of Freeholder Smith received and placed on file.

F. J. Hubbard, County Engineer, Plainfield:

Dear Sir—Referring to the amiesite roads laid last season in Union county, we have just completed covering these roads with an emulsion of pure ashpalt, which, according to past experience, will be all that is required to put these roads in good order. Should this treatment not be sufficient, as I have already stated to you personally, the Amies Road Company have authorized me to say that they will make good so far as their ability will permit and will see that these roads are put in good order.

Trusting that this statement is satisfactory, I am

Yours truly,
W. SCHMIDT,
Vice-president.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse received and placed on file.

Gentlemen—The Township Committee, of Springfield, recently received a letter from Stewart Hartshorn, president of the Short Hills Water Company, in which he states that the water company has made application to the Board of Choosen Freeholders for permission to lay a twelve-inch main through the streets of Springfield Township parallell with its present main. The Township Committee of Springfield wishes to enter a protest against the Board of Chosen Freeholders granting the water company this permission until such time as the Township Committee and the water company have come to a perfect understanding in regard to the privilege to be granted. You will do the Township Committee a favor by not taking any action in this matter until you hear further from this committee.

Yours very truly
ED. C. TOWNLEY,
Clerk.

On motion of Freeholder Gruener received and referred to the Committee on County Roads.

Dear Sir—In accordance with the terms of its ordinance dated June 7, 1902, this company proposed to open St George road, at the junction of New Brunswick avenue, in order to make repairs to manholes at this location.

The work will be taken up at an early date and will be done under your supervision if so desired.

Yours truly,
NEW YORK TELEPHONE CO.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse received and referred to County Road Committee with power.

Gentlemen—For several weeks this newspaper has made unsuccessful efforts to inspect the public records of your body. We feel sure you will agree with us that these public records should be open for inspection a reasonable number of hours every day in the week. We also feel quite sure that it is not any action of your board that has prevented us from going over the books heretofore, nor do we believe that it is the sense of your honorable board that such secrecy is for the best interests of the board itself or the public.

No matter if the official acts of your body were perfect and worthy of every commendation, the action of Mr. Leavitt and Mr. King in preventing the public from getting this information first-hand and from the original expense bills filed, creates suspicion.

This newspaper now appeals to you formally that you make an order giving us the privilege of inspecting all records of a public nature which have to do with your body, and that you set some hour for each day in the week, or as many days in the week as is convenient for you, at which time our representative may secure the information we feel is due the public.

Yours respectfully,
EVENING TIMES CO.

Director Cady informed the members that a resolution had already been drawn and presented by Mr. Meisel, covering this request which should be acted upon at the proper time.

On motion of Freeholder Randolph the communication was received and placed on file.

Number of prisoners in custody Dec. 1	50

JOSEPH PERRY,
J. H. DOANE,
JACOB MARTIN.

On motion of Freeholder Darby received and placed on file.

Gentlemen—Your committee on Construction of the Myrtle Avenue Bridge, Westfield, would report having had plans and specifications for this work prepared and that after advertising the same they received bids therfore and awarded the contract to Charles H. French for the sum of five hundred and seventy-eight dollars ($578)). This figure was made possible by reason of the county supplying the necessary railing from the Prospect avenue (Westfield) bridge, as the stream at that point was covered and the railing not necessary.

C. A. SMITH,
JACOB MARTIN,
W. J. THOMPSON.

On motion of Freeholder Jones received and placed on file.

Committee on redecking bridges on Grant avenue and Union road, Roselle.

Your committee would report that the work on bridge on Union road was let to Alexander Kerr & Son, they being the lowest bidders, at $137. After this work had been started it was discovered that the walls of the bridge were falling to pieces, and it was considered necessary to rebuild the walls entirely over the place that was being recovered. This work was ordered done by Kerr & Son, the price to be $110 additional to their first bid. There are also two cast-iron manhole heads included in the new bid.

The recovering of the Grant avenue bridge was let to T. Foster Callahan at $149.95, he being the lowest bidder for the work.

A. D. CRANE,
JOSEPH PERRY,
ELSTON DARBY.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse received and placed on file.

Gentlemen—Your committee on Recovering Monroe Street Bridge, Rahway, would respectfully report that it was found impossible to use the patent wooden strip pavement on this bridge, as was contemplated by a former resolution.

Your committee has therefore altered the plan for the work, so as to leave the new street surface at the same level as it was and after setting the steel beams, it is proposed to replank the entire roadway with new yellow pine planking.

The work of laying the steel work has been let to Charles Arny, of Elizabeth at a total cost of $2,326.50.

The work of laying the new floor planking has been let to John Wolke, of Rahway, at a cost of $692.41

The original appropriation for this work, was $2,750, and as according to the above agreements, the work will cost $3,018.91, your committee would recommend that the appropriation for this work be increased from $2,750 to the sum of $3,018.91.

ADOLPH GRUENER,
JACOB MARTIN,
W. H. RANDOLPH.

Freeholder Jones moved the report be received and the recommendation adopted, which on roll call was so ordered without dissent.

NEW BUSINESS.

By Freeholder Meisel:

Resovled, That it is the sense of this board that all books, bills and vouchers be opened for inspection by any newspaper or citizen, further

Resolved, That all newspapers and citizens are invited to inspect all bills paid by the county for any purpoes whatever and that for the convenience of such newspapers and citizens, who may desire to inspect them, the clerk of this board is hereby instructed to be in the freeholders' room for the next ten days between the hours of 9 in the morning and 12 noon, every day except Sundays, further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the newspapers in the county.

On motion of Freeholder Doane the resolution was adopted without dissent.

At this time Freeholder Swain stated that Mr. Russell, of the Elizabeth Evening Times, wished to address the board, which permission was granted.

Mr. Russell addressed the board in regard to his communication asking for permission to examine the books of the county and as to the time specified in the resolution offered by Mr. Meisel, stating that the time 9 a m. to 12 noon was accepted by him, but asked that the number of days be prolonged.

Freeholder Meisel stated that when he introduced the resolution he did not know that ten days was not sufficient and that he was willing to make the time unlimited.

County Attorney Codington then addressed the board, stating that the board did not maintain a clerk's office like cities do. He then suggested that a committee be appointed. This was deemed advisable because of the expense, and he recommended that the resolution as passed be allowed to stand and that as the board would meet again on Friday, December 9, an arrangement could be made to extend the time if desired.

Freeholder Adams moved to adjourn which was carried.

The Director declared the board adjourned until Friday, December 9, at 2:30 o'clock p. m.

BENJAMIN KING,
Clerk.

The adjourned meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders was held on December 9, 1910, at 2:30 p. m., at the courthouse, Elizabeth.

Roll call showed all members present with the exception of Freeholder Martin.

At the request of a number of citizens who wished to be heard on the question of selecting a site for the tuberculosis pavilion, the board gave a public hearing in the courtroom. Addresses were made by Mr. John English, representing Union Township; Dr. Mravlag, representing the city of Elizabeth; Dr. Grier, of Elizabeth; Dr. Murray, of Plainfield, and others.

After the hearing the board adjourned to the board room and took up the regular business of the meeting.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Communications were received from the Township of Union, Union Township Board of Education, Connecticut Farm improvement Society, objecting to a site for the tuberculosis hospital in their townships.

From the Township of New Providence, objecting to the site in that township.

From the City council of the city of Elizabeth requesting that a hearing be given the members of the Financial Committee.

From Hugh F. Fox, of the charity Organization Society, commending the board for its action on the tuberculosis question and advising the selection of a site on high ground.

On motion these communications were received and placed on file.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Gentlemen—Your committee appointed to select a site upon which to erect a county tuberculosis hospital-sanatorium would respectfully report that it has carefully inspected the various sites situated in different parts of the county, these properties suggested to us either by agents or owners, through judicial advertising and the publicity given the subject by the newspaper press of the county.

Well-known experts have been consulted and their advice has been of great value to the committee in selecting a site.

Your committee has left no stone unturned in its inspection of the properties, that we might be sure to select the best location.

The main object in the minds of the committee was to find a property best suited for the cure of insipient cases, and also to make comfortable those more advanced. Other matters to be considered were the choice of good farm land, which would yield vegetables, fruit, etc., in abundance; where chickens and cows would thrive; a pleasing landscape, a mountainslope, a proper altitude, with Southern exposure, with a mountain on the north, meadows, trees, etc., adding to the attractiveness of the view, thereby solving the question of holding the patients, pure water, a stream or brook that might be dammed, forming a lake where ice could be cut and stored and in summer used for boating and fishing and in winter for skating.

Dr. Carrington, in his suggestion regarding site and construction of county hospital-sanatoria, says: "The southern exposure of a mountain is usually to be preferred—sites where strong prevailing winds exist during certain seasons of the year should be avoided unless protected by forests or hills; climatic conditions should be carefully investigated." He also says: "The open country offers a choice of sites which should be considered from this point of view (natural beauty)—meadows and trees add to the cheerfulness of the landscape and a forest, lake or stream give great opportunities for amusement;" thus doing much to solve the question of holding the patient—which question in turn (i. e. holding the patient) Dr. Carrington stated 'seems to be on absolute necessity in order to control the disease."

Your committee feels that the county is fortunate that the opportunity presents itself of procuring a farm so beautifully and suitably located and containing as it does:

A goodsized lake, from which a supply of ice may be taken, while the patients might use the same for skating in the winter and boating and fishing in summer; a windmill and gas egine pumping from the ground a good supply of water; a spring of pure soft water, on the place; a peach and apple orchard yielding abundant of fruit each year; a house of twelve rooms in first-class condition, barns, cow stables, ice-house, etc., while a large amount has been expended in laying out and beautifying the ground.s

The Fullerton Farm contains about sixty-five acres. The whole tract can be purchased by the county for $13,000.

Other properties presented for our consideration, all lacking in a great degree the forgoing requisites for the special purpose are offered at $4,000 and upwards. That these more expensive properties can be reached at a saving of a five-cent carefare we have deemed a negligible consideration.

Accessibility has also been duly considered. The Fullerton farm, besides possessing all the foregoing merits is only one and a quarter miles from the trolley, a short walk over a good macadam road, taking about twenty minutes; or patients may be taken to the spot in a bounty conveyance in half that time or less.

Reliable dealers assure us that all building materials can be delivered on the ground as cheaply as at Plainfield or Elizabeth. We are informed that tradesmen will deliver supplies under the same conditions prevailing in the towns.

Finally, the question of comparative cost has been carefully considered. We believe that economy, rather than extravagance, should be practised in the expenditure of public moneys, as well as in private affairs.

We, therefore, recommend the purchase by the county of the property known as the Fullerton farm, situated in Washington Valley, in the Township of New Providence, and that the County Attorney be authorized to execute the necessary papers looking to the acquiring of title thereto by the county of Union.

J. H DOANE,
HENRY KROUSE,
THOMAS HAVILAND,
Committee.

Freeholder Wilbur moved that the report be received and the recommendations adopted which on roll call was so ordered without dissent.

THE HARVEST MOON

Copyright, 1909, by Augustus Thomas

"That is a very pleasant thing to hear from your lips, M. Vavin," he said. "I have read everything of yours that has been published. I should be very happy if I could think at the end of my life that my best work could even be compared with your worst."

"You mean 'La Mariage de Mme. Daubigny?'" suggested Vavin, smiling, referring to a play that had been produced several years back and that had had a notoriously unsuccessful reception.

"No, sir," said Holcomb looking him squarely in the eye; "I mean 'Le Dame Rouge.'"

"That, my boy," said Vavin, laying his hand on his shoulder—"that was a good play, but it was written by a sour heart."

Dora insisted that Holcomb should see the rest of the play out with them, an invitation that he accepted gratefully, inasmuch as the manager of the theater, who had passed him in, had not even done him the courtesy to give him a seat and had only admitted him because he was anxious to give the house the appearance of being full. In the course of the following act the young author seized the opportunity to whisper to Dora that he wanted to see her the next day and tell her of the gladsome news that he had received on his arrival.

Since the time when Willard Holcomb had first met Dora Fullerton on the stage he had taken on a new and greater purpose. He was admittedly a young man of great ability; but, as one of his friends had described him, he was particularly disqualified for success by a lack of "direction." He had educated himself, had studied law in office and university and also some medicine, had written an amusing book on chess—a feat in itself—had served in the army and been a war correspondent, had written musical criticism, and now, at the age of thirty-three, was an actor with the very strong conviction that, following the example of Aeschylus, Shakespeare and Moliere, he could learn to write a great play only by an acceptable familiarity not alone with the pen, but with the grease paint stick.

He had fallen early in his brief stage career under the influence of Ludlow—Holly Ludlow, "the best leading man in America" and undoubtedly the most brilliant conversationalist among stage folk. What Holly said today was the talk of the "town" tomorrow. Thus as "the town" do actors describe the few clubs, cafes or other rendezvous that they hold particularly their own. Sooner or later these epigrams or witticisms would drift into print, and after awhile any bright saying that seemed to lose caste because of lack of parentage was credited to the man of easy tongue and easier sense of responsibility.

Unknown to Dora, Ludlow and Holcomb had had their first clash over her. The former, who was really informed in certain lines of psychology, had playfully remarked that despite Miss Fullerton's simplicity, sincerity and ingenuousness—he also added "greenness"—she simply moved by the zoological law that sent the best representative of her species, the feline, out into the social night. Holcomb, a younger man, usually laughed at Holly's characterizations. Now he turned sharply.

"The trouble with you, Ludlow," he said, dropping the affectionate abbreviation of Holly, "is that you don't realize that nature in that regard is inexorable, and the matter gets to the fundamental question of quality."

"As serious as that, is it?" was Holly's would be jesting remark.

"As serious as that," replied Holcomb, and from that time on they jested no more on that or any other subject.

The day after their meeting at the theater Miss Fullerton and Mr. Holcomb met at lunch as per agreement. There was an amplitude of formality throughout the function that would have satisfied anything less than the overdeveloped and specialized Greek sense of fate that obsessed Aunt Cornelia.

"My play has been accepted," said Holcomb, with an intellectual genuflexion, when he had ordered a lunch that was admirable in its omissions. He had not reached the high point of dramaturgy that is gastronomically marked by the intrusions of soup and game and calculated to rouse the ire of gormandic genealogy stretching from Athanaeus to Vatel.

"Yes?" Dora was genuinely, truly interested, and, cursed as she was with the name that Dickens sacrificed in the fire of fiction, she was moved only by a woman's best instinct to see a man she liked, if not loved, reach his goal.

"I want you to play the leading part," he added.

The lunch, Holcomb, everything swam about Dora for a moment. The statement and the emotion that it aroused had the same quality that the lyrical conception has in it the poet. It hit her, as Dr. Holmes would have said, "like a bullet in the back of the head."

"You know," said Holcomb to Dora, "I have done a great many things in my life, but the thing that I have most wanted to do was a play—that is, to put a play on the stage and have a real audience pass judgment on it. I have come very near production a number of times, but the managers always had some excuse or other for sending back my manuscript. In a way I feel that I owe this first production to you. While we were rehearsing my manuscript was sent back to me. They said that the woman in it was not real and asked if I could get a real woman in it; if so, it would be a good play. All the time we were rehearsing I was studying you and writing, and before we left New York I had practically rewritten my play. So, you see, that is why I want you to play the leading part."

It was a few minutes before Dora was really able to join in the conversation.

"But you have never told me the story, and yet you say that you have altered the leading part to make it look like me."

He only wanted that invitation to plunge into his recital, and what had been intended as a formal lunch drifted into an all afternoon session. He talked to her about his play and his ambitions and she of her ambitions and the things she would like to do, and finally they separated, he to make ready his play and she to wait at Lenox for the call to rehearsal.

Thus began a partnership which was destined vitally to affect both their ambitious young lives.

"THAT'S WHAT YOUR MOTHER SAID."

CHAPTER V.

THE first three or four days after Dora left town Holcomb was so engrossed in his own affairs that he might almost be said to have forgotten her. He had been told that he would get a certain royalty, that the play would have a most adequate production, that he would have his choice of actors, etc. When, however, he got down to details with his manager, or, as he learned to call him afterward, his producer, he found that his wings were clipped at almost every point. Not only once, but half a dozen times, he almost felt that the game was not worth the candle, that he would throw it up and that all the allurement that there was in producing a play was in the aftermath. It was very splendid, as he figured out one night in his lonely chamber, to be a successful dramatist, but how many can frankly tell of the degradations that they have gone through to have some low browed financial person step in and say, "You must change this" or "You must change that;" to have a stage manager who had grown callous handling electrical and supernumerary effects tell him that his great scene was surely a failure because he did not do things according to the rules!

In the midst of this he received a little blue note from Miss Fullerton. It was very formal and simply asked him if he would not do them the honor of spending a week end at Lenox. It referred in no way to their previous conversations, and in it was this statement: "My father and my Aunt Cornelia are particularly anxious that you accept this invitation."

It came as a great relief in more ways than one. He had grown tired of the sordid, lying atmosphere in which he was; he was particularly anxious to see the girl that he loved, and he was not a little elated at the idea that he would get out of the sphere in which he felt perfectly at home, but for which he had not a thoroughly, undiluted admiration.

He dropped in to see Markham, the manager, the afternoon that he received the message.

"Some friends of mine," he said, "have invited me to spend a week end at Lenox. I am going up this afternoon."

Markham, who had underestimated him most of the time, raised his high brow and sighed.

"Then you have friends somewhere," he said, smiling.

"And in Lenox," replied Holcomb.

"If you want this play produced," said Markham, "you will have to give up your idea that you can pick the cast. I am the greatest picker of casts you ever saw." And the man became really sincere or apparently so. "I have been picking casts for twenty years, and I have made my great success in that direction. I will pay you the royalties that you want, and I will let you have your own way about the production, but I won't sign any contract that enables you to say who will be in the cast and who won't."

It was the first time that Markham had been as sincere and as genuine as he was now. The mere fact that he had got him to that point gave Holcomb new strength.

"I tell you, Mr. Markham, that the royalty proposition and the production proposition are not as important in my play as is the cast. We both agree that Ludlow is to star, but if he can't have the woman that I have picked for the leading feminine role the play does not go on. My address will be Lenox." And he stood up and walked out of the office, leaving the astonished manager wondering what had come over him.

As he stepped off the train at Lenox he was met by Professor Fullerton's footman and was handed a telegram, which read:

Willard Holcomb, Care Fullerton, Lenox, Mass.:

If you feel you must have Miss Fullerton sign her up immediately. Ludlow has convinced me. MARKHAM.

In the phaeton was Dora herself, but there was a little uneasiness in Holcomb's mind as he shook hands with her. He would rather that he had not received that telegram. He would rather that the fact that she was to appear as the star in his play should be purely on account of his insistence and not owing to the fact that Ludlow had approved of her.

On her side the greeting was none the less cordial, and when she told him that Vavin was at the house he cheered up considerably, for it seemed to him that if he had struck the snag that he scented this always more or less Mephistophelean character, with his kindly, protective attitude over Dora, would be able to clear it up.

While he had known that Professor Fullerton was a man of some means, it was rather a surprise to Holcomb to find that he lived in luxury. It was unostentatious luxury at that, purely a much developed sense of comfort. The room into which he was ushered had the colors and the decorations which he would have picked himself. He felt a little sense of flattery when he found that in the bookshelf in his room there were the collected works of Vavin, both in French and English, the latter part of which he resented. On the dressing table was a volume of Jules le Maitre's early poetry and alongside it a pocket edition of Emerson's "Essay on Compensation." Had he dressed the room himself he could not have done better.

Coming from this atmosphere of ease and hospitality, it was a distinct shock as he sat down to dinner to find a social atmosphere so frigid. Three or four times Vavin introduced the subject of the theater, Dora and Holcomb always vivid listeners. But never would the conversation get a negligible start but Aunt Cornelia would interrupt for the purpose of injecting some ethical and always chilling proposition to the effect that "I don't like the theater," or, apropos of acting, "I never met an actress and don't want to meet one," or "How do the poor creatures live?"

Toward the end of the dinner Holcomb was in such an irritated condition that if he had not possessed a fairly good grip on his nerves and a well defined sense of conventionality he would have thrown something at Aunt Cornelia.

All that he had known about Dora before seemed now illuminated and enlarged. Through all of this irritating conversation she was calm, but once in awhile a glance of the eye or a sympathetic reach across the table made him understand how much she wished to get away from the overde[illegible]

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

The people of this city will have an unusual treat when Henry B. Harris presents for the first time in this city Edgar Selwyn's great hit, "The Country Boy," at the Plainfield Theatre, on Tuesday night, January 3. "The Country Boy" has been the great big hit of the present season in New York and the Liberty theatre, where the piece is being presented, is crowded nightly with large audiences. Comedy and pathos are both to be found in the piece and it teaches a great lesson without cant or preaching. If any one has the blues or is discouraged with life, let him or, if it is a woman, her go and see "The Country Boy."

It gives discouragement a solar plexus knockout and teaches no one is a failure until the person admits failure. It is such plays as this which make people see that the fight in life is to the brave and persistent person who refuses to acknowledge defeat. There are many people who would succed in life if they had but the courage and determination to continue to fight, and Mr. Selwyn has shown in his clean, wholesome and strong play how foolish it is to give up the struggle, because at the moment one stops fighting success is often at the door. Another thing shown in "The Country Boy" is the power and strength of a mother's love and how, when all else fails, the love of the real mother is always strong for her child, either in victory or defeat. Mr. Harris has selected a cast of special excellence to present the piece and his name is now established in American theatricals for the highest class productions

NEW MATERIALS IN FABRIC ARISTOCRACY.

Black brocades, handsome but soft falling will have a great vogue, and satins after the same nature. Moire forty-four inches wide is a charming stuff, showing excellent combinations. Serge-like grounds in silk have handsome silk and velvet brocade in detached motifs.

Velveteen has assumed such perfection of finish that it bids fair to prove a potent rival to velvet an dto be the stuff of the year.

It is made in every variety of shades of each fashionable color and of much wider width than formerly and consequently more convenient for cutting, and many show a fine line contrasting stripe, mostly in white.

Bengaline has assumed a new and delightful aspect, recalling the Irish poplin, but finer, though corded, and softer and more clinging.

Crepons in silk and wool and fancy weaving present delightful possibilities in dressmaking and Paisley stuffs, recalling old shawl patterns. Norwich and India, in subdued coloring, but generally with the pine pattern, are to be extensively used for trimming. Paisley gauze suggest lovely evening garments, dresses and cloaks. The all-wool satins, with their excellent sheeny face made very supple quality, recall the so-called Roman satins.

Short tweesd are to be more worn than any other kind and the mixtures of colorings are admirable. Faced cloths are not likely to be banished, but for the moment tweeds are more popular.

A delightful new cloth, Ratine is of velvetlike softness, but has a very fine curly lambswool weaving on the surface, suggestive of both polo cloth and eiderdown; to the touch it resembles the softest velvet. This is not cheap, but will be decidely one of the leading stuffs of the coming season. Satin and wool crepe, Caiman by name, is excellent. Among the smartest introductions is drap feutre, which is double width, a satin-faced cashmere flat to the touch.

The dress mousselines with detached sprays of brocadeed velvet, are singularly beautiful. Velour rays is likely to be employed for robes de luxe, and rich satins of two shades. Taffeta is to have no inning at all and shantung has had its day, as far as the first fashion is concerned.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY OF THE NATIVITY IN THE CHURCHES AND SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Christain Flocks in the City and Borough Observe the Feast of Christmas, Superb Music and Stirring Sermons Being Heard by Worshippers.

Plainfield congregations have probably never listened to better or more varied music than that which the various choirs of the city presented to them Sunday morning and evening. The programs were replete with standard works and without exception the selections were beautifully sung.

The handsomely decorated interior of Holy Cross church was a fine setting for the three services which were given on Sunday morning and the excellent program of Christmas music prepared by Organist and Choirmaster Will O'Brien was finely sung, the solo work in the anthems being remarkably well done. The same may be said of the music at Grace P. E. church, where Organist and Choirmaster S. Frederick Smith maintained the usual high standard of excellence for which his choir is noted. William and Bert Tallamy and Master Carlyle Wright were the soloists.

At the Church of the Heavenly Rest an unusually difficult program was rendered by the vested choir under the direction of Juan Babcock, choirmaster, and Miss Laura Long, organist. The services in this pretty little church were well attended, both morning and evening. The children's services, which were held at 9:45 o'clock in the morning, were especially well attended and showed a remarkable increase in membership over last year.

St. Stephen's church in the Netherwood district turned out a large congregation to greet the new pastor, Rev. Elory G. Bowers, whose first sermon was preached in this church on the previous Sunday morning. Mrs. R. L. Hecht sang the offertory solo with much feeling and expression.

At the Crescent Avenue.

At the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church an elaborate program of music pleased immense audiences both morning and evening, the feature of the music being the rendition of numbers from Saint-Saen's Christmas oratorio, under the direction of Alexander Russell, organist and choirmaster. Mr. Russell is in charge of the music department of John Wanamaker's in New York and his selections are invariably of a high order and made with intelligence. This quartet has always acquitted itself with unvarying success and Sunday was no exception to the rule. Assisted by an additional singer, Miss Kitty Bammon, mezzo-soprano, of New York; the evening music was everything that could be desired.

First Presbyterian Church.

At the First Presbyterian church the feature of the morning service was the singing of a Christmas cantata by Harker. This is written in nine parts from the prophesy of the coming of Christ until the birth of the Saviour. This cantata was admirably rendered and evoked warm approval from the large congregation present. In the evening the program consisted of four anthems in which Miss Elizabeth P. DeCant, soprano, had the greater part of the work to do. That she did it well goes without saying. Miss DeCant has a beautiful flexible voice of great range and power and it may be said that none of the power is obtained at the expense of its sweetness. Particularly was this noticed in the recitative in Shelley's Star of the Orient, which Miss DeCant rendered with admirable taste and expression. Charles P. Titsworth's rendition of Neidlinger's The Birthday of the King was pleasing and true. Mrs. Mason and Mr. MacGowan were splendid in their parts.

At 10 o'clock in the morning the Sunday school took part in a simple program. There was a song by the school, prayer by LeRoy H. Gates, superintendent. The beginners' department in charge of Mrs. George A. Ballentyne, gave recitations and songs and the primary department in charge of Miss Ella Lounsbury, as well as members of the Sunday school class taught by Allen E. Beals gave recitations and songs. Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, pastor, gave a short talk on Palestine and Miss Elizabeth DeCant sang a solo.

Presbyterian Sunday-schools.

A union service, including the Sunday-schools of Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Hope chapel, Warren and Bethel chapels, completely filled the main auditorium and galleries of the Crescent Avenue edifice Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at which the pastors of the various congregations were present and Superintendent G. H. Condict, of Hope chapel, in charge of that large school. A program of responsive readings, music, carols and recitations was given, as follows: Organ prelude, hymn, A Day of Days; responsive reading, led by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie; prayer, Rev. F. D. Tilden, pastor of Bethel chapel; hymn, Welcome to the Happy Morning; responsive reading, led by G. H. Condict, superintendent of Hope chapel; hymn, Wonderful Night; singing by the pupils of Bethel chapel, Tidings of Comfort and Joy; hymn, Shine Bethlehem Star; exercises by children of Warren chapel, consisting of recitations and songs; hymn, In Juda's Field Abiding; offertory solo, Martin A. Korff, followed by prayer by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel.

Exercises by the children of Hope chapel followed the offering, consisting of several interesting recitations and an exercise by eight little girls; hymn, Beautiful Starlight of Heaven; exercises by Crescent Avenue Sunday-school pupils, consisting of the four seasons represented by thirteen little girls and their queen to which the seasons brought their tributes and products. The exercise came to a close with the singing of the hymn, Christ's Coming, by the entire congregation. Rev. J. O. McKelvey pronounced the benediction. Alexander Russell, the church organist, was assisted by the regular Sunday-school orchestra in accompanying the singing.

First Baptist Church.

The Christmas service at the First Baptist church, Sunday morning, was unusually pleasing, the chorus choir being assisted by the Schill String Quartet, of Newark, and added greatly to the enjoyment of the occasion. Howard M. Case, organist and choirmaster, was in charge of the musical program. The Sunday school occupied seats in the gallery and sang Christmas carols. The work of the chorus choir was especially good, while the solo work of Miss Ruth Harris, soprano; Miss Hazel Hatfield, contralto; William Holmes, baritone, and George Smith, tenor, was up to the usual high standard. The program comrpised several anthems by the choir and special numbers by the string quartet, accompanied by the organ. The entire program will be repeated next Sunday night, with the assistance of the Schill quartet. There was no evening service at this church.

Trinity Reformed.

At Trinity Reformed church on Christmas morning special music was finely rendered by the choir under the leadership of the organist and choirmaster, A. L. Titsworth. An excellent Christmas sermon on the conception, birth and life of the Saviour was preached by Rev. J. T. Shock. The pulpit platform and organ front were handsomely decorated with Xmas greens, while a beautiful vase of flowers decorated the communion table.

The evening service, in charge of the Sunday-school, included exercises by the beginners, junior and primary departments, in charge of Mrs. J. M. Tier. An orchestra composed of D. D. Dougherty, flute; Fred Borrup, violin; Edward Guest and E. D. Young, cornets, and Miss May Randolph, piano, furnished the music. The children sang well, but the absence of the pipe organ was noticeable. Horace J. Martin acted as precentor. Rev. Mr. Shock made a short address in which he made plain the fact that it is more blessed to give than to receive. Superintendent F. E. Smith read the Scripture lesson.

In the beginners' department "Little Christmas Candles" was recited by Edna Schlief, Harry Mesler, Evelyn Krymer, Earl Wyman, Edward Kellogg and Dorothy Giles, while Charles Hurst gave greetings. The junior department program was: Song, "'Twas Christmas Day;" violin solo, Charles Todd, of Dunellen; exercise, "Our King," twenty-four boys and girls as follows: Edna Smith, Esther Kellogg, Marjorie Storr, Margaret Smith, Helen McAfee, Helen Hand, Ellen Shyrback, Hazel McCrady, Russel Sears, Howard Willett, Harry Schlief, Arthur Laurie, Laura Smith, Marion Blair, Harriet Higgins, Helen Thompson, Theodore Vail, Grace Sowden, Vera McCrady, Helen Wooley, Charles Todd, Alfred Willett, Roy MacIntyre and Elmer Saums. They concluded with the singing of "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

The primary department program consisted of: Exercise, "Once," Robert Blair, Edward Andrews, Arthur

SEND CORDIAL GREETING TO GOVERNOR-ELECT WILSON

There is no doubt of the effect that Dr. Woodrow Wilson's letter to James Smith, Jr., had on some Plainfield voters and that it imparted one common impulse to several is evidenced by the following which was the contents of a letter written and mailed to the Governor-elect last night, and which reads as follows:

"Several of us today discussing your statement on the Senatorial question published last Friday are so much pleased, yea delighted with it that we want to send you this greeting to express our hearty approval of your course.

"Your statement is a new declaration of independence and a most heartening Christmas greeting. It is an inspiration to citizens of disinterested motives of all parties, but especially to those of the Democratic party and we feel that it commences a new and much desired era in politics.

"We are sure that you have the hearty God speed of the people."

Plainfield, December 26.

The above epistle was signed by several prominent men including representatives of both political parties.

SUBSTANTIAL SURPRISE FOR PASTOR AND WIFE

Rev. and Mrs. F. D. Tildon, of Bethel chapel, were given a pleasant surprise Friday evening at their home on Richmond street by the congregation. The affair was arranged by Miss Laura Field, Mrs. Maria Sutton and Mrs. Mary L. Shipley. In order to carry out the plan most effectively, the pastor and his wife were asked a few days before to co-operate with the committee in helping to make a merry Christmas for some family. They were asked to contribute and to allow the use of one room as a place for assembling the gifts.

Early Friday afternoon supplies of groceries began to pour in to the chairman of the committee, who was in charge and before it was dark the family had begun to wonder how they should all be gotten to their destination. By 8 o'clock the room which had been reserved and another were well nigh filled with friends who had gathered and the pastor and his wife were called in and asked to accept the presents received on behalf of the members of the chapel as a token of esteem of their best wishes for a merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

The pastor responded in a brief address expressing to all his deep appreciation and thanks and wished that the Christmas season might bring to each of them as much joy and happiness as the thought of their feeling toward him had brought to his own home. Among those present were Mrs. Mary Kline, Miss Euphemia Dorsey, Mrs. Lizzie Davis, Mrs. Jennie Francis, Mrs. Mary Reid, Miss Davie Reid, Miss Millie Reid, Miss Hattie Post, Miss Laura Field, Miss Gilette, Mr. and Mrs. Zarcharia Peterson, Mrs. Mary L. Shipley, Mrs. Cora Truman, Mrs Eliza B. Miller, Abram Brown, Mrs. Margaret Carey and Charles E. Van-Horn.

FAMILIES MADE HAPPY BY SALVATION ARMY.

When the officers and members of the Salvation Army concluded their labors on Saturday night they were tired but happy and retired with the satisfaction of having put Christmas cheer in the homes of more than five hundred persons who otherwise might have been utterly neglected. Captain Hewitt and his wife were tireless in their efforts during the week to locate the most needy families and the crowd which gathered to partake of the bountiful viands prepared in baskets went away satisfied and grateful.

Tomorrow night the celebration of the Christmas tree with the distribution of gifts for the children will take place at 8 o'clock. There will be a musical program and addresses.

ITALIAN PUPILS' XMAS

Miss Bateman's English Class of Lincoln School Entertained at Y. M. C. A.

GIFTS OF USEFUL BOOKS.

Neapolitan Dialect Songs, Italian Hymn and Address by Rev. Mr. Boretty, of the Mission.

Sixty-six members of the foreign men's class in English at the Lincoln school were entertained in a practical way at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. Besides listening to some splendid mandolin and guitar music they were treated to some excellent singing in the Neapolitan dialect and a rendition of the Italian Christmas hymn with a splendid chorus. The singers were members of the class which Miss Zoe Bateman has been instructing in the English language and a more appreciative audience it would have been hard to find. It was a question as to whether the guests or the host and hostess of the class were the more pleased.

Following the musical part of the afternoon, Rev. Mr. Boretty, pastor of the Italian mission, addressed the men in their native language, urging them to study the English language. He pointed out to his audience that it was the best means of making them happier as well as gaining the respect and understanding of their American neighbors.

Great interest was manifested in the Christmas tree from which gifts of fruit and candy were taken for each one, besides a copy of one of the most useful books published for the foreigner. Its title is, "Guida per L'immigrante Italiano," compiled and written by John Foster Carr, and is in the Italian language. The book gives a good synopsis of American laws and customs, a map of the United States, the addresses of Italian consuls and protective societies and a fund of other useful information especially designed for the immigrant. The pupils of Miss Bateman's class were greatly pleased at this manifestation of her interest in them and showed it in their earnest attention to the address given. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

CELEBRATE THEIR 25TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. Kalman Rothberg, of West Third street, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding at their home last night. There were about one hundred relatives and friends present from New York, Philadelphia, Trenton and St. Louis. The couple received many gifts. During the evening a dinner was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Rothberg were married December 26, 1895, in New York. They have resided here for twenty-three years. They have six children, Samuel, Harry, Rose and Harvey, Louis and Sadie Rothberg.

Mr. Rothberg's nearest friend, Isaac Lind, who was married on the same date, also celebrated his twenty-fifth anniversary yesterday at his home in New York. During the day the couple exchanged greetings.

WATCHUNG HUNT CLUB MEMBERS ENJOY HOLIDAY.

The members of the Watchung Hunt Club celebrated Christmas yesterday. The clubhouse was attractively decorated, presenting a cheerful appearance.

Skating on the club pond was enjoyed during the morning, after which several luncheons were given. The festivities continued throughout the afternoon and evening, a number of dinner parties being given in the evening. The affair was enlivened with good music.

During the day the members of the Log Cabin Gun Club held their annual shoot on the club grounds.

In the Borough Court.

Louis LeMaity, a young man who drives for an ice company, was arraigned before Recorder Dolliver this morning, charged with ill-treating a horse. He explained to the court that the animal became balky and he lost his temper. A fine of $3 was imposed but suspended on his promise not to repeat the offense.

Bear This in Mind.

Announcements of births, weddings, and deaths, personals and other items containing the names of persons, when sent by mail, will not be published unless the name and address of the sender is signed. Under no circumstances will such items be received over the telephone. This will explain why, from time to time, some contributions are not available for publication.

GOOD FELLOWS MADE 645 POOR TOTS HAPPY

To the Good Fellows:

When you sat by the fireside on Christmas evening buried in reflections—"We have left undone those things which we ought to have done, and we have done those things which we ought not to have done"—didn't you feel just a tiny bit of satisfaction when it passed through your mind that somewhere a poor little child had been made happy by you? Some did; yes, scores did.

Now, let me tell you a story. A year ago you joined the order of Good Fellows. Five hundred and forty-two poor little tots, to whom the joys of Christmas would have been unknown had it not been for you fellows of red blood, were made supremely happy. Every mother's son of them was provided for. And you reported for duty promptly this Christmas, and are'nt you glad to learn that six hundred and forty-five children, through your goodness, had a real Christmas.

One more word. One hundred and five families received through the Charity Organization Society baskets containing Christmas dinners as well as clothing. The homes of eleven families were made warm, the society having sent half a ton of coal to each.

CITY FIRE DEPARMENT HAS SERIES OF CALLS

The firemen of the city department had barely disposed of their Christmas turkey yesterday noon when they commenced to get busy on a series of alarms. The first came in shortly after 1 o'clock and was for a chimney fire at the home of W. B. Tyler, of Evergreen avenue. It was put out with extinguishers before any damage had resulted.

At 6:13 last evening a second alarm was turned in from box 46 for a blaze in the home of George Laird, at Liberty street and Orchard place. The family was absent at the time and neighbors noticed smoke pouring from the second story window. When the firemen arrived they found a brisk blaze in a closet filled with clothing. The chemical hose was laid in but the flames were put out with hand extinguishers. The contents of the closet were destroyed. The loss is placed at $100.

At 1:24 this morning the firemen were again called out on an alarm from box 23. A boarder at the home of Mrs. Boss, 219 East Fifth street, was heating some medicine in a bottle and forgot to remove the cork. An explosion resulted, setting fire to some lace curtains. Things looked dangerous for awhile but the occupants of the house got the blaze out before the firemen reached the scene. The loss is placed at $25.

This morning's alarm made the third time in less than a week that the city department was called out between the hours of 1 and 3 a. m. On the other two occasions the fires were serious, those at the Rushmore factory and D. C. Ivins' house, each one giving the men several hours' fight and causing damage to the amount of $5,000.

COLORED MAN IS FINED FOR BEATING HIS WIFE.

Hill Condict and his wife, Amelia, both colored, were arraigned this morning before Judge William N. Runyon in the city court on charges of disturbing the peace. Amelia was discharged and her husband was fined ten dollars with the privilege of becoming a guest of the county in default of payment.

The couple live in the rear of 530 West Third street and last evening shortly before 7 o'clock the neighborhood was aroused by screams, emanating from the yard of that dwelling, pitched in a treble key. Detective Sergeant Flynn investigated the disturbance and found the woman trying to stop a flow of blood from her nose which was caused, so she alleged, from a blow given her by her spouse. The reason he struck her she could not give and as Condict refused to enlighten the court the fine was imposed. Mrs. Condict declared that her husband was insanely jealous of her and that during their ten years of married life had been constantly abusing her.

Weather Comparison.

A year ago the street cleaning department was having the time of its life trying to clean the streets of this city from a fall of snow that had been of blizzard proportions. To be exact twelve inches of snow covered the ground the fall beginning on Christmas Day and continuing for twenty-four hours.

PANIC ON TROLLEY CAR FOLLOWING BAD CRASH

A Public Service main line car, west bound on West Front street, near Lafayette place, at 8:30 Saturday night, crashed into the rear of a big coal wagon belonging to Clark T. Rogers, of New Market. The horses attached to the rig, a splendid team of grays, were thrown down and shoved along seventy-five feet before the motorman could bring his vehicle to a stop. Alfred VanNuis, the driver, was hurled backward into the wagon on his head. He was dazed for the time being but later recovered and is able to get about. The rig itself was badly smashed and the harness torn to pieces.

VanNuis had delivered a load of coal at Truell Hall and was returning to New Market when the accident occurred. He was driving along the west bound track when he heard the car coming behind him. It was proceeding at almost full speed and with only the small headlight, the searchlight being shut off. VanNuis attempted to pull out of the way and was hit as the wagon was half way off the track.

The car was filed with Christmas shoppers and a small sized panic followed the crash. It required the efforts of several men to calm the frightened passengers. The motorman escaped injury.

In speaking of the accident, this morning, Charles Rogers, son of the owner of the wagon, said both horses were badly injured and that neither animal would ever be fit for heavy work again. They were valued at $600.

LEG BROKEN WHEN MILK WAGON TOPPLED OVER.

Lawrence Powers, driver of a milk wagon for the Valley Center Dairy of West Seventh street, was thrown from his wagon Sunday night at 10 o'clock when the horse became frightened and ran away. The wagon was smashed and Powers sustained a broken leg and other injuries. He was removed to Muhlenberg hospital in the patrol wagon by patrolman O'Gorman and Chief Kiely.

When Powers was discovered by M. F. Giles, of East Seventh street, he was lying on the ground with the whole weight of the wagon resting upon him. Mr. Giles summoned help from the neighborhood and with those who responded managed to move the heavy vehicle from Powers' body and drag him out from underneath. Mr. Giles saw at once that Powers was seriously hurt and summoned the police. An examination of the injured man releaved a broken leg. He will be confined to the hospital for several weeks.

HUNGARIANS IN BRAWL

Christmas Celebration Culminates in Serious Altercation.

TWO MEN ARE INJURED.

Chief Kiely and Three Patrolmen Have Hands Full in Making Arrest—Injured Man In Hospital.

Five Hungarians are being held at police headquarters and one other is at Muhlenberg Hospital badly cut up and in a serious condition as a result of a Christmas brawl at 951 St. Mary's avenue on Sunday night. The five are John Chabak, 847 North avenue; another John Chabak, a cousin of the first named, 907 North avenue; Andrew Chabak, another cousin; John Dino, 535 East Third street; George Harker, 951 St. Mary's avenue; Michael Dino, 915 St. Mary's avenue. The man in the hospital is Joseph Kotschio. Dino was arrested in North Plainfield yesterday afternoon, the others having been taken to headquarters at 1 o'clock on Monday morning after a fight with Chief of Police Kiely and four patrolmen.

Chief Kiely was aroused from his bed by the noise of screaming people running past his house on East Fifth street. Donning his clothes, Chief Kiely made his way to the street, where he was joined by Patrolman Messler and together they followed up the noise makers.

Arriving at the St. Mary's avenue house they found two men locked in a death grip and fighting all over the lot. Upstairs in the house Kotschio was found lying in a pool of blood unconscious and with his head and face beaten almost to a pulp. At this time Patrolmen McGinley and McCarthy joined the chief and Messler and between the four, after a prolonged struggle, the four men were arrested. All were brought to headquarters where an inquiry was begun to discover if possible who had wounded Kotschio. Up to this morning nothing in the way of information had been elicited from any of the prisoners as no one will tell who wielded the weapons with which the two men were injured.

Dino, who was arrested yesterday afternoon, has four severe stab wounds, one in the head and the others on the shoulder and right arm. He was attended by City Physician Lufburrow in a cell immediately after the arrest was made. Dr. Pittis had already attended the wounds of Kotschio and the latter had been removed to Muhlenberg Hospital, where it was said this morning that he was suffering severely from shock and would be unable to leave the hospital today. Winfield S. Angleman has been retained by the five men to look after their interests.

The keenest sort of rivalry has never yet been able to detract one iota from the popularity of this important annual event, Because our customers know that whatever they might secure by "shopping around" they're sure to get here—and usually a lot more of them. As a matter of fact no year has seen us so heaped high with undermuslins as now—nor with undermuslins of such beautiful, ample fullness, nor of such varying texture, style and trimming. To this "Feast of the White Wear" we now bid you, assuring you of values none the less astonishing because so plainly apparent.

The various lots will be displayed on first floor special tables and in the department, second floor rear of millinery. Half of our street window front is given up to exhibit some of the interesting features of this sale. Take a look before you come in.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clark, of Front street, entertained their children and grandchildren yesterday at a Christmas family reunion dinner. This is an annual event in Judge Clark's family and it is needless to say that the year 1910 was as enjoyable affair as the Christmas dinners of the past. Those present were Mrs. Smalley and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Cass Acheson and son, of Matawan; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Smith and daughter, of Lincoln; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick K. Clark and children, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Clark and children, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Clawson and daughter, and Clinton B. Clark.

The annual Christmas exercises of All Saints' Episcopal church was held Sunday evening in the church. A pleasing program in keeping with the day was rendered and enjoyed by the scholars and their friends. Each child received some little remembrance of the day as well as a box of candy and orange.

Christmas' two-days' holidays were passed very quietly by the 'Plains residents. Everyone looked happy and Christmas cheer abounded. Many entertained at family reunions or friends from out of town or spent the day visiting or enjoying the theatre attractions.

Interment of the body of Mrs. Agnes Seeley, who died at her home at Coxsackie, N. Y., Friday night, was made this morning in the family plot at Hillside cemetery. The Seeley mill in the valley was closed until 1 o'clock.

The young people were able to enjoy skating yesterday, Cook's lake in the valley being in fine condition after the rain of Saturday.

The public schools closed Friday for the Christmas holidays and will not reopen until January 3, 1911.

John B. Stiliger, of Brooklyn, has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Frederick K. Clark, of Front street.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The primary and cradle roll departments of the Presbyterian Sunday schools will hold their exercises in the church this afternoon. The senior departments will hold their exercises tonight and will include a cantata, "Santa Claus at Santiago," will be presented. The young people taking part has rehearsed diligently and a pleasing entertainment is expected. The usual gifts will be distributed at the close.

A family gathering and Christmas dinner party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Apgar, of Washington avenue, Sunday noon. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Apgar, of Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Apgar, of Philadelphia; Miss Alice Apgar, Walter G. Runyon and Russell Runyon, of the borough.

At all the local churches, Sunday, appropriate Christmas sermons were preached by the pastors. Special music formed part of the programs and the congregations joined in the singing of carols.

Mrs. P. M. Ising, of Dunellen avenue, has been ill with the grip. Earl Ising was also ill several days last week.

Miss Meta Pennock is attending the evening classes of the Plainfield Business College.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

Mildred and Rouslers have received many flattering offers from New York and London managers to appear in the leading vaudeville theatres—these theatres now draw the cream of big city audiences, but fearing their position might be misunderstood by their thousands of admirers all over the country, they have so far declined to depart from their usual custom of appearing at the head of their own company, playing in the leading theatres and as every season more firmly establishes them with their own clientele there is no likelihood of them accepting vaudeville offers. This season they are presenting an imaginative fantasy entitled "Princess Iris," introducing many beautiful and bewildering illusions, pleasing specialties and a story that runs through the play that will appeal to the most exacting, it is a play that will please young people of all ages. They come to the Plainfield theatre, Monday, January 2, New Year's Day.

Form a Men's Bible Class.

The Men's Conference Bible class, recently organized along the same lines as the one at the First Presbyterian church, will meet at the First Presbyterian church next Sunday at 12:15 o'clock. H. E. Parker, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will be the teacher of the class. Dr. Josiah Strong's "Gospel of the Kingdom," treating with social problems, will be studied.

PICKS CHRISTMAS DAY FOR SUICIDE

Choosing Christmas morning as the time to die, Howard Malcolm, 51 years old, of Upper Montclair, committed suicide at his home Sunday by firing a bullet into his head. The bullet entered at the right temple and death was almost instantaneous.

His wife, Mrs. Malcolm, had left the room but a few moments previous and several members of the family had not arisen. They all heard the sound of the shot and ran to his room. They found him lying on the bed, covered by the bedclothes up to his chest. In his right hand was a smoking pistol.

The police of Montclair were notified by the family, who also notified Deputy County Physician Dr. M. Herbert Simmons, of Orange. He viewed the body and questioned the members of the family, after which he declared it a case of suicide and granted a burial permit.

Mr. Malcolm had been in the dry goods business in New York for a number of years, but was compelled to retire from active work on account of ill health. He moved to Rutherford several years ago and, believing his health would be benefited by a change, moved to Upper Montclair two years ago. The change benefited him for a while, but recently his health began to fail again. For the last few weeks he was very despondent, but never intimated that he would end his life by his own hand. Surviving members of his family are his widow and three sons, Howard, Jr., Donald and Bruce. Howard is in buiness in New York, and the other boys are attending school. The funeral will be private at the convenience of the family.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"The Country Boy," which Henry B. Harris will present at the Plainfield theatre for Tuesday, January 3, was written by Edgar Selwyn, the well-known actor-playwright and is filled with interesting lines which will appeal strongly to all people. In speaking of men Fred Merkle, the newspaper man, one of the strongest characters in the play, says: "Some of them have not the staying qualities and lay down but those who have the right stuff in them refuse to acknowledge that they are licked so shut their teeth hard and go at it once more. Perhaps they get another solar plexus, but they are up at the sound of the gong and they keep coming up in spite of their knock downs until the world realizes they can't be kept down and so is forced to make a place for them. Believe me, son, a man is not a failure until he admits it himself."

Park Avenue Baptist.

Sunday was a particularly interesting day for the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school. The morning was marked by several features which combined to make the occasion one of unusual interest. It was a day of giving to the Plainfield day nursery, and in response to the appeal of the superintendent, George E. Hall, a large supply of provisions, toys, games, etc., were brought in by the school for that institution. The offering received amounted to over $35. It was also given to the nursery.

Following the study of the lesson, the school took up the rehearsal of their Christmas carols, after which Mr. Hall spoke of the work of their blackboard artist, Charles Van Winkle, whose talent adds so much attractiveness to the weekly sessions.

The entire elementary department marched downstairs and into the main school, the fifty or more children seating themselves about the platform, and before Mr. Hall could recover from his surprise, Deacon Theodore I. Runyon, expressed the appreciation and love which the entire school feel for their superintendent. He referred to the unceasing efforts of Mr. Hall to increase the efficiency of the school; to his generous expenditure of time, energy and money, all so freely given for the advancement of the work. Mr. Runyon on behalf of the officers and teachers, presented to Mr. Hall a handsome automobile clock. After Mr. Hall had expressed his appreciation, the school sang one verse of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

Arthur Mosher, leader of the Sunday-school orchestra, and in remarks suited to the occasion, presented to the superintendent a picture of the orchestra, handsomely framed. Once more the entire audience arose, and sang about the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love, and it did seem as though officers, teachers and pupils were members of one big family, sharing each other's joys and sorrows. Mr. Hall presented to every officer and teacher a calendar for the new year; and to every member of the school an attractive card containing interesting printed matter regarding the work of the several departments.

The Christmas program was given in the church auditorium in the evening at 7:30, before an audience that more than filled the auditorium, it being necessary to seat a large number of people in the Sunday-school room. The exercises were as published in The Daily Press of Saturday. Music was a feature of the program, and the carols were sung with a spirit rarely equaled by this school. An orchestra of twelve pieces, under the leadership of Arthur S. Mosher, and including Miss Mary Clark at the piano, and Robert Humpston at the organ, rendered several selections of their own, in addition to accompanying all the singing by the school. Another feature of the program was the talk by the pastor, Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire. In his own pleasing way, he told the children the Christmas story; he has visited the town of Bethlehem, so that what he said about the inn, the manger, the shepherds, the wise men, and the star—carried with it a peculiar interest not to be found in books. He showed the audience how the ordinary shepherd dresses over in the Holy Land; he gave the peculiar cry of the shepherd calling his sheep—and then he told how, when he visited the shepherds, he had put on their dress, and taking their staff in hand, had attempted to give their crp to the sheep, expecting of course the entire flock would follow him. Imagine his surprise, therefore, when not a single sheep raised his head because they did not recognize in his cry the voice of their shepherd.

First M. E. Church.

In addition to the elaborate Christmas programs at the First M. E. church, Sunday morning and evening, the Sunday school held interesting exercises in the afternoon in Vincent chapel. James R. Joy, superintendent of the school, was in charge of the program, assisted by the teachers. Mrs. Thomas MacDonald had charge of the program for the primary department, it being as follows:

Christmas Greeting, Ellsworth Runyon; exercise, Ralph Willamson, Margaret Evans, Haywood Webster, Gertrude Joy; recitations, Margaret Dunavan and Howard Fisher; song, primary choir, Thora Vail, Ella Vail, Warren Moyer Helen Western, Carry Creager, Janet Marchant, Russell Huff, Thelma Dawson, Arthur McVoy, Genedia Longcor, Bessie Rancall, Roswell Ewart, Myrtle Harrell, Joseph Glover, Russell Lynn; recitations, Mildred Dunn, Thelma Dawson, Roswell Ewart.

The beginners' department in charge of Miss Edna French, teacher, and the cradle roll also had simple exercises and Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor, made a few remarks appropriate to the occasion.

Temple Baptist Church.

The Sunday school of the Temple Baptist church held its special Christmas exercises Sunday night, when under the direction of Superintendent L. W. Randolph this program was followed: Opening selection, choir; carol, school; greetings, Christmas Greeting, Harold Wilson; A Christmas Wish, Freddie Berg; song, intermediate department chorus; solo, Hazel Todd; recitation, Well Rose; solo, Beautiful Starlight, Alice Huff; recitation, A Gift, Helen Waldron; solo If I Could Be a Christmas Tree Richard Mellick; recitation, A Glad Little Girl, Jessie Campbell; recitation, On Christmas Day, Eva Cartwright; recitation, Come Sing a Song for Christmas, Harry Winn, Willie Cartwright, John Mason and Roscoe Campbell; recitation, A Christmas Gift, Gussie Montrose, Mabel Montrose; recitation, Great Expectation, Isabel Campbell; A Song of Christmas, Catherine Harper; carol, school; recitations, God Bless us All, Elizabeth Harper; My Christmas Gift Lillian Ryno, Flossy Boughton and Kenneth Boughton; duet, Tell the Glad Song, Grace Blake, Alice Huff; selection, choir; remarks, Rev J. W. Musson; carol, school; benediction, Rev. J. W. Musson.

The service in the morning was of a special character and the pastor, Mr. Musson, preached a strong sermon. The church was attractively decorated for the occasion.

Grace M. E. Church.

The members of Grace M. E. Sunday-school held their Christmas exercises Sunday afternoon. The program was in charge of Superintendent W. J. Conroy and comprised recitations, dialogues and carols by the different departments. A short address was made by Rev. Ora Jerome Shoop. The pupils were trained by Miss Mary Steiner.

Netherwood Reformed Church.

The Netherwood Reformed church was filled at both services on Sunday and an attractive program of music was rendered by a quartet choir under the direction of Miss Lillian Mattell. The singers were Miss Maude Berry, soprano; Mrs. S. O. Rice, contralto; George Stout, tenor, and Mr. Stevenson, bass.

Rev. Royal A. Stout, the pastor, preached morning and evening on topics relating to the Christmas season. The Sunday school exercises will be held tomorrow night at the church. The handsome decorations which festooned the interior of the edifice on Sunday will be retained for these exercises.

Mt. Zion A. M. E. Church.

Large congregations attended the Christmas services at the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, Sunday. The music was excellent and the pastor, Rev. J. T. Diggs, preached a good sermon from Matt. 2:10. The electric star he used in the decorations was designed by Alfred P. White. It was also used at the Sunday school exercises last night. Mrs. E. D. Grobes and T. B. Dyett rendered great assistance to Superintendent E. B. Maynard in training the children. The tree was pleasing to the children and Santa Claus afforded much amusement. The pastor was not forgotten by his Bible class, as well as the church Alfred P. White played the organ at each service.

TO HAVE IDEAL HIGH SCHOOL IN ELIZABETH.

C. Godfrey Poggi, the Elizabeth architect who has been chosen by the high school committee of the Board of Education to draw plans for a new high school, has already begun work. With Superintendent of Schools Clement he has visited the new high schools in Bayonne and in this city. He will also visit other schools in the State and will probably visit New York city. From these visits Architect Poggi expects to gain ideas that may be used on the proopsed school in Elizabeth.

"We were by no means satisfied with the schools we have visited," said Superintendent Clement yesterday morning. "The buildings have bad features that will be eliminated from our school. We intend to have a good high school and a beautiful one."

OLD MINE SWALLOWS A PENNSYLVANIA SHOP.

A coal mine, abandoned fifty years ago, gave way yesterday and carried down the large foundry of Zahniser Brothers & Sten, on West Chestnut street, Washington, Pa.

John A. Sten, vice president of the company, and twelve workmen were severely injured, but none will die. There were a score of other employes who escaped unhurt from the debris of fallen walls, broken machinery and twisted shafting.

Some sections of the building fell 150 feet to the base of the old mine.

The loss amounts to about $75,000.

Senate Seat 23 a Hoodoo.

Who is going to get seat No. 23 in the Senate under the readjustment necessary because of the recent elections is a question being asked at the Capitol. The "Indian sign" first was put on No. 23 when Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, occupied it. He was defeated for re-election and died abroad shortly afterward. Senator McMillan moved into No. 23 after Senator Wolcott vacated it, and died in office. Then Senator Wetmore took it for a few months, only to have the Rhode Island Legislature become deadlocked. It was six months before Senator Wetmore was returned and in the meantime his seat was forfeited. Senator Kittridge was sitting there when Senator Wetmore reached the Senate after the deadlock ended, and he was defeated when next he came up for election. Senator Burkett, of Nebraska, who has been occupying No. 23 of late years, has just met defeat in that State and will be succeeded by Representative Hitchcock. No hoodoo has seemed to attach to No. 13.

Stricken on Street.

Toppling over suddenly without any apparent reason, Frank D. Hart, of 120 Richmond street, layed his length on the sidewalk at the corner of Watchung and North avenues last evening at 5 o'clock unconscious. He was seen to fall by a passerby and police headquarters notified. Dr. Pittis on examining the man urged haste in removing the man to Muhlenberg hospital. There it was found that Hart was suffering from apoplexy. He may not recover.

Rattling Sound.

Biggs—What makes you think the man who playes the piano used to be a guard in the jail?

Wiggs—The way he rattles the keys.

He Knew.

Stranger—I just saw a funeral going down the street; can you tell me who is going to be buried?

Boy—Yes, sir; the gentleman in the first carriage.

THE HARVEST MOON

Copyright, 1909, by Augustus Thomas

The men lingered to finish their cigars, while Mrs. Winthrop, Dora and Aunt Cornelia went out on the terrace. "You can't explain it, Dora," snapped Aunt Cornelia the moment they were in the open air. "It is simply your innate bad manners!"

"Explain what?" asked Dora.

"You know very well," answered her aunt. "You spoke French at the dinner table at every possible opportunity. There is no greater piece of impoliteness than to speak a foreign language in the presence of a third person who doesn't understand it."

"I only replied," answered the girl, "to the questions which M. Vavin put to me."

"Yes," pursued the New England spinster, "but you replied in French."

"But that is not so immoral," suggested Mrs. Winthrop, "as your tone would seem to indicate."

"Papa spoke in French," added Dora, "and so did Judge Elliott."

With the final statement that she was not responsible either for the manners or the morals of Judge Elliott, Professor Fullerton's sister opened up the second part of her attack.

"I gather that you were all talking about the theater."

Dora nodded, for her patience was getting very near the point of where she felt she would hardly be able to control herself.

"Does M. Vavin approve of your exploits?"

"I don't know," replied Dora drearily and then took up with Mrs. Winthrop the matters of small social moment that she knew would interest and absorb that lady and bring her to the rescue.

Aunt Cornelia, however, refused to be thus put aside.

"Did you notice how badly my brother looked tonight?" she asked at the first opportunity she had to regain the conversational bone.

"I thought he looked all right," said Mrs. Winthrop.

"I never saw him look so worried," persisted the elder Miss Fullerton. "You know we had to go through the same thing with Dora's mother. I really do not see why it is Dora cannot settle down and be a decent woman."

"I shall be a decent woman, Aunt Cornelia, even in the theater," replied the girl hotly and, fearing that the scene would become even more disagreeable, started for the house as her affectionate relative fired after her:

"That's what your mother said."

In the meantime Fullerton had put frankly to Holcomb his reasons for asking him to be his guest.

"I have asked," he said as they sat about the table, "Judge Elliott's advice about Dora's wish to play in your drama. I am a little afraid that I have not the influence with my daughter which I should have, although I have a great deal of affection for her and she has for me. M. Vavin you know, and before Judge Elliott we can speak freely, as he is an old friend and my attorney."

Holcomb eyed the three with grim humor. With the exception of Vavin, who would, he felt, at least have sympathy with his ambitions and intentions, he knew here was opposition, innate as well as developed. The little ruddy faced lawyer, with his small, sharp eyes, his years of good living marked in every lineament, showed an almost professional antipathy for the stage in the very suavity with which he expressed interest in Holcomb's work.

"Is it not rather unusual," said Judge Elliott, some of the suavity going out of his voice and the tone of the cross examiner coming into it, "for a girl of Miss Fullerton's inexperience to be offered what in your business you call stellar honors?"

"It is," replied Holcomb.

"And yet you say that you do not think your play would succeed without Miss Fullerton in it," continued the judge. "Why not some actress of great ability, of great experience, of great reputation?"

Holcomb laughed.

"Not every person who goes to law, judge, has been able to avail himself of your services, has he? Well, it is the same way with us. The manager is going to put on my play, but he will not pay for the woman of established reputation that you suggest. The very question of salary that he would pay the leading woman has been a matter of dispute. I could have had a production before, but the woman who was suggested for the leading part, though the manager was willing to give her three times the salary he would pay Miss Fullerton, would have killed the play before the curtain went up. The heroine in my play is a woman of culture, education, sensibility, strength and temperament. I pictured such a woman before I had the honor of knowing Miss Fullerton, but as I watched her play during those two weeks of one night stands she fulfilled the picture in every detail. In a way I rewrote my play during those two weeks, for she suggested to me a great many things that I had sensed, but that I had not actually known."

"You have no sisters," said Judge Elliott, with self satisfied intuition, while Professor Fullerton nodded approvingly at the point that he perceived the judge was making.

"On the contrary," said Holcomb, with a smile, "I have three." And at this M. Vavin, who had sat back enjoying the scene with Mephistophelean humor, laughed loudly.

"They're on the stage?" asked the judge.

"No," replied Holcomb; "one is married, another is at school, and the third is still almost an infant."

"Would you like to see them on the stage?"

"Let us get to the point, judge. If my sisters showed ability, if they had any real talent for the stage, I could not see any reason why they shouldn't take that up as a career, provided it would make them happy. We are beating about the bush. You, like a great many other men who know of the theater only as you sit on this side of the footlights or as you read your plays and your criticisms or as you read the scandals in the newspapers, have what is, to my mind, a very unjust impression of the people who work therein. It is perfectly true that the law is still on the books of parliament in England which declares that an actor is a vagabond who may be arrested on sight for the first offense, burned through the gristle of the right ear with a redhot iron of the compass of one inch for the second offense and sentenced to be hanged for the third. It is perfectly true that in M. Vavin's own country so great a man as Moliere was greeted by the rustics as he appeared on the highway with his troupe with these kindly sentiments: 'Lock up the silver; here come the actors.'"

"You see," said M. Vavin, "he admits it all."

"But," continued Holcomb, "if the social mark of vagabondage was on the profession of the actor at one time, what crimes are not traceable to the men in your profession? The actor at least can claim that by his own personal worth, his own endeavors, his own regard for social laws, he has lived down all the contumely—I should say nearly all the contumely—that was once associated with the stage."

"I think we were speaking of actresses," said Professor Fullerton.

RUSH OF WATER WRECKS THE NEW MARKET DAM

The heavy rain of Saturday and the rush of water from melting snow, caused the main section of the New Market lake dam to give way Saturday night. The masonry had been weakened by the frost and was unable to stand the pressure.

As a result of the break, all the water has been let out of the lake and work has been suspended at the grist mill operated by Clark T. Rogers. He was very busy at this time and he will suffer a bad loss. Almost at the same time the dam gave way, a coal rig belonging to him was hit by a trolley car on West Front street.

The mill property is owned by the Middlesex Water Company and it is not known if they will rebuild. In this event Charles Rogers would suffer a heavy loss as he has $1,000 worth of boats in his lake livery. It would cost approximately about $1,000 to put the dam back in shape.

DR. SAMUEL AYERS' BURIAL IN HILLSIDE TODAY.

Dr. Samuel Ayers, aged about 65 years, a well-known former Plainfielder, and for a great many years principal of one of the grammar schools in New York city, will be buried in Hillside cemetery, today, his death having occurred at his late home in New York city on Friday last.

Dr. Ayers was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William C. Ayers, of West Second street, who were among the early residents of the city. He spent his early life here and then prepared for his life work of teacher, in which he was successful. He was considered an authority on certain subjects and was honored and respected by all who knew him. He was a man of strong character and exceptional ability, which was recognized by some of the foremost educators of this part of the country. He is survived by a wife and a sister, Mrs. S. A. Robinson, of Sandford avenue.

MISS REBECCA S. LOYD DIED CHRISTMAS MORNING.

The funeral service of Miss Rebecca S. Loyd, aged 81 years, who died on Sunday morning, will be held at Holy Cross church tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and will be in charge of the rector, Rev. George A. Warner. The interment will be in Hillside cemetery.

Miss Loyd was the daughter of Isaac Smith and Elizabeth Singer Loyd, one of the old Philadelphia families, and she was born in Philadelphia. She occupied the house where she died, at 65 Washington avenue, the borough, for thirty years. Throughout her long residence here, she made many friends. She is survived by two brothers and two sisters.

INTRODUCED TO SOCIETY

Charming Reception and a Dance for Miss Eleanor E. DeGraff.

MANY GIFTS FOR DEBUNTANTE.

Function Held Yesterday Afternoon and Last Nght at Home of Her Parents Mr. and Mrs. J. W. DeGraff.

One of the most charming affairs of the season was the reception and dance given yesterday afternoon and evening by Mr. and Mrs. James W. DeGraff, of Central avenue, for their daughter, Miss Eleanor E. DeGraff, when she was formally introduced to society. The reception was held in the afternoon from 4 to 7, when the home was thronged with guests who called to shower congratulations and flowers upon the debutante and the dance took place at night, when a large number of guests enjoyed the festive occasion. The home was elaborately decorated for the occasion, Christmas greens and holly being used extensively, while there were a profusion of pink roses.

Miss DeGraff, who is a favorite in the younger set, received an unusually large number of gifts including many beautiful flowers. She wore an attractive gown of white with a little coloring of pink and blue and gilt embroidery. The guests included a large number of charming young women of this city and out-of-town.

Mrs. James W. DeGraff and her daughter, received with the latter's grandmother, Mrs. Samuel Milliken, of this city, and Mrs. James Repplier, of Philadelphia; also Miss McClellan, of York, Pa.; Miss Moul, of Hanover, Pa.; Miss Turnbull, of Brooklyn and Miss Doubleday, of New York, the last named a cousin of Miss DeGraff.

Those who assisted in the dining-room were Mrs. Albert A. Tilney, Mrs. J. F. Raymond, Mrs. John Gray Foster, Mrs. D. N. VanVliet, Mrs. Howard McWilliams, Mrs. Walter Mc Gee and Mrs. James R. Joy, of this city and Miss Vanderbeck, of Somerville.

The music for the reception in the afternoon and the dance in the evening was furnished by Austin, of Brooklyn, and the various numbers rendered were a delight to the guests.

JEWELER TO REMOVE HIS STORE FEBRUARY 1.

Charles E. Vail, the jeweler, will remove February 1 from his present location on Park avenue, adjoining the City National Bank, to the Boice, Runyon & Co., building at 236 Park avenue, opposite North avenue and will occupy the store vacated by Louis DeBrigard. The lease was signed this morning. Mr. Vail's removal is caused by the fact that the City National Bank desires the store as extra space for a work room, its present quarters being somewhat crowded.

The front of the store will be taken out and remodelled to correspond with the Park avenue side of the bank building. This change will remove another one of Plainfield's oldest establishments. Asa Collier, the jeweler, began business at that location in about 1869, the store being a little smaller than at present. A few years later the bank gave him a little additional room. Nearly nine years ago Mr. Collier sold his business to Mr. Vail, who has continued it with success.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL AT HOLY CROSS PARISH.

The Sunday-school and the children of the Holy Cross parish will have their Christmas tree in the church tonight at 7:45. A carol service will precede the giving of gifts from the tree. Young men of the Bible class will assist in the distribution. The children will bring gifts of groceries, toys and games for use in St. Bernard's school for poor boys at Gladstone, N. J.

The tree which is a huge balsam spruce stands nearly thirty feet high It will present a beautiful appearance with its load of gifts and multitudious tiny electric lights.

Friend's Xmas Entertainment.

The First day school of the Religious Society of Friends enjoyed its Christmas entertainment at the meeting house on Watchung avenue, last night. There was the usual large attendance of children and friends, the exercises being in charge of Miss Mabel Vail, superintendent of the school. There was an informal program of readings and recitations by the children, and a feature was the display of a number of lantern slides, which pleased both young and old. At the conclusion of the entertainment each child received a box of candy and an orange.

Tone Overton, of Rutgers College, is at his home in the borough for the holiday season.

CHRISTMAS DANCE AT THE PARK CLUB

The annual Christmas dance at the Park Club, last night, proved to be one of the most enjoyable social functions of the season. It was largely attended, there being about 150 present. The clubhouse never looked more attractive in its elaborate decorations. This was the work of Henry Johnson, the steward, and was greatly admired. There was an arrangement of Christmas greens, holly and flowers about the stage, behind which Muller's Orchestra, of Brooklyn, was seated.

The orchestra rendered a popular program of music for the dancing which continued until an early hour this morning, with an intermission at midnight for refreshments.

The affair was in charge of the entertainment committee of which Mrs. Samuel Townsend is the chairman, while the patronesses were Mrs. John L. Watson, Mrs. Samuel St. John McCutchen, Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, Mrs. W. A. Connor and Mrs. Walter McGee.

GRAND JURY TO DECIDE

Mr. and Mrs. Diano Held on Own Recognizance for Alleged Assault.

SHUBERT'S HEAD WAS BROKEN.

Killed a Calf Then Celebrated with Whiskey—Quarrel Started Over Broken Window—Rolling Pin a Weapon.

Mrs. Annie Diano and her husband, Andrew, were held in ther own recognizance for the action of the grand jury by City Judge William N. Runyon this morning on a charge of asasult preferred by Peter Shubert, of 830 George street. The assault is alleged to have taken place near midnight on December 16. Judge William Newcorn represented the complainant and Winfield S. Angleman the two defendants.

The people concerned in the fracas which resulted in Shubert getting a broken head with a rolling pin in the hands of Mrs. Diano, are Slavs and Poles and the quarrel which resulted in the fight arose over a dispute regarding repairs to a kitchen window in the house owned by Shubert and occupied in part by Diano and his family. Shubert declared this morning that he was enticed upstairs to the apartments occupied by the Diano family and there after an argument about the window was assaulted by both Diano and his wife. Of course, whiskey had something to do with the affeir, it being acknowledged by both parties to have been partaken of by those who witnessed and helped at a calf slaughtering which took place in Shubert's barn earlier in the evening.

Shubert acknowledged that he had had a couple of drinks and Diano told the court that he had drunk some of the liquor in his tea at supper while John Wolf, a huge German, declared that there was not enough whiskey to go around particularly if he was in the drinking crowd. Wolf said that he killed the calf and that the men each had a drink or two from a pint bottle of liquor, "but chudge, that ain't enough to make a man drunk. I could drink der whole pint mineselluf und go home sober."

Mrs. Diano did not deny using the rolling pin. She said that Shubert was choking her husband while he was sitting on a trunk and unable to defend himself. He had called to her for help and she like a good wife had come to his assistance and used the time honored weapon with which all housewives are familiar. She denied that her husband had struck Shubert, although the latter claimed that it was her husband's blow that laid open his scalp. Diano in his own defense claimed to have used no violence until attacked by Shubert. He said he did not use the rolling pin, but tried to defend himself with his hands. The grand jury will have to be decided whether the Dianos are to be tried for assault.

THE ENGAGEMENT RING A RELIC OF BARBARISM

Dr. Morris Korshet, who is engaged to wed Miss Gertrude Riskin, at Passaic, does not believe in engagement rings, and his fiance agrees with his views that the ring is a relic of barbarism. Instead he has given books as an engagement token.

"In times of long ago," said Dr. Korshet, "the man either captured his female partner or purchased her from her male parent with presents. When she was already his he placed a crude ring upon her finger. It was regarded as a symbol of inferiority and made the wearer appear in the light of personal property. Miss Riskin will not be my chattel. She will be my equal, my companion and helpmate. Therefore I gave Miss Riskin something for her mind, and not an ornament for her finger."

Wedded Last Saturday.

Rev. Cortlandt H. Mallery, rector of the Heavenly Rest church, officiated at the wedding on Saturday afternoon of Henry Rapp and Miss Lena Meyer, both of Elizabeth. Fritz Meyer, a brother of the bride, acted as best man, and Miss Amelia Rapp, a sister of the groom, was the bridesmaid.

BELLIGERANT WOMAN CAUSED THE TROUBLE

A case in which the complainant became the defendant came before Judge Runyon in the city court this morning, the charge coming when Mrs. Helen Schneiderback, of Prescott place was put on the stand to prove her charge of assault against Ernest Minor, of the same street whom she accused of kicking her last Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Schneiderback was fined ten dollars by the court, the testimony of eyewitnesses being to the effect that she was the aggressor.

The trouble arose over an alleged attempt on the part of Mrs. Schneiderback to kick a dog belonging to Minor. When Miner protested against such cruelty, he declared, Mrs. Schneiderback struck him with a dishpan accompanying her attack with profane appelations. Later, he said, the woman attacked and beat his wife and had also threatened to "do up" Mrs. Christian Bendtell, a neighbor.

Mrs. Schneiderback said on her own behalf that she was hanging clothes on a line in the rear of the Minor residence when she was attacked by Minor's dog. The dog bit her, she said, and it was in defense of her person she tried to kick the dog. Then, she alleged, Minor came on the scene and proceeded to kick her off the stoop which caused her to run into the rooms of Mrs. Erner, a neighbor, whom she was nursing and there she had a fit. She recovered quickly enough to come out and berate Mr. Minor, who then had a warrant issued for her arrest.

The Judge reviewed Mrs. Schneiderback's police record and discovered that the woman had been before him twice before on charges of which she had been found guilty. He then imposed the fine.

GETS A PURSE OF GOLD

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire Handsomely Remembered by Congregation.

AT A XMAS ENTERTAINMENT.

Departure from Usual Methods of Amusements at Park Avenue Sunday-school Pleases Huge Audience.

The Christmas entertainment of the Park Avenue Baptist Bible school was given last night before an audfence that completely filled all the available space. The program included a number of very clever acts by Rosani, of New York, the Juggler, who kept his audience in a continuous laugh by his side remarks and funny faces as an accompaniment to his juggling. He is considered one of the best in his line of entertainment, and much of the balancing which he did, was really difficult work. Harry Brown, also of New York, another of the entertainers, recited several Christmas stories and sang a number of songs. He was accompanied on the piano by Miss Mary Clark, the pianist of the Sunday-school. The Palmer Musical Trio delighted the audience with their selections upon the Merimbophone, the Bamboo Bells and the Saxophone.

The entire entertainment was a change from that of recent years, and furnished amusement for both children and adults.

Superintendent Georg E. Hall was in charge of the program, and at the conclusion of the entertainment had the privilege of presenting to the Pastor, Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, a purse of $100 in gold from the members of the church and congregation, as an expression of their love and appreciation of his magnificent work. Mr. Hall spoke beautifully of the inspiration which the pastor has been to the people of this church, and asked him to accept this gold as merely an indication of what they would like to do if they could. Dr. Maguire acknowledged the gift in his graceful way, and assured his people of his deep appreciation of their love and hearty co-operation.

Mr. Hall then stepped to the platform again, and in tender earnest words of appreciation, told of the faithful, loving service which Deacon Theodore I. Runyon had rendered the Park Avenue Baptist school as one of its teachers for so many years, and on behalf of Deacon Runyon's class, asked him to accept the handsome umbrella as an expresion of the loving regards which every member of his class felt for him. Mr. Runyon responded with thanks that came from his heart, and which showed how much had meant to him all these years the happy association of teacher and class in this Sunday-school where a perfect spirit of loyalty and good feeling make all work so pleasant, harmonious and successful.

The Volunteer Bible class presented their teacher, Mrs. Gabriel Reid Maguire, with a handsome lamp.

The evening's exercises were brought to a close by the presentation of candy and gifts to the members of the Elementary department, in which Mr. Hall assisted the superintendent Miss Elmira Runyon, and her teachers.

MRS. JANE A. HAMILTON, AGED 83 YEARS, DEAD

Mrs. Jane A. Hamilton, mother of Walter F. Hamilton, of Verdon street North Plainfield, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harriet E. Merritt, 161 West 105 street, New York, aged eighty-three years. The funeral services will be held at the daughter's home tomorrow night at 8 o'clock and interment will be made at Mt. Kisco cemetery privately on Friday morning.

Mrs. Hamilton was a native of Albany, N. Y., and was the widow of Robert Hamilton. Surviving her are two daughters, Mrs. H. E. Merritt and Miss Grace Hamilton, both of New York, and one son, W. F. Hamilton, of this city. There are also two nieces, Grace L. Merritt and Mabel Hamilton, and three nephews, Walter F. Jr., Robin S. and Lester A. Hamilton.

He Was "Celebrating."

James McCann, of Westfield, whose celebration of the holidays was not over yesterday appeared before Judge William N. Runyon this morning on a charge of intoxication. He was found drunk on West Front street yesterday afternoon and brought to headquarters by Patrolman Vanderweg. It was his first offense and the court was lenient, suspending sentence.

Miss Clarissa Lissignola, of East Front street, is dettained at home by illness.

7TH. DAY BAPTIST S. S. XMAS ENTERTAINMENT

The Christmas entertainment for the Sabbath school of the Seventh-Day Baptist church was held in the parlors of the church, last night, there being a large attendance of members and friends of the school and church. Both old and young were well entertained by the excellent program which included and illustrated lecture on the life of Christ. While the views were being shown, Mrs. Frank Kellogg read several selections appropos to the pictures.

There was the usual Christmas tree, elaborately decorated and after the entertainment, which also included the singing of carols, and instrumental selections, Superintendent O. S. Rogers distributed suitable gifts to the children of the school and refreshments were served. Mrs. William C. Hubbard was the chairman of the general committee, and she was assisted by John Cottrell and other officers of the school.

DINO AND KOTSCHIO WERE COMBANTANTS

Of the five men arrested by the local police alleged to be implicated in the injury of Joseph Kotschio on Christmas night only one has been detained to await the result of his injuries. Michael Dion, who was traced and arrested by Detective Sergeant Flynn and Sergeant Overbaugh in North Plainfield on Monday, who is himself somewhat cut up appears to have been the only man who can be held on a charge of assault on Kotschio.

It was a clever piece of detective work which brought to light the part taken in the big Hungarian fracas and implicated Dino. A remark let slip by one of the men who were released yesterday gave Detective Flynn the clue which he followed up. He found Dino working in spite of his four knife wounds none of which had been dressed. It is alleged that Dino and Kotschio got into a fight through an over-indulgence in liquor on Sunday night and a quarrel resulted in a fight between the two men. Kotschio is in bad shape and it may be several days before he is able to leave the hospital. The wounds from which he is suffering were inflicted with a small coal shovel. He probably used his knife on Dino as the latter's wounds are all cuts on the head and shoulders. The hearing is set down for tomorrow morning, subject to the appearance of Kotschio.

AUTOMOBILE AND CAB COLLIDE ON PARK AVE.

Congested traffic near the corner of Park avenue and Second street was responsible for a collision which occured between a cab driven by William Willis, colored, and Dr. J. Stanley Woolley's automobile at 2 this afternoon. The wind shield of the automobile was shattered and Morris Harrison, manager of Muhlenberg hospital had his arm bruised. Dr. Woolley, who was driving the car was not hurt.

According to bystanders there was just room for two automobiles going toward Front street to pass between an opening in the traffic. Dr. Woolley's machine was following another and larger car and Willis was driving his cab in the opposite direction. It is claimed that the cab driver should have waited the passage of the two cars before attempting to rush his trotting horse through the too small opening between vehicles on either side of him. The cab was not injured neither was the horse. It will cost about fifty dollars to repair the damage to Dr. Woolley's car.

ENTERTAIN IN HONOR OF MISS ALBERTA WATERBURY.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteau, of Fairview avenue, gave a Christmas party at their home, last night in honor of their guest, Miss Alberta Waterbury, formerly a teacher in the borough schools, but now supervisor of music in Syracuse University. During the evening there were violin selections by Joseph Denny, piano selections by Miss Waterbury and Miss Clara VanFleet, while several operatic selections were given on a phonograph. A feature was the making of a record by the party.

There was a Christmas tree laden with gifts and after the entertainment these were distributed by Mr. LaBoyteaux, who interpreted the part of Santa Claus. The rest of the evening was devoted to sociability. Refreshments were served.

TRIED TO KILL HIMSELF

Young South American Fires Bullet in Head But Fails at Suicide.

ONLY SLIGHTLY WOUNDED.

Came Here to Secure Business Education—Rash Act Committed at Guardian's Home in South Plainfield.

Max Barara, a young Ecuadorian who has been boarding at 222 West Second street, attempted suicide early this morning at the home of his guardian, William Chamaidon, of South Plainfield. He placed a pistol to his right temple and fired, but the bullet took an upward course and passed out with penetrating the brain. He was taken to Muhlenberg hospital at 3 o'clock and given all possible treatment to avoid infection. It is probable that he will be discharged tomorrow.

Barara is about eighteen years old and has lived in Plainfield a short time. He was sent here by his parents, who are reported to be wealthy in order to secure a business education. Mr. Chamaidon has been acting as his guardian and he went to the latter's home to spend the holiday vacation. He had not been in good health lately, but it was not known that he had been brooding over his condition.

Barara retired as usual last night but shortly after 12 o'clock the family were aroused by a pistol shot. It was traced to the young man's room and he was found lying on the bed. He was able to converse and told what had happened.

Dr. F. J. Hughes was summoned and gave temporary treatment. He afterwards ordered the ambulance to have him removed to the hospital. The young man would give no definite statement beyond the fact that he had been suffering from a severe headache.

Barara was greatly liked by his fellow-students at the Plainfield Business College. Principal Herr said this morning that he was bright and gentlemanly at all times and of a very happy disposition. His address on West Second street is the home of Charles Baker, who also speaks well of him.

OILY RAGS CAUSE FIRE SCARE IN WEST END HOME.

The family of J. R. Heaton, of 836 West Sixth street, was aroused from sleep shortly after midnight this morning by choking smoke. The rooms on all the floors were filled with it and a hurried search failed to show the cause.

A telephone alarm was sent to Fire headquarters and Hose Company No. 3 responded. Before the apparatus ar-3responded. Before the apparatus arrived, Mr. Heaton located the trouble. He had been oiling the second floor and left some of the rags in a pail. They generated spontaneous combustion and smoked until the house was dense. The pail was piping hot when the firemen arrived and a blaze would undoubtedly have followed.

JAMES CASHIN KILLED BY N. Y. CENTRAL TRAIN.

Notice was received this morning by the relatives of James Cashin, of East Sixth street, that Mr. Cashin had been killed at Larchmont, N. Y., yesterday by a train on the New York Central Railroad. Mr. Cashin went to Larchmont several months ago, where he had employment in a marble yard.

Mr. Cashin is survived by a wife and several children and was a brother of Mrs. Thomas Murphy, of North avenue. One daughter is the wife of Chris. Frederickson, a son of Police Captain Christian Frederickson, of this city.

Notice of the funeral of Mr. Cashin will be given later.

HARVESTING FINE ICE ON WATCHUNG POND.

The Natural Ice Company resumed operations at its large pond at Watchung this morning with a force of over 100 men, cutting ice from ten to twelve inches in thickness. The quality of the ice is said to be the best in some years.

With the force of men employed it will be possible to harvest forty cakes, weighing 200 pounds each, every minute. If the weather remains favorable an unusually large crop will be gathered to fill the big houses at the pond.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

It is now thought that Harold C. Warren, of Philadelphia, the Princeton student, will entirely recover from a broken spine received recently in a friendly wrestling bout at the university gymnasium.

Failing to respond to the calls for breakfast, Mrs Delia Brusie, sixty-two years old, of 715 Morgan street, Camden, was found dead in bed early Monday morning. Coroner Saunders gave a certificate of death from heart trouble.

Stephen Kalils, thirty-six years old, of 118 Pacific street, Jersey City, was on his way home early Monday morning, when he walked into the Hudson river, at the foot of York street. Policeman Hogan pulled him out.

The Paterson newsboys and their chums again enjoyed the hospitality of Isaac A. Hall, when they were the guests at his annual Christmas dinner Monday afternoon at Helvetia hall, that city. Nearly four hundred boys enjoyed the spread.

The motorman of an electric train bound for Atlantic City, filled with holiday visitors, Monday found the badly burned body of a negro beside the track a mile from Atlantic City. It is supposed that the man stumbled over the third rail and was electrocuted.

A purse of $300 in gold was handed to Rev. W. W. Blachford, pastor of St. James's Episcopal church, Atlantic City, Sunday, as a Christmas present, subscribed by the congregation in recognition of the excellent work he has done since he took charge of the parish.

A passenger on a crowded Bayonne trolley car Monday shoved newspapers into the stove and set fire to the seats. The motorman speeded to fire headquarters, while passengers prepared for a hasty exit. The firemen played two extinguishers on the flames and put them out.

S. M. Braunstein is a prosperous merchant in Atlantic City. Some thirteen years ago he failed, but he has never forgotten the debts he owed. Christmas day he mailed to all his creditors the sums owed, together with the interest up to date, amounting to some thousands of dollars.

A motor car driven by Dr. Hart, of 292 Montgomery street, Jersey City, collided with a coach owned by James Tremble, of Barrow and Bright streets, Monday, throwing Henry Schuldt, of 268 Varick street, from the seat of the coach. Schuldt was injured about the body and was taken to the City Hospital.

While in the garb of Santa Claus at a Christmas tree party for his five-year-old niece, Professor Morton D. Banks, of the Commercial Hotel, Asbury Park, was seriously burned. His cotton cap came in contract with a lighted gas jet. Mrs. Banks and Paul Walton, father of the little girl, were also burned about the hands beating out the flames.

Because Elsie Stanley, the fourteen-year old daughter of Frank Stanley, of Federal street, Camden, refused to become his wife, Sequa Montezuma, an Indian, also known as William L. May, twenty-one years old, living in the rear of the Stanley home, tried to end his life Sunday by stabbing himself over the heart with a butcher knife. He was taken to the Cooper Hospital.

Three hundred "newsies," the newspaper "merchants" of Atlantic City, were given a Christmas dinner at the Continental Hotel, there, Monday. A pound of candy was supplied each boy as he left the dining-room to fall in line for a vaudeville show on Young's Pier, headed by a band. They were the guests of the newspaper publishers of the city and were in charge of George Lenhart and Captain Harry Smith.

With his eye so badly injured that the doctors believe he will lose the sight of it, John Wilson, fifty-five years old, of 847 Spring street, Camden, was admitted to the Homeopathic Hospital Monday morning. He told the physicians that he was not aware that he had been injured until he was awakened for breakfast. Although he could not recall being in a fight, physicians believe he was stabbed.

GOLF.

A man in the golf trade who has been reading about the controversy over the hollow headed putters apparently sees the handwriting on the wall, judging by a rather interesting question which he would like to have answered. He calls attention to the fact that the same person who brought out the Schenectady putter has recently been granted a patent on a hollow steel shaft for golf clubs. The man in the trade adds, Do you think the rules of golf will affect the useing of golf clubs with hollow steel shafts instead of the regular hickory shafts?

In talking the matter over recently several golfers agreed that the steel shaft might find old St. Andrews as troublesome a hazard as has the Schenectady club. At present the rules do not specify as to the length or composition of the weapon, so long as it does not contain some mechanical contrivance. It is understood, however, that the new shaft will aid the player in his never ending struggle for greater distance off the tee. Thus far even the Royal and Ancient committee has done nothing to balk the players who now get nearly as far in two full shots as they did in three a decade ago, though there has been more or less talk with regard to the standardization of the golf ball. After his visit to Sunningdale for the "News of the World" tournament, the veteran Willie Park said:

When one sees the first hole, five hundred yards long, driven with a drive and an iron shot, and eleven years ago, in the gutta percha days, when I made the course, it took two full shots and a pitch to get on the green, it is surely time that something was done to prevent golf courses from being entirely spoiled. Here is my suggestion: Let the interior of the ball be made entirely of rubber and covered with any suitable material, no limit to size, but all balls must pass the test of the water when placed therein. I would further suggest that balls to be used by competitors should be tested in the same way by the secretaries or some other responsible person.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Preparatory services will be held at the First Presbyterian church this evening and the communion Sunday morning.

The monthly communion service will be held at the First Baptist church, Sunday morning with reception of members.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Park Aveune Baptist church has sent $100 for the school at Sona Bata, W. Central Africa.

The Christmas music will be repeated at the First Baptist church Sunday night, the chorus choir being assisted by the Schill String Quartet, of Newark.

The Sunday-school of the Park Avenue Baptist church now has a membership of 200. Efforts are now being made to reach the three hundred mark.

The quartet choir of the First Presbyterian church, under the direction of Clifford A. Braider, organist, will repeat the Christmas music next Sunday evening.

Preparatory services will be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, this evening and the communion service on Sunday morning with reception of members.

The week of prayer will be observed at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church beginning Sunday with services in the church and continuing every evening during the week, except Saturday.

George E. Hall, superintendent of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school, has been chosen treasurer of the Baptist State convention because of the illness of Mr. Garrabrant, of Newark.

The Young Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will hold its last meeting of the year Friday afternoon at the usual hour. Mrs. Robin Brown will present a paper on Japan and Mrs. David Sutphen will conduct the devotional exercises.

The primary department of the Crescent Avenue church Sunday-school will hold its Christmas party in the chapel, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and at 8 o'clock in the evening the members of the main school will give an interesting entertainment. Parents of the children are invited to both entertainments.

Boom for General Collins.

Friends of Brigadier General Dennis F. Collins, of Elizabeth, are booming him for Secretary of State. The General is said to be in a willing mood and is also reported to have expressed himself as anxious to succeed Samuel D. Dickinson, the incumbent. General Collins was probably more active in the recent campaign than any other Democratic with the possible exception of James Nugent. He accompanied Woodrow Wilson on all his speechmaking tours.

URGES THUMB RINGS FOR MARRIED MEN

Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson has received a letter from the Cupid's Wing Club, of Trenton, asking him to pledge his support to a bill the club has prepared providing that all married men in New Jersey shall wear rings on their thumbs to show they are married and making it a felony for a married man to go abroad without such a ring. The club is composed of prominent matrons.

They have organized to protect their daughters and other kinswomen against the wiles of married men who masquerade as bachelors. It is their purpose to have the bill introduced as soon as the Legislature meets. The penalty provided in it for failure to wear the so-called "thumb ring" when away from their homes is two years' imprisonment and a fine of $500. Nor is it the purpose of the members of the club to ignore married women who masquerade as single.

"If we succeed in getting this bill passed there necessarily must be a sister bill passed compelling married women to wear rings," Mrs. Charles Howell, president of the Cupid's Wing Club, said yesterday. "Many homes have been made unhappy, we have found, by husbands posing as single men and making love to others than their wives and by married women posing as single women and receiving the addresses of men other than their husbands. Several instances in which young girls have suffered by falling in love with married men whom they thought single have been reported to us."

CRANFORD GOLF CLUB SECURES NEW LINKS.

A meeting of the Cranford Golf Club to act upon a proposition to establish a new golf links and clubhouse in that section has been held. The Echo Lake Farms, which is part of the Gardner property and consits of 165 acres, was chosen as the site of the new golf links. The location of the Echo Lake Farms is well adapted to the purpose, being bounded on one side by Echo Lake and is a short distance from the Cranford and Westfield stations.

The Cranford Golf Club has appropriated $100,000 for the project. The present lease of the club expires in 1915 and it is expected that the new course will be completed by that time.

The Public Service expects that with an annual expenditure of upward of $50,000 to not only give their employees of continued service a sick benefit, but a death, or insurance fund, a pension fund and a disability fund, and without cost of a cent to any individual employed by the concern.

MOTHER GOOSE COMING TO CONGREGATIONAL S. S.

Mother Goose is coming to entertain the members of the Congregational Sunday-school tonight. The annual Christmas entertainment will begin promptly at 7:45 this evening and there is promise of an unique and interesting program. It will be given by the junior members of the school and will include all the well-known characters of the old Mother Goose melodies, from the Man in the Moon to Little Jack Horner. An offering will be taken during the evening which will be contributed by the juniors to missions. The regular mid-week service, which will be a preparatory service for communion will be held on Friday evening.

Coming—Mother Goose.

Come friends and neighbors, one and all,
And give your close attention!
If you will promise not to tell,
A secret we will mention:
The Man in the Moon came tumbling down
To tell the wonderous story
That Mother Goose is coming to town
In all her pomp and glory.
She'll meet you with her family,
The sober and the gay,
All at the Congregational church,
December, twenty-eighth day.
Jack Spratt is coming with his wife,
Bopeep and Baby Bunting;
Old Mother Hubbard will be there,
While Daddy goes a hunting.
You'll see Old Woman in a Shoe,
Old Woman in a Basket,
And if you wish for any more,
You only have to ask it,
With Old King Cole,
And Little Jack Horner,—
Come one and all and fill the church
In every nook and corner.
To help the school and missions
Are their purpose and intents.
Come everyone and don't forget
To bring your many cents!
Now if you like our jingle
And if you like our rhyme,
Come Wednesday night at quarter of eight,
And have a jingly time!

NINE TONS OF EGGS SEIZED IN JERSEY CITY

United States Deputy Marshal Louis G. Beekman and United States Food Inspector Herman Lind yesterday seized nine tons of alleged rotten eggs at the Merchant's Refrigeration Company's plant at Bay and Warren streets, Jersey City. The seizure is one of the biggest yet made by the government in its crusade against bad eggs to bakers, confectioners and others for use in food products.

The warrant for the seizure, which was issued by United States Commissioner Carpenter, describes the frozen liquid egg as "filthy, decomposed and putrid animal matter."

Frozen solid it has no odor, but when thawed out, the government officers say it emits a stench which is unbearable. In all, Beekman and Lind seized 659 cans of liquid eggs, each can containing thirty pounds of the article. The cans were traced by the government men from Chicago to the Merchants' stores.

On October 25 the Merchants' Company received by the way of the Erie Railroad 253 cans of liquid eggs from the Chicago Cold Storage and Warehouse Company, and on December 1 there arrived 196 cans from the same concern. Two hundred and ten cans came from the Union Cold Storage Company of Chicago, October 18, by way of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. The Jersey City Board of Health will be called to destroy the eggs for the United States inspector.

One of the features of Mildred and Rouclere's performance this season is "Mildredism" which never fails to interest, it is the acme of all mind reading possibilities and has never been solved. It is introduced during the action of the play "Princess Iris," a new imaginative fantasy. Of course there are many other illusions and bewildering features in the play. It is entirely made up of one surprise after another, all of which will cause discussion for many a day. The company of associate entertainers have been selected with great care, as the performance is designed for the best class of amusement patrons and nothing of an objectionable nature will be permitted. Theatregoers have the management's assurance of a pure, delightful performance that will be filled with surprises and clean fun, Mildred and Rouclere's date here being Monday, January 2.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The Christmas entertainment of the Presbyterian Sunday school last night, was one of the most successful affairs of the kind yet held in the borough. The auditorium was filled to its capacity with the members, parents and friends. The feature of the entertainment was the presentation of the cantata, "Santa Claus at Santiago." It was given in a very commendable manner and reflected great credit on Mrs. J. Newton Apgar, who had charge. The principal parts were taken by Clarence T. Voorhees, Ben Dodrick, Alfred Day, Francis Teeling, George Apgar, Allen Frederick, the Misses Hazel Watson, Laura Todd, Bessie Morris and Emmeline Vail. There was also a chorus of thirty and Miss May Day gave the introductory synopsis at the conclusion of the cantata, Rev. Ernest Brown gave a short address and the usual distribution of gifts followed. Clarence Voorhees took the part of Santa Claus in a capital manner. The church auditorium was appropriately decorated for the occasion.

It is understood that a committee from Hope chapel, Plainfield, has been attending several services in the Presbyterian church to hear Rev. Ernest Brown with a view to extending a call. The chapel has been without a pastor since the resignation of Rev. L. R. Howard because of ill health several months ago.

Walter G. Runyon is having the store occupied by G. Horton McVey, the restaurant man, redecorated and placed in first class shape. Mr. McVey opened his place about two months ago and has already built up a fine business.

The funeral of Mrs. Peter Lant, who formerly resided in the borough, was held at her late home in Flainfield this afternoon. The interment was in Bound Brook.

An invitation will be given in Junior hall, Friday night. Harry Giddes and Edgar Starker are in charge of the arrangements.

Miss Sullivan takes with her in her new position the wishes of the many friends she has made during her short stay here.

HE DIDN'T GIVE UP.

I knew a man who journeyed once
Upon a Pullman car,
Sat in the smoker, told a joke
And smoked a black cigar;

And yawned a hundred times or so,
And took a little nap,
And sprawled himself this way and that,
And wore a linen cap;

And bought three papers on the way,
And read some magazines,
And scraped acquaintance with a girl,
A "peach" still in her teens;

And did 'most everything, I guess,
A lonely chap will do
When traveling for half a day,
Or e'en the whole day through.

He did 'most everything, I say,
But one; by stratagem
The wily porter failed to get
A quarter out of him.

HE KNEW HER.

Tom—I have the key to her heart.
Dick—You must have robbed a bank.

Pretty Mean.

The meanest man in town,
I guess, must be the chap
Who, when the home team lost, declared
He didn't care a rap.

As It Impressed Him.

Penuchle Editor—What's the general effect of the new "hobble skirt?"

Bridge Editor—Well, if it is the one I saw on one of the elevated loop platforms the other afternoon is a correct sample, the general effect is hard to describe, but the particular effect is to lower the waist line to a point just below the knees.

The First One.

"About signing this Declaration of Independence," said the cautious patriot of '76 to another, "don't you think it a very dangerous proceeding?"

"Well," replied the other, "I don't know that it will make a particularly sane and safe Fourth for the signers."

A Double Vacation.

Mrs. Neighbors—I havn't seen anything of your wife for a couple of weeks. Is she out of town?

Crosslots—Yes; she's passing her vacation in the country.

Mrs. Neighbors — Indeed! And when do you take your vacation?

Crosslots—Oh, I'm having mine now.

A Little Misunderstanding.

"I went to Jollyby's house the other night to welcome them back after their honeymoon trip, and as I sat in the parlor I heard the bride calling him down—"

"Already? Poor old Jollyby!"

"Let me finish, will you? I heard the bride calling him down stairs."

Campaign Pointers.

"Yonder go one canderdate what sho' gwine git de office."

"How you know?"

"By de way he carry hisse'f. He so jolly dat he jingles!"

A THEORY SHATTERED.

Judge—Now that you have been convicted of bigamy, have you anything to say for yourself?

Prisoner—Nothing, except that I have found out that there is no truth in the theory of safety in numbers.

Very, Very Sad.

The saddest words
Of all are these:
"We'd like to have
You settle, please."

Misplaced Affection.

"Has this town a favorite son?"

"It used to have, but he turned out to be a son-of-a-gun."

Couldn't Do It Now.

"Atlas supported the earth."

"But that was before the cost of living was so high."

NEW JERSEY TEACHERS IN SESSION YESTERDAY

A large number of public school teachers are attending some of the sessions of the annual meeting of the New Jersey State Teachers' Association, at Atlantic City. The sessions will continue today and tomorrow.

One of the most interesting meetings of the session will be that of the Teachers' Retirement Fund. The reports of the officers will show that the following annuities have been declared in the past year in Paterson: Isabella Scott, $650; Anna F. M. Thorp, $650; Mrs. Jennie H. Berdan, $480; Mary Chiswell, $486; Elizabeth S. Eakins, $649.20; Hettie Franklin, $402; Martha Hollingsworth, $410.40; Maria Sipp, $553.80; Mary L. Warren, $508.20. Total, $4,789.60.

Next to Newark and Jersey City, Paterson teachers receive the largest amount from the benefit fund. The State treasurer's statement for the year shows that the receipts have been $152,087.51, and disbursements, $86,802.24. The surplus on the year's business is $193,641.49.

The Teachers' Retirement Fund became part of the New Jersey public school system March 11, 1896. The rapid growth of the fund has far exceeded the expectations of its supporters. Last year the fund went to law when the Passaic Board of Education refused to concur in the provisions of the retirement law, which provides for the school authorities to deduct from the teachers' monthly pay two per cent., to be paid into the fund, which provides for the support of retired teachers after serving twenty or more years in the classrooms. The present status of this suit is set forth by the fund in the following language:

"The fund has won every point it has contended for so far. The present status of the case is: (1) The Supreme Court has made the fund without restriction a codefendant with the Passaic Board of Education; ((2) the Supreme Court has recognized Mr. Davison as our counsel; (3) the Passaic Board of Education has made Mr. Davison its attorney-of-record, in place of the Passaic corporation counsel, thus giving the board of trustees entire control of the case; (4) the Supreme Court has admitted an amended record of the suit prior to its appearance before the higher tribunal—a point in our favor the importance of which cannot be over-estimated (5) the Supreme Court has taken under advisement both the jurisdictional objection raised by Mr. Davison and Mr. McCarter and concurred in by the attorney general, together with the constitutional question. These points the court will consider in order stated. If the question of jurisdiction be decided in our favor the whole case falls to the ground. If this point be decided against us the constitutional question will be at once before the court. It is probable that a decision on the jurisdiction question will not be given till the February term."

CHAMPION M'GRATH HELD WITHOUT BAIL.

Policeman Matthew McGrath, a champion amateur weight thrower, was arraigned in the Flatbush court yesterday on the charge of having shot George Walker, whom he found in his home Sunday morning, and held him without bail to the grand jury. Walker will probably die. He declares he went to the McGrath home at the invitation of Mrs. McGrath. This is denied by both McGrath and his wife.

McGrath is a policeman and a member of the New York Athletic Club. He is famous throughout the world as a weight thrower. Walker is a clerk employed by the New York Telephone Company. McGrath declares that he came unawares upon Walker about 1 o'colck Sunday morning in the McGrath house. McGrath and Walker differ in their stories of subsequent events, but surgeons found five bullets in Walker's body, three of them in the abdomen.

McGrath asserts that Walker pulled a revolver and fired at him twice after the former found him in the house. This statement Walker denied. He says that the policeman began shooting at him the instant they met.

Walker denied that his purpose in visiting the McGrath home was robbery. On McGrath's complaint, however, a charge of burglary was recorded against him on the police blotter.

JERSEY AGRICULTURIST' PLAN ANNUAL SESSION.

The thirty-eighth annual meeting of the New Jersey State Board of Agriculture will meet at the State House, Trenton, January 18, 19 and 20. The meeting will hear reports from the State Grange, treasurer of the board, the secretary and the State entomologist.

Papers will be read by Dr. George C. Creelman, president of the Ontario Agricultural College; Professor H. R. Lewis, of the State Agricultural College; ex-Judge Algernon T. Sweeney, of Newark; J. F. Gordon, of Jamestown, O.; H. O. Daniels, of Middletown, Conn., and Professor W. J. Spillman, of the United States Department of Agriculture.

DOMESTIC SEWING MACHINE

The Best Sewing Machine for the Home—Domestic in Every Way

This announcement will doubtless be glad, good news for the thousands of home sewers in this vicinity. They will be glad to have a house such as this handle the good old Domestic Sewing Machine the machine that has been known in the homes of the American people for so many, many years, and which for a long time was manufactured in Newark. For reasons needless to explain, the factory is now in Kankakee, Ills., and the central distributing point Chicago, from whence comes the machine we sell.

The good old Domestic Sewing Machine—Better than ever before; does more kinds of sewing and more of it in the best manner, and in less time than any other you know of.

There are three things that the Domestic will do that no other sewing machine in the world can do, and the cheap machine can do none of them, namely:

1. The Chain andLock Stitch—two machines in one—and you can change from one to the other without fuss or trouble.

2. A Vibrating Presser, so useful in sewing sheer and gauzy stuffs, for darning, braiding and embroidery work, also an advantage in passing thick seams and sewing thick goods.

3. A Five-Stitch Ruffler which gives a plait at every fifth stitch, also gathering, puffing, ruching, scallop, plaiting, crepe trimming, as well as plain ruffling.

One or two other machines may give you one of these features—just one—but not all three in the one machine.

In the Domestic D head we have these new features—

Latest "Domestic" patented TENSION—most sensitive; simple; positive—has Discs of glass-hard, wear-proof Steel. SELF-THREADING NEEDLE BAR. AUTOMATIC THREAD-CONTROL SPOOL-CONTROLLER for Chain-Stitch. LOOPER interchangeable with SHUTTLE. (Sews either Chain or Lock Stitch at will).

The "Domestic" of today, with all the Modern Perfection of Workmanship, and its Improvements of latter-day Invention, Embodies all the Popular and Lasting Features of the Famous OLD "DOMESTIC."—The wide, flat, adjustable NEEDLE-BAR; adjustable, hardened, BALL-AND-FORK BEARINGS; positive FOUR-MOTION-FEED (no puckering of fine materials); positive, horizontal TAKE-UP.

The Domestic Automatic Device is so accurately balanced that the head rises easily. The leaf will remain in any position. Opens and closes without noise. Table surface always level and true. The head(as it rises, remains horizontal always.

The heads of the Domestic Sewing Machine are beautifully symmetrical and the cabinet work rich and perfectly finished, bent woodwork noted for its lightness and durability being largely used in the construction. The Domestic Machines, therefore, have beauty, grace and proportion combined with strength and superior finish.

We will sell only the new style Domestics of which there are five—all high-class, all of the dependable character—

At these prices—

$25, $30, $35, $40 and $50

Domestic Machines, like the other machines we sell, will be sold on the Easy Payment Plan—a little down and a little each week until paid for, enabling you to own one of these splendid time-honored sewing machines without financial inconvenience.

We invite the inspection of home-sewers, and particularly urge that women having husbands of a mechanical turn of mind bring them with them that they may examine the mechanism of the Domestic and in that way appreciate its worth. The more minute the inspection the better we will be pleased.

CONSIDER THESE COATS

For We've Never Offered More Tempting Values Right in the Midst of the Winter Season.

We are going to sell a lot of coats this week—started into do it today—more coats, perhaps, than we have sold in any equal number of days this season, and it has been a mighty good season for coats with us. We know you will be glad to choose from such splendid examples of the tailor's art—coats made of such excellent cloths, all so neatly finished, at these belittled prices.

There are coats of Broadcloth, Plush, Caracul Cloth, English Mixtures and Kerseys.

SUITS SELLING CHEAPLY

THREE SPECIALS OF GREAT MOMENT FOR THURSDAY'S BUYERS.

When one considers the price tailors charge for cutting, fitting and making suits there is wonderment at the prices we name on these well-made suits of excellent materials, for you couldn't get a competent tailor or dressmaked to do the work involved in the making of these suits at the price we are going to ask, to say nothing of the cost of the materials, trimmings and linings. As you can figure for yourself, you will see there is no profit in such prices for us, and there would be none for the manufacturer who would sell them so cheaply. But we have arrived at that point in the road which is the parting of the ways, and we must say "goodbye" to the suits on hand and turn our thoughts Springward. So profits cut no figure in the pricing of these suits. It is for you to pick them up while they may be had.

There are tailored suits for both women and misses in these three lots; some made of fine cheviots, others of Broadcloth, others of basket weaves, and they are in black, navy, gray, green and a number of other very good shades. Some are plainly tailored models, others are tirmmed with braid in novel fashion. The coats are beautifully lined with dependable satins; the skirts are in gored and novelty plaited styles.

Suits that were $22.00 are marked $12.98.
Suits that were $16.75 are marked $8.98.
Suits that were $35.00 are marked $16.75.

HOME NEWS.

Of Interest to Everyone in Plainfield.

In every newspaper in the country you will read statements made by people living in out-of-the-way places who are supposed to have been cured or derived great benefit from some wonderful remedy or "cure-all." But here in Plainfield we only publish statements made by Plainfield people—the testimony of your friends, neighbors and fellow-townsmen.

Mrs C. Rosseter, 127 Watchung avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Several years ago I had severe backaches and occasional attacks of rheumatism. Being told that Doan's Kidney Pills were very effective in cases of this nature and believing that my trouble arose from disordered kidneys, I procured a box of this remedy from Randolph's Pharmacy. I soon found relief and since that time I have always kept Doan's Kidney Pills in the house. Whenever I feel out of sorts, I take a few doses of this preparation and I am soon feeling good. Doan's Kidney Pills have my highest endorsement."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 1, 1911.

Topic.—Untrodden ways.—Josh. iii, 1-17. (A New Year's consecration service.) Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

In the Scriptural lesson we have the story of Joshua and the children of Israel crossing the Jordan river. Early in the morning of this eventful day Joshua and the people came to the Jordan and lodged there before passing over. Arrangements were made for the crossing. The ark of the covenant went first, carried by the priests and Levites. The people were to follow it, but to keep back a certain distance so that all could see it and be guided by it, "for ye have not passed this way hitherto." The people were commanded by Joshua to sanctify themselves and be prepared for the wonders God would do. At the proper time God heaped up the waters, and the Israelites passed over into Canaan. Thus God fulfilled the promises to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and gave their descendants the promised land.

The journey of Israel typifies the journey of the Christian through this life to the heavenly Canaan. The part of it contained in this period is especially worthy of consideration in connection with the starting upon a new year, which began today. Nineteen hundred and ten is a closed book. Nineteen hundred and eleven has just opened its account. The old year has passed out, and the new year has been ushered in. "We have not passed this way hitherto." Therefore we do well to start the new year well and to keep on as we have started. The crossing of the Jordan is a splendid illustration of how to begin and to continue the year that if spared to its end we may look back upon it with pleasure and not regret or remorse.

God should be our guide and leader for the new year. The ark of the covenant, which typified God, went before the Israelites, and they followed it as their guide. "God first" should be our motto, not only for today, but for every day throughout the year. We have never passed through this year before, and we never shall again. We do not know what lies one step before us. But God knows it all, and if we let Him guide us in Christ and through the Scriptures we shall be well and safely guided. No one and nothing else can lead us, for no one else knows what a day or an hour may bring forth.

That we may follow God more closely and may be prepared for His wonderful blessings we must sanctify ourselves. To the Israelites Joshua said, "Sanctify yourselves." Sanctification here means consecration, not sanctity or holiness of character, though this will result from absolute consecration or surrender of ourselves to God. Let us renew our vows to God and by His grace keep them as never before.

The people strictly obeyed every word of God and Joshua. Obedience to God and spiritual leaders is absolutely a renewed, consecrated life. The supreme thing that God requires of us as Christians is obedience. "Obedience is better than sacrifice."

The Greatest Christian Movement of Modern Times.

The Rev. Hugh Spencer Williams, D. D., pastor of the Court Avenue Presbyterian church, Memphis, Tenn., says that the Christian Endeavor movement has served the church of Christ for twenty-nine years. As the tree is known by its fruit, we are ready now to pass clear judgment on the service this great movement has rendered to the church.

One of its beneficent effects that every observer of its operation is sure to observe is the marvelous manner in which it has brought the young people of Christendom into harmonious interdenominational co-operation, and this in turn has brought the various denominations much closer together than they were a quarter of a century ago. The society has possibly been one of the most efficient indirect causes of the reunion of the Cumberland Presbyterian church with the Presbyterian church.

But this is not all that it has accomplished. It has quickened the spiritual life of the church and has been a splendid co-worker with the pastors that have understood how to use it. In my own church, for instance, it has been the very life of our midweek prayer meeting in this old downtown city church, in which it had long become a problem, owing to the scattered condition of the congregation in the suburbs of the city, how to maintain this great service of the church, as the older members had long since found it impracticable to leave their homes and attend the midweek prayer meeting.

Two Oft Asked Questions.

These two questions and answers are clipped from a recent issue of the Christian Endeavor World:

THE HARVEST MOON

Copyright, 1909, by Augustus Thomas

"And we are sure," replied Holcomb warmly, standing up and walking the room nervously. "I studied law for awhile. You will pardon me," he said, bowing politely to Professor Fullerton, "for what is a seeming divagation. The lawyer is a man who takes an oath to perform his duty, but my experience has taught me that the percentage of lawyers in New York city who are interested in obtaining justice is very small. It is a fact, judge, and you cannot deny it, that within the last fifty years the best legal minds in this country have been engaged in clogging the courts and thwarting justice. And you corporation lawyers you men who wonder at the growth of radical sentiment, who deplore the socialistic and anarchistic propaganda—you men are responsible, for, while you may have followed the letter, you have far from observed the spirit You have violated your oaths."

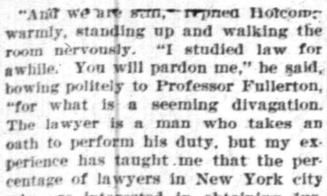
"Really," said the judge, "while al this is very interesting, I fail to see"—

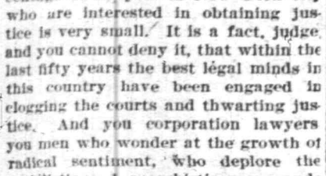
"Your accusation against the women of the stage—for it is an accusation—is that they do not obey the social law and that accusation, unjust as it is, is founded in a good measure on the stories that have been worked up and rushed into print by men in your profession."

"My dear boy," began the judge, "I really must protest."

"Pardon me, judge, I did not mean to be disrespectful, but there is just as much relation between you and the two so called theatrical lawyers who were sent to jail the other day as there is between the great body of women who earn their livelihood on the stage and a few who obtain positions as chorus women to use it as a cloak. There is as much truth, there is as much honesty, there is as strong a sense of honor, a finer sense of perspective and, thank God, less hypocrisy among the women of the stage than among the women of any class, I don't care where."

Holcomb sat down and puffed a cigar vigorously.





CHAPTER VI.

THE four men were silent for a moment after Holcomb had concluded.

"It is your first play, is it not?" asked M. Vavin.

"Yes, sir," replied the young author "Do you think it will succeed?"

"I am not so sure about that," answered Holcomb, "but I am very sure that it will be a great opportunity for Miss Fullerton."

"Under our Massachusetts law," said the judge, who apparently had been doing some serious thinking, "a woman isn't competent to make a business contract before she is twenty-one."

"I accept your statement in matters of law, judge, just as I would expect you to accept mine in matters of the theater."

"Your manager cannot hold Mr. Fullerton's daughter to that contract."

"No manager can hold anybody's daughter," interposed Vavin, "if she decides that she will not be held."

"I am aware of that," assented the judge sadly and with his matrimonial experiment in mind. "I am merely submitting that you have a good excuse to give the manager in explanation of Miss Fullerton's withdrawal Her father objects."

"Has Miss Fullerton withdrawn?" asked Vavin.

"Not yet," replied Professor Fullerton, "but we hope to persuade her."

"Then the object of this pleasant invitation was to ask me to join in persuading her?"

"We had hoped," said Fullerton "that when you saw how unanimous her family was you would assist us."

"I am afraid, gentlemen," answered Holcomb, "that all I can do will be not to advise her."

"You promise us that?" asked Fullerton eagerly.

"I do," said the young man, but he brought his jaws together with a snap the prophetic quality of which was lost on Elliott and Fullerton, but not missed by Vavin.

It was the latter's suggestion that, in view of the fact that Mr. Holcomb was not to leave until Monday morning, the subject be avoided in Dora's presence.

"You have asked me for my advice," he said as the men moved toward the terrace. "I should like to talk with the young lady herself if there is no objection"

Fullerton assented readily.

* * * * * * *

Dora came to Vavin the next morning, her eyes showing that she had not slept particularly well.

"You are going to be with me, are you not?" she asked.

"Holcomb has told you," he said severely, "of our discussion last night."

"No," she replied, "but Aunt Cornelia has told me that Judge Elliott says that if I do not agree to give up the project my father may restrain me by law."

"You and I will take a long walk after lunch," said Vavin, "and remember, little girl, that, no matter what attitude any one else may take toward you, mine will be sympathetic."

It required some little dexterity for Holcomb to arrange to see her alone. The disputants of the night before had kept a more or less suspicious eye on him, and, in addition, Aunt Cornelia, who had been apprised by her brother of the result of the discussion, had succeeded in making Dora even more unhappy by being somewhere in the offing, whether the girl went to the library or to the stable.

They were all seated on the terrace when Dora turned suddenly to Holcomb and said:

"I am going to take a walk, Mr. Holcomb. Don't you wish to join me?" And before the astonishment could find its way into expression at the girl's sudden resolution and show of courage she had disappeared and Holcomb was following her.

"I AM GOING TO TAKE A WALK, MR. HOLCOMB, DON'T YOU WISH TO JOIN ME?"

"There you are!" said her aunt as the two were seen going down the walk and Dora waved her hand at them. "Just sheer impudence; that's all it is!"

"Why impudence?" asked M. Vavin. "Why should she not talk to the young man? They have been as old friends, I understand."

"But she knew that this matter of her going on the stage was to be settled today," answered the aunt, "and she knew that we did not want her to talk it over with Holcomb."

"She knew," replied M. Vavin, "that we were deceiving her by our actions, and she decided to do the only honest thing the girl could do."

"She's just like her mother, deceptive and impudent."

"I have asked you, Cornelia, not to say these things," said Professor Fullerton, with genuine anger. "I don't think you have done the girl any good."

"And there is just the slightest possibility," said M. Vavin, with great suavity, "that the suggestion has done the girl a great deal of harm. Is it not so?"

Meanwhile Holcomb and Dora had turned into the road and had disappeared over the hill.

"You have promised," she said to him, "not to give me any advice as to what I shall do."

"Yes," he replied, "and in that promise was an implied promise that I would not discuss the matter with you."

"But I wish you would," she said. "I ask you to. I need some comfort; I need some help."

"Dora," he said—she turned and looked full in his eyes, for the appellation came as a novelty from him—"I am going to keep my promise and let you make your decision as regards this particular experience absolutely of your own accord, at least uninfluenced by me."

"And yet you believe that I should go on with it, do you not?"

"Dora"—the fact of previous lingual exercise gave the young man's voice an authority and a softness as he pronounced the name this time—"Dora, you mustn't try to lead me to break a promise even by the merest shadow. It is a particularly sacred promise because it concerns you. But what we can talk about, if you will permit me, is something that also concerns you—and me."

They were both too sincere, too honest and endowed with too keen a sense of perspective not to realize that they were fairly well prepared for the subject which Holcomb was about to introduce.

"You don't mind—my—calling—you—Dora?" he said hesitatingly, though with a smile.

"I should probably have registered my objection before this if I thought the matter had warranted any particular reproof."

"You know," he said as they walked slowly along, his eyes on the ground and his mind working strenuously, while she watched his face, a healthy vigorous embarrassment giving it a tint of color, her own flushed with excitement and pleasurable anticipation.

"You know some one has said that a romance consists of a love affair between two people who are positively ill mated."

"That's pretty severe," said the girl, "isn't it, and rather cynical?"

"It's the cynical things," replied Holcomb, "that sharpen a man's sense of truth. They are the whetstone of proportion. I am going very carefully about what I have to say to you because it means so much to me and because of a little fear that I may have made a mistake, and perhaps another fear that you may think I am taking an unfair advantage of our friendship."

He was talking very earnestly now, and he could not repress the emotion that swelled his heart and threatened to make his voice unsteady. "I would rather go on in silence, thinking that you loved me a little and knowing that I loved you a great deal, than to learn now that your friendship for me was purely, solely a matter of business."

"That isn't so," said the girl softly, "even if friendship could be a matter of business." As she spoke her eyes shone with depth of feeling, and she smiled happily.

He laughed gayly at the reproof, she joining him.

"Thanks very much for the correction" he said, "and also," and he took her hand as they walked along, "for the sentiment that preceded it.

"Dora, whether you go on the stage or not in this play of mine is a matter that you must decide, but let me help you decide a more important engagement"—now came the great moment for both of them—"an engagement for all time."

They had come to a turn of the road, beyond which the town opened up rather suddenly. She turned her head slowly away from him. He stopped and took her other hand and drew her toward him.

"Is it yes?" he asked.

Now she turned her face upward toward his and said with all the tenderness of a true woman: "Willard—shall I say Willard?—I am more than sure that I love you. Some of the happiest moments that I have had have been with you." Tears welled into her eyes. "I would like to feel thoroughly free to say yes. But everything that I feel like doing of my own will has the quality of an impending doom."

"That is the fault, Dora, if you will pardon my saying so, of your Aunt Cornelia and her sponge cake."

"I feel that you are right," she said, "but even there I feel that I am committing some great sin in either speaking disrespectfully or thinking adversely of my aunt. To me she represents fate and the moralities"—

"And the dreadful puritanical conscience! Let us forget about Aunt Cornelia. Let us just remember that there are only you and I—you and I with our love and life and health and our romance"—

"What did your cynic say about romance?" she asked.

"I quoted that because of the compelling power of exception. We are the exception. I quoted it because I wanted to be sure that we weren't ill mated."

"Do you want me to say yes now, Willard?"

"I want you to do what you think is right. But, Dora, in the thought that you will say yes my heart is singing, and each drop of blood in me is fired with new purpose, with new resolve. There shall be the best that is possible out of my life, and, God give me strength and knowledge, there shall be the best possible out of your life and"—here the young man paused, looked her fully in the eye and drew her toward him—"out of the lives that shall follow ours."

She paused. Indecision seemed to master her. Then, as though with a determined effort, she seemed to cast from her mind some threatening cloud.

"I think I want to say yes now," she whispered.

"I THINK I WANT TO SAY YES NOW," SHE WHISPERED.

CHAPTER VII.

"DO you know," said Dora as they reached the steps of the house and were having their last moment of confidence, "while I confess I haven't thought about it, if any one had asked me if you were religious I would have said 'No.' I have nothing on which to support the belief, but your attitude toward things seemed more or less that of an agnostic."

"In great moments," replied Holcomb—"and by great moments I mean those which men recognize as affecting their careers—all men of all times are religious. I'll tell you my theory some other time, dear."

They were barely inside the house when luncheon was announced, and by all except Vavin they were greeted with some curiosity and much coldness.

"Tell me, my dear," said the Frenchman as they entered the dining room, "this young man—it is more than business, yes?"

It was a little too soon after the great moment for Dora to have her usual composure, but his sympathy and affection made her glad that the first person that she should tell should be her old friend.

"He has asked me to marry him," she said in a low voice as they sat down.

"Let me congratulate you, Mr. Holcomb," said M. Vavin in the course of the lunch.

LONG MISSING SHIP IS ICE-BOUND IN ARCTIC.

Word has been received from London that the bark Alkaline, the last of the famous fleet of cryolite carriers that for years plied between Philadelphia and Greenland, is not lost, as has been feared, but is safe as Arsuk on the bleak coast of Greenland.

The Alkaline left Ivigtut on October 10 with a cargo of cryolite for this port, but a hurricane forced Captain Jansen to seek safety in the harbor of Arsuk on October 25. When the storm subsided the ice had formed to such an extent that it was impossible to get the vessel through to clear water, and the only thing to do was to make the twelve men comprising the crew as comfortable as possible for the long Arctic winter.

Arsuk in inhabited only by Eskimos. The bark probably will not be able to leave Greenland until May.

The officers-elect of Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M., were installed at a regular communication last night, by the retiring master, E. E. Iremonger. After the business of the evening a banquet was served by W. W. Warnock, during which the new officers responded to toasts.

Clifford Randolph, of Grant avenue, who was ill at the hospital with a severe attack of typhoid fever, returned home on Sunday. Although he has recovered from the disease he is still very weak and will be detained at home for a few weeks.

NEW SCOTTISH CLAN INSTALLED SATURDAY

Clan Mackenzie, No. 204 O. S. C., was instituted on Saturday night last in Coward's hall with a charter membership of twenty-five. Royal Treasurer David King, of Jersey City, had charge of the institution services which were witnessed by delegations from clans of other cities.

Chief John Dunn and past chief Watson, of Clan Forbes, Newark; Past Royal Deputy MacMaster, of Clan Gordon, of Elizabeth; Chief Kiloh, and Secretary Rogers of Clan Drummond, Orange, and Secretaries MacCluckie and Milholland, of Clan MacClean, of Passaic, assisted in the ceremonies.

The following officers who were elected at the last meeting were installed at the conclusion of the institution by Royal Deputy John M. Pentland, of Clan MacCloud, of Jersey City; Chief, Robert Murray; vice chief, John M. Donaldson; treasurer, John Calder; past chief, William Shivas; secretaries, William Spalding and Donald MacPherson; chaplain, William Doig; senior henchman, Andrew Roxburg; junior henchman, Robert J. Murray; seneschal, Arthur S. Campbell; sentinel, Andrew Petrie; warden, James Smith; standard bearers, Edward L. Mackenzie, James Smith, Alexander Doig.

A social time followed the installation at which speeches were made by the visiting clansmen and local officers which was concluded with a luncheon at McVey's, on North avenue.

GALVIN PARK PAVILION IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Fire destroyed the old dancing pavilion at Galvin's Park, between Scotch Plains and Westfiled, about 10:30 o'clock last night. The blaze, which is believed to be of incendiary origin, quickly reduced the building to ashes. The 'Plains fire department, the nearest to the scene of the conflagration, responded, but found it impossible to save the building, there being little water available.

The old pavilion had been occupied for some time by several colored families, the space being divided into rude apartments. The contents were practicallly destroyed and the total loss will amount to several hundred dollars.

The pavilion was erected about twelve years ago by the trolley company, the object being to make the place a popular family resort. The proposition was a failure, however, and within a short time many complaints were made regarding the objectionable characters who frequented the resort, as well as the disturbance raised at all hours of the night. The place lost patronage and the enterprise finally died a natural death. The place was abandoned a few years ago as a pleasure resort.

TROUBLE OVER A SITE FOR WESTFIELD SCHOOL

A petition is being circulated for signatures in Westfield to be sent to Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, chairman of the Senate investigating committee. The petition calls for an investigation into the circumstances surrounding the recent presentation of a petition for the purchase of a lot on East Broad street, Westfield. This lot was said to be owned by the Westfield Securities Company.

The petition also demands an investigation as to the soliciting of voters at this election and the alleged holding up of newspaper mail at the postoffice. It is asked further that the rumored attempt of the Westfield Securities Company to sell other real estate to the town and the control of the corporation held forth as the seller of the lot be investigated.

The petitioners claim that in the interest of good schools a general investigation of the entire matter is essential.

FLOCK MAKES PRESENT TO A RETIRING PASTOR

Rev. Fred B. Newman, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Newman, of West Fifth street, who recently resigned the pastorate of the East Trenton Presbyterian church, to go to Tunkhannock, Pa., was last night honored by the Trenton congregation when he made his last appearance at the church. Mr. Newman leaves today for his new field of labor and he remained in Trenton for the Christmas exercises at his church.

Edward Braithwaite, on behalf of the elders, presented to the preacher a handsome set of engrossed resolutions enclosed with a pretty gilt frame. Then Arthur Smith on behalf of the trustees, gave Mr. Newman a gold signet ring and Peter Ziegler on behalf of the congregation, presented the pastor with a handsome Morris chair. Mr. Newman has been pastor of the Trenton church for about ten years.

—Neuman Bros. still continue to handle a fine assortment of fresh vegetables. They are the best the market affords and a selection at reasonable prices is easy.

Miss Helen Pearce, of Essex street, has gone to Bay Shore, L. I., to spend a week with friends.

SANTA VISITS CHILDREN

Sunday Schools Receive Call From Their Old Friend From the North.

Christmas entertainments were held at the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Congregational church, West End Tabernacle and other places last night and hundreds of children were made happy as were the pastors of the churches and the Sunday-school superintendents. At the Congregational church, Mother Goose with her varied retinue of followers entertained a large audience. Lots of fun followed the gathering of the offering for missions. Jack and Jill, with their pails; Peter Piper, the Pumpkin Eater, with a pumpkin shell and Little Jack Horner, with his pie plate went around among the audience and gathered a quantity of coins amid the laughter of all. Songs and rhymes of the olden times brought up to date with missionary references made decided hits. Following the entertainment the lights were dimmed and Santa Claus arrived in an automobile wth Mrs. Santa who proceeded to distribute the gifts to the children. The janitor, Georg Dean was presented with a ten-dollar bill and made happy. The entertainment was considered to have been the best ever given by the children.

Church of the Heavenly Rest.

In the parish house of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Santa Claus made his appearance at a time when everybody was on the tip toe of expectation and were not disappointed. Songs and recitations in which all the children joined were features of the evening and the distribution of gifts all contributed to a merry time.

Preceding the festivities in the parish house, a children's service was held in the church at which the Christmas hymns were sung and the rector, Rev. Cortlandt H. Mallery, made an appropriate address. After the distribution of gifts a general social time including the playing of games was indulged in. Hot cocoa and cake were served to the children and their parents.

First Presbyterian.

Yesterday afternoon at 2:30 the Beginners' and primary departments of the First Presbyterian Sunday-school held their exercises in the Sunday-school room. Mrs. G. A. Ballantyne had charge of the beginners and Miss Ella Lounsbury of the primary department. The Cradle Roll was included with Mrs. Ballantyne's charges. Singing and recitations were the order of the afternoon following which were gifts of candy and toys. Tonight the main Sunday-school will entertain Santa Claus with a program of music and recitations.

Holy Cross Church.

The Sunday-school of Holy Cross church held the annual exercises in the church last night, a large number being present. Rev. Geo. A. Warner was in charge of a short service during which the Christmas story from the Bible was read. The school sang carols and the choir gave the magnificat. In one of the carols solo parts were rendered by Mr. Jacoby, bass; William Theirs, tenor and Chester Chamberlain.

At the close of the service, gifts were distributed among the scholars and others connected with the school. Mr. Warner received two fine presents, one a handsome filing cabinet, from the Sunday-school teachers and the other a beautiful golf pencil, appropriately engraved, from the young men's Bibe class. The choir boys presented the choirmaster, W. S. O'Brien with a fine lounging and bath robe. Besides the gifts distributed, others were brought by the scholars to be sent to the St. Bernard's school at Gladstone. The Christmas tree included in the decorations was exceptionally pretty. It was lighted by fully 100 incandescent globes that were placed among the branches.

Monroe Avenue Church.

An elaborate Christmas cantata entitled "Santa Claus' Christmas Mail," was a feautre of the Christmas exercises at the Monroe Avenue church, last night. A large number of the Sunday-school pupils took part and it was enjoyed by the remainder together with many of the parents and friends.

The young people were rehearsed for the cantata by a committee composed of Mrs. Robert L. Lee, Mrs. Louis V. Tallamy, Mrs. Chester Shreve and Mrs. N. Mansfield Smith. They were amply rewarded for the time and patience required in the drilling by the capital way in which the respective parts were taken. The cantata commenced with an opening chorus in which the following took part: Mrs. Shreve, the Misses Louis McCormack, Marion Praed, Louise Praed, Bessie Gunzelman, Hazel Sawyer, Hazel Heaume, Christine Heaume, the Misses Miner, Elizabeth Seals, Clara Lee and Anna Lee. The other parts were taken as follows Mrs. Kindergarden, Miss Louise McCormack; pupils, Elizabeth Beek-

MISSES VAN DEVENTER TEA FOR THEIR GUEST

A very charming tea was given yesterday afternoon by the Misses Mabel and Hallie VanDeventer, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus VanDeventer, at their home on Myrtle avenue. The tea was given in honor of their sister, Mrs. Herbert Whittingham, of Baltimore, Md., who, with her husband and daughter, has been visiting at the home of her parents during the holidays.

The guests were received by Miss VanDeventer, Mrs. Whittingham and their mother, Mrs. Augustus VanDeventer, assisted by Mrs. Jonas Lie, Misses Margaret McCutchen, Nancy VanDeventer, of Netherwood, Laura Long, Alice Thompson, Harriet and May Shreve. The table was presided over by Mrs. George Werth and Mrs. Brown, of New York. The house was tastefully decorated with roses and carnations and was lighted throughout with candles. The prevailing color was pink.

TREE COMMISSION FIGHT ON DESTRUCTIVE BEETLE

In its report the Plainfield Shade Tree Commission tells of its battle against the beetle which has attacked the elm trees particularly. Following are the important features of the report as submitted to the Common Council last night.

Perhaps the most important work of the commission has been the protection of the elm trees from the attacks of the beetle that has become so destructive since it first appeared a few years ago, entirely destroying trees where systematic spraying has not been done year after year. Upwards of 1,100 street trees were treated this year with arsenate of lead, in addition to some 65 on private grounds. R. P. Gay, the Munson-Whittaker company and others have also did considerable private spraying, much more than the commission has. There were still, however, many trees on private grounds, especially on vacant lots, and on grounds of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey that were not sprayed. Such trees turned trown and dropped their leaves early in the summer, forming a marked contrast to trees that were properly sprayed.

The work of removing over-crowded and deformed trees has been continued, about 90 of such trees being removed this year. There is much more of this work that should be done, for we have many trees that are crowding and interfering with valuable shade trees on our streets. The trees in many cases stand altogether too near each other, and it is surprising to see how the removal of a poor, ill-shaped tree here and there will bring out the beauty of the more perfect specimens that are left. One poor tree in a row detracts greatly from the beauty of the others and seems to stand out more prominently than the more perfect specimens.

Considerable cement work has also been done this year, both on city trees and on private grounds. This is the first work of this kind that has been attempted by the commission, and consists of treating antiseptically the cavities found in trees after removing all the diseased wood, and then filling the cavity with cement mortar in such a way that the new wood and bark will entirely grow over the scar, thus protecting the tree from future decay and greatly improving its appearance. Some especially good work has been done on the big elm at Watchung avenue and East Seventh street. It is planned to do considerably more work of this kind next year.

It is suggested that owners sprinkle the ground under the trees with some fine ground bone and wood ashes early in the spring and see how the tree and grass will respond to the treatment. It will do no harm to repeat this every two or three weeks up to the first or middle of June. It will show in the greater luxuriance of the foliage.

Receipts for the year $3,336.39; disbursements, $3,328.22.

ACTING HEALTH OFFICER LEON THURLOW RESIGNS

The resignation of Leon R. Thurlow as health officer of the city was presented and accepted at a meeting of the Board of Health, last night, and the board appointed John O'Brien, Jr., to fill the office for the coming year. The board adopted resolutions regarding Mr. Thurlow's resignation, the members expressing deep appreciation of his valuable and efficient service to the city during the past nine years. Mr. Thurlow holds a position with the Hudson Tunnel Company, of New York, as secretary to vice-president Wilbur Fisk. Since assuming the later position he has been serving as acting health officer at a salary of $600 a year. It is generally believed that John O'Brien who has been performing the duties of health officer for some time, will be chosen for the place.

The regular monthly report of the board were received, the claims and accounts ordered paid and routine business conducted. The annual report of the board is now n course of preparation, but will not be complete before Saturday. It will be presented to the 1911 Common Council for consideration.

DONOR SUGGESTS IT BE NAMED STILLMAN FIELD

Andrew McClean Parker, formerly of this city, but now of Princeton, in a communication to the Common Council, at its meeting last night, officially turned over to the city the athletic field on Randolph road which he has had improved at a great expense. He stated that up to the present time he had expended $20,809.95, the field being graded and provided with a track, baseball diamond, tennis courts, etc., and it will be ready for use next summer.

Mr. Parker said that the boys and girls of the city owe a great debt to the late Dr. Charles Stillman, at one time the honored head of the local school system and he suggested that the athletic ground be officia'ly designated as "Stillman Field," in his honor. He said that it was forty-three years ago that he entered the Plainfield public school, and also that in his opinion there is no community outside of a college town which can show so many men of education. He expressed the hope that the field would be freely used by the boys and girls and that they would be built up physically. The hope was expressed that sufficient funds would be available to maintain the field. He proposed he said to erect comfort stations and an administration building on the field.

The communication was received and referred to the Common Council of 1911.

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST HEAR REV. MC CLENNON

Rev. Kenneth McClennon, of Nova Scotia, addressed the members of the Park Avenue Baptist church last evening, taking for his topic "A Christmas Story," the coming of Christ, and holding his audience spell bound with his eloquence.

In speaking of the advent of Christ on earth, Mr. McClennan said that Jesus came, not as the Jews had expected in splendor and with heralds of trumpets, but in great humiliation and lowly surroundings the gorgeous return being deferred until the time is ripe. The story, though old, was told in an inimitable way and with the added influence of the pure Doric brogue which increased the beauty of the telling made it a practically new revelation of the history of the birth of the Saviour.

Mr. McClennan spoke for forty-five minutes and the congregation was loath to have him stop.

CITY FARM PROFITABLE

Councilmanic Alms Committee's Venture a Great Saving to Taxpayers.

The report of the city alms committee, combined with that of Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, city physician, was presented at the meeting of the Common Council, last night, and contained some interesting facts. The total balance over all expenses amounts to $1,158.07. The total expenses for the year for the alms house were $3,435.80 and for the outside poor, $1,484.78, and in addition $2,930.04, which included the salary of the overseer of the poor, A. D. Ayers, and that of Dr. Lufburrow, city physician and $1,500 appropriated to the hospital for the care of the indigent poor, and a few incidental items.

On December 23 last there were remaining at the poor house ten male and four female inmates. Dr. Lufburrow made forty-seven visits to the poor house and gave medical attention. Two deaths occurred druing the year, Alexander Jewell and Annie Sullivan. The city physician also made 107 visits in connection with his work for the poor department.

The city farm has been profitable according to the report of the overseer of the poor, the following produce being raised there during the year:

Fifty bushels of tomatoes, 10 tons of hay, 8 bushels string beans, 40 bushels lima beans, 4 ton straw, 6 bushels beets, 680 bushels field corn, 200 peppers, 2,000 bundles corn stalks, 2 bushels shell dried lima beans, 4,000 ears sweet corn, 65 bushels turnips, 60 bushels potatoes, 6 bushels carrots, 30 bushels sweet potatoes, 20 bushels apples, 70 pumpkins, 4 bushels plums, 150 cabbages, 2 bushels peas, 1½ bushels dried beans, 3,771 eggs, 200 squashes, 150 pounds of butter, 100 cucumbers, 155 chickens,, 9 bushels green peas, 700 pounds pork, 14 bushels onions, 52 bushels rye. The following is an inventory of the farming utensils, etc.:

One single harness, three plows, one cart, two barrows, one team, one manure spreader, one team wagon, one corn planter, one dump cart, one seed planter, one horse box wagon, two horses, one hay rake, two cows and one sweep mill.

During the year the overseer of the poor received 207 communications, and answered 164. He made 1,3 outside calls and there were 429 calls at his office.

HUNGARIAN SCRAPPERS HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Michael Dino and Joseph Kyoto, the two Slavs implicated in the Hungarian brawl on Christmas night at the East End and both of whom were up about the head and face, waived examination this morning and were held in $300 bail for the action of the grand jury.

John Seplye signed the bail bond for Kyoto and it was expected that Dino would obtain the necessary security during the day. Francis J. Blatz represented Kyoto and Winfield S. Angleman appeared for Dino and the other four men who were charged with being drunk and disorderly and resisting arrest. On this charge Judge Runyon suspended sentence as Chief Kiely did not care to press the complaint.

The funeral services of James D. Cashin whose sudden death was announced in yesterday's Daily Press, will be held at the late residence, 733 East Sixth street, on Friday morning at 8:15 and at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. A solemn requiem mass will be offered for the repose of his soul and the interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

The Misses Richetta, Mary and Florence Randolph are spending the Christmas holidays with their parents, Mr.and Mrs. R. E. Randolph, of 634 West Third street. They will return Monday to their respective positions as public stenagropher, New York City, public school teacher, Baltimore, Md., and domestic science teacher, Avery College, Pittsburg, Pa.

CHARITY BALL TONIGHT WILL BE A BIG AFFAIR

The annual charity ball will be held at the Hartridge School auditorium, this evening, and judging from the demand for tickets, it will be largely attended and a great success. The general committee of which Harry Hall is the chairman, has left nothing undone in planning for the pleasure and entertainment of the patrons.

Austen's orchestra of about twenty-five pieces will furnish the music for dancing which will be continuous throughout the evening. In addition there will be several other attractions for those who do not dance, a male quartet and a magician being included among those who will entertain the crowd in another part of the auditorium. Supper will be served by a Newark caterer.

Every detail has been attended to that will add to the pleasure and comfort of those who attend the ball and it is the hope of the committee that a generous amount of money may be realized for Muhlenberg Hospital for whose benefit the affair is given.

ANNUAL REPORTS FILED WITH COMMON COUNCIL

In addition to the various annual reports presented at the Common Council meeting, last night, there was the semi-annual report of A. D. Jennings as treasurer of the pension fund of the fire department. This showed the total receipts from all sources to be $8,582.40, exclusive of an expenditure of $70.50. The monthly report of the clerk of the District court, Horace G. Adams, showed receipts of $97.02 and the expenditures of $34.02, leaving a balance of $63

Street Commissioner Gavett reported that eight sewer permits were granted during the month and Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that he had granted twelve permits during December.

A resolution offered by Mr. Buxton and adop ed, authorized the transfer of $6,875.49 an unexpended balance remaining on sewer work, to a similar fund for 1911, making it available for the use intended.

The annual reports, extracts appearing in another part of The Daily Press, were all referred to the Council of 1911, as were also a number of petitions. At the proper time they will be referred to the proper committees. After all the business of the evening was transacted, George B. Wean, acting city clerk, read the minutes of the meeting and they were approved. An adjournment was then taken to Saturday night, December 31.

UNION CO. FREEHOLDERS CAUCUS FOR OFFICERS

The Union County Board of Freeholders held a caucus at Elizabeth, yesterday, when officers for next year were discussed and a slate decided upon for recommendation when the board meets on Monday for organization. The only important change recommended was that of clerk, Benjamin King, who is now filling that office not being named to succeed himself. Fred Davies, of Roselle, was the choice for the clerkship, and will undoubtedly be appointed.

J. N. Cady, of Summit, the present director of the board, was the choice for re-election, as was also County Attorney W. R. Codington and James Finck as road inspector. Frank J. Hubbard will doubtless be re-appointed as one of the county engineers, and Mr. Bauer, of Elizabeth, who holds a similar position, will be continued.

The reason for the change in the clerkship is that Mr. King has many other duties which prevent him from giving the time to the office. The committees will be announced on Monday and it is expected that Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur and J Hervey Doane, of this city, will be assigned to important places n the list.

Funeral of John L. Moy.

The funeral of John L. Moy, brother of Mayor-elect George W. V. Moy, who died at his home in Newark, on Sunday, took place yesterday morning. Services were held at his late residence and at the grave at Fairview cemetery, near Red Bank. The obsequies were largely attended and the floral tributes unusually handsome and numerous, many of them being sent by his associates in the Prudential Insurance Company, with which concern he had been for many years.

CHARLES W. FISK SOON TO BECOME A BENEDICT

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Charles W. Fisk, son of Mayor and Mrs. Charles Joel Fisk, and Mrs. Katherine G. Felton, formerly of Boston. The affair which will be a quiet one, will be celebrated at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Thursday afternoon, January 5, at 4 o'clock. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the church, will officiate. The ceremony will be witnessed by Mayor and Mrs. Fisk and the bride's mother.

After the wedding the couple will leave on an extended trip, the plans for which have not been disclosed. Mr. Fisk has been employed in the banking house of Harvey Fisk & Sons, but it is understood that he proposes to make a change in his position. It is also said that he intends removing from Plainfield.

Mr. Fisk is a member of the Plainfield Country Club and the Watchung Hunt Club, being active in both. He has also been prominent in the races held by the Hunt Club.

CHILDREN'S HOME YOUNGSTERS' XMAS

The annual Christmas tree entertainment was held at the Children's Home, yesterday afternoon, and was enjoyed as much by the visitors as by the children themselves. The tree was beautifully decorated. The Misses Clark, of West Seventh street, who are members of the entertainment committee, had drilled the children in several songs, which they sang as they marched into the large room, when the tree was lighted. Rev. J. O. McKelvey told an interesting Christmas story and offered prayer.

A feature was the display of a large bag made of tissue paper and filled with gifts. The children were blindfolded and then premitted to break the bag. In this way each child got a present. There were recitations and songs by the children, at the conclusion of which Santa Claus, in the person of Miss Clark, appeared and distributed gifts to every child; also telling them a pretty story. Every child was generously remembered with useful articles, includng shoes, stockings, books, mittens, while there was also a distribution of toys, sleds, etc.

Following out the expressed wish of the late Mrs. M. E. Edgerton, whose benefactions are still fresh in the minds of the people, Mrs. F. G. Mead, to whom the request was made, personally saw that each child received a useful gift. The home association was kindly remembered this year in donations and with several substantial checks. Mrs. E. W. Bulkley and the Misses Clark were in charge.

Tomorrow afternoon, one of the circle of King's Daughters in the city will visit the home and provide an entertainment for the children, and will also serve ice cream and cake. There were a great many visitors at the Home yesterday and they were as much pleased with the entertainment as the children.

The society now has a membership of one hundred, which was desired before January 1.

The committee of arrangements comprises John Caulfield, M. A., chairman; Joseph McCue, H. J. Pasch, Harry Forristel Miles Wilson, John O'Keefe, James O'Keefe and James Lynch.

Building Inspector's Report.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane presented his annual report to the Common Council, last night. There were at total of 267 permits granted during the year and the aggregate value of the new buildings and improvements made was $863,850. This is considerable ahead of last year's figures.

Funeral of Miss Loyd.

The funeral service of Miss Rebecca S. Loyd was held at the Holy Cross church at 2:30 o'clock, yesterday afternoon and was largely attended by friends and neighbors. Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the church, officiated. The burial was in Hillside cemetery.

MAYOR'S FAREWELL TALK

Mr. Fisk in Addressing Common Council Reviews Municipality's Growth.

On the eve of the retirement as Mayor after four years' service, Charles J. Fisk last night delivered a farewell address to the Common Council. After reviewing the municipality's growth and referring to some of the needs, he expressed a wish that the new administration "be the most successful administration that we have ever had in this city."

His speech follows:

"In the past years I have had occassion to address the Plainfield people and the Plainfield Common Council on different subjects many times, but they say that the time comes when all good friends must part, and I suppose that time is pretty near and probably this will be the last time that I shall have occasion to address any Plainfield body in an official capacity.

"Since the year 1892 with the exception of one year, I have been connected with some department of the city government. It is not for me to say what has been done in that time, but in looking back I can see many things that have been done in which I have taken part with a number of other men, in trying to do what we could for the benefit of the people and the improvement of the city. Some of those men with whom I have served are dead and gone, but a number still are living.

"The great improvement in Plainfield practically started about that time. Since then we have installed our sewer system. When the sewer system was first put in we laid twenty-three miles of pipe and we thought that we had the city pretty well sewered, and the Street Commissioner tells me that we now have forty-six miles of pipe and we are still laying extensions. That in itself proves the growth of the city. The number of sewer connections have increased so that we now have about 3,500 houses connected with our sewer. The statistics of the Board of Health shows that we now have over 4,500 houses in Plainfield so that we are nowhere near the end of building sewers; they must be extended still further.

"Since 1892 we have made a great many improvements in our streets. I suppose during the last twenty years we have built over 45 miles of improved streets; as a matter fact of the 60 miles of streets in Plainfield, we have now over 53 miles of improved streets. Most of these are macadamized, about three-quarters of a mile of brick pavement and seven hundredths of a mile of concrete. A great deal of this has been accomplished in the last few years. During the past year we made quite a stride in street improvements doing more than has been done in any other one year before.

"I have seen Plainfield grow practically from a little village to a city, more than doubling its population. The Plainfield police department which when first organized was practically a few village constables, has grown to a full fledged department, and today we have as fine a lot of men as any other city of its size or any other size. A body of men who have been, selected after due trial, not for political purposes, but simply upon their merits and, knowing them personally as I do, it would be impossible for me to tell you today what their politics are and in a great many cases what their religion is.

"The same thing holds true of the fire department. The fire department today, although in a very good shape, is not as I would like to see it. What I mean is that the fire department was organized and re-equipped years ago, but some of that equipment, like everything else, will grow old, and today, while still good, is a little out of date. The city needs a new engine. Unless we have a greater water pressure we must have one sooner or later. I think probably one of the automobile type that can go quickly from one place to another and give us proper force of water in case of large fires.

"The water system is now under private contract, and some people have been critized for making a private contract for the city. Anyone who knows the history of the water question knows that the officials in charge at the time made this private contract because they felt it to be the very best thing they could do, in fact, the only thing they could do. Public opinion has since changed in that regard. If the question of public ownership of water had been brought up at that time—as it was—it was voted down almost to a man. They had a prejudice against the issuing of bonds. The first bonds—if you wil look back—you will find were for sewers, and it almost broke the hearts of the people of Plainfield when we came out with a debt of $123,000 for the sewerage system. The question is now before your honorable body and will be one of the important matters to be considered

GOLF.

The latest graduate from the caddie ranks to secure a position as professional is Johnny Wowling, who will succeed Alec Finley at the Scarsdale Golf Club. Wowling learned to drive and put at the Nassau Country Club, where he acted in the capacity of head caddie all last season. Although scarcely more than a boy, he is capable of reeling off a score at Nassau almost any time, in the low seventies, so that Scarsdale will at last have a "pro" who can play.

Charles W. Evans, Jr. the Chicago golfer, generally regarded as the leading amateur exponent of the game in this country at the present time, has been made an honorary member of the Edgewater Golf Club, where he has alway played. The winning of the open championship tournament of the Western Golf Association by Evans last summer caused widespread comment the country over, and it was chiefly in recognition of this feat that the Edgewater club took action as stated.

With new courses to lay out and many alterations and improvements to make on links all over the country, Tom Bendelow, who has been engaged on this sort of work almost since the game was introduced here, is finding his hands full this winter. All around Chicago there is a great demand for the services of the veteran links architect. One of the courses to which he is giving his attention at present is that of the Glen View Club. Here a number of bunkees and traps are being put in. Bendelow has also received instructions to lay out a new course near Cincinnati.

PASTOR LUMBAR IS OFF BAPTIST CHURCH ROLL.

Within a few hours after he had been requested by the permanent council of the East Jersey Baptist Association to appear before it with reference to the charges against him, Rev. W. T. S. Lumbar, the retiring pastor of the Mt. Pleasant Baptist church, Newark, had his name and that of Mrs. Lumbar dropped from the church roll Tuesday night.

The withdrawal of the minister and his wife from the church fellowship occurred at the weekly prayer-meeting. The action was totally unexpected by the congregation, and by it the pastor and his wife are removed from the jurisdiction of the church.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

Few attractions have been found more pleasing or delightful than Mildred and Rouclere in their successful glittering imaginative fantasy, "Priness Iris" which will be presented at the Plainfield Theatre, on Monday, January 2, matinee and night, and there are few stars more capable than these sterling young artists in their line of work or more deserving of success they are winning in every city they appear in. They have been prominent as the leading exponents of their mystic art for the last five years and have won for themselves thousands of admirers, who show by their presence wherever the occasion presents itself, the esteem in which they are held. It is the blending of a stage character with a personality which the public likes and coupled with a production of merit has been the keystone of the goal which Mildred and Rouclere have set for their beautiful, bewildering fantasy "Princess Iris." The company is in keeping with the high standard set by these artists and the scenic and electrical equipment complete in every detail. Among the many novel features of the performance is Mr. Rouclere's latest scenic conception "Azra" showing the actual floating in the air over the stage and part of the auditorium of a living woman, this is only one of the "many surprises," secure your seats in advance so as to insure against disappointment.

When Henry B. Harris presents Edgar Selwyn's play, "The Country Boy," which has been the big, overwhelming, pronounced hit of the present theatrical season, at the Plainfield Theatre, on Tuesday, January 3, for one night. Miss Ethel Clayton, one of the most beautiful and accomplished actresses on the American stage today, will be seen in the part of Amy Leroy, a show girl, one of the most striking characters ever portrayed on the stage. It is part which requires skill and experience to play and only an actress of marked ability could be trusted with it and for this reason Mr. Harris selected Miss Clayton. She is one of those young girls who are bound to succeed on the stage because of her determination and perseverance and she owes it along to her own efforts and ability that she occupies the prominent place she does on the stage today.

Miss Clayton comes from a well known and prominent family in the West and was born in Missouri, but unlike others from that "show me stage," she has shown New York and the other cities of the country that she can act.

While a very young child the parents of Miss Clayton moved to Chicago and she received her early education in that city. She graduated at St. Elizabeth's convent and received three medals for her high standing in English, French and dramatic literature. After finishing at the convent, Miss Clayton took a course in Miss Bunckel's school for girls in Chicago, and it was while a student of this well known establishment that she had her first stage experience. The girls at the school frequently gave dramatic performances and Miss Clayton always had a prominent part in these productions.

Sothern played an engagement while she was a student at the school, and as he was a great friend of Miss Bunckel she ashed him to allow six of the young ladies to take extra parts in his Shakespearean plays. He readily consented and Miss Clayton was one of the six girls selected. They were given a dressing room to themselves and at the end of the week, Mr. Sothern sent each of the girls a large bunch of violets and asked Miss Clayton and one of the other girls to join his company. Miss Clayton has large brown eyes, auburn hair and a very expresive face. Her favorite exercise is horseback riding.

MUST ACT FOR SEWERS

Councilmanic Committee's Report Says Something Must be Done.

RECOMMENDATION IS MADE.

That New Council Either Decide to Enlarge Present Plant or Build a New One as Soon as Possible.

Followng is a summary of the annual report of the committee on sewers as filed at the Common Council meeting last night:

The total length of sanitary ewers including those constructed by private parties under city supervision, is now 46.48 miles. The original system, constructed in 1894-1895, thought to be quite complete at that time, consisted of only 23.65 miles of sewers. 194 connections were made with the sewers during the year, the total number now being 3,516. 31 of the new connections were made with sewers tributary to the Randolph road pumping station, making a total of 143 connections draining to this station.

The pumping plant has operated in an entirely satisfactory manner during the year and it is proposed to install machinery of a similar type at the Monroe avenue station. The average quantity of sewage pumped daily was 53,000 gallons and the average daily consumption of electric current was 16.9 kilowatt hours, at an average cost per day of 90 cents.

On October 10, 1910, a contract was awarded to James A. Christie for the construction of about three miles of sanitary sewers draining to pumping stations at Monroe avenue and at Plainfield avenue, the Common Council reserving the right to omit the construction of the latter station and of the sewers tributary to it. He has been granted an extension of time to June 30, 1911, the contract having been awarded too late to allow of its completion this year. The first bids for pumping machinery were rejected by the Common Council, owing to the lowest bid being somewhat irregular. Proposals were received pursuant to a new advertisement and these are referred by the Committee to the Council of 1911.

One of the inevitable features of the operation of contact beds is this progressive loss of capacity, due to clogging, which begins almost as soon as the beds are put in service. This clogging became serious two years ago, and Hering & Fuller were engaged to make an investigation to ascertain if some variations in the methods of operation would permit of the longer use of the beds.

Systematic analyses were made by Mr. R. S. Lanphear manager and chemist, of the sewage, and of the septic, primary and final effluents, and such variations were made in the method of operating the tanks and contact beds as were indicated by the analyses.

The time has now unquestionably arrived when the Common Council must decide whether the present plant shall be improved and extended or new works built in another locality, either by this city alone or in connection with other places.

We therefore recommend that this question be considered early in 1911, and if it is thought best to retain the present location, that expert advice be obtained to decide what changes in the present plant, and what additions to it should be made; and, whether any of the recent improvements in sewage disposal can be profitably adopted.

Total quantity of sewage from time of emptying tanks to December 13, 1910, 472,400,000 gallons. Total amount of wet sludge and scum, 1,466 cubic yards or 3.1 cubic yards per million gallons.

Approximate total flow of sewage 625,100,000 gallons. Average quantity of sum removed from contact beds, 0.54 cubic yards per million gallons of sewage.

The receipts for the year aggregated $15,865.45 and the disbursements $15,650.75. The amount paid on account of sanitary sewer construction in 1910 was $8,002.60.

OLDEST SOLDIER DIES AT THE KEARNY HOME.

George Weeks, the oldest inmate of the Soldiers' Home, Kearny, died Tuesday night, of the infirmities of age. He was ninety-two years old. He was admitted to the institution from Bound Brook last May and had been in the hospital ever since. His Civil War record shows that he belonged to Company G, Forty-ninth Massachusetts Infantry. Despite his advanced age his mental faculties were unimpaired. He has no relatives.

Another death in the home Tuesday night was that of Sylvester W. Heath, seventy-three years old, who was admitted from Mendham, December 3. His death was caused by congestion of the lungs and paralysis. He was a private in Companies H. and C of the Eighth New Jersey Volunteer Infantry. A son, Harry Heath, of Dover, survives.

Miss Margaret Convery, of Trenton, has returned after spending a few days visiting friends in this city.

FIRE LOSES $33,901.50

Chief Doane's Annual Report States That There Were 173 Alarms.

HE MAKES RECOMMENDATIONS.

Asks for Higher Wages for Firemen and Suggests That the City Buy a Motor Fire Engine.

During 1910 there have been 173 alarms of fire responded to by the department and the aggregate lost of property has been $33,901.50. These and other interesting figures are contained in the yearly report of Fire Chief Doane which follows:

There have been 173 alarms during the year: 'Phone alarms, 90; box alarms, 69; verbal, 12; special, 1; general, 1.

Insurance and Losses.

Loss on buildings	$33,901.50
Insurance on buildings	$397,220.00
Loss on contents	$27,289.99
Insurance on contents	$276,900.00
Insurance	$674,120.00
Insurance collected	60,449.49
Insured and uninsured	61,119.49
Value of property involved:
Buildings	$564,118.00
Personal	457,135.00
	$1,021,253.00

Causes of Fire.

Chimney and defective flues, 35; woods and grass, 22; debris, 22; unknown, 16; locomotive sparks, 8; gasoline, 8; spontaneous combustion, 7; lamps, 6; matches, 5; matches and children, 4; cigars and cigarettes, 4; stoves, 4; smoke, 3; automobiles, 3; heater, 3; oil stoves, 2; fireworks, 2; thawing pipes, 2; painter, 2; ashes, 2; mice and matches, 1; bed, 1; decorations 1; gas, 1; boiler, 1; lantern, 1; rags, 1; out city, 1; tramps, 1; electric spark, 1; charcoal, 1; water running, 1; burning bricks, 1.

Water Supply.

There are 346 hydrants placed throughout the city; 26 more have been ordered. These are not yet placed. The watter pressure west of Richmond street is about 75 pounds. In the Netherwood heights section about 30 pounds; east of Richmond street and south of North avenue about 60 pounds.

In Conclusion.

For the past several years I have called the attention of your honorable body to the fact that we must have more hydrant pressure throughout the city, or purchase at least one more steam or motor fire engine. Motor fire engines are now considered a success. They are being used all over the country. One of these engines would take the place of a steamer and hose wagon, doing away with four horses. From reports of chief engineers of different cities throughout the United States the cost of maintenance is less than half of a steamer, and the service a great deal quicker and better.

We have had sixty more alarms of fire this year than we had in 1909, being 43 more than we ever had in one year in the history of the city, and it was only by the quick and efficient work of the officers and men of the department that our losses compare very favorably with the amount of insurance involved.

I can but repeat one portion of my last year's report wherein I said: "Now the cost of living having advanced from twenty to forty per cent. I think it but right to ask that the pay of the members of the department be increased. At present the men are not receiving a living wage. The schedule of pay is now less than in any other city the size of Plainfield. It should be at least one thousand dollars a year after five years' service with an increase of fifty dollars a year thereafter until the salary reaches twelve hundred dollars per year. This would make the pay of a man who had served ten years twelve hundred dollars, thus giving a man something to look forward to."

We have nearly thirty miles of overhead wire throughout the city. In the center of the city the only poles standing are for fire alarm; some of these need to be replaced by new ones. Our wires run through trees all over the city, and our line men are busy the year round trimming trees to clear our lines, as the chafing of the limbs wears off the covering, causing grounds on the system, often breaking the wires and throwing one or more circuits out of service. I earnestly recommend that at least one section of our wires be placed underground during the coming year.

SUFFRAGETTE'S DEATH LAID TO PRISON FARE.

As a result of the hardships endured for participating in the suffragette campaign, Mrs. Clark, sister of Mrs. Emeline Pankhurst, leader of the English suffragettes, died yesterday at her home in Brighton, England. Mrs. Clark recently was released from prison. She had been committed for helping in a House of Parliament raid.

Mrs. Clark, it is alleged, was harshly treated in prison and forced to eat such coarse food that her health broke down. The suffragettes are planning to demand a parliamentary investigation of her treatment in prison.

and settled during the coming year.

"Our finance department was examined last year by experts, men of large experience, who reported that we had as good a system as any city they knew of, and that we could not improve on our method of paying bills and our safety in handling funds.

"The treasurer's report which should be examined carefully, shows the city to be in good financial condition. The balance in cash after payment of all claims against the city being nearly $60,000 and about $53,000 taxes yet to be collected. The outstanding funded debt, less amounts invested in sinking fund, in round figures amounts to $595,000, and the floating debt account of poor, fire and sewer departments amounts to $16,000.

"I think the city should be congratulated upon the man we have had in charge of the various departments. These men are conscientious, faithful, hard workers, loyal to the city and they try to do the best they can in order to bring about the best results with the least money. I can say this of every official connected with the various city departments without exception.

"I cannot say at this time of my going out of office and a new adminstration coming in, whether it would seem right for me to recommend or suggest certain things which ought to be done, but at the same time I think it would not be right if I knew of certain conditions that existed not to call the attenion of the Common Council to those conditions.

One is—and a very important one—that will have to be decided this coming year, and probably the members of the committee who have had this matter in charge have had the same in mind, and that is in regard to our sewerage system. Our sewerage system as you know is now about 18 years old. When first put in it was the intermittent filtration system, this did not prove a success. Afterwards we spent $40,000 or $50,000 putting in septic tanks and contact beds. These septic tanks acted as a sort of a purifier, and the effluent was still further purified by passing through the contact beds. Our engineer of sewers can tell you better than I the amount of sewage handled each day, this runs into millions of gallons during the year. The time has come when you must decide, you cannot put it off, it must be done this year, you have got to decide how to dispose of this increased volume of sewage in our city. Everything is being properly taken care of in a temporary way. A great many systems and methods for the disposal of sewage have come into existence since the Plainfield system was installed, and it may be that under some of these new systems you will be able to make improvements in our present methods that will take care of the sewage of the city for years to come. But you will have to spend money this coming year on the disposal works and it is very important that you consider these matters carefully and decide exactly what is the best method before you jump in and spend the large amount of money necessary. The best sanitary engineers will tell you that there has been almost an evolution in regard to the disposal of sewage. Systems that they have recommended not more than five or six years ago have become almost obsolete, they have had to change their judgment and say that these systems are not up to date and they are obliged to introduce some new system. So that when you stop to think, if anybody says: 'Why did you put in an intermitten filtration system and then change it for something else, spending a large amount of money and now want to change it to still something else,' you can say that men who know more about this subject than we do have had to change their opinions in this matter. Our sewage system to date exclusive of assessments has cost $276,000, including all extensions, and we have paid off and reduced that debt $62,000, leaving outstanding bonds amounting to $214,000.

"Some of our streets that were macadamized years ago have about served their day. These streets will shortly have to be re-macadamized. The first work can be assessed on the property owners, but the second work must be done at the expense of the city. The engineer of streets tells me that where they have been putting in some new sewers on one of the streets first improved in this city, the macadam is worn down to less than an inch in thickness, this gives some idea as to the life of the street, and how a little crushed stone on top will keep it in order. Another thing it shows is that the time has come when you must look to the renewals as well as new work.

"I have always been in favor of the establishment of a pension fund in the police department. It has already been looked out for in the fire department It is a very difficult thing to know what to do with city employes that have passed the age where it is impossible to start in new lines of work, and I would like to see this matter taken up and some protection provided for these men.

"Another important matter is the passing of the new ordinance in relation to the construction of buildings which I understand the fire and buildings committee, after many months of work, have prepared and are now ready to introduce.

"You all know the board of health has the reputation of being one of the best and most efficient boards in the whole State. It is quoted in different parts of our State and I feel proud not only of our board of health but of all our other departments.

"Now, gentlemen, I can think of nothing more to say at this time except this: When a man is elected to public office he accepts really a public trust, that you are here not to satisfy your own ambitions, not to work out petty jealousies of any kind, but you are here to serve the city as best you know how and to work for the interests of the people of Plainfield, the taxpayers and all others. They have elected you as their trustees, that is what you are, and you have a public trust to perform. I want to see Plainfield go ahead. I do not want to see it stop, and I do not want to see the government of Plainfield mixed up in political wrangles.

"There is not an atom of jealousy in my body, I have worked for years the best I know how and given all that is in me to the people of Plainfield and I do want to see everybody pull together and work for the interests and welfare of the city in which we live.

Although I shall not be officially connected with you I shall be here to see what is going on. I hope to live in Plainfield for many years to come and if there is any time that my experience or counsel or judgment will be of any use to you I hope you will call on me and you will find me only too glad to respond. The main object which I have always had in view is the advancement of this city and to see it grow. I wanted it to go ahead, I wanted it to be the best governed city in the State. Sometimes we have been criticized about our tax rate. You will always be criticized not only about your tax rate but if you do anything at all you will be criticized. Public men must not be afraid of criticism. It is bound to come and remember the man who does nothing will never be criticized, criticism of this kind if taken in the right way will help, it will spur you on to try and find out what is needed and the best way to get it.

"I hope everyone will do his best and that the new administration will be the most successful administration that we have ever had in this city.

"And now, gentlemen, I bid you and all the heads of the departments an official farewell. It is only an adieu, because I shall always be with you and I now wish you all a very, very happy New Year and great success during the coming year and all years thereafter.

FIRE CHIEF RESIGNS FOLLOWING CHARGES.

Somerville, Dec. 29.—Piqued over charges of incompetency against the firemen made at a recent meeting of the Common Council, Fire Chief Dr. Charles F. Halstead has resigned as chief. His resignation took effect Tuesday Other resignations of firemen, it is said, are expected.

Complaint was made to the Council by Councilman Lewis A. Bellis, whose carriage shop was destroyed by fire, that the firemen did not handle the blaze with any judgment, and that Assistant Fire Chief Dernert, who was in command, had no control over the men. Although the Council took no action, it was moved at the meeting that the fire department be re-organized.

Denying the charges against him, Mr. Dernert sent a letter to the Council stating that the fire was handled as well as could be under the circumstances and praised the firemen for their work.

The complaint against Chief Halstead, was that he did not attend the fire. The chief explained that he did not hear the alarm, although his wife saw the blaze and got him out of bed. He said he had no means of telling where it was, so went back to sleep.

It was pointed out that the fire alarm system is in poor condition, and the Council is now contemplating a new one.

The scholars of Marconnier chapel Sunday-school at Oak Tree enjoyed their annual exercises, last night. They were in charge of Rev. J. Tucker Lansdale and included recitations, carols, responsive readings and other numbers. An excellent recifation was given by Gertrude Campbell and a well rendered piano solo was contributed by Miss Bertha Frazee. Interspersing the school numbers, Mr. Donahue operated the phonograph. Thomas M. Muir sang and told stories and William H. Pope gave imitations on the piano and a musical monologue.

At the conclusion of the program the children were presented with gifts, candy and oranges by William H. Pope in the guise of Santa Claus. The committee in charge of the arrangements was composed of Mrs. W. E. Van Court, Mrs. Bryant Randolph and William Randolph.

Salvation Army.

Little Ethel Waldron, three years old, was the life of the Christmas entertainment given by the local corps of the Salvation Army last evening at the army headquarters on East Second street. This little girl sang a lullaby and incidentally sang everything else on the program besides accompanying the orchestra and prompting the speakers, meanwhile keeping the entire audience in continual laughter by her infantile precocity.

The entertainment given through the efforts of Captain and Mrs. Hewitt was an improvement over that of last year and was attended by a much larger crowd. The hall was handsomely decorated and a feature which attracted much attention was the dressed dolls, eighty of them strung across the room near the platform. They all found owners before the evening was over.

Martin A. Korff with his son and daughter furnished the music and performed creditably several fine selections. The program consisted of songs, recitations and instrumental music as follows:

Selection, orchestra; prayer, Mrs. Hewitt; hymn, Sunday school; recitation, Genevieve Sweeney; song, Ethel Waldron; selection, orchestra; recitation, Anna Sharkey; recitation, "Christmas Bells" four children of the Sunday school; song, Sunday school; recitation, Amanda Sweeney; recitation, Ethel Perrine; selection, orchestra; recitation, Ralph Williamson; cornet solo, George Jacskon; (Master Jackson received a crisp new one-dollar bill for a record of perfect attendance at Sunday school for the year); song, comic, Alfred Jackson; recitation, Vera McCrea; soprano solo, Paul Pope; recitation, Irene Spaar; song, Sunday school; selection, orchestra; recitation, Mattie Banker; recitation Amelia Kirsting; selection, orchestra.

The singing of the chorus "Christmas Eve," was the signal for the appearance of Santa Claus, who climbed in through the rear window with a pack almost too heavy for his shoulders. He was greeted with shouts of glee and was soon busy passing out his gifts. One little girl whose eyes were bulging from their sockets requested permission to whisper in Santa's ear and followed her request with a climb over some tables to the old gentleman's lap where accomplishing her errand she returned with great composure to her mother's arms and whispered that the Saint of all good children had promised her what she wanted and she afterwards got it—a big doll hanging on the tree. The youngster was about three years old.

Captain and Mrs. Hewitt were the recipients of some very handsome and useful gifts among them several books and some cut glass ware.

STREET WORK FOR YEAR

Plainfield Now Has Fifty-Two Miles of Macadamized Thoroughfares.

COMMITTEE MAKES REPORT.

Suggests That Abutting Property Owners be Assessed for Laying the Dust in Front of Their Residences.

The report of the committee on streets was among those submitted at the Common Council meeting last night. The more important parts of it are herewith reproduced:

New Macadamizing.

The contracts for new macadamizing awarded in 1910 probably included a larger amount of work than in any previous year. In these streets the new departure of laying the upper course with bituminous binders, inaugurated in 1909, was continued. The binders used Bermudez Asphalt, Texaco and Tarvia x, applied hot, by hand spreaders instead of by the tar-spreading wagons previously used.

The repair work on the south side of West Front street, between Grant avenue and Mariners place, was done in this manner last year, but a coat of 'Tarvia B' was added last spring. This pavement has proved very satisfactory indeed, except that it becomes at times quite slippery, which troubles may be remedied by adding a coating of screenings.

Some trouble from bleeding was experienced with the contract roads constructed in 1909, the liquid asphalt coming to the surface in spots during hot weather, requiring the addition of fine stone to cover it. This additional material will probably soon wear off to the original finished surface.

The two contracts for new macadamizing were awarded on September 6, 1910, the first for Essex street, between Darrow and Spooner avenue and for Putnam avenue, between Webster place and Woodland avenue, the former street being completed. The second contract was let for the following streets:

Thornton avenue, from Park avenue to Hillside avenue; West Fourth street, from Monroe avenue to Clinton avenue; Stebbins place; Prescott place; South Second street, from a point 60 feet east of Morris street to Clinton avenue; Randolph road, from Park avenue to Woodland avenue; Johnston avenue; Jackson avenue; Netherwood avenue, from North avenue to East Second street, the three last named streets being completed. Extensions of time were granted to both contractors, the contracts having been awarded too late in the season to allow of their completion before cold weather.

Dust Preventative.

The work done this year for the purpose of dust prevention was mainly along the lines found successful in 1909, and consisted of the surface application of 'Tarvia B,' (principally on Park and South avenues) Dustoline on North avenue, East Front and adjoining streets and Standard Road Oil and Texas Oil on many other streets. Most of the oiled streets should have had a second treatment, but other necessary work prevented the expenditure of the money for this purpose.

Two carloads of Standard road oil were spread by the Saybolt pneumatic wagons, by which method the oil is forced out in a fine spray under air pressure. This process has much to recommend it, as the street can be used immediately after the application of the oil and much more area can be covered with a given amount of oil, the treatment, however, should be renewed every month or six weeks to be thoroughly effective.

From our experience during the last two years, it would seem that the expense of treating all streets so that they should be dustless during the entire season would be more than the city could now afford

The principle trouble with oiled roads is the pitting, or formation of small depressions in the surface. These holes were repaired by filling them with stone and binder dust and then rolling the patches well with the steam roller. Such holes in 'Tarvia B,' work, when taken in time and filled with stone and tarvia, were satisfactorily patched.

It is suggested of the Committee that the cost of treating the streets with 'Tarvia B,' be assessed on the abutting property owners, as is done in Westfield.

Street repair work and ash dumps are discussed at length.

Street Openings.

The proceedings for opening Kensington avenue, from its present terminus to Park avenue, (the ordinance having been adopted in 1908) have progressed as far as treating with the property owners; the next step is the appointment of commissioners to estimate and assess damages and benefits.

An ordinance was adopted October 20, 1910, for opening Astor place to Hunter avenue, and we recommend that commissioners be appointed for this street also, as it has been used as a street for a number of years and was supposed already to be open by residents in the vicinity.

Flagging and Curbing.

A new ordinance was adopted in July relating to the construction of sidewalks and curbs, but it was late in the Fall before the legal forms of notice to be served were ready, so about half of the work called for remains uncompleted.

The usual large number of notices to relay uneven sidewalks were served and have been generally complied with, but there are still a great many sidewalks which are irregular and far from being a credit to the city. Concrete walks continue to grow in favor and seem to keep their line and grade better than stone walks. Many sidewalks and curbs, mostly of concrete, were laid by property owners voluntarily. Much of this work done in the developement of new tracts of land in the southerly and easterly sections of the city. This work is generally of good character, but some of it has already begun to break up—a hint to prospective purchasers of improved building lots to test the quality of the concrete sidewalks before concluding the bargain. About 31,100 linear feet of sidewalks and 14,150 linear feet of curbing were constructed.

Storm Sewers.

The third and last section of the Richmond street storm sewer, from North avenue to East second street, was completed this year, relieving this street from its flood troubles, except on the occasions when Green brook leaves its banks and flows down Richmond and Berckman streets into Cedar brook. The benefit of this sewer is especially appreciated at East Second street, where formerly the street railway tracks almost completely blocked the culvert.

The total length of the storm sewer is now 6.03 miles.

Removal of Snow.

Last winter the street department expended $2,970 for the removal of snow exclusive of the cost of cleaning sidewalks which was charged against the property owners. Of the above amount, the street railway company refunded $700.94 or one half of the cost of removing snow from business streets in which street railway tracks are laid. A large item of expense was the removal of ice from gutters.

In order to make the sidewalks passable as early after snow storms as possible, snow plows were used. These plows did not thoroughly clean the walks, it being expected that the residents would complete the work, but in many cases they failed to do so, and the city was obliged to finish the walks, the cost being charged to the abutting property. The new 'Twentieth Century Grader' has proved a very efficient sidewalk cleaner as well as a gutter scraper for the snow or dirt.

Street Numbers.

There are still several hundred buildings in the city either with wrong numbers or without any. Many of the owners have been notified to place the proper numbers on their buildings, but most of them have failed to do so, some even refusing to make any change. As the map referred to in the original numbering ordinance was superseded by later ones, the late Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh at our request, prepared a new ordinance based on the present tax maps, and the ordinance was adopted by the Common Council on December 5, 1910. The way is now clear for enforcing this ordinance and we recommend to the Council of 1911 that notices be sent to all persons not having correct numbers on their buildings and the all delinquents be brought before the city Judge.

Crosswalks and Culverts.

Seventeen new crosswalks were laid during the year, and requests have been made for many more. We believe that the laying of crosswalks should follow promptly in every case after the construction of sidewalks.

Six new culverts have been constructed and seven have been rebuilt. Some progress has been made in the substitution of cast iron covers for those of stone, but many of the latter remain, and an unusual number of them have been broken this year by heavy loads. Eight extra cast iron covers have been bought for use in making repairs to stone culverts during the winter.

City Yards.

A lot on Scott avenue was rented in May at $25 per month, and a shed was erected thereon, at a cost of $333.50, for sheltering the street sprinklers, oil spreaders, street scraper, etc. The yard and store house at West Third street and Plainfield avenue serve for the storage of crushed stone, culvert and crosswalk material, tools not in use, etc. The steam roller is housed at the sewage disposal works, as are the spraying wagon and engine used by the Shade Tree Commission.

Miscellaneous.

There are now 52.67 miles of macadam streets, 0.78 mile of brick pavement and 0.07 mile of concrete pravement.

Fourteen stone and 15 iron monuments have been set and 32 manholes have been marked to establish street lines.

The receipts aggregated $42,121.83 and the disbursements $42,118.61.

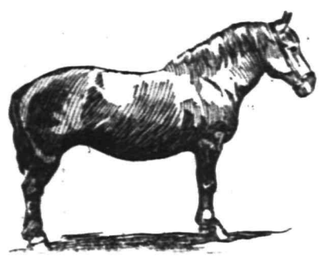
LIVE STOCK

BREED SOUND HORSES.

Keep the Best Mares on the Farm and You Will Always Have Good, Strong Animals.

The best mares should be kept upon the farm for breeding purposes. They should be of good weight, as much heavier than 1,400 pounds as it is possible to get them without sacrificing too much type. They should be sound, of clean, strong bone and of good disposition. Soundness is a point too often overlooked. The prevailing opinion is that any mare able to walk will produce a good, healthy colt. The various blemishes, such as spavins, curbs and ringbones, are not transmissible, but there is no doubt that the disposition to acquire these blemishes is often directly transmitted, and every farmer should make it his duty to prevent this.



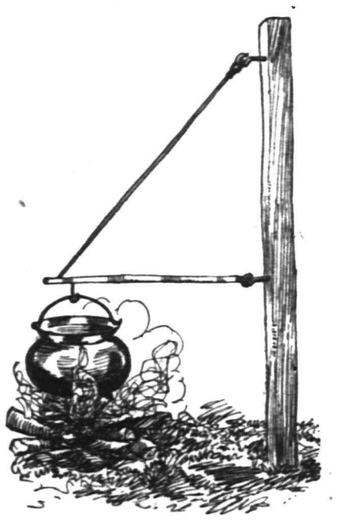
Mare Shows Type and Soundness.

CRANE FOR WATER KETTLE.

Will Be Found to Be of Great Advantage During Hog Killing Time.

During hog killing time the question of heating water is a very important one, it being particularly necessary that the heating be done near the place where the killing is taking place. Here is a very good suggestion:

Set a heavy post firmly into the ground, tamping in a shovelful of coarse gravel or stone, and attach a bar of iron at the proper distance near the bottom.



Crane For Water Kettle.

To an eyebolt near the top attach a chain, letting it pass down through the end of the rod, which should be in the shape of a fork. The length of the chain will determine the distance of the kettle from the ground.

Disinfecting Scratching Post.

When hogs are bothered by insect pests they want and should have some place to rub themselves against. A scratching post is a good thing to have in the hog lot. Wrap a piece of burlap about the post which has been saturated with crude oil. In scratching against the post to get free from the insects enough crude oil gets on them to kill the insects.

Best to Sort the Eggs.

Sort your eggs unless they are only a few of them. If you have many chickens keep the big, well shaped ones, the tinted ones and the small ones together. It destroys unfavorable contrasts, and they sell to better advantage. This is highly important if you want to work up a private sale for your eggs.

Close Figuring For Profit.

The profit from poultry depends upon economical feeding, from utilizing materials which would otherwise be wasted. When grain must be bought for supplying their principal needs close figuring is necessary to avoid loss.

Fighting Invasion of Lice.

When a herd of hogs is found to be infested with lice all bedding should be burned and loose floors and partitions in the hog house torn out and burned. The quarters should then be thoroughly disinfected by spraying with good solutions.

Sufficient Food Essential.

Remember, a laying hen needs about twice as much feed as she would if not laying. Like any other machine, she must be furnished with material from which to manufacture her finished product—eggs.

THE HARVEST MOON

Copyright, 1909, by Augustus Thomas

"Congratulate me?" said Holcomb, looking wonderingly at Dora, while the rest of the table stared uneasily at Vavin.

"Yes," was the reply. "There are many things doubtless on which you should be congratulated. But I have been thinking over our conversation of last night, and I am quite sure that you are destined to be a great dramatist."

"And this without having seen a line of his play," said Professor Fullerton.

"This," answered Vavin, "without seeing a line of the first four plays that he will write or has written."

"Has written," laughed Holcomb. "This is my first play to be produced—far from the first one that I wrote."

An opportunity presented itself during the luncheon for Holcomb to have Professor Fullerton's undivided attention, and he then asked if it would be possible for them to have a conversation alone immediately after luncheon, as he had decided that his business affairs were in such condition that it was obligatory on him to be in New York early the next morning; hence his desire to get the late afternoon train. Fullerton, while he had a growing admiration for the young dramatist, welcomed the idea of his leaving.

"I gave you my word, Professor Fullerton," he said when they were alone, "that I would not discuss the project of your daughter's going on the stage again with her. I have, however, asked her to marry me, and she has consented."

"Do you think this is entirely fair?"

"It depends upon your point of view," said Holcomb brusquely. "It may not be fair to you; it may not be fair to her Aunt Cornelia; it is possible that it is not fair to Judge Elliott, whose business it is to have his advice accepted and whose professional pride rests on that acceptance, however baneful it may be."

"You are a trifle radical in your statements, Mr. Holcomb."

"I love Miss Fullerton," was the reply, "and I wish to see her happy."

"You mean to imply that she is not happy here in her father's house?"

"That I should consciously harbor such a suggestion," said Holcomb lightly, "is an unflattering implication that I do not understand the duties of a perfect guest toward a perfect host."

Then, changing his tone, he said: "Professor Fullerton, you do not know me. I should like to have you understand my ideas, ambitions and ideals, but the opportunity has not presented itself, and if I have seemed to take advantage of the laws of hospitality it was only because of the great affection I felt for your daughter."

"Nevertheless I withhold my consent, Mr. Holcomb, and this may lead me to further oppose her appearing in your play."

"I was prepared for some such reply, and, believe me, if it is necessary that I should sacrifice my first production I do so with the feeling that it is simply an offering laid on the altar of a greater happiness."

Vavin and Dora had returned by this time, and the former, met at the door by Judge Elliott, now entered the room.

"Returned for the council of war," said the Frenchman gayly as Fullerton went over and closed the door and nervously lit a fresh cigar.

"I'm afraid," began Professor Fullerton, standing in the center of the room, "that you are more than right when you describe this as a council of war. Mr. Holcomb has just informed me that he has asked my daughter to marry him."

"Professor Fullerton," said Holcomb calmly, "apparently takes the attitude that marriage is war."

"I congratulate you, my young confreree," said Vavin, "on obtaining the confidence of so sweet and so charming a girl."

A glance at Professor Fullerton's face, however, assured him that his congratulations were not acceptable in that direction.

"You have complicated matters very badly, Mr. Holcomb," said Judge Elliott, "and, while I am aware that all is fair in love and law and war, I think it would have been advisable for you to wait until we had settled the first problem."

The flattering suggestion that, having settled the "first problem" for Dora, having decided whether this young girl who had been made unhappy by a splenetic old aunt should pick the career for which she was chosen and which would make her happy, this aggregation of delightful and cultured gentlemen would condescend to take up the second problem—whether she should marry the man she loved and who loved her—this struck Holcomb's individualistic soul as both funny and grewsome, and he expressed himself to that effect.

"Mr. Holcomb is right," said Vavin. "It is about time that the young lady was allowed to enter into these conferences."

It was easy enough to answer Fullerton's suggestion that he still had some doubt as to whether the girl knew her own mind. "When will she know it if you don't let her exercise it?" Judge Elliott finally agreed that it might be best to have both Dora and Cornelia and their cousin, Mrs. Winthrop, present at what he designated "a grand family conference."

"If you will pardon me," said Holcomb, "I think that I will go."

"Not afraid, are you?" asked Elliott.

"Not afraid of the conference nor of its decision," replied Holcomb, whose nerves were beginning to feel the continuous strain and whose sympathies for Dora were mounting every minute, "but I am obliged to take an early train into New York, and it is about time that I began to pack my things." There was a polite parting on all sides, but genuine friendliness only in the hand clasp of Vavin.

He passed Dora in the hall and rather wished he had not said goodby so abruptly, for she told him that her aunt and Mrs. Winthrop had gone out, so that she was to face the jury alone. Hurriedly he told her of the necessity of his going to New York that evening, and she promised to wire him her decision that night.

"Rehearsals begin Tuesday," he called to her softly as he went up the stairs to his room, and she turned into the library to make her answer and decision.

And even with that simple statement his conscience made him feel that he had broken his promise.

When Professor Fullerton met Vavin in Paris for the first time the latter had been unusually assiduous in his attentions to the distinguished American lecturer. Outside of his specialty the American was not a brilliant man, and many of the Parisian's friends wondered what he found in the almost continuous company of a man who, while undoubtedly a ripe scholar, had spent a lifetime in studying and elucidating a limited period in one language and literature.

Not infrequently was the dramatist and satirist, who was famed for his personal charm as much as for his many sided scholarship, asked to explain his friend. At first he had replied lightly:

"Some day I am going to write a book on the English."

"But Mr. Fullerton is an American," the bright lady who had asked the question exclaimed.

"True," said Vavin, with a smile, "but he is a Harvard American."

WILSON REFERS IT TO PUBLIC OPINION COURT

New Jersey progressives view yesterday's political events with utmost satisfaction. These events fell all on the side of the men, both Democrats and Republicans, who are backing up Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson in his fight against machine politics and corporation misrule by opposing Boss Jim Smith, Jr., for the United States Senate, and by supporting James E. Martine, the choice of the Democratic voters at the direct primary election last September.

Developments, all favorable to the progressives, were numerous yesterday. Doctor Wilson, writing from St. Louis, issued another stinging rebuke of Boss Jim Smith, and replying to the boss' statement earlier in the week, once more gave him the lie direct on many of the "facts" which Smith alleged in his tirade against Wilson.

The governor-elect refers to Smith's decision to run for the senatorship in the face of public opinion as "this final decision of his public career." Doctor Wilson denies absolutely that he ever in any form talked of or considered a compromise candidate for the senatorship.

He also declines to name the man who he regarded was acting as Smith's spokesman before the election, because he does not care to bring upon that man the mortification of being drawn into the controversy.

Doctor Wilson in reaffirming his declarations, says:

"I certainly would not have allowed my name to go before the convention that nominated me if I had not thought that the gentleman who told me that Mr. Smith would not be a candidate for the Senate spoke for Mr. Smith. I had every reason to think that he did.

"I will not name him, because he is a man whom I very highly esteem, and upon whom I do not care to bring the mortification of being drawn into this now very public matter.

"I am quite willing to go with Mr. Smith before the court of public opinion on the charge of attempted trickery and deceit.

"If the gentleman of whom I have spoken did not speak for Mr. Smith, in what he told me, why did Mr. Smith corroborate what he had said? He himself told me exactly the same thing when he came to my home a few days after the election.

"He told me in the plainest terms that before the election he had not desired to go to Washington, had not felt equal to seeking or occupying the office; but that he was now feeling stronger and did desire it. He was evidently referring to something he knew I had known.

"Mr. Smith has a singularly distorted recollection of that conversation. I did speak as his friend. I felt very friendly toward him, indeed, and wish that I might have been permitted to serve his real interest in this final decision of his public career.

"I pointed out to him the deep discredit that would fall upon him if he were himself to seek the senatorship. Finding him utterly contemptuous of the primary and toward Mr. Martine; finding that he insisted that the State would be disgraced should Mr. Martine, rather than he, represent it in the Senate, I tried to point out to him in all kindness the only course that lay open to him in the circumstances, if he would win the respect of thoughtful men.

"I told him that, feeling as he did, the only honorable course open to him was to come out and say that he was not a candidate and would co-operate in the choice of any man whom general opinion might agree upon as representing not special interests, but the opinion and the character of the State.

"I was suggesting a course for him, not choosing one for myself. My own duty has been plain from the first. He told me that he did not know of any such man in the State who had any 'claim' on the party comparable to his own.

"I hope that I need not say again that I proposed no compromise candidate and no compromise of any kind for myself. I was foolishly trying to advise him; I was not making a choice for myself.

WOODROW WILSON."

MORE XMAS FESTIVALS

Sunday Schools Celebrate at First M. E., First Baptist, First Presbyterian.

TEMPLE BAPTIST CHURCH.

Warren Chapel, Hope Chapel and St. Stephen's, Netherwood Reformed and All Souls' Churches Too.

Christmas festivals were held last night at the following churches:

First M. E. Church.

The senior department of the First M. E. Sunday-school enjoyed an excellent Christmas entertainment in Vincent chapel, last night. The numbers were all provided by the members and were of exceptional merit. Superintendent James R. Joy was in charge.

The feature number on the program was "Bird's Christmas Carol," in which the Ruggles family prepares for the dinner. The principal parts were taken by Miss Marguerite Woolston and Miss Anna Warnock. The others participating were Ruth Lynn, Gladys Weaver, Gladys Sherwood, Alice Joy, Roswell Ewart, Russell Lynn, Carlton Moore and Arthur Crone. The young folks were rehearsed by Mrs. Judd Stewart and Mrs. Frank Rowley.

Another number on the program was a responsive carol in which the recitation part was taken by Miss Hester Stebbins and the vocal responses by a trio composed of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas MacDonald, and Mrs. Maurice J. McGrath. There was also a duet by Miss Katherine Bingaman and Miss Myra Stebbins, accompanied by Miss Bingaman, and Elton Greenleaf contributed a recitation.

At the close of the program, Superintendent Joy was presented with a handsome traveling bag. It was the gift of the Sunday-school teachers and officials. The presentation was made by Dr. C. M. Anderson.

The entertainment committee, which arranged the evening's program, was composed of Mrs. Judd Stewart, Mrs. C. M. Anderson and Mrs. Frank Rowley.

The junior, primary and beginners departments of the school had a Christmas party in the afternoon. They were in charge of Mrs. Thomas MacDonald and Miss Edna French. After playing games they received the usual gifts.

Trinity Reformed Church.

"Seeing Santa," was the title of a Christmas cantata given at Trinity Reformed church, yesterday afternoon and evening. The cantata was the work of Harriet D. Castle and Ira B. Wilson, and proved a great success. The whole affair was in charge of Miss S. Etta Raybert, the soprano soloist of the church choir, and she worked hard and faithfully in training the children for their various parts. In the drills and marching they acquitted themselves creditably, reflecting the ability of Miss Raybert in arranging such affairs. The cantata was given in costume, the idea being carried out in every detail.

"Santa Claus" appeared in the person of Edward Honeyman and he furnished lots of fun for both old and young. Miss Margaret Leggett was at the piano and E. D. Young gave the bugle calls. Miss Raybert was assisted by Mrs. Leonard Smith and Mrs. J. M. Tier. In the afternoon each child received a box of candy and a gift from the primary department, and in addition ice cream and cake. In the evening the members of the school received boxes of candy, more than one thousand boxes being distributed in all. The Sunday-school room was filled to its capacity both afternoon and evening and all thoroughly enjoyed the entertainment, agreeing it to be the best in several years. The following persons took the various parts:

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders will meet at the Court House, Somerville, Monday noon for organization purposes. The only change in the board this year is that George Kirch, of the borough, will succeed Andrew Lutkins, of the same place. Mr. Kirch being a Democrat, the board will be comprised of seven Democrats and five Republicans. Last year it was a tie. It is understood that Thomas E. Gibson, of Franklin, will be re-elected director of the board, and there will probably be little change in the officers.

On Tuesday the board went over the Warrenville road extension, Terrill road from the brook to Mountain avenue, inspected the bridge on the county line between Union and Somerset counties that was wrecked by a road engine some time ago and inspected Greenbrook road for the purpose of closing up the business of the present board before the first of the year.

MASS MEETING IN CAUSE OF JAMES E. MARTINE

Under the auspices of some of the prominent Democrats of the city a mass meeting has been called for Tuesday evening, January 3, at Reform hall, to which the women are also invited, for the purpose of furthering the interests of James E. Martine for the United States Senatorship. The committee in charge of the meeting is composed of Albert H. Atterbury, chairman; Calvin E. Brodhead, assemblyman-elect; Jerry Callahan, J. V. F. Dilts, Leroy J. Ellis, president of the Plainfield Democratic Club; William H. Harding and Robert C. Woodhouse.

In the call issued today for the meeting the committee says:

"It seems fit and appropriate at this juncture, that Mr. Martine's friends and acquaintances, his fellow townsmen, the men among whom he has lived these many years, should assemble and show to the world that he is well and favorably known in this community, that he is honored and respected by our representative citizens, and that if elected we think he will be an ornament to the United States Senate, and a worthy representative of the State of New Jersey.

"It is still more important that the people of the State should demand that the Legislature carry out the people's wish as expressed at the primaries. We want to choose our own Senators, and we have a right to do it. The popular choice should be respected by the Legislature, and it is our business to insist on it."

The speakers of the evening will include: Messrs. Joseph Tumulty, of Jersey City; William L. Saunders, Samuel S. Swackhamer, John O. Stevens and Albert H. Atterbury.

SAN BARTOLO COMPANY HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the San Bartolo Mining Company was held in the Babcock building yesterday afternoon, when these officers and directors were edected: President, Edward W. Henck, treasurer, Frank W. Runyon; W. de LaR. Anderson, and Jacob Blimm, directors. The mines of the company are located near Reiboca, Honduras, and work has been going on steadily the past two years.

At the meeting yesterday the purchase of a ten stamp mill was reported and the blocking out of ore representing in value more than the entire capitalization of the company. The ore is silver and a small proportion of gold. The claim of the company comprises 750 acres, heavily timbered and large water power. Among the stockholders are many prominent Plainfielders.

Board of Trade Name Committees.

The executive committee of the Dunellen Board of Trade met last night at the home of the president, Arthur Cockburn, when heads of committees were decided upon as follows: Advertising, H. J. Swackhamer; civic, Edward Maurer; real estate, Albert Meyers; railroad and transportation, F. D. Baemer; membership, Lewis Schneider, Wilson Frederick and Dr. T. J. Hogan.

Choir Boys Win.

The choir boys of the Church of the Holy Cross defeated the Leal School basketball team yesterday morning in Holy Cross parish house by a score of 15 to 3. On Monday morning next the winners will play Grace P. E. church choir boys in the latter's parish house.

Why?

It is reported that there has been some pretty thorough housecleaning done at police headquarters during the last few days.

MEDALS PRESENTED TO COMPANY K BOYS

Company K joined the other companies of the Second Regiment of the National Guard at the review by Brigadier-General Dennis F. Collins in the armory at Trenton, last night. Four Plainfield boys were presented with medals for distinguished work and were complimented by General Collins upon it.

The armory was crowded to its capacity when General Collins and his staff and Col. Nelson Y. Dungan and his staff entered the building after the banquet at the Sterling Hotel. So great was the crush that a guard was found necessary to prevent confusion in the various departments of the review.

Winkler's band, of Trenton, headed the militiamen as they maneuvred on the floor before the critical eyes of the officers and it was a fine sight as the exact formations were formed and dissolved and re-formed again with precision and effect.

Following the drill and while dancing was enjoyed on the main floor the officers held a reception in the squad room, where a luncheon was served. Company K returned at an early hour this morning.

Those who received medals were Arthur Phillips, who was given the National Rifle Association medal for 1910 for marksmanship; Sergeant George Apgar, Albert Tranchand and Jesse R. Dayton, who were awarded medals for the five-year 100 per cent. service.

PLAINFIELD A. F. C. TO MEET MARSHALL A. A.

The Plainfield A. F. C. team will meet the Marshall A. A., of Kearney, in a game of soccer football on the Clinton avenue grounds, tomorrow. This will be one of the Inter-City League games. These teams are evenly matched and a hard struggle is expected. Owing to the Plainfield eleven adding two points to their standing in the league last Monday, the enthusiasm is quite high. They now have a chance to land in first place. The game will be called at 3 o'clock sharp. Referee Boyle, of Harrison, will officiate.

The Plainfield team will lineup as follows: McNeice, Braidwood, Craig, Crawford, Hosie, McComb, Spalding, Menzie, Heaume, Mitchell and Sutton. The Eureka A. A. will clash with the Thomas A. A., at Riverside Oval, Kearney, Sunday, in a league game.

To Continue As County Chairman.

Congressman-elect William E. Tuttle, of Westfield, stated yesterday that in a day or two he would chose a secretary to serve him at Washington. He has two names under consideration. It is believed that Mr. Tuttle will continue as the head of the Union County Democratic Committee. The committee will probably reorganize during the third week in January.

Hospital Visitors Appointed.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital met this morning in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. Mrs. Daniel Runkle, Mrs. Charles Rosan and Mrs. E. Arthur Janke were appointed visitors at the hospital for January. Mrs. Abner Wilcox, as chairman of the Christmas committee made a report covering the usual amount of work accomplished.

Proctor's Great Show.

The sensational singing novelty the "Aeroplane Girl," is attracting capacity audiences to Proctor's theatre this week. James Grady & Co., in a sektch, "The Toll Bridge;" "The Silverettes," ring experts are exceedingly good, while The Great Morin is a wonderful ventriloquist. The show is one of the best presented at the popular playhouse in a long time.

In the Borough Court.

Health Officer Oliff, of the borough, entered complaint today against George Becker for a violation of the health ordinance. He will be given a hearing tomorrow. Daniel O'Connor, arrested this morning for disorderly conduct at his home, will be given a hearing this afternoon.

Death of Mrs. L. W. Musson.

Notice was received in this city today of the death at Kansas City, Mo., on Christmas Day, of Mrs. Loiuse W. Musson, wife of the late Henry W. Musson, and a sister of Mrs. Charles W. Butler and Mrs. Isaac L. Miller, of this city.

"Ladies' Night" Affair.

The Men's Association of the Church of the Heavenly Rest will hold a "ladies' night" affair and progressive euchre on Thursday night, January 12, and not January 5, as reported. It will be held in the parish house.

BALL GIVEN FOR CHARITY

Annual Event for Benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital at Auditorium.

A DELIGHTFUL ENTERTAINMENT

About Two Hundred Society People Attend the Affair—Supper Served at Midnight.

Between 175 and 200 persons attended the charity ball given for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital, last night, in Hartridge auditorium, which is just about half of the number that attended last year. The large difference is accounted for by the fact that last year "The Climax" was given at the Plainfield theatre and included in the cost of the ticket. However, it was stated last night by L. G. Timpson, chairman of the ball committee, that upward of 300 tickets had been sold so that the net proceeds of the affair will not fall very far short of last year's amount.

Dancing began at 9:30 and at 10 o'clock an entertainment under the direction of William MacClymont was given in the small auditorium, which was of a high order. Among the artists were Edward L. Seip, piano monologuist; the Cecilian Male Quartet, of New York; Charles Thompson, an entertaining juggler and sleight-of-hand performer, and the Van Epps Brothers, banjoists, accompanied by Joseph Denny, pianist. The entertainment was well received, especially the selections by the quartet.

The auditorium presented an attractive appearance in its green and red decorations, prominent among which were the symbols of the Red Cross Society. Festoons of green were draped from the center and both ends of the hall, while the orchestra of twenty pieces was hidden in a bower of green on the stage. The music rendered by this orchestra was beyond criticism and was furnished by Professor Austen, of Brooklyn. The caterer for the supper, which was served at midnight, was Simon Davis, of Newark.

At no time during the evening were there more than 100 people on the dancing floor, but this seemed to have been a source of pleasure to the dancers as the crowding so noticeable at last year's affair was absent. The committees in charge of the ball were as follows:

General committee, Harry L. Hall, chairman. Ticket committee, S. D. Lounsbury, J. E. Erickson, Howard Beebe and W. C. Kinney. Supper, H. W. Marshall. Reception, Chester B. Lawrence. The ball committee was composed of the following: L. G. Timpson, chairman; Frederic Butler, Ames Brooks, Harvey Fisk, Hart S. Farley, Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, L. E. Waring, Dudley H. Barrows, Effingham Pinto, Herbert Rogers, Morris Dumont, O. G. Waring, Harry Eaton, Roy Cox, Ford Johnson, Theodore Reynolds, Percy H. Stewart, Arthur L. Otterson, Henry Brower, Thomas R. VanBoskerck, John Valiant and John VanDeventer.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Besler, Ames Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Leighton Calkins, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Charles, Arthur M. Collens, Mrs. William A. Connor, Miss Ursula Rowland, Roy Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Day, Dr. A. H. Dundon, Miss Daisy Elsburg, Mr. and Mrs. Julius E. Erickson, Charles E. Faber, Mrs. Chapman Fisk, Miss Fisk, Miss Garrigues, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel F. Ginna, Mrs. James Hallock.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hatch, Clinton Ivins, J. Ford Johnson, David T. Kenney, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Kleinecke, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Kinney, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Ladd, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Lounsbury, Mr. and Mrs. Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. McGee, Augustus L. C. Marsh, Harry W. Marshall, F. L. C. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. George Magrew, James P. Murray, Roger F. Murray, Miss Gabriel McQuaid, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Otterson, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Dumont, Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Righter, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Smart, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Thompson, Miss Thompson, Lawrence Tweedy, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Tyler, John Valiant, Theodore R. VanBoskerck, George W. VanBuskirk, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Waring, O. G. Waring and Miss Frances Wildey.

The dining arrangements under the supervision of Harry W. Marshall were admirably carried out and the service met with genuine hearty approval. The other committees were warmly praised for the manner in which the affair was conducted. The pianos used were furnished gratis by the Hallet and Davis Co.

—Neuman Bros. will have for tomorrow's trade a large and choice assortment of fresh vegetables, which will help to make your New Year's Day dinner all the more enjoyable.

XMAS ENTERTAINMENT AT THE DAY NURSERY

The Christmas tree party held at The Day Nursery on West Third street, yesterday afternoon, was enjoyed by about thirty childreu, together with their mothers and friends. BURGLARS GET JEWELRY

Home of Mrs. Rutherford H. Towner Entered Yesterday Afternoon.

THE LOSS IS ABOUT $500.00.

Entrance Forced Through a Side Window and Silverware Taken In Absence of Family and Servants.

Without leaving any clue a burglar entered the home of Mrs. Rutherford H. Towner, 831 Second place, yesterday afternoon between 4:30 and 6 o'clock and made off with jewelry and other valuables to the amount of over $500. The police are making a rigid investigation.

According to a maid, Miss Saunders, colored, whose afternoon out it was, she left the house at about 2 o'clock returning at 4 to meet the postman from whom was expected a valuable package from the Gorham Co., of New York. The postman arrived on time, but the package did not come by mail. A few moments later the expected parcel was delivered by the United States Express Co., and signed for by Miss Saunders, who then left the house to resume her outing.

Returning at about 6 o'clock Miss Saunders noticed a light in the window on the second story and when she tried to open the door with her key found that the chain had been adjusted so that entrance was impossible. Becoming frightened she went to the neighbors and reported the strange occurrence and a telephone message was sent to police headquarters.

Detective Sergeant Flynn responded and when entrance was finally effected the robber had fled. It is believed that he heard Miss Saunders attempting to unlock the front door and watched his chance to make a getaway while she was notifying the police. No clue was left by the burglar. Entrance was effected by jimmying a window near the front door. The family was in New York on a visit so that the house was deserted when Miss Saunders left it. Among the stolen articles were several Christmas presents received by members of the family.

FIRST TRI-REUNION OF HIGH SCHOOL CLASSES.

The first tri-reunion of Plainfield High School classes was held last night, when the members of the classes of 1908, 1909 and 1910 gathered in the P. H. S. auditorium to renew acquaintances formed in school.

The affair was a complete success in every respect and was arranged and supervised by Lenox Stanley Karner and Orlando H. Lounsbury, of the class of 1908; and much credit is due them for their able management. They were assisted by Miss Helen Rogers, '09; G. S. Robins, '09; Miss Margaret Leggett, '10, and Howard J. Runyon, Jr., '10.

There were twenty-four dances on the program including a cotillion led by Stanley Karner and Miss Clara Louise Karner. Fifty-three couples were present. During the interval between the halves light refreshments were served. Music was furnished by Suhr's orchestra.

During the dance the concensus of opinion of the members in regard to holding tri-unions in future was determined by the members of the committee and the class presidents, all of whom were present. With the advice of Principal Best, it was decided to hold similar reunions in future, on the last Thursday of the Christmas vacation.

Petitions are being circulated for signers in the town, asking Senator Frelinghuysen, chairman of the investigating on schools, to investigate the school conditions in the town. An attempt is to be made to have the several school elections recently held investigated and the price of land offered to the Board of Education looked into.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

Henry B. Harris will present for the first time in this city the great comedy hit of the present New York season, "The Country Boy," at the Plainfield theatre on Tuesday evening, January 3. "The Country Boy" was written by the well known actor playwright, Edgar Selwyn, and since its opening at the Liberty theatre, New York, has been playing to crowded houses nightly. It is interesting to note that the struggles of a country boy coming to a large city to carve his fortune and seek fame finds a parallel in the life of Edgar Selwyn, the author of the now famous comedy. His first position, as an usher at the Herald Square theatre, was lost by being caught imitating Richard Mansfield, who at that time was playing the theatre. He then secured an engagement as as actor, and immediately scored a big hit as the Mexican in "Arizona." From now on we find him slowly but surely climbing the ladder of success as an actor, meanwhile trying his hand at playwriting, until finally he showed his mettle as the author of "Pierre of the Plains," in which he starred. Selwyn's life has been one of struggle. He is a self-made man. No proverbial golden spoon ever passed his lips, nor did Dame Fortune seek him out during his early struggles to nestle him on her lap. But it is the success of men like Mr. Selwyn which appeal most strongly to the American public, for it is such men that fate cannot give a solar prexus knock-out to or keep down in the world.

Domestic Sewing Machine

THE BEST MACHINE FOR HOME SEWERS

Of course you've heard people talking about the fact that we've been appointed selling agents for the time-tried Domestic Sewing Machine—the good old Domestic—better than ever before; does more kinds of sewing and more of it in the best manner, and in less time than any other you know of.

There are three things that the Domestic will do that no other sewing machine in the world can do, and the cheap machine can do none of them, namely:

1. The Chain and Lock Stitch—two machines in one—and you can change from one to the other without fuss or trouble.

2. A Vibrating Presser, so useful in sewing sheer and gauzy stuffs, for darning, braiding and embroidery work, also an advantage in passing thick seams and sewing thick goods.

3. A Five-Stitch Ruffler which gives a plait at every fifth stitch, also gathering, puffing, ruching, scalop plaiting, crepe trimming, as well as plain ruffing.

One or two other machines may give you one of these features—just one—bupt not all three in the one machine.

The heads of the Domestic Sewing Machine are beautifully symmetrical and the cabinet work rich and perfectly finished, bent wodwork noted for its lightness and durability being largely used in the construction. The Domestic Machines, therefore, have beauty, grace, and proportion combined with strength and superior finish.

We will sell only the new style Domestics of which there are five—all high-class, all of the dependable character—At these prices.

$25, $30, $35, $40 and $50

Domestic Machines, like the other machines we sell, will be sold on the Easy Payment Plan—a little down and a little each month until paid for—enabling you to own one of these splendid time-honored sewing machines without financial inconvenience.

GOLF.

Andrew Kirkaldy, the well-known Scotch professional, who has recently been appointed the professional at the Royal and Ancient Club at St. Andrews, is celebrated for his dry wit. Once a noble lord invited to luncheon four professionals who had played an exhibition match over a new course. Three of them retired to make their toilet, and noticing that Kirkaldy lingered behind, his lordship said: "Come this way, Kirkaldy." "What for?" said Andy. "Oh," replied his host, "you want to wash your hands, don't you?" "What!" cried Andy, "and spoil ma grap—nae fear?" At a certain club the tees for the women were ill defined, and it was decided to put in new sand boxes appropriately remarked. This was told to Andy, who remarked: "A good notion, sir, and, I tell ye, just paint a big L on them and they'll know where to go."

ANTI-SUFFRAGIST LOGIC.

That highly respectable organization, the National League for the Civic Education of Women, appears to have as one of its objects an effort to stem the tide of "votes for women." Its position is rather a strange one to say the least, some would say a ridiculous one, for it would give a woman a civic education but would deny to her the privilege of making proper use of her acquired powers. For the benefit of those who have never heard of this organization it should be said that its letter head contains the names of exactly eighty officers, directors, honorary vice presidents and heads of committees. Among them are such distinguished persons as Dr. Lyman Abbott, Henry Clews, John D. Crimmins, Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, Mrs. Richard Watson Gilder, Mrs. Grover Cleveland, Mrs. Humphey Ward, Mrs. David H. Greer, Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, Miss Mary L. Stebbins, Francis Lynde Stetson and Mrs. Gilbert E. Jones. Such a galaxy of notables when banded together is certainly entitled to a hearing particularly when registering a protest as contained in the following letter received from Mrs. Jones, the chairman of its executive committee:

"Editor, The Daily Press:

"I have before me a newspaper clipping with an editorial from your valued publication. It refers to woman suffrage and I beg for a little courtesy on your part. If you will allow me to answer the latter part of the editorial where you say, 'For why should not a woman with large property holdings, particularly, have just as much right to say whether and how much she may be taxed, the same as does some ignorant foreign-born citizen, who, with difficulty speaks the English language, knows nothing about our institutions and has no property?'

"There is a very good answer why she should not vote, and if you will kindly follow the trend of anti-suffrage arguments, you will probably put something before your readers that may give them some important information on the matter.

"'Taxation without representation is tyranny' is the cry of many suffragists. 'Taxation without representation is tyranny' is the cry of the anti-suffragists, because it would lead back to the well tried, but discarded rule of the privileged rich having more voting power then the poor and the weak. Property qualifications were necessary in our earlier history, but it was found to be undemocratic, and the 'voters' of the States were granted universal manhood suffrage. They say 'equal rights to all, and special privileges to none.' Yet they ask for this special privilege to tax-paying women.

"Taxation with representation is tyranny, but we must be very careful to define what we mean by the phrase. If we adopt the suffrage attitude, 'I pay taxes, therefore I should vote,' the natural conclusion is that everybody who pays taxes should vote, or we have a tyrannical form of government. Remember that this argument is used in an unqualified way. We have a 'tyranny' here, we are told, because some women pay taxes, yet do not vote. If this is true without any qualification, it must be true not only of women, but of everybody. Accordingly this government is tyrannical if corporations pay taxes, but do not vote; if aliens pay taxes, but do not vote; if miners pay taxes, but do not vote; if anybody pays taxes, but does not vote. The only correct conclusion is, not that women should vote because some of them pay taxes, but that every taxpayer should be given the privilege of the ballot. Under our system of indirect taxation it is almost impossible to say that anybody is not a taxpayer, therefore it would seem that every man, woman, and child, naturalized or alien, and every corporation, should vote. The absurdity of this is evident... Even if woman suffrage were granted, 50 per cent. of the population would still be without the ballot, and everyone of these could stand up and say, as the suffragists are now saying, 'Taxation without representation is tyranny.' I am taxed, but unrepresented, therefore I am being tyrannized over.'

"It is clear that the phrase is distorted. The distortion lies in the fact that the suffragists are trying to make an individual right out of a principle of government. It is impossible to believe that everybody must vote, if the direct and indirect tax is considered.

"If women vote because they pay taxes, many will be enfranchised who never earned a dollar, and who own their property wholly through the accident of inheritance. Thousands of women will be discriminated against, in favor of a few. Hundreds of women teachers would never have the advantages that a favored aristocracy of wealth would have. There would be a complete inequality of political privileges for women. Statesmen, lawyers, citizens and the wise men from the north, south, east and west have been consulted, and have conscientiously discussed this question of who should vote, with the result that the tax-paying qualifications have been done away with, and universal manhood suffrage has been generally adopted.

"Yours very sincerely,
"MRS. GILBERT E. JONES."

Mrs. Jones' argument, which we take it is made with the authority of the National League for the Civic Education of Women, reminds us of William L. Saunders' remark in a recent speech that William Dean Howells once said that he had heard many arguments against woman suffrage but no reasons. Her logic is most extraordinary. She takes the text "Taxation without representation is tyranny" and builds upon it a house of straw which she promptly knocks down. To tell the truth, we are not quite sure that we can follow her line of reasoning, though we have read the communication over several times.

For instance, Mrs. Jones argues against property qualifications on the assumption that the cry "Taxation without representation is tyranny" means property qualification in voting. Nobody takes any such view of the question, nor would anybody disfranchise the masses if it were agreed that people who hold property should vote. No one claims that only people who hold property should vote, but that because people who do not hold property do vote, and because they are men, is no reason why a woman who does hold property should not also vote. It is not claimed that she should have two or three votes or any proportion of strength based on her wealth, but that she should be placed on an equality with a man, who now has the right to vote.

Other statements made by Mrs. Jones are equally illogical. She goes on to infer that corporations, aliens, minors, etc., should pay taxes on a property qualification basis, which, of course, is all wrong, because corporations do vote as individuals; aliens do not vote because the law is against them and minors are exempt by law for very good reasons. It is fundamental that no one should vote except those who have reason and intelligence enough to know what they are voting. This cannot be said of children or lunatics, but it can be said of intelligent women.

We confess that we do not understand her statement that even if woman suffrage were granted fifty per cent. of the population would still be without the ballot. It looks like an absurdity as practically 100 per cent. would have the ballot if woman suffrage were established. No one includes aliens and lunatics and such in the class referred to as population. Equally absurd is her objection to enfranchising people who inherited money and had not earned it.

The letter as a whole reminds us of a story told by the professor of logic at the University of Pennsylvania some years ago. He said: "Some people reason on lines that might prove anything. For instance, nothing is better than heaven; twenty-five cents everyone admits is better than nothing, therefore twenty-five cents is better than heaven." With all due respect, we doubt if Mrs. Jones' argument against woman suffrage is worth twenty-five cents.

Funeral of J. D. Cashin.

The funeral of James D. Cashin was held this morning at his late home at 8:15 o'clock and at 9 in St. Mary's church. Rev. B. M. Bogan said the mass and the interment was in St. Mary's cemetery. The bearers were Luke, Patrick and James McGauley, Peter Duffy, Patrick Dunn and John Kale.

A. Powlison, assisted by the teachers. Those who took part were: Introduction, Miss Anna Sherwin; Mrs. Santa Claus, Miss Catherine Armstrong; Santa Claus, Miss Anna Sherwin; Tottie, Arthur Krauser; Dottie, Alleyne McNabb; sisters, Ruth Hoffman and Genevieve Letson; brothers, Randolph Douglas and Edward Boyle; fairies, Isabel Wilson, Marguerite Endress, Jean McNabb and Harriet Milne; mother, Catherine Armstrong; sandman, Earl Bach; dolls, Ruth Miles, Estelle Homann and Emma Armstrong; sleepy head giants, Theodore Smith, Benny Letson, Horace Fischer, Alexander Milne, Jr.

Three carols were sung by the children. A plant was presented to Mrs. Powlison by the teachers of the primary department, after which dolls, toys and candy were given to the children. Tea and wafers were served to the mothers and friends present. Those in charge were Miss Helen Armstrong, Miss Anna Conant and Mrs. Allen Vanderhoef.

In the evening an entertainment was provided for the older members of the school, Bertram Smith and Frederick Clark, of New York, presenting the entire program, which comprised character sketches and recitations, which seemed to please the audience. James E. Church, superintendent of the school, was in charge. Afterward ice cream and cake was served by the officers and teachers of the school and the younger children received gifts. Mrs. Harold Serrell was chairman of the entertainment committee.

First Presbyterian Church.

At the First Presbyterian church last evening the Sunday-school rooms were filled to their utmost capacity when the curtain rose from an improvised stage on the first scene of a Christmas story acted by members of the Sunday-school who did their work as if it were an everyday occurence. The play was based on Kate Douglas Wiggins' story of the Birds Christmas Dinner in which Miss Marion Wean and Miss Pauline Gates starred. Miss Wean played the invalid daughter with considerable ability giving evidence of dramatic talent. Miss Gates had the difficult part of mothering a family of nine children and acquitted herself splendidly.

Elston Hoagland did well as the father of the invalid girl while the nine youngsters capered about in a way to draw forth the laughter of the big audience in spasms and continuity. Betweet the acts a quartet composed of the Misses Edna and Mary Bicknell and Jeannie and Martha Reid entertained the company with Christmas carols accompanied by Clifford A. Braider, the church organist. The entertainment was under the direction of F. O. Dunning, chairman of the committee. Owing to illness Leroy H. Gates, superintendent of the Sunday-school was unable to be present.

The rooms were beautifully decorated, a huge white bell hanging from the centre while a five pointed star electrically illuminated formed the apex of the stage curtain. The distribution of gifts followed the play.

This part of the entertainment was furnished by the Junior department, under the direction of Mrs. Grace P. Williams, the superintendent.

Cowley; "Harry Lauder," Robert Murray; "Uncle Tom," George Pierson; "Simon Legree," Charles Vincent; "Paderswski," Geo. Gage. The distribution of candy and oranges followed. G. Herbert Condict, superintendent, was in charge of the entire program. In the afternoon the primary and beginners' departments had their Christmas festivities, they being in charge of the Misses Edna and Eunice Eckert, Frances Mosher and Marguerite Phillips. Mrs. M. W. Clark and Miss Agnes Leighs were in charge of the primary department. The children played games, after which there was a distribution of dolls, books, candy and oranges, while refreshments were served by the committee.

Warren Chapel.

The Primary and Junior departments of Warren chapel held their Christmas exercises yesterday afternoon. The children were entertained by Professor Moore, of New York, who gave an exhibition of lightning crayon drawing and ventriloquism. His numbers were very good and the children were delighted. After the entertainment they were presented with gifts, candy and oranges by Santa Claus, who made lots of fun for the little ones. The jolly old fellow was capitally impersonated by Andrew Stiglitz.

Professor Moore again appeared at night when the senior department assembled. They showed their appreciation of the artist's efforts by generous applause. In conclusion refreshments of ice cream and cake were distributed by the missionary committee of the Missionary and Aid Society composed of the following:

Mrs. John Higgins, chairman; Mrs. Snyder, Mrs. A. J. Stiglitz, Mrs. Gibson Smith, Mrs. Newmiller and Mrs. Joseph Randall.

NEW JERSEY CLUBS FIGHT FOR SUPREMACY

At a special meeting which attracted more than three hundred members of the New Jersey Automobile and Motor Club in Newark, Tuesday night the first gun was fired in the fight between the Newark club and the Associated Automobile Clubs of New Jersey and the American Automobile Association. Last week, by a divided vote, the trustees of the Newark Club seceded from the State and national bodies. The meeting Tuesday night was called on the petition of a number of members to consider resolutions in effect reversing the action.

Clarence H. Bissell, president of the Newark club, ruled the most important of these resolutions unconstitutional and refused to put it to a vote. He referred a resolution indorsing the automobile legislation prepared by the Association Automobile Clubs to a subordinate committee and refused to permit this resolution to be voted on. There were open cries of "gag rule!" and "Political trickery!" when discussion was refused to the members.

Mr. Franklin Murphy, formerly Governor of New Jersey, and Mr. Alfred N. Dalrymple, chairman of the Essex County Republican organization, were proimnent in sustaining Mr. Bissell. Three prior presidents of the Newark club dissented from Mr. Bissell's ruling.

Leading officials of the American Automobile Association and of the Associated Clubs of New Jersey stated after the meeting that it was only the beginning of the fight. Mr. Bissell asserts that his action was in conformity with legal advice.

A Big New $2,000,000 Store Structure for Newark, N. J.

Plans were filed last week by L. Bamberger & Co., of Newark, N. J., for a large, new store building situated immediately west of their present location on Market street, the estimated cost of which will exceed $2,000,000. The new Bamberger store will face 144 ft. on Market street, 116 ft. on Washington street and 235 ft. on Halsey street. The exterior, up to the second floor will be of polished granite, while the super-structure will be composed of pure white terra cotta. The general treatment of the building will be Gothic. The interior will be finished in hard white cement, while the fixtures will be of the finest mahogany. The new structure will be eight stories high, exclusive of basement making nine stories altogether. It will be L shaped and will have commodious entrances on all three streets.

Work on the new Bamberger building will be commenced as soon as the preliminary arrangements are completed, and it is expected that the great new edifice will be ready for occupancy by the end of the ensuing year. The new building has been contemplated for some time, in fact L. Bamberger & Co. began the acquisition of property upon which the new structure is to be built nearly ten years ago.

The new Bamberger store will be of the most modern fireproof, skeleton steel construction. The column spacing is wide, and all of the ceilings are high, giving plenty of light and ventilation. There will be the most complete fire protection, including the latest sprinkler devices and fire hose equipment on every floor. Eighteen spacious, rapid running elevators have been planned so as to minimize crowding, while protected stairways on all three sides will furnish exits to the street. The interior lighting will be of the most modern sort, this feature alone having received the attention of the most expert engineers in the country. The ventilating features of the new store will be of the most approved type, all the air being washed and dried before it is introduced. Special attention has been given to the ingress and egress of the public and every portion of the big new structure will be easy of access.

The new building will enable the firm of L. Bamberger & Co., to more than double its present business. All of the old departments of the Bamberger store will be greatly enlarged and many new ones added, making the new store as complete an organization as there is in the country. It is expected that at least one thousand additional people will be required in the various departments.

The policy of the new Bamberger store will be identical with that of the old. This is the one and only feature of the new store.

This magnificent new store building, being the most recent of its kind, is therefore one of the most perfect mercantile structures in the United States, indeed, it will be a monument to the progresiveness of Newark—and to the spirit and resourcefulness of the firm that is behind it.

Court Plainfield, No. 1144, I. O. O. F., will meet tonight and initiate eleven candidates. There will also be a smoker and arrangements for the annual entertainment to be held at Saengerbund Hall, January 16, will be completed.

The children of the primary department of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will hold its Christmas party, this afternoon, and the entertainment for the older members of the Sunday-school will be held this evening.

THE HARVEST MOON

Copyright, 1909, by Augustus Thomas

Whatever Vavin's intentions in cultivating the American specialist were at first, his friends had to admit that in a short time they were genuine friends. There were few places where the three, Vavin, Fullerton and Miss Fullerton, were not seen together, and when he went to Havre to see them off for America he returned to Paris for only a few hours, spending the next month at his place at Montigny-sur-Loing, "working," he told his friends. But one or two of his intimates declared that the old man had really gone away to hide his loneliness.

It was not, however, a particularly friendly Vavin who sat opposite Fullerton now. He had never seen an overexacting conscience in operation before, and the thing was more than distasteful to him. He arose gallantly as the girl entered the room. "My little Dora," he said, "I congratulate you on the conquest of an intelligent affection and, I believe, a most sincere one."

"You are encouraging her to like this young man," protested Elliott.

"No, merely to be human," laughed Vavin.

CHAPTER VIII.

VAVIN continued: "The trouble with you, judge, the trouble with all of you puritanical folks, as far as I have been able to find out, is that you are afraid to let yourselves enjoy anything. I am an individualist, I am also a Frenchman, and if Miss Dora is going to be happy I should hate to think in the years that are to come that I hesitated to enter into the spirit of her happiness merely because her father's legal adviser had an overdeveloped bump of caution."

The girl sat down and faced the three men calmly and with set jaws. This was not the first conference of this kind which she had attended, and she was more than inured to them.

"We want to talk this thing over with you, Dora," began Professor Fullerton.

"Of what use will it be?" asked the girl. "Haven't we talked it over enough? Hasn't Aunt Cornelia told you that I am so much like my mother I never will be any good? Hasn't she said to you as well as to me that even if I do give up this great opportunity I will be doing something just as evil in a short time?"

"But I have told you," said Professor Fullerton, "that I have reproved Aunt Cornelia for talking that way."

"Yes!" cried the girl. "But have you been able to stop her? She sat in my room last night until 2 o'clock and told me what a devilish being I was—just like my mother. Mother, too, ran away, she says, to go on the stage. So what is the use?"

"But you wish to do as your father asks you, Dora?" said Fullerton, with as much gentleness as he could put into his voice.

"Under ordinary circumstances I should not think of doing anything else but what he asks me, but I am weary of being told that I have nothing but the most despicable traits, and I want to live my life as I see it."

Vavin moved over to where the girl sat and took her hand soothingly. Her father, he explained, had asked Judge Elliott and himself to spend the week end with him that they might help her by their advice and suggestion. The girl's eyes filled with tears as he gently endeavored to show her that there was not the opposition to her plans that she believed.

"I am here, my dear child, as much as your friend as I am here as a friend of your father. Let us talk the matter over."

The girl declared that she was weary. "Let me go," she said, "and you fight it out among yourselves. "You," and she took Vavin's hand between her own—"you, I know, are my friend, and if you decide that I should not take this part in Mr. Holcomb's play then I won't do it."

"Spoken like a sensible girl," said Elliott, and even Fullerton felt that with that attitude the matter was practically disposed of.

"It is very fortunate," said Judge Elliott when Dora had left the room, "that you have this influence over her, as I am afraid she has come to feel that the rest of us are not sympathetic."

"Are you?" asked Vavin.

Fullerton and Elliott looked at him with surprise.

"You are both affectionate, but are you sympathetic to her mood? Do you put yourself inside of the young girl's mind? Are you once again young yourselves, with the wide world before you as a wonder book?"

"Then you sympathize with this erratic desire?"

"Erratic for a judge," replied Vavin, "erratic for a professor, erratic, maybe, for an author with a gray mustache. But for a young girl with beauty, with a heart, with imagination, with fire, with sensibility, that is not necessarily erratic."

"You encourage her, then?" said Fullerton, beginning to doubt the providential quality of Vavin's interposition.

"I don't know. What is better?"

CARE OF CALVES IN WINTER.

Light, Air, Good Rations and Exercise Are Essential to Their Well Being During Cold Weather.

With the approach of cold weather, when most of the spring calves are cut off their skimmilk and pasture, the dairy calf faces a critical time in its development. In the first place, the calf is very susceptible to cold and should never be exposed to cold, drizzling rains. Its winter quarters must be warm and comfortable. A shivering calf will mean a shabby looking calf, in spite of the best feeding. A clean, warm, dry, well bedded, well ventilated stable with a sunny exposure is the proper place for the animal during cold and rainy fall and winter days. You cannot get too much sunlight in a calf barn; hence see to it that it is provided with plenty of windows.

A good winter ration for the spring calf is good clean clover or alfalfa hay, supplemented with silage and a little grain. Clover hay is rich in muscle forming elements, and its bulkiness tends to develop a strong, capacious stomach in the young animal. Silage has a wholesome tonic effect upon the calf, giving it a good appetite and keeping it in a healthy, vigorous growing condition.

In addition to the rough feed the calf should be fed about three-quarters of a pound of grain daily. This amount should be gradually increased, so that toward spring, when the calf is about one year old, it will receive one and one-half pounds a day. One part linseed meal and two parts wheat bran make a very satisfactory combination of grain. The linseed meal, beside being rich in growing elements, has a tonic value and gives the calf a sleek, fine looking coat. Wheat bran is valuable because of its bulkiness and because it is especially rich in bone forming material.

Keep salt constantly before the calves. They have a craving for it and need it. Also see to it that the calves receive plenty of water.

Calves must also have exercise for best development. A strong constitution is of first importance, and this cannot be developed by continuous confinement. The calves should therefore be turned out daily. During cold weather an hour at noon will be sufficient. If they have been properly fed they will jump and kick around enough to keep them warm for a short time outside, even on very cold days.

Do not keep the calves tied up in rigid stanchions except during feeding. The best plan is to provide pens holding about half a dozen calves each. The calves in each pen should be as nearly the same size as possible. It is a bad practice to place a little calf with a lot of big ones. Clean the pens and feed troughs every day. Watch the calves to see that they don't suck each other. As soon as one begins to suck place it in a stanchion and keep it there a few days.

The members of the Plainfield Merchants' Association, which merged with the Chamber of Commerce, met last night and wound up all the affairs of the old association, auditing and passing all bills. As the association merged with the new organization there was no cause for its existence and it was decided to disband the association.

MISS SAUNDERS A BRIDE

CEREMONY AT HOLY CROSS.

Fashionable Throng Witnesses the Marriage—Wedding Breakfast and Reception at Home of Bride's Father.

Miss Louise Saunders, the elder daughter of William L. Saunders, of Rockview avenue North Plainfield, and Maxwell Evarts Perkins, son of the late Edward C. Perkins, of this city, were married at noon today at the Church of the Holy Cross, in the presence of a large and fashionable assemblage of relatives and friends from New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Boston, Windsor Vermont, and other distant points.

The wedding was one of the most brilliant functions of the season, uniting two of the oldest families of the city and borough which have been prominent in affairs here for many years.

The bride had for her bridesmaids, Miss Jean Saunders, her sister, and Miss Emily Beatrice Saunders, of Philadelphia, a cousin, while the best man was Walter G. Oakman, Jr., of New York. The ushers were William Lawrence Saunders, 2d., of Philadelphia a cousin of the bride; Charles C. Perkins and Edward N. Perkins, of this city, brothers of the groom, and John B. Pierce, of Boston.

The wedding gowns were the latest work of the modiste's art, being made by Lucile, of New York. The bride's gown was of white satin, trimmed with old lace worn by her grandmother. She wore a tulle veil, caught up with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of white orchids.

The gowns of the bridesmaids were of pink chiffon, with touches of blue and tiny pink ribbon rosebuds. They wore lace caps with blue streamers, and carried baskets of pink roses.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Prescott Evarts, of Cambridge, Mass., an uncle of the groom, and he was assisted by Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross.

While the guests were arriving William S. O'Brien, organist of the church, assisted by Udo Gossweiler, 'cellist, formerly of Damrosch's orchestra, rendered a program of classical selections, including Pilgrim's Chorus, Tannhauser; selections from Thais; Passe Pied, Evening Star, Tannhauser; Romance, Davidoff; Le Cygne, Saint-Saens; Berceuse, Kinder.

As the bridal party entered the church and ascended up the aisle, the Wedding March from Mendelssohn was rendered, and during the ceremony, Handel's Largo. As a recessional the Wedding March from Lohengrin was played. The music comprised a charming feature of the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The church was lavishly decorated for the wedding, green and white being the prevailing colors. The whole chancel was banked with greens and at the foot of the chancel there was an elaborate decoration of white flowers, the decorative scheme being most effective. The design at the church and home was by Miss Elizabeth Fraser, of this city, and executed by Stanley.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding breakfast and reception was held at the handsome home of the bride's father on Rockview avenue. There were about three hundred guests present. An elaborate menu was served by Fantozzi, of New York. Early in the afternoon the couple departed on an extended wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside at 95 Rockview avenue, the handsome dwelling completely furnished, and property being the gift of Mr. Saunders to his daughter.

The bride was probably the recipient of as costly a collection of wedding gifts as has been seen here in a long time. They comprised about everything that a bride could possibly wish for including furniture, silverware, goldware, cutglass, valuable tapestries, paintings, there being in all about three hundred separate gifts.

Both the bride and groom are favorites in the younger society set, where they have been active and prominent in various functions given during the past few years. The bride has won high praise and honors in local amateur productions, while she has also gained much favorable comment for her work as an author, her latest work being a charming story called "The Woodland Princess." She has written several short plays which have been given with much success.

Mr. Perkins is a grandson of the

DANCE FOR MISS FISK WAS A CHARMING AFFAIR

On of the most charming social functions of the holiday season was the Christmas dance given by Mrs. Chapman Fisk for her daughter, Miss Dorothy Fisk, at the Hartridge School auditorium, last night. There were nearly two hundred guests present from this city and New York, including the younger society set and the younger married couples. The large auditorium was resplendent in Christmas decorations of greens and flowers, adding to the attractiveness of the affair.

Music for the dancing, which began about 9 o'clock and continued until 3 o'clock this morning, was furnished by Austin's Orchestra, of New York, and an unusually popular program of numbers was rendered, the orchestra being generous in its encores.

There was an intermission at midnight, during which an elaborate supper was served by Fantozzi, of New York. The dancing was then resumed. The whole affair was delightful and the young people seemed to greatly enjoy the spirit of the occosian, so appropriate to Christmastide.

SUSPEND BUSINESS; MONDAY A HOLIDAY

Monday, being a holiday, the usual holiday rules will be enforced at the Plainfield Public Library. The local drug stores will remain closed from 1 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon. The merchants generally will close their stores for the entire day. The postoffice will be open until 10 o'clock in the morning.

Several social affairs have been planned, including the reception to be given at the Park Club in the evening by Mrs. Howard Fleming and Miss Fleming. There will also be a reception in the afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock, given by Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Zelie at their home on Park avenue.

The Watchung Hunt Club will hold its scheduled run, weather permitting, meeting the hounds at the Oak Tree schoolhouse at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Mildred and Rouclere and their merry company in their highly successful glittering imaginative fantasy, "Princess Iris," will be at the Plainfield theatre, matinee and night. "The Country Boy," direct from Broadway, will be the attraction at the theatre on Tuesday night.

MOY CITY'S MAYOR TOMORROW AT NOON

Several changes in the city government will become eective tomorrow at 12 o'clock noon, when Mayor-elect George W. V Moy will go into office as the successor of Charles Joel Fisk, who retires after a service of four years in that capacity. At the same time City Judge-elect William G. DeMeza will succeed William N. Runyon, who has held the position for nearly twelve years. Judge DeMeza will preside in the city court Monday morning for the first time.

The many friends of Judge DeMeza and Mayor Moy will assemble in the city court Monday morning and an informal New Year's Day reception will be held there for those who desire to call.

The Common Council will meet Monday evening for organization. Among the most important appointments the Mayor is empowered tot make are the corporation counsel, the board of assessors, shade tree commission, overseer of the poor and building inspector.

To Wed This Evening.

At 8 o'clock this evening at the residence of her mother, Miss Marie E. Thomas, daughter of Mrs. Helen Thomas, of 202 Spooner avenue, will become the bride of Charles A. Frederickson, a son of Captain Christian Frederickson, of the local police department. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel.

O'Connor Sentence.

Daniel O'Connor, of Harrison avenue, who was arrested yesterday on complaint of his wife for disorderly conduct, was arraigned before Mayor Smalley last night. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to ninety days in jail.

Watch-Night Services.

There will be a watch-night service at the Salvation Army headquarters beginning at 10:30 o'clock tonight. There will be a regular meeting at 8 o'clock.

FIRE IN BOROUGH SHOP

LOSS WILL AGGREGATE $1,500.

Proprietor of Tailoring Establishment Severely Burned—Apartment Above Suffers from Water and Flames.

An explosion of gasolene followed by a fire wrecked the tailoring shop of Henry Rubenson at 79 Somerset street, this morning. The place was gutted by the flames that swept through and ate their way to the second floor above occupied as an apartment by John Mowry and family. The firemen were kept busy for nearly two hours and a conservative estimate places the loss at $1,500. only partially covered by insurance.

Rubenson was at work in the back of the shop cleaning clothes with gasolene at about 9:30 when suddenly an explosion occurred that he is unable to account for. The entire front of the store was blown out with a crash that was heard for blocks. A sheet of flame belched into the street and in a very short time it seemed as if the whole building was ablaze.

Rubenson was felled to the floor when the explosion occurred but managed to make his way out the back door. He was badly burned about the hands and face. It was known that he had been inside and when the first spectators reached the scene it was not known that he had gotten out. At great risk to himself, Frank Neidig, the Somerset street butcher, dropped to his hands and knees and crawled inside to see if he could locate the proprietor. He made his way to the far end before making sure no one was in need of help. He emerged without getting burned and was almost choked by smoke. Rubenson was located soon afterward.

The firemen were late in reaching the scene owing to the fact that the team was out with the exercise wagon. Driver Hogan was first summoned by a single bell tap and afterward an alarm was turned in from box 142. The hose wagon was not taken out as enough hose for two hydrant connections was carried from the fire house by the men.

The fire worked into the walls and up to the floor of the Mowry apartment. Rubenson lives on the third floor but his rooms suffered only slight damage from smoke. It was necessary to chop hoies in the flooring to get at the fire and the place was deulged with water. Mrs. Mowry places her loss at $200, with no insurance. The furnishings in her rooms included four oil paintings valued at $150, one of which had a hole put through it by the axe of a zealous fireman.

Rubenson estimates his loss at about $500. He had no insurance. The loss on the building will reach $800 and is insured. The property was formerly owned by J. Harper Smith, of Somerville, and is part of the brick structure nearly opposite Harmony street. It now belongs to M. S. Trimmer, of Middle Valley.

Judge Runyon Retires.

WORDS OF PRAISE FOR THE RETIRING MAYOR

Former President of the Common Council, George P. Mellick, in the following letter sent to this paper pays a tribute to Mayor Charles J. Fisk who retires from office at noon tomorrow.

Editor, The Daily Press:—

As the year closes one is inclined to be retrospective and consider the successes and disappointments of the past, and meditate as to what the future promises.

With such thoughts in my mind one turns to the retirement of Hon. C. J. Fisk from public life, at it pertains to the City of Plainfield. I wonder if the citizens generally appreciate what a loss this will be to our city; as the history of Plainfield is recorded from time to time, it will be clearly seen that never in the life of the city has a resident given such unselfish and untiring energy to the affairs of the city as has Mr. Fisk; that he has made mistakes, yes! but show me the man who has not and I know the generous hearted will readily forget any shortcomings of our retiring Mayor when remembering the good he has done. His familiarity wth State, County and City laws is quite extraordinary; his intimate knowedg of the affairs of the city in its many complications is readily recognized by those who have been associated with him in public affairs and it behooves every resident to remember that it will be a difficult matter to find any successor with the all round qualifications of the one who has guided the affairs of our city for many, many years in a conscientious and well ordeped manner. As Mayor of our city, Mr. Fisk has always showed a big heart for the people and for the charities and has worked for their benefit as few can appreciate—a liberal giver of his money as well as his time and all in a very modest way, without publicity.

As one who has for some years an opportunity to know of the public service done by Mr. Fisk. I heartily congratulate Plainfield in having had him in the highest office which the city could tender, and I am glad for his sake that he is to have a well earned rest. May the coming New Year and the future years bring him the best of health and proserity.

GEORGE P MELLICK.

MAY CONSULT WILSON REGARDING SCHOOLSHIP

It is probable that Pobation Officer Charles Irwin, of Union County, will consult with Governor Wilson after his inauguration into office on his proposed establishment of a State schoolship for the training of juvenile delinquents. Major Irwin has been making a careful study of the project and has secured some valuable information from naval men from all parts of the country and England.

Nearly all the naval men are inclined to believe that the project is an excellent one. Major Irwin has heard from the commander of the Xmouth, a British training ship for poor boys, and he has secured some valuable points on the training of youngsters on water.

Boys on this English ship are taught nearly everything that a cadet in nautical schools should be taught. They are graduated as musicians, being taught the art of playing the string and brass instruments. They are taught to sew and to become wireless operators. Master certificates are given boys finishing a prescribed course. Fom this English ship boys go into the merchant marine service and into the Royal Navy. Eighty-six per cent. of the boys trained on English schoolships fillow the sea as a profession.

ENGINE BREAKS DOWN; CAUSES DELAY TO FLIER

Passengers on the Philadelphia flier which passed through here this morning shortly after 9 o'clock were slightly shaken up when the train came to a sudden stop near the Netherwood station. The engine pulling the train to Jersey City broke down while nearing the station.

The passengers were transferred to the 9:59 local and proceeded while the damaged locomotive and the Pullman coaches were shunted back into the yard to await another locomotive from Jersey City.

Another train lost some time yesterday afternoon when a hot box necessitated the taking off of a coach from the 2:45 train yesterday afternoon near the same place.

The Ritz will be closed on Monday. Open till 11 tonight. ***

BOROUGH REPORTS FILED

Heads of Departments Render Annual Statements to the Council.

BUT ONE CHANGE IN BODY.

George T. Rogers Is Succeeded By Alexander Milne—The New Council Meets Next Monday.

The 1910 North Plainfield Council held its final meeting last night. The session was brief and practically devoted to the hearing of minor reports. The members will meet again at noon Monday for the purpose of reorganizing and permitting Mayor Smalley to announce his appointments.

Last night's meetin, marked the retirement of George T. Rogers as a member of the council. In noting the fact, Mayor Smalley took occasion to compliment him on his work and declared that his advice and business ability would be greatly missed, especially in reference to the matter of finances. Mr. Rogers and himself, he said, were not always of the same opinion in borough affairs but the expressions of honest opinions always brought the best results.

In the submission of reports, it was stated by chairman Waldron, of the street committee, that a total of $8,655 had been expended on the borough's thoroughfares during the year. This amount includes $1,247.55 spent as the borough's portion in building Greenbrook road. There is also about $400 to be received back from the Public Service Corporation and 30 per cent. of the cost of macadamizing Regent street, this latter to be paid by property owners. The street appropriation for 1910 was $6,900. Chairman Stahl reported that the expenses of the fire department for the year had been $3,620.70. The past month's expenses were $372.88. The appropriation is exceeded by $120.77.

The report of Recorder Dolliver showed that during the year there had been 281 arrests and $393.50 in fines collected. The poor department expenses for the year amounted to $1,338.28.

The salary list for the month was passed so that the borough employes could have their money today. The total of bills passed last night was $32,475.

At the close of the meeting, Alex. Milne, the newly elected councilman, who will succeed Mr Rogers, was sworn in by Mayor Smalley. Mr. Milne was an interested spectator during the session.

Somerset Council Elects.

Somerset Council, No. 102, Jr. O. U. A. M., at a regular meeting last night, elected these officers for the coming year: Past Councillor, Frank Stodd; councillor, Edward Hughes; Vive-councillor, Guy Thomas; recording secretary, Walter Walker, assistant recording secretary, Ray Lynes; financial secretary, Jesse M. Scull; treasurer, H. P. Latourette; warden, Elmer GaNun; conductor, L. C. R. Dunham; inside sentinel, Joe Martin; outside sentinel, F. L. Soper, Sr., trustee William Creverling; representative to Funeral Benefit Association, George Watts. The installation will take place Friday night, January 6. Rev. C. S. Kemble was presetn and gave an interesting talk. There was a Christmas tree and each member received a gift. There was a large attendance of members.

Dog Bites Captain Mehl.

No. 3 hose company was called out on an still alarm at 7 o'clock last night for a chimney blaze at 1354 West Third street. The fire did not amount to anything but lots of excitement was caused by a dog on the premises biting Captain George Mehl as he went to the back of the house to get to the roof. Chief Doane took the captain in his automobile and hurried him to the office of Dr. Lufburrow, where the injury was dressed.

String Quartet at First Baptist.

The Schill String Quartet will assist the chorus choir in the repetition of Christmas music at the First Baptist church tomorrow night. The quartet will accompany the anthems and also play these selections: Processional to the Cathedral, from Lohengrin; Album Leaf, Hollander; March from Athalie, Mendelssohn. The service begins at 7:45 o'clock.

Joseph Cunningham, Jr.

In yesterday's edition it was stated that Joseph Counihan, Jr., had died. The name should have been Cunningham.

As Monday, New Year's Day, will will be a holiday, The Daily Press will not be published.

EDWARD W. LOIZEAUX WEDS MISS ELLA CASE

Miss Ella Louise Case, daughter of Mrs. I. L. McVoy, of East Front street, and Edward Major Loizeaux, son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy O. Loizeaux, of Putnam avenue, were married at 6:30 o'clock, last evening, at the home of the bride's mother in the presence of the immediate members of the two families. Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, performed the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in crepe meteor over white silk, and carried a bouquet of bride roses. Mrs. Gerald A. Lough, sister of the groom, was the matron of honor. She wore a gown of blue satin. Joshua Loizeaux, brother of the groom, was the best man.

A reception followed the ceremony, during which supper was served by Demolli, the caterer. Later in the evening the couple left for a wedding trip in the south. Upon their return they will reside with the groom's parents until spring.

The bride received a large collection of gifts, including several checks for large amounts; also an upright piano, Tiffany ware cut-glass, etc.

The groom is engaged in business in New York with his father as an importer of tapestry fabrics. Both the bride and groom are well-known here, where they have resided for many years.

JANUARY COURT TERM WILL OPEN TUESDAY

The January term of the Union County Courts, at Elizabeth will be opened next Tuesday morning. The opening day will be featured by the usual formalities. Supreme Court Justice James J. Bergen will preside in the Supreme Court and will charge the new Grand Jury. He will share the bench with Judge Vail, of the Circuit Court, and Judge Atwater, of the Court of Common Pleas.

While the criminal term will probably be a heavy one indications at the present time point to a rather short trial term in the Circuit and Supeme Courts. It was stated in the office of County Clerk Calvert yesterday that few cases have been started in the Circuit Court and that few certificates have been received showing the cases in the Supreme Court.

Prosecutor Swift expects a busy term. There are several serious cases to be disposed of, the principal one being the Linden murder case. Crime is apparently on the increase in the county and the work in the criminal court becomes harder each term.

It is cusomary for all the lawyers in the county to be in the courtroom on the opening day if possible. They answer to the call of the court in fixing dates for trials. Following the opening of courts there is a meeting of the County Bar Association.

Judge Atwater holds a session of the Court of Common Pleas for the purpose of considering applications for inns and taverns.

NEW COMMON COUNCIL ORGANIZES ON MONDAY

The Common Council for 1910 will hold its last meeing of the year this evening, simply as a matter of form, and for the purpose of keeping alive the governing body of the city. The Common Council for 1911 will convene on Monday night at 8 o'clock for organization purposes. At that time President Ralph I. Tolles will be re-elected, and he will appoint his committees for the year. It is the opinion that there will not be many changes for the reason that only one new member joins the body next year and that is John E. Dunn, who succeeds Frank DeWitt C. Randolph.

The Council is not likely to do anything beyond organizing, and the various matters referred from the present body will be turned over to the proper committees and come up in the regular way. It is customary for the Mayor to present his message at this meeting and Mayor-elect G. W. V. Moy will probably follow the rule in this respect.

John Tobin.

John Tobin, a well known resident of the West End, died last night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Samuel Hannagan, of 449 West Third street. He had been ill for a long time. Mr. Tobin was seventy years old and beside Mrs. Hannagan leaves another daughter, Mrs. Mary Ross. The funeral will be held in St. Mary's church, Monday morning at 9 o'clock. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

MR. PARKER'S AGREEMENT

What City Must Pay Him if it Purchases the Athletic Field.

ITS USE IS RESTRICTED.

If Tract Is Used for Other Purposes It Would Revert to Original Owner at Price City Paid Him.

If the city purchases from Andrew McClean Parker the athletic field and playground he has leased to it, the municipality must pay him his cost price together with six per cent. interest for the full ten years or until the time of purchase. Moreover, it must pay him for all improvements he has made together with six per cent. interest from the time such expenses were incurred. These improvements have cost to date approximately $20,000.

During the period of the lease Mr. Parker is exempt from taxes and assessments on the property which he lets to the city at an annual rental of one dollar. In case of purchase by the city, the tract must be forever set apart as a playground and in case of failure it reverts to Mr. Parker or his heirs at the price the city paid without interest.

The agreement was made last February, but the formal transfer was not until this week. The lease, as follows, has never been published:

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

Shakespeare said "If I am deceived I hope I may not know it; but if I know it I hope I may be able to laugh at the whole affair," this is the keynote of the bewildering and beautiful fantasy "Princess Iris" which Mildred and Rouclere and their merry company will present at the Plainfield Treatre on Monday, matinee and night next. The play abounds in fantastical fancies, modern miracles and a score of unexplained transformations and illusions which not only please the eye, but also bewilders the auditor, the many rapid changes, beautiful scenic effects and novel electrical settings keep the audience in a constant series of pleasing and surprising exclamations. During the action of the play many specialties will be introduced by artists of ability, this blending of musical with the fantastic and bewildering illusions makes the performance one of a unique and novel nature something different from the run of plays that have been presented here this season. From the many inquires for seats there will no doubt be a large audience to greet Mildred and Rouclere and their company here on next Monday evening, January 2.

Th next attraction at the Plainfield Theatre will be the comedy hit of the present New York theatrical season, "The Country Boy" by Edgar Selwyn. The piece will be presented here under the management of Henry B. Harris on Tuesday evening, January 3, and his name alone insures the theatre going public of this city a production of unusual merit. "The Country Boy" is a fascinating romance of a farmer's son, a show girl and the girl he left behind. It gives a real picture of Broadway life from the inside. The romance of the theatre, of Bohemia, of Broadway, not as it is imagined but as it really exists. The audience sees theatrical life in New York as it was seen by the country boy, who comes to New York to make a career, only to find that his real career lays in the small town he left. Through the play runs a beautiful and tender love story and interwoven is the romance of a writer, who is one of the most vital characters ever created by a modern playwright. It is a play of real life and stirring human interest. The story of "The Country Boy" is one which will appeal to both the city and the country people. There is that human interest touch in the play which we all like, then it abounds with the best of clean and wholesome humor. It will make the most hardened person get moist around the eyes in its serious moments, but at other times will keep the audience laughing.

That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Many Plainfield women know this.

Read what one has to say about it:

Mrs. Margaret Reville, 732 West Third street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "For a long time I was troubled by a weak and lame back and I was unable to find anything that would give me relief. My back pained me so badly that I could hardly stoop and when I caught cold or overexerted myself, my suffering was doubled. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Randolph's Pharmacy helped me at once and I continued taking them until I was cured. Word has been received fom Rev. and Mrs. John Dussman, who left Salem several weeks ago, that they have arrived safely at Port Said and will arrive at their missionary station at Vinakonda, India, some time this week.

Seventy-five boys and girls of the New Jersey Training School for Feeble-Minded at Vineland gave an excellent holiday play, entitled "Uncle Remus and B'rer Rabbit," Wednesday night, to an audience of 700 people from the town.

Under the will of William Orr, for more than thirty years general manager of the New Jersey Wire Cloth Company, Trenton, filed for probate Thursday, $6,000 was bequeathed to charity and public institutions, and the rest will go to his only daughter and other relatives.

Charles A. Bouton, an actor, in stage make-up, is mysteriously missing. He is a member of a stock company playing at the Paterson Opera House. On Monday he appeared at the theatre just before the matinee, and after discarding his street clothes and putting on his make-up he disappeared and has not been heard from since.

Dependent because the parents of his sweetheart interferred with their marriage plans, John Moncrieff, 24 yeas old, of Woodstown, swallowed laudanum at the home of relatives, at 1042 Carpenter street, Camden, where he was visiting. Cooper Hospital, doctors saved his life and he was able to leave the institute yesterday.

While fighting a $4,000 blaze in a boathouse owned by Armand T. Nichols, at Oxford and Winchester avenues, Ventnor, Thursday night, three members of the fire department who were directing a stream on the rear of the house, which abuts fifty feet into the Thoroughfare, lost their balance and were plunged into the icy waters. They were rescued after much difficulty.

Claiming that he struck her in the head with a four-pound weight, which she exhibited to the court, Mrs. Sarah Keys, Thursday appeared against her husband, Bernard, n Camden, on the charge of assault and battery with intent to kill. She told Recorder Stackhouse that after knocking her down with the weight her husband kicked and beat her, and that he only desisted when attacked by their son, Bernard, Jr., who blackened both his father's eyes. After denying that he had intended to strike his wife with the weight, Keys was committed in default of $500 bail.

N. Y AMUSEMENTS.

William Collier's engagement under the management of Lew Fields in "I'll Be Hanged If I Do," at William Collier's Comedy theatre, is breaking all records for business ever done by a theatre of such comparatively small size in N. Y. city. The combination of William Collier in a play by Edgar Selwyn and William Collier, staged by Mr. Collier himself, seems to be irresistible, for its magnetic power draws crowded houses for every performance. "I'll Be Hanged If I Do," is beyond any shadow of a doubt the liveliest langhing success in the city, and Mr. Collier has never been as funny as when with the fatal rope around his neck he finds himself in immediate danger of dangling from the rafters of the "hotel" in Spread Eagle, Nevada. Regular matinees on Tusedays and Saturdays. Special matinee New Years Day, Monday, January 1. Best seats Tuesday matinee, $1.50.

Interior of Plainfield Business College, Woodhull & Martin Building, Plainfield, N. J.

The newly added number of the periodicals issued in and about this city, Plainfield Business Collegian, presented its first copy to the readers of this town on December 10 last. In it is rehearsed the history of the Plainfield Business College since its purchase by A. S. Herr, its present owner. The welcome little paper contains besides its formal introduction of itself and its own particular history several instructive articles relating to the work of the college and illustrations of the interior, exterior and other handsome cuts, among them one showing the versatile and accomplished solicitor for the college, Hugh B. Sweeney.

After several years of constant growth the school opened last September with largest enrollment in its history, so that today it has an enrollment of 128 day students and 54 in the night school. All of the day students take the English course in connection with the commercial and none is graduated unless a certain high degree of proficiency is attained. The English course is that established and taught by Mrs. A. S. Herr, wife of Professor Herr and is thoroughly ecomprehensive in its scope.

Testimonials as to the efficiency of the College as a medium of business education have been given through the employment of its graduates in many of the local offices. Mr. Herr has been connected with the Plainfield Board of Trade for the past three years and until its merger with the Merchant's Association into the Chamber of Commerce. Among those who warmly endorsed the work of the college at its last commencement held in the Plainfield Theatre last June were former Mayor William L. Saunders and County superintendent of Schools H. C. Krebs, of North Plainfield.

The school will re-assemble on January 3 for the mid-winter session.

CY YOUNG NOT READY TO GIVE UP BASEBALL.

"Say farewell to the diamond? Well, not just yet. Can't see any reason why I should."

Thus spoke Cy Young over the long distance 'phone from his home in Peoll, Tuscarawas county, Thursday.

Continuing, Cy asked what was stirring up all this trouble about himself. When it was explained the nature of the discussion that took place in New York when the American League magnates were assembled in executive session Cy said:

"Well, if it is up to me you can tell Mr. Somers that while I might have said last fall that I was through with the game, a man often says things that he repents of when he is in a different mood. I know there were times last summer when I wished I was back on the farm.

"But just now I am feeling as good as I ever did. Farm life always did agree with me, and I think I am in better physical condition than when I came home in October. As far as I am concerned, I am not through with the great old game. In fact, I am planning to go to Hot Springs about February 1 and get ready for the season.

"And before you hang up your 'phone I want you to say this: Cy Young is not through yet. With the team that Cleveland had in the field when the season ended he will take down a record of better than .500 next year. With that team behind him all this year he would have won more than half his games in 1910. That's all. Good-bye until the training trip starts. I'll be there."

William H. Stryker, of this city, has been visiting relatives at South Branch.

The Primary Graded Union will hold its next meeting on Monday afternoon, January 9.

Who Was There That You Knew?

IN the shadowy ranks of those who marched to defeat or death or victory fifty years ago in the mighty conflict that convulsed this great nation, is there father or grandfather or uncle of yours? Would you like to see a photograph of him in that long ago day of his youth—a photograph that he never knew was taken? Perhaps we can show you one; and in any case, we can tell you a story, stranger than any detective fiction, of 3,500 priceless photographs that were lost and are found again.

3,500 Long Buried Photographs of the Civil War

THEY were taken by the greatest photographer in the United States of that day; they were bought by the United States Government for $30,000; they were buried in the War Department for 50 years—they are buried there still. But a duplicate set was kept by the photographer—who died poor and broken down; that duplicate set was knocked from pillar to post for nearly 50 years, until it was discovered by a New England collector. J. Pierpont Morgan tried to secure the collection—Ex-President Garfield and General Benjamin F. Butler said it was worth $150,000—yet with the help of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS, the entire collection has been gathered into 10 great volumes and is placed within your reach at less than the value of one of the photographs. It is the one accurate, impartial history of the Civil War—for the camera cannot lie. It tells the story of the War you never heard before. Taken under protection of the Secret Service, these photographs bring to light thousands of little-known phases of the war; they penetrate to strange places and record strange things.

HOW THEY PRODUCE SOME STAGE EFFORTS

In speaking of the scene in the second act of "The Country Boy," the great comedy of Edgar Selwyn which Henry B. Harris will present at the Plainfield theatre on Tuesday, evening. Mr. George Schaeffer, the well known stage director, who Mr. Harris has especially secured for this production, said: "The scene as most every one knows, is laid in the dining room of a theatrical boarding house in New York and it may be of interest to many people to know just how meals are secured for stage purposes as well as how other effects are secured.

"The roast chicken served on the stage is nothing more or less than rye bread moulded into the desired shape, and then shellaced to give it the desired color. Squabs are counterfeited by rolls, properly colored. Soap takes the place of butter, and alum is used to give the appearance of ice. Burnt sugar and water is a substitute for beer, while ginger ale and cold tea take the place of whiskey. Nowadays wine companies furnish imitation champagne put up in regular bottles, properly corked and wired.

"Interesting also is the manner in which effects are produced. That of rain is done with dried green peas, shaken in a tin pan. The effect of a locomotive is produced with a tin pan filled with sand, and stirred around with a wire brush; at the same time two pieces of sandpaper are rubbed together. The effect of an automobile is done with a tin shaker, such as is used by barkeepers in mixing drinks, and this is filled with ordinary carpet tacks. A water tumbler is then inserted in the shaker, and by a quick vigorous motion, the tacks jumping from the glass to the tin produces the desired effect. The noise of a carriage driving up a path is produced by pulling a wheelbarrow through a troug filled with gravel. The noise of a troop of artillery is simulated by dragging irregular shaped wheels through a box filled with pieces of orin. The noise of a charge of a company of cavalry is created by using the ordinary force cup employed by plumbers in cleaning out a basin; at the same time two or three cavalry sabres, to which chains are attached, are jangled. The dust effect on soldiers' clothes as they make their entrance is done with ordinary yellow ochre, projected by an ordinary hand bellows. To create the illusion of steam slacked lime is employed.

"There has been a great change in theatricals since I first went on the stage. My first experience in a theatre was at the old Bowery Theatre in New York, where I acted as gas boy, and from there I went to the old National as utility man, and my first part was Jimmy Ross in 'Escaped from Sing Sing.' Then I went into stock work with Laura Keene at the famous Olympic Theatre on Broadway near Bleecker street. In those days there were no such productions as we have now, but there were many great actors and actresses and the work was very naturally, much harder because we had none of the many helps the managers secure today to make performances notable.

"In those days it was the custom to take the wardrobe of each person home every Saturday night even if the person was to appear the next week at the same theatre. One Saturday night, I had to take the wardrobe of Laura Keene to her home, and as I walked up Broadway a policeman stopped me and asked what I had in the basket, for wardrobe was carried in baskets in those days. I told him to look and see himself, for like most young boys I was inclined to be pert. He said the clothing was no doubt stolen, because boys hardly carried clothing for ladies around so late at night. I told him I was at the theatre, but he arrested me just the same and I was held for an hour until the manager was found, who explained I was taking the wardrobe to Miss Keene's home. It was a pretty sick looking policeman, who heard my story was true, but I did not enjoy my first and last arrest one bit."

Mr. Schaeffer, besides being one of the best known stage directors in the country, is also a well known actor and plays the part of Mr. Phelps, a traveling salesman, in "The Country Boy."

SUNDAY SCHOOLS HOLD CHRISTMAS FESTIVALS

Christmas festivals were held last night by the Sunday schools of the Crescent Avenue church and Grace M. E. church.

Crescent Avenue.

Something out of the ordinary characterized the Christmas entertainment at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian chapel last evening, when the members of the Sunday-school with their parents and friends were treated to two plays by the young students of the Bible. The players were assisted by the Sunday-school orchestra which played several selections before the first play and during the intermission. Refreshments were served after the entertainment.

"The Teeth of the Gift Horse" was the curtain raiser. A one act comedy which captured the audience from the start. In it Richard Butler, a Wall street broker, was represented by Nelson Ramsey, and was well supported by Mrs. Butler (Gertrude Butler). The other characters were Mariette Williams, Mr. Butler's aunt, (Miss Marion Brown), Annie Fischer and Devlin Blake, friends of the Butlers, (Katherine Brown and Jack Zerega); Katie, the maid, Miss Frances Zelie. The time was the present and the place, a New York suburb.

The other mirth provoking piece was "Bills," a comedy, admirably played by Lawrence Hardy, Ned Stevenson and Frances Zelie and showed what complications arise when a fellow tries to live a million dollar life on a thousand dollar salary. Mr. Stevenson as Jack Davis, "who can't live on his salary" was real funny and Mr. Harding's imitation of a stuttering lawyer was well done. Miss Zelie's efforts were carefully studied and well executed in both plays.

Grace M. E. Church.

The members of Grace M. E. church Sunday-school's senior departmenas enjoyed a pleasant Christmas entertainment, last night. It was in the form of a two act play entitled "The Christmas Barrel of the First Church." The scene was laid in a small western town and represented a sewing and missionary society and its efforts in behalf of a missionary to whom a Christmas barrel was sent. It was returned as not being accepted and the society felt the rebuke. It became busy and sent another barrel with the right kind of presents and also the missionary's back salary.

Benjamin Schuck represented the ministers in the play and Miss Flossie Nichols was the minister's wife. Miss Jennie Wilson was president of the society, Miss Marion Major was secretary and Miss Bessie Conroy treasurer.

The school sang carols before and after the entertainment and Superintendent W. J. Conroy was in charge. Gifts were distributed at the close.

The primary departments assembled in the afternoon and enjoyed refreshments and games. Santa Claus appeared at the close and presented them with candy and oranges. They were in charge of Miss Belle Lunger and Miss Alice Carroll.

Xmas at Shiloh Baptist Church.

The Christmas entertainment was held at the Shiloh Baptist church Thursday night. Rev. E. W. Roberts, pastor, was in charge. The program follows: Recitations, Miss Eva Williams, Templin Burgess, Miss Virginia Maiden, Miss Eva Brooks; chorus by the school, "Faith, Hope and Love;" remarks, Mrs. L. Jones; recitations, Regenal Adams, Charles Bolding, William Springs; remarks, Mrs. L. Scott; dialogue, seven girls; chorus by the school; remarks, superintendent, Elmer Wilson. J. H. Bolding played the part of Santa Claus. There was a star drill by seven girls under the direction of Miss Anna Dividson; remarks by Rev. E. W. Roberts; duet, Miss Grace Connet and Miss Pearl Jones.

CLASS OF TRINITY S. S. REMEMBERS ITS TEACHER.

Sunday-school class No. 2, of Trinity Reformed church, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Dean, 92 Summit avenue, last night, for a social time. Music and games were enjoyed for a time, then each one having brought some small article which was numbered and drawn from a basket, which afforded great amusement to all.

The number chosen by Philip Vroom, teacher of the class, was "23" but there was nothing in the basket for him, so in consolation he was presetned with a handsome Morris chair. After Mr. Vroom recovered from his surprise, he made a short address, thanking his class for their faithfulness and kindness to him. Refreshments were served, after which all wished each other a Happy New Year and returned to their homes. During the evening Mrs. Arthur B. Davies sang and rendered piano selections.

The Furniture Is Sound and True

Every piece of furniture in this sale is from makers with whom we deal the year round---not one piece has been expressly made for a "Sale."

Every piece of furniture advertised here may be bought on the Club Plan

The Club Plan is our own institution expressly designed for strangers coming to New York; for salaried men and women; for young people who are starting life and want their new home as they were accustomed to having things in their old home. It is a method, of buying furniture, like that by which most young people buy their homes, by paying part down and agreeing to pay a part each month or week.

Around this plan we have thrown the greatest buying power in the United States and the safety and integrity of the largest retail organization in the world.

Every piece of furniture is sold on the Club Plan at exactly the same price at which it is sold to cash customers or to those who have regular charge accounts here.

In ordering by mail, cut from this paper the particular articles you wish to buy, and send them with your letter.

Club accounts are opened with men and women of integrity at the store where all the details and arrangements can be made with salesmen in the furniture department or in the Credit Department.

All club fees are payable at the store according to arrangement, by the week or by the month.

We have quoted below the reduced prices at which these particular items are to be sold. But remember, these are only a few taken from about one-half a million dollars' worth of furniture, all 10 to 50 per cent. below regular prices.

THE HARVEST MOON.

Copyright, 1909, by Augustus Thomas

The judge tried to explain to him that in America persons connected with the theater did not receive the social recognition accorded them in France and went over much the same ground as they had covered the night before at the dinner table.

"I am afraid," said Fullerton, who had walked up to the closet in the library and taken therefrom an oak box, "that we are wasting a great deal of time. I had hoped when you came here, M. Vavin, that you would give Dora the advice that I had suggested. You are apparently in sympathy with her, and this makes it necessary for me to tell you something which not even you, judge, had suspected. The money that enables us to live here"—with a sweep of his hand he indicated the comfortable surroundings—"a professorship, as you can imagine, would hardly support us—is the interest upon a fund in trust. I mention this because if the property were my own my first thought in this situation would not be of that. But I must protect what I hold in trust, and only my proper heirs can inherit it. This leads me to tell you something that is known only to myself and my sister. Dora is not my daughter."

Elliott stared blankly at him, while Vavin, whose ironic calm had once been referred to as institutional, turned first white, then red, while his hands twitched nervously.

"Ceci est absolutement vrai!" he exclaimed.

"I knew it would surprise you both," said Fullerton, "and I hated to tell it, because I love the girl as much for her mother's sake as for her own. Her mother left me because of my opposition to her going to France to study music. She obtained a divorce from me, and I heard no more from her for two years, when her own people, the Wilfords, brought her body back to America with a four-weeks-old baby, Dora."

"She had married again!" said Elliott.

Fullerton hesitated, then spoke with evident pain.

"The records in France report the mother as Mme. Fullerton. Some scoundrel deceived her into believing she was his wife. I can only think that"— "I should be very slow to believe," said Vavin, with some show of emotion, "that the mother of this beautiful girl was not a good woman.

"She died at Montigny, you say?" said Vavin after a pause.

"No; I did not say so," said Fullerton, looking at him in surprise, "but that is a fact. She left no statement other than that she wished the child to be brought up by her people. But I persuaded them to let me have her."

"And all of this has what relation to your objection to her going on the stage?"

"In the first place, there is the fact that I cannot leave her this money which I have in trust, or even if I could bring myself to die intestate and have it pass to her as my heir her Aunt Cornelia, who has, as you have observed, a great sense of responsibility, would object. My greatest reason is, however, the fact that everybody who knew the mother is startled by Dora's likeness to her. If I may speak of her fault, her great fault, it was impulsiveness. Her marriage to me was an elopement. Here in Lenox they flattered her, and she really could sing. I consented reluctantly to her studying in Paris, probably another mistake on my part. The memory of this place grew colder over there amid the life and interests of Paris. I can see that the books and studies of Cambridge and Lenox lost any interest they ever had for her. I could not blame her when she asked her freedom, but it hurt—it hurt. I tell you this, monsieur, that you may see what a nature Dora inherits—from the father perfidy, to say the least; from the mother instability, vacillation and impulsiveness. We can't send a girl with that equipment into the world of tinsel and temptation. Surely you would not advise it?"

Vavin was silent for a moment, while Fullerton sat down apparently very much moved.

"You say this mother wanted to sing?" said the dramatist after a moment.

"Yes."

"And she went abroad to Paris against your wishes?"

Fullerton nodded.

"I call that perseverance," said Vavin, standing up and pacing the room nervously—"courage, not instability or vacillation."

"It was love of applause," said Fullerton bitterly.

"When a woman sings that is not more vanity than the brook bubbling over the stones is vanity. There are some women, professor, born sparrows, to build at the chimney, some to chirp at the nest and feed wide open mouths of the hungry, and then there is the nightingale that mounts and sings and mounts ever higher and breaks her heart that heaven is still so far. But that is not vanity."

Fullerton came around the table to him anxiously.

"You are not going to advise Dora"—

"I am going to advise her to go," said Vavin.

"You are assuming a grave responsibility, M. Vavin," said Judge Elliott.

"A grave responsibility," was the Frenchman's quiet rejoinder.

And that night Dora sent Holcomb a telegram that cheered his heart.

CHAPTER IX.

MOST of Holcomb's authority in the play which he was about to produce centered about the characters and the story that he had to tell with the accompanying preachment. He had a remarkable sense of characterization for a man so young, and this had frequently led him into subtle literary phrases which evoked the praise of people for whose opinion he really had no particular regard, but who had all the judicial quality which comes from having been well grounded—or apparently grounded—in what are called in collegiate circles the fundamentals. And this had once led the young man to say sharply at an after dinner spread of oratory—a sphere in which he shone with distinction—that the trouble with the fundamentals of the collegiate education was that they so frequently made of the fundamentals of life a sort of crust, a necessary meringue that had to be accepted in order to gild one's true knowledge.

Read as he was in the dramatic literature of the day and familiar as he was with all the naturalistic and propagandist theories of the influential men of the modern stage, he had a deep feeling that the whole thing was all wrong and that, while it was splendid as a protest, it was anaemic in its preachment. The red blood of romance seemed to him more warranted to cure the ills that obsessed the naturalist, though he had frequently to repeat in the numerous controversies in which he engaged that he knew that much that had passed as romance was purely ignorance; also that the naturalist had done a great deal to check those tendencies that led a Lucia to go mad to dance music or a nation to sing "Nearer, My God, to Thee," to a descending musical phrase or a hero in the throes of a third act to stand out in the middle of a crowded thoroughfare and tell his troubles and secrets, while villainy, ever careless, stalks by to drop conveniently "the papers" where they are most needed.

In this his fourth written play and the first to be produced Holcomb had come nearer to a drama with a thesis than he had ever expected to come. There was still a satisfying glow of romance over it when the play was accepted, but little by little, protest as he might, he was obliged to make changes that made his work the very opposite of his intention.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE S. P. C. A. JANUARY 9.

According to Mrs. Stephen G. Van Hoesen, special agent of the Plainfield branch of the S. P. C. A., the year just closed has been the most successful of any in the history of the society. More animals have been destroyed which were in no condition to live and many horses have been cared for which otherwise would have continued to be objects of pity without hope of help. The society is in a prosperous condition and it is quite likely that the work for the coming year will be prosecuted with even more vigor as the society is constantly growing in numbers.

The annual meeting for the election of officers will be held on Monday, January 9. It is likely that some changes in the personnel wil take place, but what they are cannot be predicted at this time. The nominating committee will probably meet of Tuesday next to arrange a slate to be ballotted for on January 9.

A special report made by the American Humane Association relating to the slaughter of animals for food will be read by Mrs. VanHoesen. New lines of work will be taken up during the coming year, special attention being paid to the slaughtering of animals in and about this city.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Foreign Missionary Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold its first meeting of 1911 on Tuesday next, January 2, at the church at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

"A New Year's Message" will be the subject of the sermon by Rev. Gabriel Reid-Maguire at the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow morning, and in the evening his subject will be "An Important Announcement."

PERSONAL.

George P. Mellick, of East Seventh street, is registered at the Hotel Touraine, Boston, for a few days.

Miss Katherine M. Coleman, of Hornell, N. Y., is visiting Miss Dorothy MacClymont, of Woodbine avenue, for two weeks.

Mrs. Emily Coard, of this city, will leave on Tuesday, January 3, on the Steamer George Washington, for Germany, where she will visit her daughter, Mrs. Ernest Franke, who lives at 84 Bismarck street, Charl.Berlin, Germany. She will be abroad some time.

Close Local Office.

Wrenn Bros. & Co., who have been conducting a brokerage office in the Babcock building, closed the office today, and W. deLaR. Anderson, the manager, has accepted a position with Edmund Rushmore, the real estate broker, with offices in the Singer building, New York, and the Stirling building on Park avenue.

Week of Union Prayer Services.

The congregations of Trinty Reformed, Frst Baptist, First M. E. and First Presbyterian churches will unite in the week of prayer services next week on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings. On Wednesday night the service will be held at Trinty Reformed church.
